

Gym Officials Light Fixtures Like Old Ones

They're having light problems at Woolen Gym. More light fixtures are needed to illuminate the entrances which accommodate overflow crowds every time the basketball team plays at home.

What's the problem? They can't find any more like the ones they have. Why? Because no one knows where the fixtures came from or who made them. They are 20 years old and cost over $150 a piece and are hard made.

So you'll know what the problem is when Woolen Gym starts looking like a display for miscellaneous light fixtures.

Tar Heel Mound Ace

Jim Rough, strapping senior righthander from Rosemond, Pa., will form the backbone of what should be a strong Carolina pitching staff this year. The Tar Heel baseballers opened spring practice yesterday.

MINUS COACHES HEARN AND HOUSE:

UNC Diamond Squad Begins Spring Work

By BILL KING

Spring baseball practice got underway yesterday and a couple of the old faces in the coaching ranks weren't around for the first time in a long while.

Head coach Walter Rabb held a meeting of all varsity and freshman candidates at 2:30 p.m. in Woolen Gym and then moved to Emerson Field for the first workout of the year.

But missing in the spring practice drills were a couple of fellows who should know Carolina baseball pretty thoroughly, Bunn Hearn and Henry House.

Hearn retired during the off season as official head coach of the Tar Heels after 27 years of service. Rabb received official appointment as head coach although he has been the varsity coach for several years since the failing health of Hearn.

House, freshman coach for several years, has had to resign from that post because of his work as a general college advisor. Said Rabb of his resignation, "We'll certainly miss Coach House. He has done a lot for the freshmen teams since he has been coach, and he's worked hard and efficiently at a job that doesn't receive much recognition."

The new freshman coach is Wayne White, a 1953 Physical Education graduate at Carolina and a former baseball co-captain. White, an outfielder, since has played professional baseball and service ball.

Two new graduate assistants have also been named, according to Rabb. Neville Cooper, a graduate of Catawba, is doing his graduate work here and will assist with the freshmen. Rabb's new assistant is Billy Wilhelm, also a graduate student who last year played pro ball with the Atlanta Crackers in the South Atlantic League.

Coach Rabb will have a tough road to travel in getting his club in shape before the Tar Heels travel to Florida March 20 for a four-day stay in which they will meet Florida, Georgia Tech, Ohio State, and Rollins. But the burden should be lessened somewhat by the return of some of last year's top stars and a promising pitching staff.

The Tar Heels will suffer most at first base, center field, and catcher. The loss of Delon Lambert in center field leaves a big gap there. Lambert was a hitting and fielding star last season. Jack Woods, who captained the Carolina nine last season has graduated and first base is wide open. The Tar Heels will be weak behind the plate due to the lack of established depth. Jim Love, a fine receiver but a questionable hitter, will probably have first crack at that position.

But despite these primary losses, Rabb will be able to count on veteran infielders Roger Honeycutt, Chuck Hartman, Bomber Hill, Carson Oldham, and Don Lewis. And in the outfield, the return of Joe Shook and Dick Hudson gives a big boost to the outlook there.

Pitching, the one department in which the Tar Heels were severely lacking last year, appears to be much more promising this season due to the arrival of several new hurlers and a couple of starters from last year's aggregation. Jim Rough, the workhorse of last season, and Don Saine, a righthander with good potential, form the crux of what could become an outstanding pitching staff. In addition to Rough and Saine, Rabb will have left handers Charlie Cross and Ben Harding, and right handers Doug Stinson, Charles Aycock, and Tom Maulsby.

Of course Rabb can make no predictions this early in the season but he does concede that, "we should have an improved club. I was well pleased with the club last season; they made good progress. This season, our pitching should be stronger."

Rabb continued that, "I believe the boys are very anxious to play ball and I am confident that we'll have a lot of hustle. I'm certainly not conceding anything to anybody. It will take a lot of work for us to be outstanding but we'll just have to wait and see."

In regards to the conference, Rabb thinks that over all it will be stronger this season. "Virginia and Clemson will be better," he said; "and I think Duke will be too."
