

House Raps ACC's Grants-In-Aid Program In Meeting

GREENSBORO, (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference tabled the toughly grants-in-aid to athletes question Friday in an executive session.

The executive session was called to discuss a point raised by the University of North Carolina.

North Carolina requested an interpretation by the conference on whether the length of time for an athlete to be ineligible may be determined by the commissioner.

Specifically, the case in question was that of Don Coker, former backfield star at Reidsville High School, now a freshman at North Carolina. Several months ago Coker was ruled ineligible for athletics at North Carolina by the ACC executive committee.

That ruling backed up an earlier decision by Commissioner

Weaver that Coker was ineligible for athletics at Chapel Hill because he received aid beyond that allowed by conference rules. Weaver said the aid took the form of a country club membership at Reidsville, which the commissioner said "was paid for by North Carolina alumni and friends."

Conference rules state simply that an athlete receiving illegal aid shall be declared ineligible for athletics at the institution involved.

HOUSE

On the matter of grants-in-aid, retiring Chancellor Robert House of the University of North Carolina, making what he called a farewell address, urged the conference to "get back to the consideration of the welfare of the boys concerned." He said the ACC has not "moved as a conference one inch" beyond the stage it had reached when it broke from the Southern Conference three years ago.

Speaking of what he called "the recruiting racket all over the United States," House said "we are getting into trouble and we stink. Not one of us has a reason to look down his nose at another one."

He urged the conference to "get back to the level of your group prestige," or throw its rules and regulations into the waste basket.

The conference television committee was supported by the group as a whole in its recommendations that the NCAA's plan for televising football next year, still to be announced, be endorsed by the A.F.C. The request of a television station to broadcast the final game of the conference basketball tournament March 9 in Raleigh was tabled in favor of further study.

CHAMPION

Beginning with next football season, the conference will send its champion to play in the Orange Bowl game at Miami. Up to now, the conference rule has called for "the most representative team," not necessarily the champion, to get the bowl bid. However, starting next season, all teams will play at least six conference games making the eventual first-place finisher a "representative champion." In the event of a tie, the football committee will decide the issue.

The financial report showed total income for the year ending Nov. 30 of more than $85,000. Over $56,000 was realized on the basketball tournament. Expenses were just under $70,000, leaving a net profit for the year of slightly more than $15,000.

Paul Green Says New Play Treats Present Problems

"Subject Timely Now," Author Says At Tea

Paul Green, Chapel Hill playwright, yesterday said that his latest symphonic outdoor drama, "Wilderness Road," deals with the same sort of problems as those now facing the American people, especially the South.

Green, speaking at the Bull's Head Bookshop tea, also said that the drama "tells the story of the struggle of idealism against the ever present forces of ignorance, prejudice and political narrowness of 100 years ago."

"And the subject is still timely," he added.

Green explained that the hero of the play is a young teacher by the "somewhat symbolic name of John Freeman," who founded a school in the mountains of Kentucky in the year 1858.

Freeman sets about teaching truth as he sees it—the truth of American democracy, of the New Testament and the Christian religion. But during the Civil War, tempers are heated and slavery soon involves him in trouble.

His neighbors burn down his school and beat him, but he will not raise his hand against them. He rebuilds his school and then Kentucky is overrun by the Southern forces. He finally picks up his gun and fights, leading his men against former friends and neighbors commanded by his own brother.

Freeman is killed and his neighbors are finally reconciled to his idealism and set about building a new school house.

After saying that the play deals with the same kind of problems facing the South today, Green declared that "if we continue to try to evade our responsibility in this time of crisis, then the more surely shall we—with our old purveying of outmoded ethics, outmoded science and a perverse

Christianity—rob ourselves and our children of the fullness of the future.

"But I am convinced North Carolina and the South will measure up to this challenge and, in the words of Aeschylus, help the right to prevail. There is hard work and patient work to be done. And we will do it. And if not we older ones—then the young people certainly. Their eyes are straining ahead."

CU Office To Move

President William C. Friday said yesterday the Consolidated University hopes to have its offices moved from South Building to the old Institute of Government building by the latter part of April or the first of May.

President Friday said the old Institute of Government building would be renovated between now and the first of May if present plans work out.

He said sketches had been turned in to an artist. Drawings will be made from these to use in obtaining bids for the remodeling. Only the interior of the building will be remodeled.

President Friday gave three reasons for the planned move.

1. The Consolidated University offices need more space and this building will provide that.
2. He feels that the Consolidated University offices should be off the main campus at Chapel Hill.
3. The move will give Chancellor House an his staff more space in south Building.

Consolidated University officers who will be included in the move are: William C. Friday, president; William M. Whyburn, vice president and provost; William D. Carmichael, Jr., vice president and finance officer; and A. H. Shepard, business officer and treasurer. Secretarial staffs will also be included in the move.

Lambda Chi's Tangle Today In Bowl Game

Carolina football may be over for 1956 but the Tar Heels will have a second chance to beat neighboring Duke today in Durham.

