Condemned Two-Story Units Will Be Used This Summer

University May Repair Houses

By EDITH MacKINNON and
CLARKE JONES

It appeared uncertain Thursday whether the condemned two-story housing units in Victory Village will be torn down or whether repairs and improvements will be made on the units.

UNC Chancellor Robert B. House said the facilities there were being studied by the University but "no final statement" could be made at the present time.

House said the twelve two-story units would be used until next fall instead of being discontinued after the current semester as reported Wednesday. He said the units would be safe for occupancy due to the lack of necessity for heat in the summer.

In a recent letter to Consolidated University President William C. Friday, House recommended the two-story units be torn down and replaced by "some sort of permanent construction." Friday agreed with this recommendation.

House said Thursday, however, no definite statement could be made at this time on what would be done with the two-story units.

The State Insurance Dept. in Raleigh, which handles the University's insurance policies, recently condemned all two-story apartments in Victory Village because of their "hazardous" nature.

University Business Manager Claude Teague received a letter from Kenneth P. Dixon, engineer of the State Insurance Dept., which recommended the two-story units be discontinued "in the immediate future."

The two-story apartments were found to be in direct violation of the state law which says "a dormitory of frame construction shall be only one story in height."

Dixon pointed out in the letter to Teague the exits both as to location and construction are entirely inadequate.

A major fire occurring in any of these two-story houses would cause inevitable loss of life, Dixon said.

The letter also recommended the University plan for the eventual removal of all one-story units. The University is not planning on closing down the one-story units along with the two-story units.

In the event the two-story units are torn down before next fall, University Housing Officer James Wadsworth said Thursday those living in them now will get priority (See VICTORY VILLAGE, Page 3)

Orientation Interviews Are Today

Final interviews for the selection of male members of the Campus Orientation Committee will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. today in the Woodhouse Conference Room in Graham Memorial.

All interested male students have been urged to appear at this time. Selection of female members of the Orientation Committee will be made next week.

Interested female students can fill out applications in the Student Government Office. They will be notified of the time and place of interviews.

Orientation program advisors and counselors will be selected at a later date, according to Orientation Chairman Jerry Oppenheimer.

Football Team In Cobb Won't Be Segregated

Football players will definitely be put in Cobb Dormitory but will not be segregated in any particular wings, Chancellor House announced Thursday.

He said that in September there will be four counselors in Cobb supported by the Athletic Assn. but under the supervision of the Student Welfare Division.

Emphasizing that football players would be placed in Cobb only as vacancies occurred, the Chancellor said he "was trying to stage a trial project." If the system of counselors is successful and there are sufficient, he hopes the same system will be instituted in all the dorms.

The counselors are to make some advance in the improvement of the dorm life as a whole, not just for football players.

Earlier this semester there had been speculation that the policy of having football players in Cobb might be reversed.

Alcohol, Frat Members Subjects Of IDC Laws

By PRINGLE PIPKIN

One article concerning the possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages and the other barring members of social fraternities from being dorm officials were changes made Wednesday night in the by-laws of the IDC and the IDC, respectively.

One of the changes which received much discussion was one in the IDC by-laws which reads "possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages is contrary to the Board of Trustees regulation and the IDC policy."

Neil Bass, who introduced these changes, recommended by the rules committee of which he is chairman, commented after the meeting, "Our action was no innovation. We merely established official procedure in our by-laws for handling such cases which were handled unofficially previously."

"The regulation is not ours, and we don't like portions of it. But it is a Trustee's regulation, and we must enforce it."

During the meeting he commented that the IDC had to accept the responsibility and that the clause would give student courts the power to try the violations. Student court would prob-

HONOR COUNCIL REPORT:

Probation Sentence Is Given In Forgery Case

A student convicted of forging an infirmity excuse has been placed on indefinite probation by the Honor Council, Chairman Jim Exum disclosed yesterday.

The student was not suspended from school because he reported himself, Exum said.

"This case well illustrates the fact that leniency will be shown in these cases where students report themselves for Honor Code violations," Exum said.

