Adams Wants Di On Student Level

"I'd like to bring the Di down more to the student level," newly elected Dialectic Senate President John Patrick Adams said yesterday.

Adams, a junior self-help student from Asheboro, succeeds Stan Shaw of Asheville.

"I realize that tradition is great but new innovations and liberalizations must be made to provide future leadership for the campus," Adams said.

Other new officers elected Tuesday night are:

Miss Nancy Rothschild, president pro-tempore; Gerry Boudreau, critic; Malcolm Partin, clerk; Irvin Avery, sergeant-at-arms; Gary Greer, representative to Carolina Forum; Stan Shaw, chaplain. Gene Whitehead will continue as treasurer.

President Adams served as president pro-tempore last semester. He is currently a member of Phi Alpha Beta, honorary history fraternity.

The Di will meet again the first Tuesday in Feb. at eight o'clock p.m. in New West.

Topic for discussion will be "The Eisenhower Doctrine in the Middle East."

Former President Shaw said the Di would launch its library assistance drive immediately after exams.

President Adams's inauguration will be held immediately after exams, he said. Tentative speaker for the occasion is Consolidated University President William Friday.

Khushchev Lauds Stalin

MOSCOW—A Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev Thursday praised Stalin as a model Communist in his fight for the workers. Nearly a year ago Khrushchev denounced the late dictator as a mass murderer assailed "the cult of the individual," and questioned Stalin's Communism.

Rears of approval by the audience and wild applause by visiting Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai greeted Khrushchev's statement at a reception given by Chou for Kremlin leaders.

The Soviet Party and government leaders looked more cheerful and acted more playful than at any other time in public since the Hungarian Revolution broke out three months ago.

Soviet ex-Premier Georgi Malenkov, who had been a Stalin secretary and is regarded now as one of the moderating influences in the Kremlin, stood by silent and unsmiling as Khrushchev wildly wailed.

Victory Village Heating Plant Damaged By Afternoon Blaze; 16 Units Affected

Occupants Move Out While Plant Repaired

By CLARKE JONES

Fire gutted a heating unit in Victory Village Thursday afternoon leaving 16 housing units without heat.

Occupants of the units quickly made preparations to stay with friends in Chapel Hill, Carrboro and other village housing units until the plant is repaired. It was predicted this will take two or three days at the most.

There was speculation the fire started as a result of fuel oil running over and overheating the plant.

The amount of damage was not estimated as of late Thursday afternoon. Victory Village Maintenance Foreman H. L. Hackney told a reporter

"Your guess is as good as mine."

There were no injuries suffered. One housing unit next to the plant was filled with smoke and soot but did not catch fire. One occupant said some clothes and bed sheets were slightly damaged.

Several persons carried out all furniture in the adjacent unit in case the fire spread.

Chancellor Robert B. House said "a flood of invitations" came in, "mostly from the people in the Village."

"All of Chapel Hill responded and it responded very quickly, and we appreciate it."

House said the University will find a place for the fire victims to live until the units are repaired. Repairs on the furnace will take a week to ten days.

The plant caught fire at approximately 4 p.m. Local firemen had the blaze under control within a half hour after arriving.

The boiler inside the building had been partially crushed in. The combination of cold water from the powerful fire hoses and the boiler's intense heat caused it to collapse.

Housing Officer J. E. Wadsworth hoped this would bring on plans for construction of permanent houses in the development area.

CU Prexy Says Losses Dangerous

WAYNESVILLE—President William Friday of the Consolidated University told a gathering of UNC alumni here last night that a danger confronts the higher educational system of North Carolina because of critical losses in faculty in the past 18 months.

President Friday asked for alumni understanding and support of the University's position in requesting funds to increase salaries and maintain distinguished faculties at Raleigh, Greensboro and Chapel Hill.

Stating that 199 faculty members have been lost by resignations in the past year and three quarters, Friday said that the University's requests to the 1957 General Assembly are fourfold:

1. Substantial increases in salary for faculty.
  2. Greater support for the libraries to maintain the position of the library among great university institutions of the country.
  3. Research grants to perform essential research befitting a university.
  4. Adequate equipment, including laboratories, to aid research.
- Friday traced the growth of the Consolidated University since it was begun under the Governorship of O. Max Gardner, and he expressed his conviction of the success of consolidation.

Ballet Here Stars Two Artists

Marjorie Tallchief and George Skibine take the leading roles in the Chicago Opera Ballet's presentation of "The Merry Widow" and "Revenge" to be held Jan. 22 in Memorial Hall at 8 p.m.

Both artists star in the two productions with a full company of 48, including soloists, corps de ballet, complete scenery, costumes and orchestra. Orchestration is under the direction of Leo Kopp.

The works chosen by producer Ruth Page for the initial Chicago Opera Ballet combine the safety of Franz Lehár's tuneful "Merry Widow" with the melodramatic Gypsy tale of "Revenge," adapted from Verdi's opera "Il Trovatore."

Briefly, the story of "The Merry Widow" deals with the kingdom of Marsovia, a mythical realm from which Prince Danilo came to Paris and fell in love with the beautiful Merry Widow. Since the Widow was as rich as she was beautiful, Danilo also succeeded in bolstering up his country's faltering finances.

For "Revenge," a ballet in a Prologue and four scenes, Isaac van Grove has made a special arrangement of the Verdi score.

