Hallford Will Propose Fines For Offenders

By PRINGLE PIPKIN

Sonny Hallford, President of the IDC, said along with other announcements that he will present before the Student Legislature, "a bill to empower the IDC to incorporate into its ID Court By-Laws the power to levy a fine (up to $10) against offenders."

He went on to say that this bill is directed primarily at those who chronically commit small offenses.

NO PHONES

Hallford stated that there remain 14 dormitories which do not have phones on the second and fourth floors. Although the installation of the phones was promised in the early part of the first semester, only five dorms have received attention. He said that he understood that the use of non-pay phones for long distance calls had caused a delay, but the president had not heard of this practice recurring lately.

One of the problems now facing the IDC is the maintenance of the dormitory television sets. He said that the dorms did not have the money to repair aging sets.

FIRECRACKERS

Concerning the firecracker throwing in the dormitories, Hallford said, "Due to the fact that there is an ever increasing amount of shooting of fireworks on the campus, I would like to take this opportunity to remind the ones responsible that they are violating not only Campus and Dormitory regulations but also North Carolina law.

"To prevent any serious accidents from happening, we would like to request that such future activities be refrained. Those who are caught will be dealt with through the proper channels and receive the just punishment. We of the IDC would like to ask for your cooperation in this matter."

Harris Now Committee Chairman

Larry Harris, a junior from Charlotte, has been appointed chairman of the Student Entertainment Committee by Student Body President Bob Young.

Before Harris takes office his appointment must be approved by the Student Legislature.

Young said that he had "considered several people for this position and discussed it with many people before making the decision. I feel that Larry will capably handle the responsibilities of this position."

Harris "has served on the committee for the past year and has shown an intense interest in the program of the committee," said Young.

As chairman he is responsible for the planning of all SEC activities, and is the host at all functions involving the guest entertainer.

In addition, his main duty is to bring top-flight entertainers to the campus which the students can see free of charge.

This semester the SEC will bring several different entertainers to UNC. Among them will be the Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers, Henry Hull, and Jose Limon.

Panty Raiders Stopped After Carolina Win

Last night's victory over Maryland nearly set off a panty raid. When the game ended a crowd of students gathered in the lower quad. About 50-75 men milled around the area, shouting and shooting firecrackers.

A resident of McIver said a few of them gathered in the wooded area behind the dorm and some shouts of "panty raid" were heard. Student Body President Bob Young and Student Party Chairman Sonny Hallford approached the crowd and told the men to go back to their dorms. Young could not be reached for comment on the disturbance.

A few students were seen in the women's quad, but the only disturbance in the area was caused by firecrackers thrown from cars.

The near-panty raid was first reported by a resident of Alderman at 10. By 10:15 the only person seen in the women's quad was a campus policeman.

Two police officers were seen in the lower quad at the time the disturbance first erupted. The Chapel Hill Police Dept. reported that it had not been officially notified of the incident.

School Aid Needed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Folsom told Congress yesterday the nation will be short of public school classrooms "for many years" unless the Federal Government steps in to help.

Testifying before the House Education Subcommittee, Folsom urged approval of President Eisenhower's four-year program for helping the states build needed classrooms.

The cabinet members said the Eisenhower proposal — $1,300,000,000 in construction grants plus other aid to make a total of nearly 2 1/2 billions — is "adequate" to meet the situation.

He thus hit at democratic critics of the plan who contend larger federal expenditures are needed. Folsom also repeated Eisenhower's request that the racial integration issue be kept out of congressional consideration of the legislation.

Committee Pondering Librarians

A nine-man faculty committee, headed by Dr. B. L. Ullman, has been appointed to consider a successor to retiring UNC Librarian A. H. Horn.

The committee met Jan. 14 to review the qualifications necessary to fill the position and to establish a preliminary course and scope for the committee, according to Dr. Ullman.

Any candidate considered for the position must measure up to the standards and qualifications of the committee, Dr. Ullman said. For most among these considerations are: 1—the personal aspect in dealing and getting along with people; 2—an administrative ability; 3—a knowledge of and sympathy with functions of the University Library; 4—a wide acquaintance with libraries and librarians; and 5—imagination and enthusiasm for the library.

Dr. Ullman stressed the third consideration in its importance and application to supporting the research needs of the library.

Initiative in the selection and review of candidates is usually taken by the committee, although applications are being accepted and considered. Normal procedure involves the committee's writing to various schools and institutions for recommendations and background and then reviewing likely candidates.

Leading candidates are asked to come to Chapel Hill where they are personally interviewed by the committee and other people in the University.

