Everett Hall Delivers Fall Humanities Lecture

The snake who tempted Eve in the Garden of Eden was really a philosopher, it was said here tonight by Kenan Professor Everett Hall, chairman of the UNC department of philosophy, delivering the fall humanities lecture.

Prof. Hall's subject was "What Is It a Philosopher Does?" He stated that although the philosopher questions many viewpoints of existence and good and evil, he is as humble as the snake who crawls upon his belly.

Explaining that the task of the philosopher is to analyze, criticize and evaluate outlooks on life, Dr. Hall reviewed diverse methods used by philosophers to perceive and delineate ethical problems.

"If you're in trouble, ostensibly with your mate but really with yourself," said Hall, "don't come to a philosopher for wisdom rather go to your psychiatrist for analysis."

Here is a part of Dr. Hall's "mythical dialogue between Eve and the snake."

"Just look at yourself," said the viper, "You're walking around in broad daylight right in front of Adam and me, too, without a stitch of clothing on you! Aren't you ashamed? Don't you see what a brazen hussy you are? That's evil!"

"Evil? evil? I should be ashamed? I don't understand," said Eve.

"Why you haven't got a stitch of clothing on either, nor have any of the animals—though some of them have more hair than we. But the evil? Tell me, what does it look like—is it the color of my skin, or is it darker? And what shape is it—round, oblong, triangular? Honestly, I'm trying awfully hard and I can't see anything I didn't see before. Maybe if I wore colored glasses? Or looked at myself at twilight (I look quite nice then?)"

"Pshaw," remarked the serpent, quite disgusted, though more with himself than with Eve. "I should have known it was hopeless in your present state. There's nothing for it but to take a bite of the fruit. See how attractive it is?"

Eve was both more inquiring and resentful. And as the one trait got the better of her the other grew until she reached a state bordering on blasphemy. She thought more and more about good and evil and her newly acquired knowledge of them. Then one day, agitated by internal debate with herself, she almost stepped on the serpent as he slithered through the grass desperately trying to get out of her way. This so startled her that she screamed at him in most unladylike fashion:

"You vicious varmint! You're the cause of all my troubles. And for what? A pseudo-knowledge, of something that's not in the world (See HALL, Page 3)

Orientation Organization Underway

The chairman and members of the Orientation Committee for fall, 1957, will be announced after Christmas vacation, according to Student Body President Bob Young.

Young said "In my opinion, this will be the most important appointment of the school year, for the work of the Orientation Committee and of the Orientation Chairman in particular determines the calibre and general philosophy of the entire student generation."

"The chairman of the Orientation Committee will have to make all of the basic plans, guide the work of the committee and prepare everyone for the best orientation week ever for the students next fall." He added, "It is imperative that we get the most interested and most qualified persons for these positions."

There will be 15 members of the Orientation Committee, ten men students and five women students. Anyone interested in these positions may pick up application blanks in the Student Government Offices.

Daily Tar Heel To Print Christmas Travel List

Students who haven't found a way home for Christmas or who have not yet found enough riders are invited to come by The Daily Tar Heel office and get their name on the list.

The DTH will run, free of charge, a list of students who need rides and those who need riders. The names will run beginning Saturday and continue until everyone listed has rides or riders.

Names can be turned in to the paper between 2 and 6 p.m. each day.

Checks For Vets Being Mailed

The veterans in school under the Korean GI Bill, can cheer up because they will probably not have to go on vacation without their government funds, according to the Veterans Administration.

In December, because many schools and colleges get out before the checks are usually received, the VA is making a special effort to mail the checks early. If the checks fail to reach here in time to be delivered before the vacation, they will be held at the post office until after the holidays are over, according to Col. Shepard.

The law requires GI allowances to be paid sometime after the end of each month of training completed. But before a payment can be authorized, the veteran and his school must submit a certification to VA, stating that he has been in training status all month. These reports, which are usually filled out the last of the month, may this time be filled out between December 17-19, said Shepard.

'No Substitute For Equality,' Dr. Elder Tells Duke Students

DURHAM — "There is no substitute for equality, because it will admit no gradations between races in terms of the respect that should be accorded human beings," Dr. Alfonso Elder, president of North Carolina College, told an audience at Duke University last night.

Describing "some of the characteristics of the modern Negro," Dr. Elder made a public address under the sponsorship of the Educational Affairs Committee of the Duke Student Union.

"The one characteristic difference between the factors which motivate Negroes and the factors which motivate other people in America is the Negro's desire for equality," the NCC president said.

"The desire grows stronger with each succeeding generation; it grows broader with each effort to achieve it; and its meaning deepens with each effort to understand it," he said.

In his efforts to achieve equality "The Negro operates simultaneously as an idealist and as a pragmatist," Dr. Elder said. "He has set his eyes on the attainment of the ideal; yet, he realizes that the means of attaining the ideal must be practical in the sense that they must work."

Preregistration in the other schools starts on or about Dec. 6, depending on the school. The details of preregistration in all schools has been published and posted on most bulletin boards around the campus. In all cases, the last day for preregistration is Dec. 18.

