

Russia Suggests U.S.-Soviet Alliance For Midwest

THE COOLING MIDDLE EAST

Compiled by The Daily Tar Heel
From Short Wave and Radio Reports

Russia suggested last night that she and the United States join forces to stop the fighting in Egypt.
The suggestion, in a letter from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to President Eisenhower, was killed by the United Nations. When Russia attempted to place the suggestion on the UN's Security Council agenda, four countries voted against it—Britain, France, Australia and the United States.
Russia's plan would send U.S.S.R. and American sea and air forces into the Egyptian area to settle the war there.
White House spokesmen called the plan "unthinkable."
Meanwhile, across the world, Britain and France have agreed to stop military action against Egypt as soon as a United Nations truce force is accepted by Egypt and Israel.

Egypt immediately agreed to the idea, according to reports from the United Nations.
Israel said all fighting between her and Egypt in the Sinai Desert area has ceased. Britain announced she had ended all bombing on Egyptian soil.
The White House, in its answer to the Bulganin letter, said Russia has an obligation to withdraw her troops from Hungary before trying to settle the Middle East's problems.
In Egypt, English and French soldiers were reported poised off Port Said. The port itself was reported taken by Anglo-French paratroopers.
Arab saboteurs were said to have cut off one-half of the Middle Eastern oil supply. Experts said one-fourth of the world's oil production was threatened.

UP Fills Vacancies In Slate

The University Party held its last meeting before the coming elections of Nov. 13, filling four vacancies caused by the withdrawal of candidates and introducing three new bills to the members.

The appointments made by Chairman Mike Weinman to fill the vacancies were voted on and approved. Weinman appointed Henry Bodenheimer to fill the vacancy in Dorm I. Val Von Ammon in Town Women, and Jack Lewis and Jerry Cole in Town I.

The three new bills, which already had been introduced to the Student Legislature by Chairman Weinman were:

- 1.) To establish a committee to look into the establishment of parking lots for the students.
- 2.) To establish a committee to look for a new place to hold the Honor Council's meetings.
- 3.) To provide $400 to the Daily Tar Heel in order to set up an international news wire.

Before the meeting was adjourned, Chairman Weinman gave the party a brief "pep talk" in preparation for the elections next Tuesday.

"If you work, I promise you'll win, but if you don't work and just put up posters and bulletins, I promise you'll lose," Weinman said.

After the meeting was adjourned at 8:30 Weinman made some statements concerning his recent withdrawal as floor leader in the Student Legislature, attacking students who had claimed there was ill will between him and the new UP floor leader, Benny Thomas.

"The charges are fantastic. I never heard of such a thing," Weinman said. "The talk about there being a rift between Benny and me is ridiculous," Weinman said. "I felt wrong about being both chairman and floor leader," Weinman added.

DUkathon Head Wants Pictures In By Tonight

DUkathon Chairman Ernie Kemm has asked that candidates for the DUkathon Queen submit pictures by tonight.

Candidates who do not have pictures available may have pictures taken at the Delta Upsilon House, 407 E. Rosemary St., this afternoon. All pictures should be wallet size.

There will be a meeting for DUkathon runners Thursday night at 8 at the DU House. Kemm has asked all interested students who are unable to attend the meeting to contact him at the DU House, phone 9-1301.

The DUkathon is an annual race from the Chapel Hill Post Office to the Durham Post Office, a distance slightly greater than 11 miles.

A trophy will be awarded to the winner. The second and third place winners will be awarded medals, and survival medals will be presented to all runners finishing the race.

The Waters Of Truth Were Cut Off

University workmen tore down and hauled away the old Franklin St. fountain yesterday. The fountain proclaimed the waters of truth "flow freely," but the water was cut off long ago. In upper picture, workmen are securing the fountain on a truck. Above, the truck starts down Franklin St. toward the new location.

Yack Beauty Queen To Be Selected Thursday

98 campus beauties will compete for the title of 1957 Yack Beauty Queen Thursday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

The 1957 Queen will be chosen from the group with a court of 14 princesses. Entrants are judged on symmetry of feature, complexion, hair, figure and poise. Each girl has been entered in the contest by a fraternity, sorority, dormitory, or other campus organization.