UNC's Gamma Nu gridders go to Duke Stadium today to take on the Blue Devils of Gamma Theta in the fourth annual Lambda Chi Alpha Bowl game at 2 p.m. The contest has been rated as a tossup.

Both clubs have gone at full speed this week in preparation for the fraternity-sponsored affair.

The Tar Heels, boasting a line 190 lbs. per man and a bevy of swift backs, will open the game with the following probable starting lineup:

John Wilbur and Corbett Stewart, ends; Dave Berryhill and Jim Johnson, tackles; Tillar Lytle and George Kak Kaloyannides, guards and George Maydonis, center.

In the backfield will be Kim Bal-lu, quarterback; Don Koontz and Johnny Wooten, halfbacks and Earls Tolins, fullback.

Two varsity stars from both schools are expected to officiate. Loser of the game will treat the victor to a party tonight.

Last year's contest ended in a 6-6 tie.

LEGISLATIVE ROUNDUP

Young's Talk Well Received By Legislators

Legislators received President Bob Young's State of the Campus Address enthusiastically Thursday night.

A standing ovation was accorded the president after his talk.

Other items on the legislative agenda included three finance bills which were passed with little opposition.

The only measure which aroused much haggling from lawmakers was a bill appropriating $1,000 to University Glee Club.

Band President Don Nance presented the glee club's plea effectively and handled lawmaker's questions handily.

Thus he received his $1,000 which the group will use to defray travel expenses.

APPROVAL

Legislators also approved appointment of Ralph Cummings, a freshman, to chairmanship of the Elections Board.

A resolution shifting responsibility for maintenance of dormitory television sets from individual dormitories to the office of the director of operations was approved unanimously.

A similar resolution was also passed unanimously by the Inter-dormitory Council.

ABSENCES

Legislators absent from the session were:

- Student Party, (2) Dick Gustafson, Andy Milnor.
- University Party, (4) Bill Redding, Van Woltz, Miss Kitty Corr, Philip Malone.

In line with absences, Chairman Bill Baum of the Legislature Rules Committee said:

"My committee will enforce attendance regulations to the fullest extent."

The body will not convene again until the second week in January, in accordance with a by-laws-stipulation which provides that legislative sessions do not meet on weeks directly preceding and following holidays.

Profs Get Choice On Upperclassmen

The Faculty Council yesterday killed the old class attendance regulation allowing only three cuts per class.

In its place, the council approved a regulation which:

- (1) Effects no change in attendance for freshmen and sophomores.
- (2) Allows juniors' and seniors' cuts to be regulated by individual instructors.

Grail Dance Begins At 8 In Woollen

The Order of the Grail's dance honoring the women of Meredith College will begin today at 8 p.m.

Approximately 200 women are scheduled to arrive by bus from Meredith at Woollen Gymnasium, site of the dance, between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, according to Luther Hodges, Grail delegate.

The entire campus is invited to attend the function, Hodges said.

Students may come stag or with dates, he emphasized.

Admission for the dance is $1 per couple. It will be informal with coats and ties requested, Hodges said.

Music will be provided by the 15-piece Duke Ambassadors.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:

- Misses Janie Proctor, and Jane Chambliss.
- Harrington Alexander, Malcolm McLean, Lewis Cody, Francis Dobrowski, Ronald Koes, and Robert Morrison.

Understanding of the new regulation is that juniors and seniors may have unlimited unexcused absences so long as they maintain a "C" average.

On the other hand, since control of cuts is entirely in the hands of each respective instructor, instructors might allow a student no cuts if his work was unsatisfactory, according to Chairman J. L. Godfrey.

OPERATION

The new regulation will be put into operation at the beginning of the spring semester, in February, Godfrey said.

The regulation was proposed by the Faculty Council's Committee on Student Class Attendance, Dr. Hugh Holman, chairman.

The report in its entirety will be released next Wednesday, Council Secretary Dr. A. C. Howell said.

The new attendance rule was not available yesterday, Dr. Howell said, because certain "modifications" made to the original report on the floor had not been incorporated into it yet.

A presidentially-appointed student government committee met with Dr. Holman's committee while it deliberated, and suggested the class attendance regulation, in effect prior to the spring of 1955, be reinstated.

This regulation allowed all students' cuts to be regulated by individual instructors. Descriptive term for the regulation was "unlimited cuts."

The committee's suggestion was incorporated in the new regulation for juniors and seniors with "C" averages, but not for freshmen and sophomores.

The Faculty Council is composed of approximately 70 members, including 33 ex-officio members and some 40-odd elected members from the various University departments.

Pi Delta Phi To Sing Carols

Phi Delta Phi, the honorary French fraternity on campus, will present a program of group singing of French Christmas carols, guest singers, and speakers on French Christmas at its meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

The public has been cordially invited to attend and join in singing the French carols. A social hour will follow the program at which time refreshments will be served.

American College Of Physicians Meet Here

Dr. J. W. R. Norton, state health officer of Raleigh, was among the many physicians who presented papers before the regional meeting of the American College of Physicians held at the University of North Carolina.

