

The Daily Tar Heel

WEATHER
Partly cloudy and mild becoming windy. Expected high 65-75.

GUTS
Hungary will be remembered. See page 2.

VOL. LVII NO. 49 Complete (P) Wire Service CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1956 Offices in Graham Memorial FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

Frost-Time Frolics Campus Chest Dance, Will Be Tonight At 8:30

Tonight the Frost Time Frolics will be held in Cobb Basement from 8:30 to 11:30 according to Bob Jacobus, co-chairman of the dance. The Frolics are being held as part of the Champus Chest Drive which has been going on for the past two weeks.

At present time the total collected is $1750, according to Jackie Aldridge.

The Frolics, Jacobus said, would be essentially a dance, with the music furnished by Bruno's combo. Refreshments will be served.

Four acts are scheduled during the intermission.

For the men on campus who enjoy dancing but haven't as yet dates, there will be over a hundred women from the Nurses Dorm and Duke, Jacobus stated.

Advance ticket sales have been going well, said Jacobus, however tickets will still be available today in Y Court from 8-12, and at the dance tonight.

Decorations will be along the fall theme, including leaves, apples, pumpkins and other ornaments.

The price for this affair is $1 with or without a date.

Jack Frost And Jackie Aldridge
The above two people are Jack Frost and Jackie Aldridge, key figures in the Frost-Time Frolics, scheduled for Cobb basement between 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. today. Tickets will be on sale in Y-Court from 8 a.m. until noon and at the dance tonight. Price is the same, $1, with or without a date, and over 100 women will be present according to Bob Jacobus, chairman of the dance.

In-Service Training Holds Second Meet

The In-Service Training Series held its second meeting of the year at 4:30 p.m. yesterday in Carroll Hall. A panel discussion centered around sorority and independent activities on campus.

Desirable utilization of time for academic purposes, independents in extra-curricular activities and individual opportunities for both independent and sorority women were subjects emphasized by the panel. A more effective dormitory program and cooperation between sororities and independents were also discussed.

Moderator for the panel was Miss Martha Decker, assistant director of student activities. The panel consisted of Miss Elizabeth Moore, former independent woman student; Miss Elaine Burns, president of Women's Independent Council; Miss Anne Queen, associate director of YWCA; Miss Isabelle Carter, member of the Special Sorority Problems committee; Mrs. Edward G. Bilpuch, Alpha Delta Pi alumna advisor and Miss Sally Price, president of Panhellenic Council.

Members of Panhellenic Council and Independent Women's Council were invited to the meeting to hear the panel and to participate in the discussion which followed.

Frats, Sororities Set For Holiday Weekend

Highlighting the Theta Chi social calendar for this week will be their Annual Pledge Dance Saturday night at the Carolina Inn. To begin the merriest they will entertain at a cabin party tonight at Beulah's where couples will come dressed as Lil Abner, Daisy Mae or some other character in the Al Capp comic strip.

And while we're on the subject of costumes — ranging from Roman times down through the "Gay Twenties" right up to Little Abner's time — no doubt some have probably wondered just what occasions prompted their Carolina friends to dress in various ways.

One such occasion was last night when the Kappa Sig's and the ADPI's journeyed out to the American Legion Hut for a "Gay Twenties" party, while the Phi Deltas and Chi O's were reviving Roman days with a Roman toga party out at Beulah's with music by the "Down Beats" from Burlington.

Over at Jack's the ATO's and Pi Phi's were having an informal get-together. Last Tuesday evening found the Lambda Chi's at Beulah's with the Alpha Gams for a frontier party. Couples dressed as cowboys and Indians, danced to the music of the "Castlers" from Durham, and Jim Teague and Sara Crawford and their dates. Some other Saturday night socials are a party at the Lambda Chi House with music by Curtis Field's combo, one the KA's will have to "just take it easy," and another at the ATO House.

news in brief

FROM RADIO DISPATCHES
MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Bulganin Thursday backed down on his threat to send Russian "volunteers" to fight in the Middle East, and thereby heighten fears of a third World War. He sent notes to Britain, France and Israel expressing satisfaction with the present Middle Eastern ceasefire, but added the three countries should pay reparations to Egypt for damages done in the recent invasion.

LONDON — British officials said Bulganin should worry about paying damages to Hungary.

NAPLES — United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld arrived from Rome. He leaves this morning for Egypt to tie up loose ends of the UN troops' operation.

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK — The United States stoutly opposed efforts of India and Soviet Russia to seat Communist China seated in the UN.

VIENNA — A general strike continues in war-torn Hungary.