CAPPS
Jimmy Capps, well-known radio announcer from Raleigh, is to be master of ceremonies for the program. Judges include Ty Boyd, local radio man, Monk Jennings, local merchant, and Charlie Cash, Durham radio announcer.

Flip Lathan's combo will provide background music during the program. At intermission the Phi Kappa Sigma combo will hold a jam session as special entertainment for the audience.
A compulsory rehearsal for all entrants will be held Wednesday in Memorial Hall at 7:30 p.m. The girls are requested to wear the shoes which they plan to wear in the contest.

CO-EDITORS

Judy Davis and Gene Whitehead are co-editors of the Yack Beauty Section and are directing the entire program for the Queen selection.

"We hope that this year's contest will be even bigger and better," stated co-editor Davis. "There will be plenty of pretty girls, so the boys ought to particularly enjoy the contest."

Landmark Moved To Arboretum

University employes yesterday hauled away the horse trough that had stood unused for many years before the University Methodist Church in the East Franklin Street business district.

It was moved to a site behind the Chapel of the Cross at the northwest corner of the Coker Arboretum.

The trough was erected in 1918 for the hundreds of horses that came through Chapel Hill pulling wagons and carriages. It was built as a memorial to Susan Williams Graham, wife of former University President Edward Kidder Graham.

Mrs. Graham's son, Edward Kidder Graham, Jr. until recently chancellor of the Woman's College in Greensboro, is now dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Boston University.

As horses disappeared from the streets of Chapel Hill and the number of cars increased, the watering trough stood unused and unnoticed by all but the owners of automobiles whose front fenders were scratched by the protruding edge of the monument.

The University Buildings and Grounds Committee, headed by Dr. H. R. Totten of the Botany Department, decided on the rear entrance of the Episcopal Church as a new location for the trough. In selecting the site, the committee considered Mrs. Graham's devoted services to the church.

Although the inscription on the monument reads, "The waters of truth flow freely; drink when and where you may," no animals but birds will now have access to the trough, and even they will have water only when it rains.

Di Not Meeting Tonight Because Of Election

The Dialectic Senate will not meet tonight, it was announced yesterday.

The cancellation of this week's meeting of the debating society was made because of national elections today.

The Philanthropic Assembly will meet as usual.

Last Day For Tickets To Va. Tilt

Today is the last day UNC students may buy their game tickets for the Virginia Game on November 10th, and tomorrow is the last day of sale for the railway tickets, according to Dave Jones, carvan committee member.

Game tickets are on sale today at the ticket office in Woollen gym. All tickets not sold by the close of business today will be returned to the University of Virginia, he said.

Jones urged all Carolina students who are planning to take part in this activity to dig down deep and come up with their $3.50 today.

He also urged everyone going to buy their train tickets from the committee at reduced rates today or tomorrow. The railway will continue to sell train tickets after Wednesday, but they will be sold at the regular rate, which is considerably higher than $9.20, he said.

The "Caravan Special" is to leave Durham Friday evening at 6:55 and will stop in Greensboro for Women's College students and for supper. The return trip will begin at 1:30 a.m. Sunday but the train will be open to students after ten Saturday night.

Plans in Charlottesville include an open house and dance in Madison Hall Saturday evening as well as individual plans by UVA fraternities.

Seats Open On Honor Council, Not Residence

All junior coeds interested in running for seats on the Women's Honor Council have been asked to sign a list posted on the door of Woodhouse Conference Room, Graham Memorial before 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Interviews by the Bi-Partisan Selections Board will be held Tuesday and Wednesday from 1-3 p.m.

The Daily Tar Heel erroneously stated previously that seats on the Women's Residence Council were available.

Brooks Urges SP's Victory

John Brooks, legislative campaign coordinator for the Student Party, yesterday called for the election of SP candidates to the Student Legislature on the grounds that they are "The people who have exemplified a desire for service to the campus."

Brooks said SP legislature members have an "unmatched record" of attendance for past sessions of the Student Legislature.

"Twice this session SP legislators have recorded 100 percent attendance," he said.
Brooks said "You can be sure when you elect SP candidates to the Student Legislature that you know who is going to represent you." He explained that a relatively small number of SP legislators has been elected and then resigned posts.

