

Carolina Cavalcade Of Talent Show Will Be Thursday

Pictured above are several of the acts which will be vying for top honors in the Carolina Cavalcade of Talent, to be held in Memorial Hall Thursday at 8 p.m. The campus-wide talent contest is jointly sponsored by the Graham Memorial Activities Board and

piano as a prop and for unusual music. Herb Shellings, UNC graduate, is pictured second from right. Shellings will sing folk ballads and will accompany himself on guitar. Bruno's Combo (far right) is shown rehearsing for the show as Les Sutorius hits a high note on trumpet. Joe Alexander is the drummer, and Bruno Raso is playing the accordion. The fourth member of the combo, bass player Wally Kuralt, is not pictured.

Sixteen Acts Will Compete For Top Prizes; Musicians Expected To Bring Large Crowd

The Carolina Cavalcade of Talent, sponsored jointly by the YM-YWCA and Graham Memorial Activities Board, will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday in Memorial Hall.

Highlights of the show, according to program officials, will be a battle of the drums and a "musical group" composed of Lenzie Rosenbluth, Joe Quigg, Pete Brennan and Bob Cunningham, all UNC varsity basketball players.

A total of 16 acts will be competing for three cash prizes: a $25 first prize award, a $15 second prize, and a $10 prize to the act placing third.

The show is being presented in an effort to establish more of a feeling of community on this large campus," said Miss Eleanor Riggins of the YWCA, "and to gather the whole student body for the program they will all enjoy before going home for the holidays."

THE ACTS

The following acts have been chosen to perform in the show: Ed Crow and the DKE combo; Miss Gay Anne Tanner; Miss Carol Jean Suther, singer; Ronald Yuen, harmonica; Hoke Simpson, calypso singer; The Co-Heads, girls' quartet; Five Dimensions, combo; Oliver Bloomer, ventriloquist.

Miss Barbara Prago, singer; Jerry Farber, comedy-piano act; Nick Kerns, piano; Bruno's Combo; Herb Shellings, folk singer; and Jim Beatty, singer.

Dave Davis and Dottie Wood will serve as master and mistress of ceremonies.

Ed Crow and Norman Gillis designed and constructed sets for the show.

The Y Night Chorus will also put in an appearance at the show. The group is directed by Miss Val von Ammon, and students interested in singing have been invited to attend the third rehearsal of the chorus Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

The chorus numbers 30 present. Miss Von Ammon and Buddy Strickland are co-ordinators of the singers.

Tickets for the talent show can be obtained in the Y office, or from Miss Nellie Sanders at the Pi Beta Phi house, Miss Daryl Farrington in Alderman, or from Jim Raugh at the DKE house.

The price of tickets is 50 cents, half of which will go to the Y and half to GMAB.
