Lanier Announces Winners Of Braswell Scholarships

The 1956-57 Braswell Scholarships have been awarded to four UNC freshmen: Robert Glenn Lewis of Morehead City; Robert Daniel Fulghum, Fayetteville; Anthony G. Turner of Rocky Mount; and Chester Winfield Taylor of Castle Hayne.

This year's winners, selected from more than 100 freshmen applications for regular student aid, were announced recently by Edwin S. Lanier, director of student aid.

Four awards are made annually to freshmen who demonstrate fine character, high scholarship, all-round development, and financial need. Each received $200 for a one-year term, supplementing any other aid he may already have.

The awards are made possible by a trust fund which was established in 1938 in memory of Dr. Mark R. Braswell of Rocky Mount, a member of the UNC class of 1888.

Fulghum, a graduate of Fayetteville Senior High School, ranked in the upper quarter of his senior class and won a $150 scholarship from UNC. During his high school days he was president of his senior class and of the school's National Honor Society and participated in the band, intramural sports and journalism.

Lewis was valedictorian of his class at Morehead City High School, where he took part in dramatics, journalism, and Hi-Y activities. He holds a $250 University scholarship.

Winner of a $300 UNC scholarship and also a self-help student, Taylor is a graduate of New Hanover High School, ranking in the upper 10 per cent of his class. He was a delegate to Boys' State and active in dramatics, church work and various clubs.

Turner also ranked in the upper 10 per cent of his class at Rocky Mount Senior High School and won a $150 scholarship to the University. He participated in high school publications, student government and the scholastic society.

All four boys made two or more "excellences" on their midterm reports for their first semester at the University.

Party Circuit Continues With Last Minute Flings

By MARY ALYS VOORHEES

Have you had your pre-vacation fling?

Probably only a very few Tar Heels can answer that question negatively from the list of parties accumulated for the past two days.

First, a look at Monday's diary. Over at the Phi Kap House the Phi Kaps and the ADPis were having a turkey dinner, followed by a Christmas party.

After meeting at the KD House, the KDs and St. A's took a tour of the Hill, serenading the various professors and their families, ending up the evening with refreshments at the St. A. House.

At the Lambda Chi House brothers and pledges had a stag party, exchanging prank presents.

Entertaining with the KD's from Duke, the Kappa Sigs feted several underprivileged children.

Another Yule party was the one the TEP's had at their house after the basketball game for brothers and pledges.

Tuesday dawned with more parties.

Yesterday afternoon the ADPis and the Phi Delts had an orphan party at the ADPI House for the children from an Oxford Orphanage.

Likewise did the Chi Piss and their dates. They feted several children from Wright Orphanage, after which the group went caroling. Then to end the evening, brothers and pledges gathered for a stag party at which they exchanged prank presents.

Tuesday night, the Sigma Nu's and Pi Piss gave a Christmas party. (See HAPPENINGS, Page 3)

SP Makes Five New Selections

The Student Party passed a resolution Monday night "that everybody have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." A motion wishing simply a Merry Christmas was defeated and the motion including a Happy New Year followed immediately.

Chairman Jim Holmes made several appointments before the party.

Miss Judy Davis was appointed file clerk; Bob Carter, Finance Committee chairman; Bob Jones, Public Relation, Committee chairman; Don Furtado, Membership Committee chairman and Gary Greer, Program Committee Chairman.

Joel Flesherman was chairman of the social committee which planned the Christmas party.

The North Carolina Employees Assn. wished Season's Greetings to University people via the Christmas tree pictured above in Y-Court. The tree came as a donation from the property of F. J. LeClair, Buildings Dept. landscape gardener. Employees of the Buildings Dept. put the tree up on their own time.

N.C. State To Renew Request For Probe

BVP Prexy Is Accused As Illegal

Under the heading "Dorm Pres. Illegal—Rumors of Impeachment," the Battle-Vance-Pettigrew Times yesterday accused dorm president Neil Bass of having done "nothing to prove or even to show minutely the faith that the men of BVP have (or had) in him whom they elected him to be the President."

The paper, edited by Cort Edwards, also said: "Last spring elections Mr. Bass ran for president again," (he had already served one term.) "On voting day, there was no ballot box so the president of the dorm (Bass) took a pad and pencil and one afternoon visited each room in the three dorms and said who do you want for pres.—me or somebody else."

"If no one was in the room," the article continued, "that was just too bad because the vote poller didn't return."

"I understand that he only recorded the vote of 6 men in Vance. That's all that were in. 6 out of 32 men."

"Even if this procedure is highly illegal, . . . as President, Neil Bass has done absolutely nothing."

"I have heard words around the dorm that were speaking of impeachment. I hope that it doesn't come to this. But I also hope that Mr. Bass will get 'on the stick' and do at least the job that he was supposed to have been elected for."

"I have seen 2 dorm meetings, no dorm parties, and no dorm entries in anything. . . ." the article concluded.

College Will Appeal Conference Penalties

Raleigh—(AP)—The next act in the Jackie Moreland drama unfolds in Greensboro on Saturday when North Carolina State College will appeal penalties imposed by the Atlantic Coast Conference and renew its request for a conference probe of the affair.