IN THE INFIRMARY

IN MEETING LAST NIGHT

Campus Chest Sets Up Dorm, Greek Trophies

The Campus Chest executive committee voted last night to award two trophies—one to dormitories and one to sororities and fraternities—for the highest percentage of money per person donated in the current Campus Chest fund drive.

Plans had originally provided for the awarding of only one trophy, with sororities and fraternities in competition with dorms for the highest percentage donations.

DANCE

The trophy will be awarded at the Campus Chest informal dance, "Frestime Frolics," scheduled for Nov. 16 in Woollen Gym.

The committee has set up the trophy as a rotating award, to become the permanent possession of a residence on being awarded that residence for the third consecutive year.
Student body President said concerning the change in plans for the trophy, "I feel this plan is much fairer for all residential groups concerned. It is not right for fraternities and sororities to compete against dormitories."

"I think that both groups will have a much better chance at winning the trophy. I feel that the idea of a rotating trophy will stimulate competition and will also give more residences a chance to possess the trophy for at least one year," he said.

"I would like to challenge each dormitory, sorority and fraternity to cooperate 100 percent in this drive. All the organizations benefitting from it are certainly worthy and this is our one opportunity to participate in all these programs."

"I am confident the drive will more than reach its goal," he said.

Police Find No Clues On Vandals

Local police as of yesterday had not determined who painted up three University buildings with black paint Friday night.

A check with the police station last night at 7:30 revealed there were no new developments in the case.

Sgt. Coy Durham, who is working on the case, stated to his knowledge no new leads had come up. He also said no more acts of vandalism had been discovered other than the paintings on the three buildings.

The vandalism occurred Friday night around midnight. Painted on the columns of the Morehead Building were "Beat Carolina," "Duke University" and three triangles.

Similar damage was also done to the Alumni Building and Graham Memorial.

Morehead Columns Set For Steam Treatment

According to Giles F. Horney, buildings department supervisor, the defaced columns were to be cleaned with solvent and after wards given a steam treatment. The steam process will probably begin sometime this week, he explained, after the solvent has dried.

Planetarium Manager A. F. Jenzano said, shortly after the incident occurred, "It is difficult to find the culprit in such cases. But if the guilty party is found, he should be punished in order to set an example and curtail vandalism in the future."

Second Annual Field Meet Is Staged Today

The second annual co-recreational Rod and Gun Field Meet will be held today at 2 p.m. in the Durham Wildlife Club Area.

The event, sponsored jointly by Graham Memorial Activities Board and the intramural dept., will feature four events, archery, trap shooting, target rifle shooting and bass and brim fishing.

Individual and team trophies will be awarded in each contest.

Equipment will be furnished by the sponsor but students entered in the meet will be allowed to use their own equipment in all events except target rifle shooting.
Rod Amundson, editor of Wildlife in North Carolina, has been invited to attend the meet along with other members of the Wildlife Commission.

Transportation will be provided for those who do not have rides. Anyone needing a ride has been asked to meet in front of Woollen Gym at 1 p.m.

Anyone who is driving and has additional room in his car has been asked to check by the gym before leaving.

