Election, Run-Off Set For Tuesday

Men's and Women's Honor Council members will be elected in polling on campus Tuesday, when a runoff will be held for Town Men's III, and a re-election in Town Men's II.

The run-off in Town Men's III will be for one legislative seat, while re-election in Town Men's II will be for freshman and junior class officers.

Town Men's II ballots were disqualified in last week's election because of discrepancies.

In approximately 90 votes, Andy Milnor, Elections' Board chairman said.

Milnor said the discrepancy occurred probably because poll tenders failed to cross off voters names in the Student Directory as the votes were cast. He urged poll tenders to make certain that names are checked off in the directory as the votes are cast.

As in last Tuesday's election, ballot boxes will be placed in all men's and women's dormitories. Town districts will vote as follows: Town Men's I, Gerrard Hall; Town Men's II, Scuttlebutt; Town Men's III, South Building or Gerrard Hall; Town Men's IV, Victory Village; Town Women, Gerrard Hall.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL SEATS

The girls approved after being interviewed by board members were Misses Nancy Milan, Baltimore, Md.; Kit Whitehurst, Danville, Va.; Daryl Farrington, Chapel Hill; Sue Atchison, Washington, D. C.; Marianna Miller, Pineville; Lloyd Dougherty, Cincinnati, Ohio; Doris Peter, Orlando, Fla.; Ann Morgan, Jacksonville; Betty Barnes, Washington, D. C.; Nan Schaefer, Tallahassee, Fla.; Cynthia Seagraves, Jacksonville, Fla.; and Sara VanWeyk, Winnetka, Ill.

The Selections Board recommending the candidates was composed of the chairman and two members of the Women's Honor Council and a representative from each of the two campus political parties.

MEN'S COUNCIL

Men also approved by a Bi-Partisan Board to run in the election for Men's Council are John Owens, High Point; Hugh Patterson, Edenton; Don Evans, Greensboro; Jack Jones; Bill Bost, Greenville; David Watson, Raleigh; Paul Carr, Hillsboro; Bruce Hoyle, Rutherfordton; Lee Ainslie, Huntington, W. Va.; Henry Harris, Winston-Salem; Tucker Yates, Asheboro; Gary Cooper, Salisbury; Bob Carter, Selma; Mason Wilkins, Durham.

Campus Chest Asks Donations For Hungarians

Donations are being received on campus for refugee Hungarian students, according to Campus Chest co-chairmen Miss Jackie Aldridge and Jess Stribling.

The donations will be given to World University Service, an organization that received donations from Campus Chest, tagged for the Hungarian students, according to Miss Aldridge and Stribling.

Donations will be received until Thanksgiving in bottles located in Y Court and labeled with the name of each residence, they said. Donations will be received although the Campus Chest Drive officially closed Thursday night.

Sixty per cent of money donated to Campus Chest itself was sent through the drives board of directors to World University Service, they said.

Miss Aldridge and Stribling said that the money will probably be used directly for aid to an estimated 20,000 Hungarian students who have escaped into Vienna, Austria.

Thanksgiving Service Planned By YMCA-YWCA

The YM-YWCA will sponsor a campus Thanksgiving service Tuesday at 4:45 p.m. at the Chapel of the Cross.

Speaker for the service will be the Rev. Charles Hubbard, pastor of University Methodist Church.

The topic of Hubbard's talk will be "Going Home."

Paintings On Campus Removed

The "Duke" signs that were painted on the Old Well, campus sidewalks and the stone wall in front of Cobb Dormitory during the week have been removed.

Giles Horney, UNC maintenance supervisor, said workers from his department started removing the Carolina Blue paint from the Old Well about 8 a.m. Wednesday. The paint that was used was a cold water paint and according to Horney, was not hard to get off. He said that they "were trying to get it off without everybody finding out about it so as to not give our students a cause to go over there and paint things."

The word "Duke" was also painted on the sidewalk in downtown Chapel Hill and on a "no parking sign across the street from the Post Office. These still have not been removed.

Work will continue this week on the columns of the Morehead Planetarium. Vandals defaced them early in the month. Special equipment is required to remove this writing. Horney said "the worst thing in the world is for it (paint) to be on limestone, it can not be removed from this surface without special equipment."

The Bell Tower, which has long been a favorite target for vandals with paint, has been spared so far this year.

