

Tar Heels Gun For Number 21 Tonight Against Wolfpack

UNC Quint Will Face Revamped State Five

The slightly tarnished N.C. State Wolfpack, in the midst of their worst season in ten years, will be out to regain some of their lost luster tonight when they invade Chapel Hill for a shot at unbeaten North Carolina, toast of the country and the conference.

Another sellout crowd of 5,600 will pack Woollen Gym for the ACC and Big Four battle, the second of the season between these two clubs. Due to a conflict with high schools and small colleges of the area, the game will not be broadcast.

Back on Jan. 15, the Tar Heels won their 15th consecutive game of the season when they rolled over the Wolfpack, 83-57, on the Reynolds Coliseum floor in Raleigh. Since that date, the Tar Heels have added five more schools to their ever increasing list of victims, and tonight go in quest of win number 21.

Both teams have undergone drastic personnel revisions since that earlier meeting. The Tar Heels have lost three men and added one, while State has lost two men, their co-captains, and added four.

The Tar Heel bench strength has dwindled to the barest minimum following the departure of front liners Tony Radovich, Stan Groll and Bill Hathaway. To offset the losses, veteran forward Bob Young has been pressed into service by Coach Frank McGuire.

This will in all probability go down as the year Lady Luck turned her back on Everett Case. Before the season started, the State Coach lost two men, Bob McGillvary and Marvin Kessler, through scholastic difficulties, and another, Nick Pond, via the broken wrist route. With the coming of the second semester, these early casualties returned to harness, as did soph center John Richter, who missed the first Carolina game because of an injured ankle.

With his team at full strength for the first time, Coach Case was issuing warnings to opposing coaches to look out for the Pack come tournament time. But then it was announced that John Maglio and Cliff Hafer, the two senior co-captains who formed the backbone of the team, would not be eligible for further basketball competition. This silenced the State mentor.

The loss of Hafer and Maglio has brought about an entirely new and revamped State lineup, one made up of four sophomores and a junior. Lou Pucillo, a tiny dribble dandy from Philadelphia, stepped into Maglio's place at center. Whitey Bell is the fifth starter. Backing up these five are Bob Seitz and Nick Pond, only remaining seniors.

The youthful Pack breezed by their first two opponents after the loss of Hafer and Maglio, but ran into trouble Saturday night, and dropped a 56-49 decision to Maryland.

Carolina followers are in a state of shock after watching their Tar Heels survive three hair raising finishes in recent weeks to keep their win streak intact. Maryland, Duke and Wake Forest have pushed the UNC quint to the limit while Virginia was no easy victim.

Coach McGuire's club has had the benefit of a week's rest since whipping Wake Forest last Wednesday night, and should be fresh for tonight's encounter with the dangerous Wolfpack. Pete Brennan suffered a slight ankle injury against the Deacons, but is expected to be ready for heavy duty tonight.

Lennie Rosenbluth, everybody's All-American, Joe Quigg, Tommy Kearns and Bob Cunningham, hero of the Wake Forest game, will round out the starting lineup. After tonight's game, the Tar Heels face South Carolina here Friday, Wake Forest in Winston-Salem next Tuesday, and Duke in Durham in the last game of the season on March 1.

He Made The Grade

Pictured above is junior guard Tommy Kearns who has played a vital role in the success of the undefeated Tar Heels this season.

Tommy Kearns: Spark Behind The Top Ranked Tar Heels

Frank McGuire had a sad note in his voice last winter when he looked out on the court and saw a stocky little man popping in jump shots from around the foul circle.

"That kid could be one of the best backcourt men in the nation if he'd get squared away with himself."

And it looked to many as if Tommy Kearns, then a sophomore, might not ever "get squared away" after a brilliant freshman season.

That enigmatic youngster is the same Tommy Kearns who scrapped his way into the starting line-up this winter and has been the sparkplug that has kept the Tar Heels undefeated in 20 games and tops in the nation.

You cannot underrate Lennie Rosenbluth's brilliant scoring (26 ppg plus), or the all-around ability of the Joe Quiggs and Pete Brennans, but it has been Kearns whose coming around has made the big difference in success or failure for North Carolina.

Little Tommy's value was clearly pointed up in the Tar Heels' last four games. Starting down the Atlantic Coast Conference homestretch, UNC had the pressure on Kearns' heroics in the real pressure games make Frank Merriwell shrink. Briefly Kearns:

1) Scored the tying basket to throw the Maryland-UNC game into overtime and hit one in the second overtime to put UNC ahead to stay 63-61.

2) Scored two free throws with the score knotted 73-73 against Duke with only 16 seconds remaining to win again for UNC.

3) Scored 15 points in the second half against Virginia to pull UNC from a halftime deficit to a victory.

4) Scored two free throws in closing minutes to put UNC ahead of Wake Forest for good in that thriller last week.