From Yugoslavia, Marshall Tito disclosed a great division in the ranks of the Kremlin. He said one top Red official wanted to return to Stalinism. He called the crushing of the Hungarian revolt a terrific blow to socialism. Tito said Communist Party Secretary Khrushchev must realize force is not the answer in the former satellite.

Dorm Queen Crowned At IDC Meeting

Miss Shirley Carpenter was crowned the Sweetheart of UNC Dorms at Wednesday night's Interdormitory Council meeting.

Miss Carpenter was presented a bouquet of roses, a loving cup and a $10 gift certificate by co-chairman of the IDC Contests Committee Don Matkins.

Runners-up in the contest, Miss Libby McDowell and Miss Phyllis Krafft were presented $5 gift certificates by Matkins also.

Miss Carpenter was sponsored by Stacy Dormitory, Miss Krafft by Mangum Dorm and Miss McDowell by Steele Dorm.

Judges for the contest were Dr. William Potat of the Philosophy Dept. Bob Cox, local merchant and Mrs. Kay Kyser.

VENDING MACHINES 8BFC flu The other matter which came before the council's session was dormitory vending machines.

Discussion was held as to whether or not vending machines should be taken out of dormitories entirely because of unsatisfactory functioning.

No decisive action was taken on the matter.

The council will meet again on the Wednesday following Thanksgiving holidays.

Dukathon Set For Saturday

The annual Dukathon, sponsored by Delta Upsilon social fraternity, will be held Saturday at 2 p.m.

The Dukathon is a marathon race starting at the Carolina Theater in Chapel Hill and covering a distance of 11 miles, ending at the Durham Post Office.

About 75 runners have entered the race so far. Runners follow Franklin St. and the Durham Highway into the city limits of Durham, and then take the main streets to Five Points in the middle of town. The post office is just three blocks from Five Points.

IDC Queen And Court
Miss Shirley Carpenter, recently elected Sweetheart of UNC Dorms, is shown above as she was presented her trophy. Shown with her are Miss Libby McDowell, left, and Miss Phyllis Krafft, runners-up.

Aldermen Agree To Lift Columbia Street Parking Ban

Peace Pilgrim Here On 10,000 Mile Hike

By JOAN MOORE
Peace Pilgrim, a small, white-haired woman who has reached the latter part of a 10,000 mile walk for world disarmament throughout the nation, arrived in Chapel Hill yesterday.

She began her mission four years ago, walking, talking, and praying with people. Dressed in a blue tunic and carrying only a toothbrush, comb, and newspaper clippings of her travels, Peace Pilgrim walks until offered food and shelter.

Peace Pilgrim, who will tell neither her name nor background, optimistically hopes to see world peace. She believes that this can be accomplished only by world disarmament. "We need one government which will include all the people of the world. The nations must give up their right of declaring war to the United Nations," she said emphatically.

Walking about 25 miles per day, Peace Pilgrim, now on her twelfth pair of shoes, has traveled in Mexico and Canada. She is now walking 100 "highway miles" in each state of this country. She will travel next in South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. Peace Pilgrim does not plan to tour Europe for she wants to talk intimately with people without the use of an interpreter.

"I did not choose to be a pilgrim," she said. "The Holy Spirit and God came to me suddenly. I knew then that I would be a wanderer until mankind has achieved peace."

"Another war would bring annihilation," she further added, "while disarmament would bring self-preservation."

"We must work for the good of all people. This is my philosophy of life," she concluded.

Having no dependents, Peace Pilgrim maintains that she belongs to the family of mankind. "I do not know of anyone else making such a pilgrimage," she said.

Peace Pilgrim has spoken recently to groups at Duke and N.C. State and will talk with several groups here on campus.

PEACE PILGRIM
... walks for peace

But Only For 60 Days If Frats Present Plan

Pegg Says Russia Not Weakened

The Hungarian revolt and disaffection in Poland has not weakened Russian power nor moderated her desire for an aggressive foreign policy, according to Carl H. Pegg, professor of history at the University of North Carolina.

Speaking before the Chapel Hill Rotary Club this week Professor Pegg pointed out that "every prognosis of the future of Eastern Europe must take into account the fact that Russia has been struggling for the control of Eastern Europe for a long time, that Poland and Czechoslovakia are of great strategic value to Russia, and that a large number of well-equipped Russian divisions are still camped on the soil of the satellite states."

Professor Pegg believes that the present phase of Russian foreign policy began with the Summit Conference of July 1955 which gave the Russians the impression that they could move into the Near and Middle East without hindrance. But when they tried to disengage from Eastern Europe, Professor Pegg said, the Polish and Hungarian disturbances posed difficult problems. "The Russian leaders were roughly in the position of a man who has a panther by the tail. To maintain a firm hold is both difficult and dangerous but to turn loose is to suffer loss of personal prestige and to lose the pelt."