The committee is expected to meet again this month in order to expand on the functions and work undertaken at the first meeting.

With Dr. Ullman as chairman, the committee members are as follows: J. E. Adams, A. G. Engstrom, Glen Haydon, A. K. King, H. Q. Langenderfer, H. Lefler, E. D. Palmatier, N. A. Womack.

Dr. Ullman expressed the hope that the position will be filled before July 1 when Librarian Horn retires.

'DUKE' AND 'TRI-DELT'

Paint On Library Front Removed By Crew

Work begun late Monday on the removal of "Duke" and "Tri-Delt" paintings from the entrance of Wilson Library was completed yesterday by building maintenance crews.

The work, overlooked since last November when several campus sites were similarly vandalized, leaves the campus virtually free from eye-sores, maintenance Supervisor Giles Horney said.

Removal of the painting was a long and arduous process according to Horney. Two varieties of paint were used. Of the two, the "Duke" marking was the easiest treated and was completely removed Monday evening.

The "Tri-Delt" marking was much more difficult and required a different treatment as well as more time and energy before it was removed late yesterday afternoon, Horney said.

Horney again stressed the many difficulties encountered in cleaning and treating the variety of paint products which from time to time mark campus walks and walls. Each different situation, he said, requires a different treatment.

American Law Meeting Here Set Feb. 22-23

The Fourth Circuit of the American Law Student Assn. will have its conference here Feb. 22-23, according to UNC law student, Henry M. Whitesides, presiding officer of the Fourth Circuit of the ALSA.

About 50-70 law students from 12 law schools in North and South Carolina, West Virginia and Maryland will converge on the campus for lectures by men noted in the legal field, for discussions and banquets. The conference will be climaxed with the election of new officers for the Fourth Circuit.

Magill Emphasizes Crisis In Students Initiative; Explains Administration Views To UP Membership

Prices, Parking Lots Discussed At Meeting

By NEIL BASS

"Students must face the value of integrity if they are to overcome the current crisis in student initiative," Director of Student Activities Sam Magill said last night.

Magill addressed the University Party at its regular Tuesday night meeting. He spoke on Administration Views on Student Government Problems.

The two premises upon which the University administration bases its student government policy, according to Magill, are:

- (1) The demonstrated ability of students to discipline themselves, which is the basis of student self-government.
- (2) That student self-government is educationally sound toward preparation of students to accept their role in later life.

PROBLEMS

After stipulating these administration premises, Magill went into a detailed discussion of the various problems confronting student government currently. These were:

UNC Library Places 26th Of 38 Polled

Louis Round Wilson Library placed 26th among the list of 38 libraries in the Assn. of Research Libraries in number of volumes.

This figure was quoted in a report in Library Notes, a news bulletin for library personnel. The statistics are for the 1955-56 school year and were collected by the Princeton University Library.

According to Library Notes, Carolina moved up from a standing of 27th which it held during the 1954-55 period. Wilson Library ranks 25th in the amount spent for books, periodical and binding.

Number one on the list was Harvard, with 6,085,761 volumes. Carolina is listed as having 831,119 volumes. $139,934 was spent for books, periodicals, binding re-binding as opposed to Harvard's $595,374. The average amount spent was approximately $218,667.

Of the 38 libraries listed 21 had over a million volumes in their collections. Duke University ranked number 13 in the list.

Three-Hour Study Lab To Begin

Applications for a three-hour non-credit course designed to assist students in improving their reading and studying efficiency are being taken in room 08 Peabody Hall.

Paul Irvine, director of the reading program, said the course will be offered every hour of the day between 9 and 3. He said there has been some misunderstanding in the past concerning who was eligible for the course.

According to Irvine there was a rumor that graduate and professional students were taken in to the course first. Actually, he pointed out, "In the past about 85 per cent have been undergraduates." The course is open to all University students.

Approximately 200 students can be enrolled this semester, Irvine said about 100 have already been accepted on the basis of applications made in September. Students interested in taking the course have been asked to apply to the reading office between the hours of 9 and 4.

Irvine said students interested in checking their reading proficiency but not interested in taking the reading course may report to the main testing service in room 03 Peabody.

Question Is How Long To Wait For Prof

If a professor is late in coming to class, how long must students wait in class before they are able to leave?

Opinion among students seems to be anywhere from five minutes to 20 minutes.

A check with Chancellor House's office and Dr. C. P. Spruill revealed by custom—there is no written law concerning this—students must wait at least 10 minutes before leaving in the event the professor fails to show up before then.

Orientation Files Open This Week

Orientation and Handbook files will be open today through Friday in the Council Room of Graham Memorial from 3-5 p.m.

