

Big Weekend Planned By Activities Board

GMA is sponsoring several events this weekend.

Charlie Peterson, billiards professional, is now giving exhibitions in Graham Memorial Pool Room. Tomorrow night has been proclaimed "Date Night."

A free movie, "We're Not Married," with Fred Allen and Ginger Rogers, will be shown in Carroll Hall tomorrow night.

There will be two showings, at 8 and 10 p.m.

Bruno's Combo will play for a dance in Cobb basement tomorrow night from 8-12 p.m. This is a free dance co-sponsored by GMA and the Interdormitory Council.

A reception will be held in Cobb basement Saturday following the Georgia game. This reception, co-sponsored by GMA and the I.D.C., will last until 6:30 p.m. Bruno's Combo will be present. There will also be coed-hostesses and free refreshments.

Student Chancellor Committee Meets Today

The student committee appointed to help select a chancellor to succeed retiring Chancellor Robert House, will meet again today in the GM Council Room from 3 to 5 p.m. The committee met for the first time yesterday.

With Sonny Evans as chairman, the group has as its purpose to air student views on the chancellorship.

Student Body President Bob Young and this committee will appear before the Trustee Committee on Oct. 27 to present its report.

UNC Health Official Talks Today In Raleigh

The one-day meeting of the ninth annual State Rural Health Conference held in Raleigh today will feature as speaker, Dr. Henry T. Clark, administrator of UNC Division of Health Affairs.

This meeting is being sponsored by the Medical Society of North Carolina. Approximately 500 community and professional health workers are expected to attend the conference.

"Together We Build Better Health" is the theme of the conference.

MARKING ON THE CURVE... AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

Twonkey Crimscoff was a professor. Choate Sigafos was a sophomore. Twonkey Crimscoff was keen, cold, brilliant. Choate Sigafos was loose, vague, adonoidal. Twonkey Crimscoff believed in diligence, discipline, and marking on the curve. Choate Sigafos believed in elves, Jayne Mansfield, and thirteen hours sleep each night.

Yet there came a time when Twonkey Crimscoff—mentor, sage, and savant—was thoroughly out-thought, out-foxed, out-manuevered, out-played, and out-witted by Choate Sigafos, sophomore.

It happened one day when Choate was at the library studying for one of Mr. Crimscoff's exams in sociology. Mr. Crimscoff's exams were murder—plain, flat murder. They consisted of one hundred questions, each question having four possible answers—A, B, C, and D. The trouble was that the four choices were so subtly shaded, so intricately worded, that students more clever by far than Choate Sigafos were often set to gibbering.

So on this day Choate sat in the library poring over his sociology text, his tiny brow furrowed with concentration, while all around him sat the other members of the sociology class, every one studying like crazy. "What a waste!" he thought. "All this youth, this verve, this bounce, chained to dusty books in a musty library! We should be out singing and dancing and smooching and cutting diodes on the greensward!"

Then, suddenly, an absolute gasser of an idea hit Choate. "Listen!" he shouted to his classmates. "Tomorrow when we take the exam, let's all—every one of us—check Choice 'A' on every question—every one of them."

"Huh?" said his classmates.

"Mr. Crimscoff marks on the curve. If we all check the same answers, then we all get the same score, and everybody in the class gets a 'C'."

"Hmm," said his classmates.

"Let's get out of here and have a ball!" said Choate.

So they all ran out and lit Philip Morris and had a ball, as, indeed, you will too when you light a Philip Morris, for if there ever was a cigarette to lift the spirit and gladden the heart, it is today's new Philip Morris—firm and pure and fragrant and filled with true, natural, golden tobacco, lip end to tip end.

...We should be out singing and dancing and smooching

Well sir, the next morning the whole class did what Choate said and, sure enough, they all got "C's," and they picked Choate up and carried him on their shoulders and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and plied him with sweetmeats and Philip Morris and girls and put on buttons which said "I DOTE ON CHOATE."

But they were celebrating too soon. Because the next time showed old Mr. Crimscoff gave them a test, he gave them only one question—to wit: write a 30,000 word essay on "Crime Does Not Pay."

"You and your ideas," they said to Choate and tore off his epaulets and broke his sword and drummed him out of the school. Today, a broken man, he earns a meager living as a camshaft in Toledo.

At the top of the curve of smoking pleasure, you'll find today's new Philip Morris. So, confidently, say the makers of Philip Morris, who bring you this column each week.

PLAY OPENS WEDNESDAY:

'Anastasia' Draws Its Cast From Six Different States

"Anastasia," opening production of the season for The Carolina Playmakers, drama group at UNC, draws its cast of 13 from six different states.

