Hard To Pronounce 'Anastasia' Starts Playmakers Run Tonight

Play Starts Tonight

In facing the problems of producing a play, a director rarely thinks about the title.

With the play "Anastasia," however, which opens tonight at 8:30 for five performances at The Playmakers Theatre, Samuel Selden, Director of The Carolina Playmakers, discovered some strong differences of opinion as to the pronunciation of the title name.

Upon consulting UNC graduate students Dana Quade and William O'Sullivan, who have studied Russian, Selden learned that the Russian pronunciation is "AnastahSEE Eya." Since the action of the play takes place in Berlin, where the characters have been living for eight years, several interested people, including Dr. Clemensommer, UNC Art Professor, thought the German pronunciation, "Anastahzia," more suitable.

Derived from Greek, the name was pronounced in the German manner in the Broadway production of the play. Research in the Library proved that both pronunciations are correct. Many telephone calls confirmed the fact that the split in opinion was closely balanced, and it was reported that members of the cast, taking sides in the issue, were nearly coming to blows. Finally, it was Mr. Selden's decision that although the royal Russians were away from their homeland, they would probably use the original pronunciations of their names when speaking among themselves. Therefore the verdict was: "AnastahSEE Eya."

Theatre-goers buying their tickets in Abernathy Hall, however, will find that John W. Parker, business manager, and Mrs. Helen House, his secretary, continue to sell tickets, with a cordial drawl to "Anastahshah."

NO FALL SHOW:

'Sound And Fury' Planning Big Production For Spring

Graham Memorial's student-run musical, Sound and Fury, will not put on a show for the fall semester, according to Director John Ludwig, but he said work has already begun on a "gigantic production" for spring.

No show for fall resulted from no script being written for the show during the past summer, which is the usual practice, he said.

"Since we are not planning to spend our budget for the fall show, we will be able to have a much more extravagant show in the spring. From the looks of what work has already been done, the spring show will provide a lot of fun for the audience and he cast," Ludwig said.

For the spring show, students will soon be needed to help sew backdrops, build sets and paint props, sets and props. Students wishing to apply for the job of construction chief or to work on the sets have been asked to contact Bill Wearmouth, scenic designer, or Director Ludwig. Both may be reached at the Graham Memorial Information Office or at St. Anthony Hall.

Tryouts for the show will be open to all students, and announcements of them will come later. Students who want to help write the music or lyrics for the show have been asked to contact Cecil Hartsoe or Ludwig.

The show, now in "the scenario stage," will have nine leading parts and about ten other parts, according to Ludwig. There will also be a chorus with several speaking parts; a small orchestra and a ballet group.

DTH Editor To Question Vice President

The Daily Tar Heel will get a chance to toss questions at Vice President Richard Nixon tonight. Fred Powledge, editor of the campus daily newspaper, left yesterday for Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., for an intercollegiate press conference with the president, currently stumping the country for reelection.

Powledge and editors of approximately 30 other college newspapers will question Nixon over a coast-to-coast television show tonight. The show will be carried by Columbia Broadcasting System and can be viewed from 8 to 8:30 p. m. EST.

While in Ithaca, Powledge also will participate in a seminar in which members of the nation's press covering Nixon's campaign will discuss methods of reporting national politics.

Educational Panel Will Include UNC Professor

Dr. David G. Monroe of the Political Science Dept. will be among panel members today during the annual convention of the National Assn. of Educational Broadcasters in Atlanta, Ga.

He will be among a number of specialists from other major universities who have engaged in educational programs over television stations.

Edward Wegener, director of educational TV at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala., said that discussions this year will center around "fatalistic thinking on the matter of using television as a teaching tool."

Also to be considered are courses which can effectively be taught on TV, producer-teacher relations and other topics which will be suggested before the telecasters meet in Atlanta, Wegener said.

Among other persons to appear on the panel are Dr. Burr Roney, biologist at the University of Houston, Tex., and Dr. James Woodall of the English Dept. at Auburn.

Injured Boys Are 'Getting Along Fine'

George Wrape was discharged from the University Infirmary yesterday and Cloyd Bookout and William Yost were "getting along all right" according to University Physician Edward Hedgpech.

The students were in an auto wreck early last Monday morning, which was fatal to Robert Lee Ellerbe, senior of Rockingham.

Wrape suffered bruises, and Yost fractured his right arm and will be discharged from the Infirmary in about a week, along with Bookout, who injured his right shoulder.

The accident occurred when the car, in which Ellerbe and Yost were traveling east on Highway

ROBERT ELLERBE Killed in Accident

70, was struck by a pick-up truck operated by a Mrs. Alice Jones, 30, of High Point. Bookout and Wrape were in a car operated by Luther Marsh, another UNC student, and this car ran into the car operated by Yost.