According to Director of Admissions, Roy Armstrong, approximately 5,000 students are expected to take advantage of preregistration. The other students will have to register along with the new students at the beginning of next semester. From 60 to 100 new students, including first semester freshmen and transfers are expected here next semester.

Yesterday's Run Off Election Concludes Voting Till Spring

By NEIL BASS

Yesterday's run-off election rounded out the slate of elected student government officials, until spring elections.

Balloting yesterday also concluded a solid month of campaigning and other processes connected with elections.

Winners in yesterday's run-off balloting for Women's Honor Council posts are: Misses Ann Morgan, Sara Van Weyle and Kit Whitehurst.

Winners in balloting for Men's Honor Council posts are: Freshman seat: Hugh Patterson over Dick Robinson. Sophomore seat: Gary Cooper over John Owens.

Thus the complete slate of representatives, elected to the judiciary branch this fall is: Men's Honor Council: junior seats, Paul Carr, Jack Jones and Don Evans; sophomore seats, Tucker Yates and Gary Cooper; freshman seat, Hugh Patterson. Women's Honor Council: Misses, Lucinda Holderness, Doris Peter, Sara Van Weyle and Kit Whitehurst. Student Council: junior seats, Mack Patton and Jay Walker; sophomore seat, Jim Long.

The 22nd student Legislature assembly, now that elections are completely terminated until the spring, is deadlocked — 25-25. The Student Party gained one seat from the University Party to bring about the membership, but failed to muster enough attendance at last week's first session to keep the UP from sweeping all Legislature offices.

In the class offices department, the University Party completely dominated with one exception, vice-presidency of the freshman class. It swept victoriously through all junior class offices. The most hotly-contested class office — presidency of the junior class — was captured by the UP's John Kerr over the SP's Whit Whitfield.

22 Legislature seats will be filled by the spring election, as well as campus-wide executive offices, sophomore and senior class officers and some judiciary posts.

Events leading up to the annual affair include the following: (1) Football player Ed Sutton was "assaulted" by "former girl friend" Miss Dickey Pickercell last Wednesday night, (2) Sutton was "found dead" in the arboretum Thursday night, (3) Miss Pickercell was "arrested" Saturday and charged with the "murder," and (4) Monday the grand jury returned a true bill of indictment in the case.

Chief counsel for the defense will be Charlie Shaw, assisted by Paul Holt, Robert Thomas, Dexter Warts and John Comer. J. J. Frassinetti is chief counsel for the prosecution, being assisted by Jerry Campbell, Duane Gilliam, George Miller and Hal Conely.

Chief witness for the prosecution will be Miss Jane Brock, who was with Sutton the night he was "assaulted" by Miss Pickercell. Sheriff is David Evans and court reporter is Lemuel Blades.

President Young said that several people expressed an interest in the position and were seriously considered for the post.

In a statement yesterday, Young said, in part: "During his work with the board he has been above partisan politics, has worked very hard and very capably with any job that was to be done. The position is a most controversial one and will require much tactfulness and fair-mindedness. I am sure that Ralph will handle the position very ably and will prepare the campus for the best election possible in the spring of 1957."

Playmakers Revive 1919 Melodrama Tonight In GM

By EDITH MacKINNON

"Esther Wake," a melodrama which stirred up a good bit of local interest when first presented in 1919, will be performed by the Playmakers tonight in Graham Memorial's main lounge at 8.

Written by the late Adolphe Vermont the play was first produced when its author was a visiting lecturer in French at UNC. Upon its first presentation in the presence of the North Carolina governor at Hillsboro in 1919, the play drew wide acclaim.

In 1921 the Spartanburg Herald reported that the governor "... was so impressed with the drama that he urged its immediate presentation in Raleigh. This was done, the Chamber of Commerce paying the expenses in order that no children however poor should miss the opportunity of seeing vividly portrayed the spirit of 1771."

A proclamation was issued by the mayor urging all citizens to come. The opera house at Raleigh holding 4,000 people was packed, 1,500 people being turned away.

Action of the play centers around the North Carolina Regulators and their struggles against autocratic tyranny in the pre-Revolutionary days of the state. The shortened version of "Esther Wake" has been adapted by Mrs. William Henderson, who also directs the play.

Heading the cast will be Rusty Rothrock playing Esther Wake and Joe Whittaker as Lord Byron. Both players were co-starred in the recent Playmaker production of "Anastasia."

Peter O'Sullivan will star as Edmund Fanning, Revolutionary villain, and Fred Burrell will be featured in the role of leader of the Regulators. Other members of the cast include Pat Liston, Dick Rothrock, Harold Williamson, Si Perkins, Don Seaton, James Heldman, Rev. Robert Insko, Boyd Barrier, James Armcoast, and James Potter.

The melodrama will be presented with minimum staging done by Al Gordon, and costumes by June Craft.

A second performance of "Esther Wake" is to be presented Dec.

6 in Raleigh at the Sir Walter Hotel. No admission will be charged for the performance.