The recent Broadway success, adapted from the French of Marcelle Maurette by Guy Bolton, will begin a five day run next Wednesday at the Playmakers Theatre.

Acting the title role, as the girl involved in a plot to prove her heir to the Russian Romanoff dynasty, will be Rusti Rothrock, Anniston, Ala. Mrs. Rothrock, wife of a UNC graduate assistant, has acted with several community theatres, at Cherokee in "Unto These Hills," and at the University of Arkansas. Formerly a high school speech teacher, she is now a speech therapist for Durham County.

FITZ-SIMONS AS EMPRESS

Marion Fitz-Simons, veteran Chapel Hill Playmaker, will portray the formidable Dowager Empress, grandmother of the supposedly-massacred princess and strongest challenge to the success of the plan. Mrs. Fitz-Simons, wife of a UNC professor and mother of four sons, has appeared in a long list of Playmaker productions, including "Macbeth," "Medea," "Armenia and Old Lace," "Dark of the Moon," "Lysistrata" and last year's "Blood Wedding."

Morgan Jackson, of Charlotte, will play Prince Bounine, exiled Russian nobleman who trains Anya for her pretense and presents her to those who must be convinced. Jackson, a Korean veteran, has acted with the Paris American Theatre Group in Paris and the Weisbaden Theatre Guild in Germany, the University of Alabama Theatre, and "Unto These Hills."

Joe Whitaker, of Pine Bluff, Arkansas, who was active with the University of Arkansas theatre group, will appear as Prince Paul, Anastasia's childhood sweetheart.

Rev. W. Robert Insko, Chaplain to Episcopal Students at UNC, will take the role of Dr. Serensky, who has known the pretender, Anya, in another identity from that of a princess.

Russell Link, of Jamaica, N. Y., and Gene Duke, of Oxford, will play Chernov and Petrovin, comrades of Bounine. Others in the cast are: Peter O'Sullivan, of Valhalla, N. Y., as Counsellor Drivinitz; Betty Jinnette, of Goldsboro, as the Charwoman; Hope Sparger, of Seaside, N. Y., as Varya; Frank Rinaldi, of Waterbury, Conn., as Sergei; John Sneden, of Tenaflly, N. J., as the Sleigh Driver; and Eve Janzan, of Durham, as Baroness Livenbaum.

"Anastasia" will be under the direction of Samuel Selden, chairman of the UNC Dept. of Dramatic Art. Stage Manager will be Dick Newdick, of Augusta, Maine, and the set is designed by Tommy Rezuto, of Asheville, technical director of the Playmakers.

Business Fraternity Names 18 Pledges

Eighteen students were pledged to Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration, at ceremonies held Friday night.

Oxford Prof Talks Here

An Oxford University professor will give the second of two addresses here tonight.

Dr. Alfred Ewert, a professor of romance languages, will talk on "Judas Iscariot in Medieval French Literature" at 8 p.m. in the Library Assembly Room.

The lecture is open to the public. Ewert, who was born in Canada and once taught at the University of Texas, gave his first talk yesterday afternoon to graduate students in romance languages. He talked on "The Strasbourg Oaths and the Eulalia."

HALL NAMED COMMANDER:

Chemistry Club Holds Tuesday Open House

The Chemistry Club entertained members and visitors at an open house Tuesday night.

The meeting featured demonstrations by the Chemistry Department.

The program showed the workings of the infra-red spectrometer, the emission spectrometer, the recording polarograph, the X-ray machine and the research apparatus of Dr. Rydolph Schmidt, research associate in chemistry.

The meeting closed with a refreshment get-acquainted period.

Old West Seeks To Have More Girls Walk By Dorm

The men in Old West Dorm are reportedly unhappy. Very unhappy, in fact, their president says.

Why? It seems that the girls on campus fail to walk by the dorm, President Teddy Jones says.

The dorm, one of the oldest buildings on campus, is located on East Cameron Ave. across the street from Gerrard Hall and beside the Old Well.

Jones didn't know whether the allegedly unwalked-upon-by-girls walks near the dorm were the result of geographical circumstances or the fault of the inhabitants of Old West.

"As President of Old West, I should like to rectify this matter," Jones said.

"The men of Old West are men of outstanding character capable of conducting themselves in gentlemanly fashion," Jones added.

Jones has extended to all coeds a "cordial" invite to walk by the dorm. "They will be welcomed and well received," he said.

In making a last plea, Jones said, "Girls, give the boys a chance to show their true appreciation of the female sex." Girls! Go West!