Professor To Moderate Michigan Conference

Miss Margaret B. Dolan, associate professor of public health nursing, University of North Carolina School of Public Health, is attending a Conference on Field Instruction and Experience in Public Health Nursing this week at Ann Arbor, Mich.

She is representing the Department of Public Health Nursing of the UNC School of Public Health at the University of Michigan meeting. During the five-day meeting she will moderate a panel discussion on "New Patterns of Field Teaching."

SSL Exams Given To 31 Students Here

Written examinations were given Monday night to 31 students who applied to represent UNC at the State Student Legislature Nov. 15-17.

Of the 30 students who may attend, approximately 18 will be voting representatives. Delegation selections will be announced Sunday. Prospective representatives will be interviewed by a non-partisan selections board Wednesday through Friday in Graham Memorial.

The Legislature will meet in Raleigh. Delegates will debate and pass bills dealing with issues of educational, state, national and international importance.

Criteria for selecting delegates includes interest, presentation and actuality of answers posed by the selections board on the written examinations.

Students who failed to take the examination Monday night may take it this afternoon, Thursday and Friday. It will be administered in student government offices in Graham Memorial.

Eight BA Students Win Foundation Fellowships

Eight candidates for Master of Business Administration degrees at UNC have received Business Foundation Fellowships for study here.

They were awarded the one-year grants by Director G. A. Barrett of the Master of Business Administration Program at UNC. Dr. M. W. Lee is dean of the School of Business Administration.

Receiving the fellowships were: Ed Burch, Charlotte; B. W. Miller of Morganton; H. D. Seaton, Jr., Chattanooga, Tenn.; Robert J. Porter, Louisville, Ky.; Don Wampler, Crockett, Va.; Charles D. Trexler, Asheville; Robert A. Brown, Robersonville; and B. L. McKenzie, Winston-Salem.

According to MBA Director Barrett, the recipients were selected on basis of their "outstanding records" in undergraduate school and for holding "considerable pro-

Mouza Says 'Dreams Come All O. K.'

Miltos Tassos, wealthy restaurateur and former proprietor of the "Mouza," has returned to his beloved Greece.

Tassos, who was affectionately known by students as "Mouza," thus fulfilled a long-time dream.

In a post card to a student this week, "Mouza" said in his broken English, "I am write you a few lines to tell you that my pyer here and my dreams come all O. K. . . . Have write you on this card to remind the Glorious days of Agropoulis and Greece which the world is teaching today and always the freedom of man and the love of all peoples. "Give all the boys my best regards."

Mouza returned to his beloved home, Athens, Greece.

Carolina Forum Gives Slate Of Speakers

The Carolina Forum has announced its tentative schedule of speakers for the academic year 1956-57.

Among the speakers tentatively scheduled to visit the University this year are: Senator Harry P. Cain, former senator from the state of Washington; Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois; V. K. Krishna Menon, chairman of Indian delegation to the United Nations; Vice President Richard Nixon; Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina; Walter Reuther, vice president of the newly merged American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Senator Douglas is recognized as a leading economist in the Senate. Senator Cain is recognized as an advocate of civil liberty. Senator Thurmond is the only man in history who won an election to the United States Senate on a write-in vote.

Since its founding, the Forum has brought three presidents of the United States to the campus, several ambassadors to the U. S. from Europe and Asia, senators, representatives and justices of the Supreme Court.

Forum Chairman Jim Holmes said of this year's schedule: "The Forum believes that in this array of speakers we have achieved this year's fulfillment of its perpetual ideal—to bring to the campus of the oldest state university in the nation the political, educational, and economic leaders of the world."

IDC To Hold Second Meet Tonight At 7

The Interdormitory Council will hold its second meeting of the semester tonight at seven o'clock.

The Council will meet in the Phi Assembly Hall on the fourth floor of New East Building.

Tentative agenda for the session as announced by President Sonny Hallford includes: (1) Appointment of committee heads.

(2) Election of IDC Court for the coming academic year.

(3) Discussion of pertinent problems including telephones, vending machines and other items.

The telephone discussion will concern the recent problem of dorm men's placing long-distance calls from non-pay phones and subsequent tying-up of the Durham exchange.

This problem, according to President Hallford, is virtually solved. But discussion will be held and action taken to prevent its recurrence, he said.

The IDC Court will be completely revitalized, Hallford said. A new chairman will be named and several members to the Court, according to the president.

The Court handles violations of University regulations in men's dormitory such as violation of the quiet hours rule.

The Council meets on alternating Wednesday nights throughout the academic year.

