GMAB Largest Student Activity Says Lambeth

By MARY JANE FISHER

Graham Memorial Activities Board is UNC's largest single student activity, with over 500 students working on some phase of it, according to Tom Lambeth, president. It is the programming unit of the student union and is run entirely by the students.

The activities which it offers for the students' benefit and participation are numerous. The biggest single project it sponsors is the production of the musical pageant "Sound and Fury," which will be given in the spring this year. Along the same line, there will be a talent show in the fall and a play by a traveling group in March.

In connection with the coming national election, the Polls Committee will sponsor a student poll next week on presidential preferences. On Nov. 6, election day, all students will be invited to the Rendezvous Room to keep up with the election returns.

Throughout the school year, GMAB sponsors free movies on Friday nights, series of art films, weekend entertainment in the Rendezvous Room, and discussion groups such as the Student-Faculty Forum, which helps to develop a closer student-faculty relationship.

Other special features it sponsors are after-game receptions with combos during football season; "Les Petites Musicales" series on Sunday nights during the fall; a Rod and Gun Field Day every year; a yearly visit by the billiard expert, Charlie Peterson, who gives free instructions; and calendars each semester listing all scheduled events.

On Oct. 4, 5, and 6, four members of GMAB attended the regional conference of the Association of College Unions, which met at Tuskegee Institute in Ala. At the conference, recommendations for the improvement of student unions were made, and various student unions were discussed.

In a report Lambeth wrote on the conference, he says, "Our student union again and again appeared in discussion as a unique institution which used the most student talents in an expanding program within a complex activities situation." He says UNC's basic needs are "1. Expanded facilities to house meetings, offices, bowling alley, and a larger dance area. 2. Expanded program to double student worker participation."

Besides the president, the GMAB is composed of three vice-presidents, Miss Susan Walker, John Ludwig, and Bob Stator; Secretary, Pat McQueen; Treasurer, Bill Christian; 12 permanent committees; and other committees organized when necessary.

Mock Election This Thursday

Polls will be open Thursday in Gerrard Hall from 8 a.m. till 6 p.m. to determine the attitude of the student body toward the presidential election.

GMAB workers will maintain two tables and use several ballot boxes to expedite voting. The actual procedure should take only seconds. GMAB officials have urged that the entire student body participate in this mock election.

The YDC and YRC have become very active, posting party publicity and handing out campaign buttons to encourage a large vote.

The results of this voting will be tabulated Thursday night in the Rendezvous Room and posted there. Also, these results will be given national publicity.

Similar polls have been conducted recently at State, Georgia Tech, Davidson, and Oak Ridge. The Stevenson-Kefauver ticket was most popular at all these schools except Davidson. Oak Ridge had a turnout of 95 per cent of the student body.

Legislature Committee Holds Meeting Thursday

The Rules Committee of the Student Legislature will meet tomorrow at 4:45 p.m. in the Woodhouse Conference Room, according to Miss Martha Barber, chairman.

Lester Displays Medal Collection In Library

Robert M. Lester, retired educator of Chapel Hill, has more medals than World War II hero Audie Murphy, but Lester hasn't fought any battles to collect his 60 handsome bronze and silver discs.

For the first time, Lester has his collection on exhibit at the University of North Carolina Library in connection with the Library's United Nations Week theme. For 26 years the former secretary of the Carnegie Foundation, has been collecting medals.

Most of the Lester medals were obtained through the American Society of Medalists, of which he is a charter member. Since 1930, the society has issued two medals per year for the benefit of collectors. The medals, 2½ inches in circumference, were made by some of the most famous contemporary sculptors, commissioned by the society to choose and depict a theme for each at their own discretion.

Medals of the Lester collection portray as many as five specific themes, the Bible, World Peace, War, Love, Wildlife, and there are others of miscellaneous character.

One handsome bronze disc, entitled "World Peace or Oblivion," depicts a nuclear blast; another symbolizes peace in the form of a woman floating over the world. Relief on the obverse side of the nuclear blast is that of an American Soldier giving aid to a wound-

Fred Replaces Slocum As UNC Band Director

Herbert W. Fred, conductor, composer and arranger, has been named director of the 90-piece UNC Band, succeeding E. A. Slocum. The announcement was made yesterday by Dr. Glen Haydon, head of the UNC Music Dept.

Director of the band for the past 23 years, Slocum is retiring in order to devote his time to the University Symphony and a heavy schedule of classes in music theory and applied music.

Fred, the new full-time director, 36-year old native of Eveleth, Minn., is currently working on his Ph.D. degree in musicology. He received his B.M.E. and M.M. degrees from Northwestern University.

Fred has arranged and conducted programs for formal appearances of the band since the fall term opened. The band is the largest in several years and was allocated $6,000 for the purchase of the first set of uniforms in 26 years and for improvement of instruments.

Since 1942, Fred has directed prep, military and college bands; from 1942-1945, he was commanding officer of the 662nd AAF Band; from 1946-1949, band director and instrumental instructor in the public schools in Evanston, Ill.

NAACP Suit Not Framed Properly

RALEIGH, Oct. 30 — The State Supreme Court was told today that a suit brought by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People against the secretary of state and attorney general was not properly framed.