183-Foot Telegram Sent To South Bend

More than 183 feet of telegram rolled its way to South Bend, Ind., Saturday.

The telegram, second longest this year, was signed by 1,073 Carolina students wishing good luck to the football team, which played Notre Dame yesterday.

The wire was tied with a Carolina Blue ribbon and presented to the football team before the game.

Miss Claudia Cannady, chief of the Western Union bureau here, commended the University Club for rounding up names for the telegram. Miss Cannady is a veteran of football game telegrams, and remembers the longest this year was a 241-footer sent to Norman for the Oklahoma game.

JAN SAXON

Les Petites Musicales soloist

Petites Musicales To Feature Miss Jan Saxon At 8 Tonight

Les Petites Musicales will present Miss Jan Saxon, coloratura soprano, as featured soloist in a program held at 8 p.m. today.

Sponsored by Graham Memorial Activities Board, the musicale will be presented in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Accompanist for the soloist will be Walter Golde of Chapel Hill, who is now directing Miss Saxon's program of concentrated voice work.

A former special student in Dramatic Art at the University, Miss Saxon took part in both dramatic and musical activities. Roles in Playmaker productions of "Julius Caesar" and "Even the Gods" were features of her early career.

Other previous experience includes roles in outdoor theatre presentations of "The Lost Colony," "Horn in the West," and "The Highland Call."

Jan Saxon's work with local musical groups consists of solo performances with the University Men's Glee Club, the Choral Society, the Basingstoke Sextet, and Les Petites Musicales.

On tonight's program Miss Saxon will sing "Come Ever Smiling Liberty" by Handel, and an aria from Mozart's "The Magic Flute." Other selections include a group of German lieder by Richard Strauss and Mahler, an aria from Rossini's "Barber of Seville," and a group of French works by Liszt, Piere, and Moret. Miss Saxon will conclude her performance with an aria from "Les Huguenots" by Meyerbeer.

All-American Paul Hornung Scores Notre Dame Clincher In Game's Final 76 Seconds

By LARRY CHEEK
Special To The Daily Tar Heel

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Notre Dame's never say-die Fighting Irish drove 68 yards in the dying minutes of the fourth quarter Saturday to whip dog-tired North Carolina, 21-14.

Paul Hornung, Notre Dame's All-American quarterback playing his last home game, scored the winning touchdown with only 76 seconds left in the game on a one-foot quarterback sneak. Up until that last deciding drive, the score had been knotted at 14-all, and it appeared the two teams would wind up even.

But the Irish weren't to be denied. With time running short, they took possession on their own 37 yard line after Carolina had failed in a last ditch fourth down effort. With Hornung and halfbacks Aubrey Lewis and Jim Milota doing the work, they moved down the field in 14 plays for the score.

Carolina took the ensuing kickoff, but lost 23 yards on three plays before the gun went off. That gun was the signal for a riotous celebration by the Notre Dame student body. The Irish students rushed onto the field and hoisted Hornung to their shoulders, then turned their attention to the goal posts. The Tar Heel obituary was signed as the goal posts came tumbling down.

Notre Dame grabbed a big lead in the first half as she jumped off to a 14-0 advantage before the

It was still cold yesterday morning, and by game time the thermometer had climbed no higher than 35. It was rough on the fans, but the players loved it.

An hour before gametime, the huge concrete bowl that is Notre Dame Stadium was still practically deserted with only a handful of shivering early birds on hand. Things started picking up as the 1 p.m. (CST) kickoff time neared.

A letter from an ardent Fighting Irish football fan was being circulated among the players on the plane ride up. The letter stated in no uncertain terms that, "Notre Dame would grind your shiny faces in the mud." This of course referred to the "third rate and second class" Carolina football team, and their coach, Jim Tatum. The letter was postmarked Tacoma, Washington, and was signed (what else) Patrick J. O'Reilly.

The Tar Heels set up headquarters in the Elkhart Hotel in Elkhart, Ind., some 30 miles from South Bend. Elkhart is in the Eastern Standard Time zone while South Bend is in the Central zone, and there was no little confusion as to what time it was, where. Trainer John Lacey, who handled

Tar Heels could score to make the count 14-7 at halftime.

The Tar Heels came back after intermission to tally the first time they gained possession, and the score was deadlocked, 14-14. Carolina penetrated to the Irish 13 late in the third quarter but an intercepted pass killed the drive.