Med School Freshmen Class Officers Named

James H. M. Thorp, chairman of the Honor Council of the UNC School of Medicine, has announced the officers of the freshman class of the Medical School.

Panty Raiding Definite Violation Of UNC Code

Chairman of the Student Council Luther Hodges said yesterday that panty raiders were "definitely" violating the Campus Code. Hodges said that not only "instigators" of panty raids would be subject to judicial action, but anyone who participates in them. The Campus Code puts students on their honor to behave in a gentlemanly fashion at all times.

Hodges also listed members of the Student Council to whom violators may be reported. These are: Rick Coker, PiKA House; Charles Dunn, Stacy; Haywood Edmunson, Zeta Psi House; Perky Hayes, DKE House; Jim Long, Chi Psi Lodge, Chuck May, Beta House; Greg Poole, Phi Delta Theta House; Ed Pullen, 319 McCauley St.; Forbes Ramsey, Beta House; Gordon Taylor; and Luther Hodges, PiKA House.

Thomas Says UP 'Right' On Issue Charge

By NANCY HILL

Denny Thomas, University Party representative in Student Legislature, stated in a UP meeting last night that Mike Weinman, "was right" in stating that the Student Party will use the Election Law as a campaign issue.

Commenting on a statement by SP chairman Tom Lambeth in reply to Weinman's statement in The Daily Tar Heel last week, Thomas said, "I hope that is all that is said, because the more is said, the more it's going to hurt us."

"I don't think the SP can use it too much, though, because the UP did have something to do with the law."

In reply to a question about a current rumor of a rift between himself and Weinman, Thomas stated, "I believe the main reason for the rumor is because Mike lives in a fraternity house and I in a dorm."

He said the rumor "probably got around" because of his stand on the election law issue. Thomas voted with the SP on the elections law amendment which last week, restored ballot boxes to all dorms during campus elections.

Thomas told UP members "Just forget about it. I'd rather anyway."

Weinman announced at last night's meeting that he will give up his post as acting UP floor leader because "I want to devote more time to the campaign."

A new floor leader will be selected in caucus before Thursday night's meeting of the Legislature, he said.

Career Program Slated Today For WUNC-TV

High school juniors and seniors have the opportunity to ask questions about various professions in a TV series from WUNC-TV, Channel 4 today.

At 2 p. m., Miss Barbara Butler and Ralph Macklin, Chapel Hill High School seniors will interview Miss Bobbie Pearl Numan and Robert Miller of the University of North Carolina School of Library Science on the subject of "A Career in Library Science."

The program is one of a series sponsored by the University to allow teenagers to question authorities in various professions.

The topic for next week's "A Career For You," will feature Carl N. Ellington, a Carrboro contractor.

Student government's Traffic Advisory Commission will meet with town aldermen and the Merchant's Association Thursday, according to Commission Chairman Wilburn Davis.

Davis said he anticipates a solution to the Columbia Street parking problem "in the near future."

The Board of aldermen has imposed a two-hour parking restriction on Columbia.

The restriction brought a chorus of protests from fraternity men whose houses are located on the street.

A earlier meeting with the aldermen which Davis, student body President Bob Young and Interfraternity Council, President Ed Hudgins attended failed to yield any action on the "problem."

In a meeting with the Merchants' Association last Friday at which the Commission sought endorsement of the Association toward lifting the Columbia Street restriction, it was stated that the merchants maintained a "hands off" policy toward parking problems.

The Association did agree, however, to meet with the Traffic Commission and aldermen and discuss: (1) The Columbia Street restriction.

(2) General parking problems. (3) Prices in local establishments.

The primary objective of this Thursday's meeting will be solution of the Columbia Street restriction "problem," Chairman Davis said.

Juniors Have Until Friday For Yack Pics

Juniors and students in Medical, Law and Graduate School, have until Friday to have their pictures made for the 1957 Yackety Yack, according to Editor Tommy Johnson.

The pictures are being made daily from 1 to 7:30 p.m. in the basement of Graham Memorial.

Today is the last day for students not classified in the regular schedule to have their pictures made at a cost of $1.

Girls have been requested to wear dark sweaters and single-strand pearls. Boys have been requested to wear a white shirt and tie and a dark coat.

Official Confirmation Of Reading Day Given

Official confirmation for the inauguration of a Reading Day into each semester of the 1957-58 school year was announced by Dean C. P. Spruill.

Maid Of Cotton

Jo Ann Deason, 22, of Enoree, S. C., will represent South Carolina in the 1957 Maid of Cotton finals at Memphis, Tenn., in January. Miss Deason, a drama student in the UNC graduate school succeeds Betty Lane Cherry of Orangeburg, representing Spartanburg County, she won the South Carolina title Thursday night at Clemson College.