A special student rate of $4 includes tickets for this performance and the remaining two productions sponsored by the Chapel Hill Concert Series. Information concerning tickets may be gained at Graham Memorial Information office.

Exam Schedule

The Daily Tar Heel will print the University exam schedule tomorrow. Tomorrow's issue will be the last this semester. Publication will resume following exams.

Politics Deadlock

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—(AP)—Democrats and Republicans battled to a 106-106 tie on the basketball court Wednesday night, then adjourned for a much-needed rest.

There were nine players on the floor for each team throughout the contest, but that didn't account for the astronomical score. Out of respect to their congressional positions or their basketball ability, each team was given 100 points to start the game.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:

Misses Gwendolyn Lemly, Geraldine York, Donna Anderson, Margaret Smith, Ruth Watkins, and Robert Lewis, Shelton Turner, Warwick Porter, Kenneth Grogan, Richard Natoli, Leslie Evans, William Armstrong, John Curtiss, Ralph Cummings, George Irvin, and James Pierce.

Conference On Gravitation Opens Here This Morning

The International Conference on the Role of Gravitation in Physics opens here today with physicists from 11 nations participating.

The first official session will open at 10 a.m. today in Carroll Hall with Dr. Bryce DeWitt of the UNC Physics Department presiding. Technical discussions will be held during two morning and afternoon sessions.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges will preside at a luncheon Friday in the Morehead Planetarium. The 40-odd conferees will attend along with special representatives of the seven agencies sponsoring this six-day conference.

The layman will have an opportunity "to find out what the world's foremost scientists are currently doing" at a Friday night program. Entitled a "Popular Symposium," the non-technical public address, will be held at 8 p.m. in Carroll Hall.

Speakers will include Dr. T. Gold of Royal Greenwich Observatory, England; Dr. L. Rosenfeld of the University of Manchester, England; and Dr. J. A. Wheeler of Princeton University, formerly of UNC.

Dr. Cecile DeWitt, secretary of the conference steering committee, announced that special guests at today's luncheon will include these men:

Dr. Raymond J. Seeger of Washington, D. C., representing the National Science Foundation of which he is acting assistant director.

Dr. Joshua N. Goldberg of Dayton, Ohio, a conference participant, representing the Wright Air (See PHYSICS Page 3)

SP And UP Chairmen

Sonny Hallford, left, and Mike Weinman will steer the Student Party and the University Party throughout the coming semester and Spring Elections April 2. Hallford was recently elected to the chairmanship of the Student Party to replace Jim Holmes, who tendered his resignation for "personal reasons." Weinman is serving his second term as chairman of the University party following his recent reelection to the post.

Quarterly On Press Today

The next issue of the Carolina Quarterly, UNC literary magazine, goes to press today and will contain, among other literary gems, a unique adventure story by an eight-year-old boy.

The issue, which is scheduled for publication around the middle of February, will also announce the annual Quarterly fiction contest. The contest is open to everyone but staff members of the magazine.

Quarterly editor, Miss Marcelline Krafchick, said the rules would be explained in full in the coming issue. The winner of the contest will be announced in the May issue.

Prizes for the contest have not been announced, but last year's winner got $100 and the second place finisher collected $50. There were several smaller awards.

This year will mark the seventh time the contest has been held. Deadline for entrance into the contest will be April 1, Miss Krafchick said.

Handbook Ed Applicants May See Files

All applicants for the editorship of the Woman's Handbook have been invited to come by to look over the files of the Women's Residence Council, which will be open to all those interested from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Feb. 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 in the Dean of Women's Office.

If this time is inconvenient, applicants have been asked to contact Peggy Funk at the Chi O House who will arrange for a special meeting.

Applications for the editorship must be submitted to the Dean of Women's office no later than the week of February 11, according to the Women's Residence Council.

Interviews will be given by appointment only during the week of Jan. 18-23.

The Women's Handbook was edited last year by Virginia Hughes. The section editors were Winifred Martin and Joy Brown while Margie Cook was art editor.

Surgery Dept Adds Three To Faculty

Three new faculty members have been appointed in the Dept. of Surgery of the University School of Medicine, according to an announcement today by Dr. Nathan A. Womack, professor of surgery and department head.

The new faculty members are Dr. Baxter H. Byerly, Dr. Gabriel F. Tucker Jr. and Dr. Claude A. Tait.

Dr. Byerly is a native of Lenoir. He did his undergraduate and pre-medical work at UNC. His M. D. degree was granted by the Medical College of Virginia in 1953. His internship was served at Duke University.

Dr. Tucker received his A. B. degree from Princeton University in 1947 and his M. D. degree from Johns Hopkins in 1951. He served his internship at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Tucker taught pharmacology at UNC during 1952-53. Following his residency in otolaryngology at Johns Hopkins University, he has been appointed instructor in otolaryngology.

Dr. Tait attended school at Georgetown University, receiving his M. D. degree in 1952. Following two years of surgical residency at UNC, he entered the residency program in anesthesiology which he recently completed.

Physicist And Layman

Bob Myers, right, undaunted by Einstein's Theory on Gravitation, hears Dr. Behram Kursunoglu of Turkey discuss anti-matter as it may exist in another universe. Myers, a journalism student and an employee of the News Bureau, admitted frankly that he is puzzled by gravitation. However, Myers was very perceptive in an interview with Dr. Kursunoglu. He observed that the Turkish physicist was wearing two wrist watches—one Ankara, Turkey, time and the other American Eastern Standard time.