Notre Dame's two first half touchdowns came as a direct result of a pair of long ball plays. The Irish got their first score from one yard out on a Hornung sneak after a long pass play from Hornung to Morse had put them on the Carolina 55.

Their second TD came after Lewis, a sprint star in the spring-

FROM RADIO DISPATCHES

WASHINGTON — Russia has exploded a large nuclear bomb, according to reports from sources in Moscow.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the nuclear test was a big one, comparable with former Soviet tests.

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union called for a summit conference on disarmament. It agreed it will discuss limited application of President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection proposal.

Russia also called for destruction of all H-bomb and A-bomb stockpiles in the next two years and an immediate ban on nuclear tests.

VIENNA — The Russian-sponsored Hungarian government has imposed harsh controls on food and electricity in an apparent effort to end a general strike by patriots. Electricity will be cut off four hours a day, and farm produce and meat will not be delivered to Budapest, said the government.

WASHINGTON — Attorneys representing Negroes who have been boycotting Montgomery, Ala., buses have asked the Supreme Court to speed up the effective date of its mandate ending state and local laws for bus segregation. The petition asked that the effective date be made immediately.

Late For Start Of Race, Dick MacFaddin Wins Dukathon In Rain

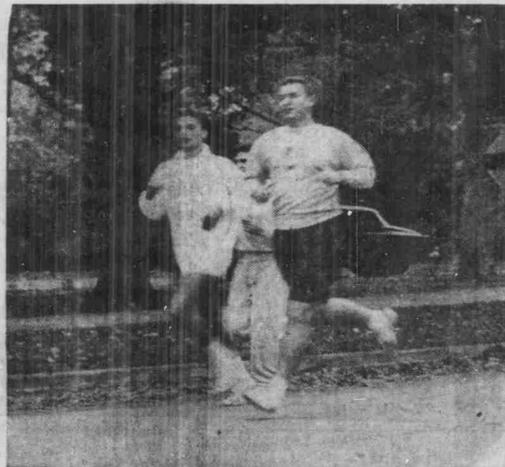

JUST BEFORE THE GUN
... it looks like fun

By CHARLIE SLOAN

Although he showed up late for the start of the race, Dick MacFadden, a junior from Viola, Del., probably set a record in winning the Dukathon yesterday.

The Dukathon is the annual trek from Chapel Hill to the Durham Post Office.

Although MacFadden's time of one hour 14 minutes, 29 and two-tenths seconds is greater than the hour and twelve minutes taken by Tony Houghton in 1954, MacFadden had to run 13.6 miles instead of the usual 11.4.

IN THE HOME STRETCH
... through rain and traffic

The mixup occurred when the police escort channeled the runners onto the old road to Durham with the explanation that the state would not let them take the new four-lane highway.

Previous arrangements with the state police had included taking the new road without any aid or interference by patrolmen between Chapel Hill and Durham.

In spite of the handicap of the longer and more hilly road, and a cold, fine drizzle most of the way, 27 runners stumbled up to the Durham post office by the time the race was two hours old.

A freshman, Tommy Saintsing, placed second and was followed by Don Richardson, a second year medical student.

Richardson gained and maintained an easy lead until the Durham city limits, where MacFadden overtook and passed him.

MacFadden, who represented Theta Chi social fraternity in the race, had a late start. He cut his finger in the gym, and by the time he got to the infirmary to have it dressed and returned to the starting place, the runners had left.

Upon being told the others were on their way he started at a steady pace and maintained a speed greater than the other runners for the rest of the race.

At the Durham Post Office the winner received a trophy and a kiss from the Dukathon Queen, Miss Marian Dickens. Miss Dickens is the first queen to be selected in connection with the annual race, sponsored by Delta Upsilon social fraternity. She was crowned before the race by Ernie Kemm, Dukathon chairman.

Riding back to Chapel Hill after the race, the runners were in high spirits. In at least one car the conversation concerned the race. MacFadden commented that the wet weather had not hindered him at all.

Someone suggested that the race ought to be run in both directions. Another runner made some remark about the round trip really separating the men from the boys, and Gary Nichols, who has run the race once before and placed fourth in this year's, commented that it seems foolish to run all the way to Durham just to ride back.
