

N. C. State Assistants Guilty In Recruiting Moreland

RALEIGH—The assistant Director of Athletics at N. C. State and an assistant basketball coach violated Atlantic Coast Conference regulations in recruiting Jackie Moreland, according to a telegram released Wednesday by Chancellor Carey H. Bostian.

Dr. Bostian released the telegram, which was received last Saturday from ACC Commissioner James H. Weaver, following an afternoon conference with Consolidated University President William Friday.

The telegram specifically named Assistant Athletic Director Willis Casey and assistant basketball coach Victor Bubas as having knowledge of and participating in the alleged violations.

The NCAA placed State on probation for four years for its method of recruiting Moreland. State officials denied the charges and asked the ACC to make its own independent investigation.

Last Saturday ACC Commissioner Weaver met with Bostian to go over a preliminary investigation report. President Friday was out of the State.

The telegram released today said: "The Atlantic Coast Conference decided to interview Victor Bubas, Willis Casey, Harry Steward (head of the fund raising Wolfpack Club) and Jack Moreland. This was done by faculty representatives on Thursday evening, Dec. 6, 1956. Based upon this interview the faculty representatives reached the following conclusions:

"1—Moreland was given $80 for transportation from his home to Raleigh.
"2—These funds were given to him in the presence of and with the knowledge of Bubas and Casey.

"3—It was stated that this money was actually given by Mr. Laughlin, an uncle of Mrs. Casey (no further identification).
"4—After Moreland arrived in Raleigh, he was assured at least by Bubas that he would be given a fifth year of financial aid at N. C. State if this became necessary.
"From the foregoing, the faculty representatives have concluded that excessive financial aid was given to Moreland in violation of ACC regulations.

Di Senate Calls For Pearsall Plan Repeal

In an almost unanimous decision, 11-1, the Dialectic Senate voted Tuesday night to repeal the Pearsall Plan.

In introducing the bill, Conditional Senator Betty Huffman claimed the present situation is impossible and would result in chaos for the North Carolina public school system.

"Although the state supports the schools, no one is forced to go to them," argued negative speaker, Senator Gene Whitehead. He went on to say that segregation was desired by the people of North Carolina.

Senator David Lambeth said the state could not defend its allocating money to private schools and the Pearsall Plan has destroyed much of the work of civic committees.

Senator Stan Shaw stated no one is able to look at the situation objectively and that with proper education the Negroes could develop some traits they are lacking. Later in the evening he exhorted the Senate "to keep our children from the dirt of integration." In this second speech he said, "We must keep true to the principles of our ancestors."

Got 60 Per Cent Of Campus Chest

World University Service Sends Letter To University Students

After receiving 60% of the recent Campus Chest Drive, World University Service sent the following letter to the students of the University of North Carolina.

"We are writing to advise you that as funds are received, they are being cabled to Europe, where a WUS field representative is working among Hungarian student escapees.

GIFTS PROVIDE RELIEF

"Gifts channeled through WUS are being used to provide immediate relief, including maintenance, transportation, clothing, miscellaneous effects, books, instruction materials, and personnel; to establish and operate for three months a special camp for student refugees, who must be housed until they are resettled; to provide basic maintenance when the current one-month feeding program of the Red Cross is terminated, and to meet such long-term needs as resettlement and scholarship aid.

"It is still hoped that a way may be found to assure the distribution of relief safely and in accordance with WUS principles to university students remaining in Hungary. At the time of writing, however, such channels do not appear to be assured.

COORDINATING COMMITTEE

"WUS is one of three organizations participating in an international co-ordinating committee set up in Vienna on Nov. 16 by

"We shall keep you informed of subsequent developments. Meanwhile, you have our deep appreciation for the sympathy and concrete support you have given to these brave and deserving students."

Columbia St. Fraternities Display Progress Toward Parking Solution

At least three fraternities affected by the Columbia St. parking restriction, investigation revealed yesterday.

The Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen at its Nov. 15 meeting voted to lift the two-hour parking limitation for 60 days—from Jan. 3 to Mar. 3—if the seven fraternities involved submitted a feasible solution to their parking problem by Jan. 3.

The 60-day ban lift would be to allow fraternities involved time to implement solutions at which they might arrive.

The local aldermen imposed the two-hour parking restriction on Columbia St. between Franklin St. and Cameron Avenue during the summer.

PROGRESS

Report of progress made by each of the seven fraternities involved is as follows:
Delta Kappa Epsilon has constructed a parking lot directly behind its house which will accommodate approximately 40 cars, according to President Larry Bell.

Beta Theta Pi fraternity has made minor modifications to vacant property beside its house, facilitating additional parking for its members, according to Spokesman Larrie Brandner.

Brandner said the lot was "just big enough" to park cars belonging to Betas, and that no other fraternities had requested permission to use it. "We won't give up our land," he said, "partly because some action to alleviate their parking problem, investigation revealed yesterday.

Sigma Nu has taken "planning action," according to a fraternity spokesman.

Pi Lambda Phi was scheduled to take action on the problem at last night's meeting, according to fraternity President Dick Sirkin.

CHALK MARKS

"For the time being, we'll just run off chalk marks," Sirkin said. Sirkin was referring to chalk marks placed on tires by local policemen to check duration of parking.

Sigma Chi has taken no action at all, Hosea Wilson, vice president, said.

"Our impression is that the matter is to be worked through the interfraternity council," Wilson said.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is "considering, but has done nothing definite," according to house Manager Stuart Dawson.

Pi Kappa Alpha is still "studying the situation," according to fraternity Spokesman Harry Braxton.

Fire Put Out In Frat House

Chapel Hill firemen were called to the Phi Kappa Phi fraternity house at 11:45 a.m. yesterday to extinguish a grease fire. The fire, on a gas stove, was put out before any damage was done.

The house, at 206 W. Carnegie Ave., reportedly had no fire extinguisher, but borrowed one from next door to stop the blaze before the fire truck arrived.

Secession From Union Is Within Law -- Phi

The Philanthropic Literary Society Tuesday night recognized by a vote of 10-3 the constitutionality of secession, a bill debated as though it were Dec. 11, 1856.

In an eloquent speech with the use of Biblical references, Senator Jim Monteth said: "There is nothing sacred about this Union of States. He said it was impossible to force unity among diverse elements when at the present time (1856) no union exists. He said 'We will win because we believe in what we are and ever shall be. The framing fathers had no intention of forming an indissoluble union.'"

Representative John Brooks said it was not possible to run from the problem by turning to secession. "If the Union will not work, we should secede," he said. He concluded: "The issue should resolve what each individual wants to do."

Claiming that the interest of the agrarian South and the industrial North were different, Representative Hill Johnston looked to secession for a solution of the problem.

Representative James Duval said the question of the evening was only that of the constitutionality of the secession and there is nothing in the Constitution supporting it. He said the Constitution could not be broken except by ratifying another one.

Representative Lawrence Matthews said he did not think the question should revolve entirely around the constitutionality of secession. "If the Union will not work, we should secede," he said. He concluded: "The issue should resolve what each individual wants to do."
