Dorm Thievery Men's Dormitory Phones May Be Rash Reported Removed; Traffic Judiciary Body Appointed By President Young

7 Member Board Headed By Matthews

Members of the student government Traffic Committee have been announced by President Bob Young

The Committee, established last year concurrent with the institution of new regulations dealing with car ownership, will have jurisdiction over violation of these regulations.

The seven members are:

Chairman Lawrence Matthews, Bob Jacobus, Jerry Oppenheimer, David Parker, Jim Rose, Misses Marian Dickens and Barbara Moore.

According to Young, "the members of this committee have been screened and considered very carefully."

There is eminent danger that all non-pay phones may be removed from men's dormitories, according to student government officials.

The reason for this threatened removal is that dorm men are placing long distance calls from nonpay phones, tieing up lines and causing general confusion at the Durham switchboard, Bell Telephone Company officials say. The men are not able to complete the calls, but are causing much confusion and time consump tion, telephone company officials

Interdormitory Council officials, President Bob Young and Director of Operations J. S. Bennett have expressed concern over the threatened removal.

A bombshell has been exploded in business and scholastic circles by a UNC professor and a colleague from De Paul University.

The sensation was created by a paper written by Dr. Harold Q. Langenderfer of the UNC School of Business Administration and Dr. Ernest H. Weinwurm of De Paul. Entitled "Bringing Accounting Curricula Up-to-date," the article appeared first in "Account Review", and has been widely reprinted in academic and professional jour-
