University Party Sets Meeting For Tonight

The University Party will meet tonight in the Roland Parker Lounges of Graham Memorial at 7:30 p.m.

The main order of business will be the election of new party officers. According to Party Chairman Mike Weinman the race for new party chairman promises to be an exciting one, along with the races for the other party officerships. This

Concert Will Be Presented Here Tonight

A unique composition for orchestra and women's voices has been programmed by Earl Slocum, director of the UNC Symphony Orchestra, as a highlight of the orchestra's fall concert at 8 p.m. tonight, in Hill Music Hall. The concert is open to the public without charge.

Debussy's "Sirenes" from his Nocturnes will be presented. Twenty women's voices, picked from a group of outstanding singers from Chapel Hill and surrounding communities will be employed. Each singer has had separate instruction, although each has sung with the entire orchestra for the past three rehearsals only.

Following intermission, the orchestra will play Tchaikowsky's Fourth Symphony. The composer sketched his Symphony No. 4 in F Minor in 1874 and completed it in 1878. It is the first of his symphonic works to attain recognition and success for its composer outside his native country.

This concert is the fifth presentation of the Tuesday Evening Series of UNC's Department of Music.

Playmakers Will Present 'Esther Wake'

"Esther Wake", a melodrama of colonial North Carolina, set in New Bern and Hillsboro, will be performed by the Carolina Playmakers Drama Group, in Graham Memorial at 8 p.m. Wednesday, December 5.

The Playmakers have been commissioned to present a revival of the museum-piece by the North Carolina Society for the Preservation of Antiquities.

Adapted and directed by Mrs. Nancy Henderson of Chapel Hill, "Esther Wake" was written by Professor Adolphe Vermont, visiting professor in Education in 1911. It was staged on July 4 of that year on the portico of what is now the Playmakers Theatre.

The play is done in the romantic style of the period and includes two spirited fight scenes. According to Director Henderson, it is a strong example of early American drama.

Hungarian Clothing Drive Is In Process Throughout Week

The Hungarian Relief Clothing Drive under the sponsorship of the Chapel Hill Friends and the Community Church is now under way.

This appeal for special gifts of money and clothing has come from the World University Service in Geneva, Switzerland, to aid the students of Hungary.

According to Mrs. E. T. Chantlett of the Community Church, every type of clothing is urgently needed. Boxes will be placed in dorms, fraternities and sororities for clothing donations. Students have been urged to fill these boxes by Thursday. Clothing can also be turned in to the old Institute of Government Building through Saturday between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Donated clothing should be in wearable condition and already mended, officials said.

meeting will be in the nature of a victory gathering to celebrate the UP's victory in the past campus election, Weinman said.

The UP has a technical majority in the legislature, according to Weinman, and has many plans for the coming legislative session, he said.

Weinman urged all class officers and legislators to be present since plans for the coming year will be discussed. All party members also have been urged by Weinman to attend this important meeting.

No members will be allowed to vote for the new officers who have not paid their yearly dues. All representatives must have their dues in by Tuesday night.

Di Will Debate Bill On Enrollment Limitation

The Dialectic Senate will debate a bill tonight calling for a limitation of the UNC enrollment to a maximum of 5,000.

The bill includes a resolution that out of state students must be in the upper fourth of "all participants in the University entrance examinations before they be considered for admission."

The measure was scheduled for debate last week but a quorum of members was not present.

The Di has invited the public to attend the meeting to be held at 8 p.m. in Di Hall.

23 Students Will Attend UN Seminar

Twenty-three UNC students have signed up to attend the UN Seminar in New York Friday and Saturday, according to YMCA officials.

They stated that there is room left for two more students to attend.

Applicants have been asked to come by the Y before 3 p.m. today.

YMCA President Garry Mayo stated that the remaining spaces will be filled on a "first come, first served, basis."

Changes in seminar plans have been affected so that the seminar is now solely for Carolina students.

Cars will leave the UNC campus Thursday night for New York. The seminar will begin at 9 a.m. Friday and run through Saturday afternoon.

Phi Will Debate On US Forces In Hungary

The Philanthropic Literary Society will debate tonight a bill proposing the intervention of U. S. troops in Poland and Hungary.

The U. S. troops would attempt to destroy the existing governments in those countries. The bill suggests more aid of a non-military nature for the Hungarian refugees.

Mrs. F. D. R. At Duke

DURHAM, (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt charged here yesterday that "oil interests in the middle East" prevented the U. S. from taking vigorous action when Israeli ships were denied use of the Suez Canal in 1951.

In a speech to the Durham Chapter of the American Assn. for the United Nations, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "there would have been a clear case today in the UN if in 1951 the U. S. had protested then and there that all ships should go through."

"But," she said, "oil interests in the Middle East held the U. S. from action against Arab countries."

In a press conference before the speech, she contended that Israel's invasion of Egypt was "not at all the same" as the North Korean invasion of South Korea in 1950.

"I consider Israel acted with a great deal of justification," she said.

However, she added, "I can not say that of Britain and France."

Mrs. Roosevelt said, "Britain and France had special interests in the situation but they should not have been taken as an excuse for flaunting the United Nations."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she considered the UN stronger today than it was before the Middle East crisis and the uprising in Hungary.