The title of Dr. Norton's paper was "Poliomyelitis Control in North Carolina." It was jointly prepared by Dr. Norton and Drs. Fred T. Ford and J. H. Tuthill, both of the North Carolina State Board of Health.

Dr. Norton told the physicians, "The State Board of Health is most appreciative of the support and personal assistance given the state and local health departments by the members of the Medical Society of the State of North Carolina in the promotion of the state wide poliomyelitis vaccination program."

Alpha Gamma Pledge's Presented In Snowy Winter Wonderland

By MARY ALYS VOORHEES

Winter arrived in all its beauty Friday evening when the Alpha Gams transformed the Carolina Inn Ballroom into a snowy wonderland for their annual pledge dance.

Snow-covered greenery, accented by glittering snowflakes suspended from the four chandeliers, a massive Christmas tree in the center of one wall and white paper studded with silver snowflakes covering the banisters, set the tempo of the dinner-dance.

At the candlelight banquet individual tables for six were centered with two red candles garlanded with snowy greenery and Christmas balls. To mark the pledges places were presents from their sorority sisters—Alpha Gam charm necklaces.

Afterwards came the highlight of the evening—the presentation of the fall pledges and their dates who formed a figure representing a high snowflake.

First to be introduced was Pledge Class President Phyllis Kraft with Paul Carr. The other pledge officers, Vice President Ann Ingram with Corbett Stewart, Secretary Ruth Neisler with John Shepard and Treasurer Andrea Stalvey with Dick McCallister were presented next, followed by the remainder of the pledges and their dates.

Master of ceremonies Ray Jeffries introduced each pledge and her date, after which they formed a large snowflake in the center of the floor with the pledge class president in the center holding white satin streamers leading to each couple.

Immediately after the formation the pledges, dressed in white gowns and carrying bouquets of red roses, kneeled while the Alpha Gam sisters sang "Reverie" to them.

The evening was concluded with dancing to the music of Bill Langley and his Star Dreamers.

This afternoon will find the Alpha Gams out at the Ranch House where their dates will entertain them at a champagne party, and as a climax to their pledge week end is a party tonight at Johnny's Supper Club in Raleigh.

THEATER PARTIES claimed a good number of UNC students Thursday evening.

Mantovani was in town with his "new music," and what better reason could one find for a party?

With the concert in mind the St. A's rolled out the welcome mat and had their dates over for dinner, afterward heading over to Memorial Hall to hear the music of Mantovani.

The ZBT's were playing host to the AEPi sorority from Duke, so after dinner they, too, were off for the concert.

Also, the Lambda Chis had their dates over to the house for a steak dinner, after which they included themselves in the overflow crowd to see and hear the popular musician.

PARTY, PARTY seems to be the theme this week for most Greek letter houses, regardless of the type of party.

As the Christmas season is just around the corner the Phi Gams and Chi O's entertained at the Phi Gam house Thursday for 50 little

Rain Tomorrow Will End Balmly Spring Weather

Showers tomorrow will bring to an end the week of sunny summer weather that Carolina ladies, gentlemen and dogs have been enjoying.

The weather man at Raleigh-Durham Airport reports that yesterday's high of 78 is the warmest the area has been on that date since 1951. Exactly how long the mild weather will last is still cloudy. The weather man described the condition as not being a "clear-cut situation."

He described the extended spell of sunny weather as being due to a "rather stubborn high pressure system over the Southeast." This system is stronger than any of those blowing in from the Northwest and has prevented them from entering the area. These frustrated systems are partially responsible for the cold weather which the rest of the country is having.

Last night's low of 54 will give way to another balmy day, partly cloudy and warm with a high in the low 70's.

Family Adoption Total Is Only 180 So Far

A small total of 180 families out of the 600 needy families that applied for aid have been adopted so far through the Empty Stockings Fund, according to Mrs. John Crittenden, chairman of the drive.

The annual Empty Stockings Fund, which is sponsored by the Junior Service League, consists of an individual, group or organization adopting a needy family that has applied to the league for Christmas help.

Those who are interested in adopting a family should either call Mrs. John Crittenden, 8-0275, or get in contact with the Junior Service League not later than Thursday, December 12.

Upon application, the adopter is given the names, ages, sizes, special needs and address of the family adopted. The adopter then brings a gift box to the old Institute of Government building on Monday through Saturday between 1 and 5 p.m.

A box usually consists of toys for any children that may be in the family a gift for the husband and wife, and food such as fruit, flour or sugar.

Business Fraternity Initiates 14 Members

The Alpha Lambda Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, international professional business fraternity, in ceremonies held Thursday night initiated 14 new members into the fraternity.

The new brothers are: Bob Barber, Erwin Herman Bunch, High Point; Mac Carter, Madison; Norman Coggins, Kannapolis; Roger Eller, Purllear; Jim Glass, Mt. Airy; Fred Isenhower, Conover; Joe Kaminski, Nureo, Calif.; Bill Mathews, Rockwell; Jim Shreve, Mayodan; Lloyd Smith, Shelby; Dave Stanton, Lumberton; Perry Turner, Hickory; and David Veasy, Durham.