Hurricane Moves Out To Sea; Now Packs Winds Of 135 MPH

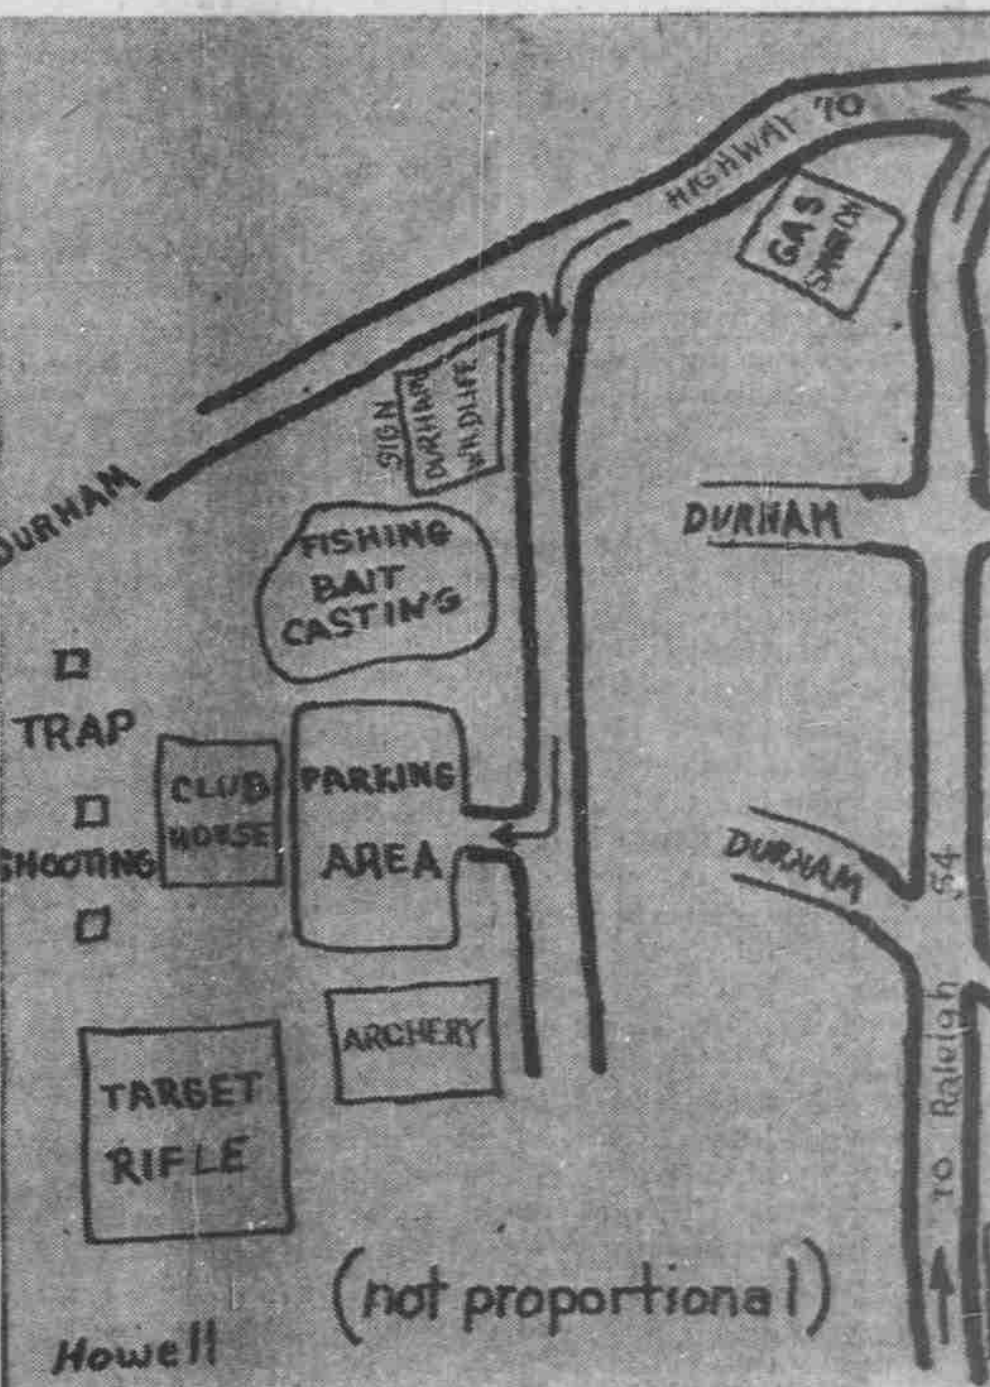

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sprawling Hurricane Greta, packing winds up to 135 miles per hour near the center, swept northeastward in the open Atlantic yesterday, far from any land area.

At 5 p.m. EST Greta was centered about 450 miles east-southeast of Bermuda. This is about 1,300 miles east-southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

"Highest winds of this large and dangerous hurricane are estimated to be 135 m.p.h. within 60 miles of the center and hurricane force winds 75 miles an hour and up extend 140 miles in the northern semicircle and 200 miles in the southern semicircle," said the Weather Bureau.

Gales extend out about 300 miles in all directions from the seventh hurricane of the season.

Shipping interests were advised to exercise caution against "this dangerous hurricane."