While Kearns' spectacular pressing playing has been a major factor in the last four games, he is no Johnny-come-lately to the hero's seat. In the only real scare for UNC before the exam break, South Carolina forced the Tar Heels into an overtime before falling 90-86. Kearns had a magnificent 29-point night, including three in

Tar Babies Meet State Frosh Here

By BILL KING

With a revenge win over the Wake Forest freshmen already by the boards, the Carolina Tar Babies will get an opportunity tonight to stop the only other team that has conquered them this season, N.C. State. The Wolflets invade Woollen Gym for a preliminary scrap with the Tar Babies at 6 o'clock prior to the 8:00 p.m. varsity struggle between the consolidated brothers.

Of the three losses that coach Vince Gramaldi's freshman club has suffered this season, two have been at the hands of the powerful Raleigh club; the Tar Babies have defeated the wolflets once.

Carolina will carry a 13-3 record into the affair, their only other defeat coming at the hands of the Wake Forest Baby Deacs, Jan. 31, a loss that it avenged convincingly a week ago.

In tonight's action, Gramaldi will go with his usual lineup of Mike Stepe and John Crotty at guards, Dick Kopley at center, and York Larese and Lee Shaffer at forwards. Guard Wally Graham and forward Grey Poole, who were at their best against the Baby Deacs Tuesday night, will probably see a good deal of action in tonight's contest.

Coach Lee Terrill's Wolflets, greatly rejuvenated since the last meeting of the two clubs, will probably have as his starting lineup, Bob Cole and Don Gallagher at forwards, Harold Atkins at center, and Bob McCann and Sam Coley at the guards.

Beatty Has Best Race; ACC Meet Starts Sat.

UNC distance runner Jim Beatty ran what was perhaps the greatest race of his career Saturday night in New York City as he whipped to a third place finish in the mile run of the NYAC Games behind Delaney and Fred Dwyer.

Beatty toured the distance in 4:08.9, and was only a short distance behind the two leaders at the finish. The Tar Heel ace actually gained on Delaney, possessing of a powerful kick, in the last lap, but the lead built up by the fleet Irishman was too much to overcome.

Another Carolina runner, sophomore Wayne Bishop, didn't fare so well as he placed sixth in the two-mile. His time was 9:34, some 41 seconds behind winner Laszlo Tabori, who was timed in 8:53.4.

Meanwhile back in Chapel Hill, work continued at a feverish pace as the Carolina track team bent their efforts on getting ready for the ACC Indoor Games scheduled to come off in Raleigh Saturday.

The meet, which will involve both freshman and varsity teams, will get under way on Saturday morning and last through the afternoon.

"We'll step up our preparations today and tomorrow," said Coach Dale Ranson yesterday, "then taper off Thursday with light workouts and a squad meeting at 3:30 p.m."

ALL AMERICAN AGAIN

Jimmy Beatty, North Carolina track star, has been named to the All-American Track Team for the second straight year.

Blue-White Plan Made At Meeting

The Monogram Club held its spring elections last Thursday night. John Billich, Bob Young, Ed Sutton, and Ken Bryant were re-elected to the posts that they held during the past year, all by acclamation.

Main item on the agenda was the planning of the Club's annual project of the year, the Blue-White Game. Several committees were organized to carry out plans for this annual event.

Buddy Payne and Giles Gara were appointed to design the programs, John Billich was put in charge of adds in the Chapel Hill area, and the sale of the programs it was decided, would be handled by the new members of the club.

President Billich announced sale of tickets will get underway soon. He urged all students to buy their tickets early. "We want to have as large a crowd this year as we had last year," he said.

It was also announced that there will be a large group of high school students attending the game this year and Billich added that it is the responsibility of the Monogram Club to treat them with hospitality. "The student body should also try to make these guests feel welcome," said Billich.

Plans were also made for the election of the Blue-White beauty queen. The penny-a-vote method will be used again this year and Billich urged student cooperation in this also.

MCGUIRE WINS AWARD

North Carolina basketball coach Frank McGuire recently received the Harry Wismer "Hats Off Award". The Tar Heel mentor was the first basketball coach to receive the weekly honor this year.

Swim Records Set Last Week

By STEWART BIRD

With no competitive meets to enter over this past weekend, Ralph Casey's varsity and freshmen swimmers busied themselves by cracking three records in specially sanctioned time trials.

Bill Roth, ace varsity sprint man, swam 50 yards freestyle during the UNC freshmen-Staunton Military Academy dual meet Friday afternoon. His time of 22.5 seconds erased by three tenths of a second his own university record of 22.8 and tied the pool standard held by Dave McIntyre of N. C. State.

During the Southern Inter-scholastics Saturday afternoon the 400 freestyle relay quartet of Charlie Krepp, Walt Rose, Bill Roth and Dick Zickgraf lowered their own school record of 3:27.0 to 3:26.0 and erased the pool standard of 3:27.3.

Later in the program Paul Wachendorfer, star freshman breaststroke, splashed 200 yards breaststroke in 2:27.3 to crack current varsity breaststroke Mac Mahaffy's university and freshman records of 2:30.7 and 2:34.7, respectively.