Chancellor Carey H. Bostian said he was notified yesterday that ACC faculty chairmen would hear the college at noon Saturday. The group will meet in the office of ACC Commissioner James H. Weaver.

The NCAA has placed State College on probation for four years, the stiffest penalty it has ever invoked, for alleged violations in recruiting Moreland. In addition, Weaver has levied a $5,000 fine against the college and ordered curtailment of recruiting by the basketball coaching staff for one year.

Moreland, a Minden, La., high school basketball star, enrolled at State College after signing a letter of intent with Texas A & M and a grant-in-aid with Kentucky.

Dr. Bostian said he would be accompanied to the Greensboro meeting by President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. The parent administration for State College. Whether others will be in the party has not been decided, the Chancellor said.

College officials and the Athletic staff have insisted that no NCAA or ACC regulations were violated in the recruitment of Moreland. Dr. Bostian has stated confidence that a full investigation by the conference would result in explanation of the charges.

ACC faculty chairmen previously looked into certain of the charges levied by the NCAA. But did not investigate all the charges. On the basis of the partial probe, the ACC group informed State College it had concluded that recruiting regulations were violated.

Asst. Athletic Director Willis Casey and Asst. Basketball Coach Vic Bubas, State College staff members named it the ACC report, issued statements denying the charges. They received the support of college officials who announced that until further evidence was produced, Casey and Bubas would remain in "perfectly good standing."

A white christmas is not in view for North Carolina as far as weather bureau officials predict, for they stated that their predictions were subject to change after two days.

Cold, Showers Are Predicted For Holidays

The weather promises to be the bane of many travelers winging or riding their way home for the Christmas holidays.

The balmy, warm weather which prevailed over Chapel Hill during most of last week was dispelled abruptly by a descending northwestern cold front. Bringing showers and wet cold, the boggy weather promises to be in force for the next few days over North and South Carolina and most of Virginia.

Weather bureau officials at the Raleigh-Durham airport predict that with the expected drop in temperature, the occasional showers will continue for the next few days.

In the northern part of the country extremely cold weather is expected to move in with the cold front, spreading into New England. In the North Carolina mountains the temperature is expected to drop to freezing.

For the next two days, the temperature will range from 35 to 40 in the main portions of North Carolina.

A white christmas is not in view for North Carolina as far as weather bureau officials predict, for they stated that their predictions were subject to change after two days.

Carolina Students Will Observe Holidays With En Masse Exodus

Christmas holidays arrive at Carolina today with the students observing them with an en masse departure from the campus for home.

The Carolina campus will be virtually deserted by Thursday. The mass exodus of students leaving UNC, beginning today and lasting until tomorrow, will leave the campus quiet, the walks silent and empty.

For most people (roughly everybody), the two week respite will come as an opportune relief, from studies, lack of sleep, and as a change of scene.

Suitcases And Christmas Plums

The time to pack a suitcase is a task now cherished by many students leaving for home for the Christmas holidays. What thoughts go on in the mind of Norman Kantor (above) as he packs his bag is not known, but they are probably thoughts dealing with more than sugarplums.

With last minute quizzes disposed of and book reports written, bags will be packed, crammed with clothes and Christmas gifts, and Yuletide farewells will be the last sounds heard on the campus.

Students will be heading for home to places as near as Graham or as far as Albuquerque, N. M. and Ontario, Canada—or even as far away as Formosa, as was the case with one foreign student who almost went home.

Kenneth Chi-Kun Yang entered his name and hometown—Taipei, Formosa—in the Daily Tar Heel's Riders-home service to have a good laugh on himself. The joke backfired when Kenneth got offers for two rides. He soon after lifted his name from the service and decided to stay on the campus.

Bus travel, airplane and train travel will all be choked with students going home, both from the Carolina campus and from students from adjoining colleges.

All facilities on campus will either be closed or will operate on staggered schedules. Graham Memorial will be closed until Jan. 2 and the library will be open during special hours throughout the holidays.

news in brief

FROM RADIO DISPATCHES

WASHINGTON—The United States has offered to neutralize vast areas of Central Europe to guarantee security for Soviet Russia along her borders. The offer depends on an agreement by Russia of the complete unification of Germany.

Secretary of State Dulles said if the unification of Germany should arise and the Russian satellites were to become independent the United States might consider a whole new American policy. He said the US might even consider pulling its troops out of Europe.

Dulles said a visit to the United States by the independent communist, Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia, would be beneficial. Others said such a visit would be of a national interest.

The US, however, will maintain its powers of retaliation against Soviet power all around the world. From the Pentagon came word that the Air Force issued an impressive warning to Russia in the form of a gigantic flight operation of more than 1000 atomic jet bombers. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan Twining said each bomber—on practice runs—flew an average of more than 8000 miles on a realistic nonstop combat training mission.

At the White House India's Prime Minister Nehru said he and President Eisenhower discussed many problems which confront the world. He said he had profited greatly and hinted the President may go to India soon.