In her talk to the Inter-racial meeting of the assn. for the UN on the campus of Duke University, she agreed that it was proper for the U. S. to "try its own diplomatic machinery" on world problems.

"But when no solution comes through this machinery," she said, "it would be better to take the case at once to the UN."

It'll Stay Cold Awhile

The cold weather experienced by Carolina students over the weekend will continue for the next several days.

The Weather Bureau at Raleigh-Durham airport reported yesterday there was a possibility of light flurries of snow mixed with rain, in this area about Thursday or Friday.

The weatherman explained a weak low pressure area formed

Several of the scenes from some of John Steinbeck's best works will be re-enacted by a professional cast here Saturday night. The cast, left to right, are Constance Bennett, Tod Andrews, Frank McHugh and Robert Strauss. Directed by Reginald Siverstein, the program will be sponsored by the Carolina Playmakers, UNC dramatic group.

English Test Set Tonight In Hanes Hall

A required English test will be given tonight in Hanes Hall from 7-9 p.m. for all sophomores who have not yet taken it.

This will be the last opportunity, according to Mrs. George Woodward, Testing Service psychometrist, for sophomores who failed to take the test when it was offered seven times during the past two weeks.

Mrs. Woodward stated sophomores must pay a $2 fee before they take the test, and all absentees from the test must get an excused absence from the Dean of General College.

No Award To Be Given This Year In Putnam Competition

No award will be made this year in the Putnam Prize competition open to Consolidated University of North Carolina students and alumni, Miss Jessie Rehder of the UNC English Dept. said Sunday.

Miss Rehder, the Putnam contact on campus, explained the decision was made on the basis of the contest rules, which stipulate no award will be given if none of the books submitted meet the standards of the publisher.

A number of "promising books" were sent on to New York, she reported, including a new novel by a young North Carolina author, Jackson Burgess. He was given a contract for his book, but was not given the full prize since his manuscript is still incomplete.

Miss Rehder announced although the contest will not be held this year, it may be resumed in the future.

"The University feels the contest has served admirably the purposes for which it was originally formulated, namely, to stimulate interest in writing among the students at the Consolidated University," she said.

Mrs. Doris Betts of Chapel Hill a former student at Woman's College and winner of the first Putnam Prize, now has a new novel with Putnam's Amos Paul of Rocky Mount, who was awarded a special prize, is at work on a manuscript.

At least two students on the campus at Chapel Hill are now in the process of finishing new novels, Miss Rehder added.

"When the opportunity arises," she said, "The University from time to time will utilize short-term contests to offer encouragement to students in the expanding writing program."

Late News FROM RADIO DISPATCHES

WASHINGTON—Four Baghdad powers maintained quiet but urgent contact with the United States on reports Russia was pouring arms into Syria. Of the four, only Iraq is an Arab state.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The United Nations General Assembly voted overwhelmingly to appropriate $10,000,000 for the UN peace force in Egypt. The lone dissenting vote came from Soviet Russia.

GREENWICH, CONN.—Band leader Tommy Dorsey was found dead in his home Monday, death being due to strangulation on food particles while sleeping. A Greenwich coroner ruled the famous musician's death to be accidental.

SP Will Elect Party Officers At Next Monday's Meeting

The Student Party last night set plans to elect party officials at next Monday's meeting.

Meeting last night in Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial, the party decided to hold nominations and election next week for the following party officers: chairman, vice chairman, secretary, treasurer, sergeant-at-arms and advisory board members.

Present party chairman Tom Lambeth commended the members for the work in the recent election. He said all candidates for election did good jobs of campaigning, whether they won or lost.

The SP increased its membership in the Student Legislature from 22 to 25 as the result of the Nov. 13 election and the Nov. 20 run-off balloting. The University Party also controls 25 seats in the assembly.

Lambeth gave special praises to Brandon Kincaid and Miss Judy Davis for their work in the campaign.

The meeting was brief, ending early so that party members could go to Durham to hear Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt speak on the Duke campus.

North Carolina moves in for Cornell, California for Tulane, Georgia for Cincinnati, and George Washington for Virginia. Being retained are William & Mary, Penn., Notre Dame, Duke and Army.

North Carolina is the most recent of the four 1957 newcomers to have played Navy. They met for the only previous time in 1946 when North Carolina won, 21-14, in Baltimore.

The Georgia game next year will be in the Oyster Bowl in Norfolk, Va.

Ministers Were Guests On Campus Yesterday

All ministers throughout North Carolina were invited to visit the UNC campus yesterday.

According to Ray Jefferies, asst. to the dean of student affairs, approximately 250 were present. The Ministers attended a buffet luncheon at the Morehead Planetarium and also a showing of the Planetarium show, "Star of Bethlehem."

Exum Issues Men's Honor Council Report

Chairman Jim Exum yesterday issued this report of action taken thus far this academic year by the Men's Honor Council.

Exum said such reports would be forthcoming bi-weekly for the duration of this year.

His report in full follows.