Poland, according to Professor Pegg, could be treated with some consideration because the interest of that nation held her to Russia. But Hungary, basically hostile and deriving nothing from the Russian connection, must be crushed by force or else be written off as a loss.

"The result," declared Professor Pegg, "has been a ruthless butchery of Hungarian patriots, a heart rending sight for the whole world to see. This cruel act, which has shocked the conscience of much of the world and has kindled fresh hatreds and resentments in millions of hearts throughout the Soviet satellite kingdom, may well press a return to the Stalinist policy of brute force. Nor should we be blind to the fact that it could mean something much worse."

Bob Young Denounces Bell Theft

"It is embarrassing to the football players for some of us to act immaturity about this game."

This was the statement made by Bob Young, President of the Student Body, as he derided the recent stealing of the Victory Bell from the Duke Campus by several Carolina men.

Young felt that it was unfortunate in that the night the bell was stolen a meeting was taking place at Duke, between student and faculty members of both schools in an attempt to stop the wave of vandalism that has broken out recently in Chapel Hill and Durham.

He went on to say that it was discouraging to see and hear that damage is being done to our campus by someone who wants to stir up feeling between UNC and Duke.

"We are not angels about the matter," he said. "We have unnecessarily invaded their campus during the past few days."

President Young stressed that if a UNC student is caught on the campus without a proper reason, he will be tried immediately by the Student Council. Duke has assured University officials that similar action would take place if a Duke student was apprehended on the campus of UNC.

In closing, Young asked students here to save their energy and use it at the Duke - Carolina game instead of in destructive deeds.

Librarian Is Awarded Europe Trip

A check for $2,000 for a trip to Europe was presented yesterday in a surprise ceremony to Miss Georgia Faison, reference librarian at the University since the 1920's.

Miss Faison retires next June. Faculty members and others who have benefited from her assistance at the library participated in the donations.

A large number of the faculty attended the presentation ceremony at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the Graham Memorial Lounge. It was disclosed that the goal of $1,500 has been oversubscribed by grateful contributors.

Chairman of the faculty group presenting the check was Professor Werner P. Friedrich. Other committee members were Kenan Professors Richmond P. Bond, John N. Couch, Fletcher M. Green, Glen Haydon, Urban T. Holmes, B. L. Ullman, and Dean Lucille Kelling and Frances L. Yocem of the Library Science School.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included: Misses Roberta Simpson, Julia Carter, Elizabeth Gardner, Elizabeth McGraw, Mrs. Shirley Edgerton, and Jackson Sparks, Jimmy Merritt, Louis Cody, Robert Gordon, Myron Snoterly, Alfred Dean, John Minter, John Richardson, Lesley Bailey, James Matthes and James Dunn.

John Sneden Acts In Playmakers' Production

John Sneden, junior from Tenafly, N. J., is not newcomer to portraying high-ranking characters when he plays Caesar in The Carolina Playmakers' production of "Androcles and the Lion", which began last night.

The Shaw comedy will appear at the Playmakers Theatre through Sunday, curtains at 8:30 p.m. Sneden first appeared in a major role with the Playmakers in "Ondine", season's opener last year, as the Lord Chamberlain of the Royal Court. In a later production, "Even the Gods", he played the role of the Prime Minister. High-ranking in a different vein, in "Seventeen", the musical comedy last year, he played George, a haughty young college man in a high school crowd, the only one with an automobile.

In the first play of this season, "Anastasia", Sneden acted as Petrov, an exiled white Russian court artist, conspirator with a prince, and one of three tutors of a pretender to the sovereignty. Now, in "Androcles and the Lion", he appears as Caesar, emperor of Rome and persecutor of the Christian martyrs.

Marine Found Guilty On Two Counts

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. — A general court-martial today found a bayonet-wielding drill instructor, Frederick A. Renton, guilty of two counts of cruelty to Marine recruits.

Renton, from New York City, was tried on 15 separate charges. He pleaded guilty to two of the opening of the trial.

The sentence will be handed down tomorrow. Renton faces a maximum punishment of five years in jail and a dishonorable discharge.

Free Flick Tonight

"God is My Co-Pilot" will be GMAE's free flick feature of the week held in Carroll Hall at 8 and 10 p.m. today. Starring Dennis Morgan and Raymond Massey, the film is a biographical screenplay of the life of Col. Robert Lee Scott. The story takes him from his boyhood days on a Georgia farm, through West Point, to his exploits as a combat pilot with Gen Chennault's Flying Tigers.

JOHN SNEDEN
... plays Caesar