Atty. Gen. George B. Patton argued that the NAACP's two causes of action involving separate statutes were improperly joined into one case. For this reason, he asked the high court to uphold a decision of Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood, who dismissed part of the suit.

The NAACP brought the suit to seek a declaratory judgment that it not be required to comply with two North Carolina regulatory statutes. One, a civil law, requires foreign corporations to register with the secretary of state in order to do business in North Carolina. The other, a criminal law, requires an organization principally engaged in the activity of influencing public opinion or legislation to register with the secretary of state.

The suit was filed after Secretary of State Thad Eure and former Atty. Gen. W. B. Rodman Jr., now a member of the Supreme Court, called on the NAACP to comply with the two laws.

Veterans' Petition Now Has Almost 600 Names

The petition recently circulated on campus calling for the abolition of required physical education for veterans has approximately 600 signatures, according to its originators.

Darwin Bell and Benny Huffman, co-chairmen of the Veterans Affairs Committee, originated the petition.

It is now located in the Veterans Affairs Office in 308 South Building.

All veterans are asked to sign the petition when they "sign for monthly government checks," Bell urged.

It will be conveyed to Dean of the General College Cecil Johnson after it receives 1,000 signatures, according to Bell, and will be duly processed by Johnson and O. K. Corwell of the Physical Education Department.

Alumnus Is On Nuclear Board

Dr. James E. Webb, 1926 graduate of UNC and now president and general manager of Republic Supply Company in Oklahoma City, Okla. has recently been named as a member of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies Board of Directors.

Webb, formerly of Oxford, N. C., will be one of 15 men on the board which manages the Institute for the 35 southern universities who sponsor ORINS. The ORINS Council is composed of one representative from each of the sponsoring institutions.

Webb has also recently been appointed a member of the National Advisory Cancer Council, which is a 12-member body appointed by the surgeon general of the Public Health Service.

A native of Granville County, Webb has had a distinguished career in public and private industry. The UNC alumnus began his work in Washington, D. C. as secretary to North Carolina Congressman E. W. Pou, 1932-34.

Later he became executive assistant to O. Max Gardner, under secretary of the treasury; then director of the Bureau of the Budget; and finally under secretary of state, 1949-52.

Scheidt Claims Charges 'Made In Bad Faith'

RALEIGH, Oct. 30 — Charges brought by a discharged patrolman against Patrol Capt. W. F. Bailey were characterized today as "unfounded and made in bad faith."

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt said this today at the end of a lengthy news conference in which he related details of an SBI probe into the charges hurled by former patrolman R. A. Calloway.

Scheidt told the newsmen he had found some matters in the SBI probe that he plans to "study again from an administrative standpoint." For the most part Capt. Bailey "is to be commended" for the actions he took in the cases in which Calloway had complained.

Calloway was fired as a patrolman by Scheidt several weeks ago after he refused to spell out in detail his charges "made against Bailey. After firing Calloway, Scheidt asked the SBI to make a thorough investigation of Calloway's claim of "crooked law enforcement being rammed down the public's throat."

"I have complete confidence in Capt. Bailey," said Scheidt after relating what he said were the SBI's findings on a long list of charges made by Calloway. Bailey has been with the patrol since 1931, two years after it was organized, and has been commander of Troop D at Salisbury since 1951.

Moon Eclipse Seen Nov. 17

The eclipse of the moon on Nov. 17 will be visible in this section of the country, according to A. F. Jenzano, manager of the Morehead Planetarium.

What the lay observer may not understand about eclipses of the moon is explained in the current Planetarium demonstration "Mister Moon."

An exciting climax to the show is a spectacular demonstration of the theory that on a day millions of years hence, the moon may gravitate into a critical distance from the earth and shatter into millions of tiny particles. According to Jenzano, "That would form circles around the earth similar to the rings around the planet Saturn."

The explanations of the Nov. 17 eclipse of the moon will be presented nightly through Nov. 19 at the Planetarium at 8:30 p.m. with matinees Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. and Sundays at 3 and 4 p.m.

Campaign Is Underway To Explain Caravan

An extensive campaign is underway to acquaint the student body with details of the Caravan Weekend, according to a statement made at Monday night's University Club meeting.

Caravan Committee Chairman Harry Horse made the announcement.

The campaign includes use of The Daily Tar Heel, posters, radio announcements and a "Y" Court booth, according to Horse.

Chairman Horse also told the club a report would be forthcoming on advance ticket sales. "The report will be published in The Daily Tar Heel," he said.

J. Paul Sheedy* Wasn't Very Sharp Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"WHY do the girls act so stuck up?" moaned Sheedy. "It's quilling me the way they give me the brush-off." "It's your hair, J. Paul," said one of the lads. "It sticks out all over. Confidentially, it stinks. You need Wildroot Cream-Oil." So Sheedy picked up a bottle. Now he has all kinds of confidence, because his hair looks healthy and handsome, the way Nature intended. Neat but not greasy. Try Wildroot Cream-Oil in bottles or handy tubes. It contains Lanolin, Nature's finest hair and scalp conditioner. Soon all the dates you need be yours for the asking.