Applicants who find this time inconvenient should notify Peggy Funk at the Chi Omega House to make individual arrangements. All girls who are interested in either position should look through these files before filling out an application, according to Miss Funk.

After becoming familiar with the records, the applicant should submit with her application, original ideas and a plan for this year's Handbook or Orientation program. These are to be turned into the Dean of Women's Office no later than Feb. 16.

Applicants will be notified by the chairman of the Women's Residence Council to appear before an interviewing committee. At this time, the applicant will be given the opportunity to discuss her earlier submitted plan and to answer any questions pertaining to it. The committee will look for originality and organization and will consider the applicant's critical analysis of past Handbooks or Orientation programs. A theme should be suggested for the Handbook, Miss Funk said.

Dick Grable's Group Appears Here Feb. 14

A third attraction has been added to the Carolina Mardi Gras. Mardi Gras Chairman Jim Armstrong announced yesterday.

Thursday night, Feb. 14, Dick Grable's All Stars will present an informal jam session in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial. The exact time of the concert has not been set, said Armstrong. No admission fee will be charged for the jam session.

Tickets are "going well" for the three-day festival, according to Armstrong. He reminded students that GMAB has only a limited number of tickets for the Mitchell-Ruff concert Friday, Feb. 15, and the formal Louis Armstrong dance Saturday, Feb. 16, night. Tickets are on sale at the Graham Memorial Information Office, Kemp's, The Y Information Office and through Interdormitory Council representatives.

Meet Team?

A group of students was planning to celebrate last night's basketball victory over Maryland by meeting the returning team at 6:50 this morning.

Bob Stanley, the group's spokesman, said he and others were going from room to room in dormitories and fraternities in an effort to recruit 1,000 students. He wanted to meet the team's train as it pulled into the Raleigh railway station.

The team's airplane was grounded in Washington after last night's game, and the trip had to be continued by rail.

Two UNC Students To Take Part In Exchange With N.Y. College

Two UNC students will represent the University in a student exchange program which has been arranged with Sarah Lawrence College of Bronxville, N. Y.

Two coeds from Sarah Lawrence will come here as part of the program.

The program will be held during the two week period from Feb. 14 to March 8, according to Miss Faith Learned, chairman of the student exchange committee at Sarah Lawrence.

The program is a feature of a two week program planned by the student exchange committee of Sarah Lawrence. Included in the exchange are one northern, one southern and one midwestern college.

Business, Ad-Selling Positions Are Listed

Positions are now open in The Daily Tar Heel's business and advertising offices.

This was announced yesterday by Business Manager Bill Bob Peel and Advertising Manager Fred Katzin.

Peel announced an opening for a coed "who can type and who does not have afternoon classes. It takes about one and one-half hours a day for five days a week." The job pays a "small token salary," said Peel. "It's good business experience," he said.

Katzin invited students who want to sell advertising to contact him at the newspaper's office in Graham Memorial any afternoon between 4 and 5.

The two students from UNC will not go for the full period, however, according to Student Body President Bob Young.

Young explained in a letter to Miss Learned the students would probably stay only over the weekend of March 3. He said there was a possibility of the students staying there for one week but definitely not for two.

The tight academic schedule here prevents students from going for the full period, according to Miss Katherine Carmichael, dean of women.

Miss Learned expressed hope to Miss Peggy Funk, chairman of the UNC Women's Residence Council, that if the students from UNC could not attend for the whole period, they would come during the March 3 weekend.

During this weekend, she explained, Sarah Lawrence would be holding an educational conference to which thirty or forty eastern colleges will be invited. Robert Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago, will be the keynote speaker, she said.

INTERVIEWS

Four UNC student officials will hold interviews for those interested Friday, Feb. 15 in the Woodhouse Conference Room of Graham Memorial. The interviews will start at 4 p.m.

Conducting the interviews will be Interfraternity Council President Ed Hudgins, Interdormitory Council President Sonny Hallford, Miss Funk and Young.

Tryouts Held In Hill Hall For Glee Club

Tryouts for membership in the UNC Men's Glee Club for the spring semester are being held daily in Hill Hall.

Joel Carter, director of the club, will hold the tryouts daily from 4-6 p.m. in 208 Hill Hall.

President Zane Ergle announced Monday at the club's regular meeting that the auditions will continue through Wednesday, Feb. 13.

A four-day concert tour through North and South Carolina, a joint concert with the Woman's College Chorus in Greensboro, campus concerts and parties are on the agenda for the spring semester.

Any men interested in singing with the Glee Club this semester have been asked to contact Carter at Hill Hall.