"Action of the Men's Honor Council so far this year has included the following cases:

"The defendant was charged with using some gasoline credit cards which he knew to be someone else's. He used the cards on a trip from Florida to New York in the summer of 1956.

"The defendant pled guilty to the charge. He was suspended from school with the recommendation that he not be allowed to return to the University until the fall semester, 1957.

"It was established in this case that the defendant was driving a stolen car, but he testified before the council that he was unaware that the car was stolen. The defendant testified that he had bought the car from a man in Durham and had paid cash at the time of purchase. This student is now awaiting civil action with regard to the stolen car.

"The council accepted the defendant's testimony with regard to the car. He was convicted and suspended on the charge of having used someone else's credit cards.

"In another case a student was charged with cheating on a pop quiz. He was informed by his instructor of the suspicions against him; whereupon he reported himself to a member of the council.

Navy Adds Carolina To Football Schedule

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy announced yesterday it is radically shaking up its 1957 football schedule, with North Carolina, California, Georgia and George Washington replacing four of this season's nine opponents.

North Carolina moves in for Cornell, California for Tulane, Georgia for Cincinnati, and George Washington for Virginia. Being retained are William & Mary, Penn., Notre Dame, Duke and Army.

North Carolina is the most recent of the four 1957 newcomers to have played Navy. They met for the only previous time in 1946 when North Carolina won, 21-14, in Baltimore.

Talent Tryouts Wed., Thurs.

Today is the last day to sign up for tryouts for Carolina's Calvacade of Talent show, according to H. G. Snipes, publicity chairman.

Anyone who can sing, dance, or play an instrument has been urged to sign up with either Dave Davis at the Phi Delt House or Eleanor Riggins at the YMCA office.

Tryouts will be held Wednesday and Thursday nights in Memorial Hall.

"The show will be presented Thursday, Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall with a cash prize going to the best judged performer," said Snipes.

The talent show will be sponsored by Graham Memorial Activities Board and the YW-YMCA.

"I'm very optimistic about nations 'getting together,'" Mrs. Roosevelt said. "Not tomorrow, but eventually, to achieve some sort of permanent peace."

The United Nations has a tremendous job to do toward this goal, she said, but cannot do it without the help of individuals. "Our individual responsibility" to the UN comes in participating in national policy formation, she said. It is national policy that the UN looks to for its policies, she explained.

Lots Staked For Fraternity Court

University engineers are in the process of staking off lots at the locations of the new social and professional fraternity court projects.

The new courts are situated off the Pittsboro Rd. in the wooded area between Victory Village and Chase Ave. The social court will be the larger of the two, consisting of 10 building sites, each being approximately one acre in size, while the professional court will encompass six sites of around one acre each. The two locations are separated by a ravine.

MEETING

A meeting concerning the project, which was held on Oct. 25, was attended by Claude Teague, UNC business manager, Sam Magill, director of student activities, J. S. Bennett, director of operations, J. A. Williams, University attorney and representatives of the various fraternities which have shown interest in moving to the new locations.

According to Teague the meeting was "engineered by Harold Twisdale" of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity which initiated the drive for the court. Teague stated the participants tried to arrive at a method of allocation of lots, length of time the leases could be held by the fraternities before actual building began and cost of the lots.

According to Magill, to whom the various fraternities must apply for a lot at the new site, lots will be allocated in order of the initiative shown by the fraternities, those in on the planning from the beginning probably having first choice. Allocation, however, would also be "determined by the size of the house to be built in relation to the suitability of the lot."

Twisdale stated, "Teague and all South Building authorities have been very cooperative and have shown a great deal of interest in the project."

Magill stated the cost of the project would approach $58,000. No definite decision has been made as to a method of raising the money but all fraternities will eventually share the costs of the development.

According to Magill it is undecided "as to whether the first

Mrs. Roosevelt Says UN Has Been Strengthened Recently

By FRED POWLEDGE

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Monday the United Nations has been "strengthened a great deal" in the past few weeks.

In a private meeting here, the wife of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt called for more personal understanding of and participation in the world organization.

Mrs. Roosevelt spoke in the Library Assembly Room yesterday afternoon to members of the Chapel Hill and Durham communities interested in the United Nations. She delivered a public speech last night at Duke University.

In her talk here, Mrs. Roosevelt spoke in a panel with Clark M. Eichelberger, director of the American Assn. for the United Nations. Dr. Shepard Jones of the UNC Political Science Dept. moderated the discussion.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she was grateful the United Nations had shown strength in considering two recent crises—the invasion of Egypt and the Hungarian revolt and later suppression by Russia.

Asked later if she were ever pessimistic about the United Nations, she replied: "Never about the United Nations—I get pessimistic about some individual nations." For examples of "individual nations" she offered U. S. failure to "take matters to the UN when it should have taken them there" and failure of some other nations to keep promises they have made to the international agency.

"I'm very optimistic about nations 'getting together,'" Mrs. Roosevelt said. "Not tomorrow, but eventually, to achieve some sort of permanent peace."

The United Nations has a tremendous job to do toward this goal, she said, but cannot do it without the help of individuals. "Our individual responsibility" to the UN comes in participating in national policy formation, she said. It is national policy that the UN looks to for its policies, she explained.