"Had not the student seen fit to report himself for the violation he would have been apprehended anyway due to investigations by the Arts and Sciences secretary. Had he come before the council and been found guilty without having first reported himself, the student would probably have been suspended from school," Exum said.

Details of the case are as follows, according to Exum.

news in brief

Court Impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) said today he will not introduce—or vote for—any resolution calling for the impeachment of certain members of the Supreme Court.

His statement came while commencing on action today by the Georgia Senate. It passed a resolution calling for the impeachment of Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas, Reed, Frankfurter and Clark for "high crimes and misdemeanors." The Georgia House approved a similar resolution several days ago.

Ike Criticized

LONDON (AP)—British Laborites in Parliament have criticized Eisenhower for not consulting Britain before making his policy statement calling for an unconditional Israeli withdrawal. The foreign office said the Israeli withdrawal should be combined with U.N. guarantees of Israeli security from attack on the Gaza strip border and free navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba.

ably be more lenient than the Administration.

In opposition Neil Bender, Steele President, said "when it is in the by-laws, we have to take action."

Sonny Hallford, President of the IDC, said that he did not believe the just possession alcoholic beverages warranted turning a person in, but that the real base of the matter was the way in which one used his liquor.

"Dormitory officers shall not be active or pledge members of a social fraternity," was an important change in the IDC by-laws.

Al Alphin, President of Mangum, said that for the IDC to function properly the members had to stay with the job the whole year. If a dormitory official became a pledge of a social fraternity, he would have to resign.

Jimmy Womble, President of Grimes, said "I admit it is hard, but we have to get at the root of the matter."

Hallford later stated, "prohibition of social fraternity members from holding offices in the dormitories was not done to discriminate against fraternities. Fraternity members have done good work in dormitories."

"The fact that there are often conflicts between required fraternities (See IDC BYLAWS, Page 3)

Contracts For New Dormitories, Spencer Addition Are Awarded; Construction To Start In March

Firms Have 15 Months To Complete Buildings

By NEIL BASS

Contracts were awarded Thursday for construction of three new men's dormitories and an additional wing for Spencer Women's Dormitory.

Construction on the new buildings will begin within thirty days, according to University Engineer M. J. Hakan. Low general bid for the three men's dorms was made by Dickerson Inc. of Monroe, Dickerson's bid was over $1.5 million.

Low general bid for the Spencer Wing was made by H. F. Mitchell of Burlington. Figures on Mitchell's bid were not available yesterday.

Total bids for the new buildings are within the $2 million loaned the University by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency in 1955.

Construction of the three dorms and women's wing must be completed within 450 days after construction is begun next month, Hakan said. This provision is incorporated in the contracts, he said.

Office Asks Changes In Address

The Central Records Office in Hanes Hall has issued a plea to all students who have changed their residence and not yet notified the Records Bureau to do so as soon as possible.

"It is important for the students' own sake that we have a record of each one's address," said Ray Strong, Assistant Director of the Records Office. "We are constantly trying to reach students in an emergency case and unable to reach him simply because he has not bothered to tell us where he lives."

The Bureau must have up to date records of the students whereabouts for use by the Cashier's Office, the YM and YWCA's, the Deans of the various colleges, and Graham Memorial in making up the Student Directory.

"We are constantly plagued by phone calls trying to locate students who have moved and failed to notify this office," said a secretary in the Records Office. "We ask students who have already changed their address to notify us at once, and all people doing so in the future to let us know even before they move."

ANNUAL CONFERENCE:

Law Meet Starts Here Today

The American Law Student Assn. will begin its two day annual conference of the Fourth Circuit here today.

About 50-70 law students from twelve law schools in North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and West Virginia, will hear at 1:30 the welcoming address of Henry P. Brandis, Dean of the UNC Law School.

In the afternoon, Gerald Barret, UNC Business Administration School, will moderate a panel of Thornton H. Brooks, William Abner, T. Charles Allen, Jerry Stone of NLRB, and William W. Sturges. The group will discuss "Lawyers Role in Labor Law." Later in the evening at the Carolina Inn Manly Wade Wellman will speak on "Silver Tongue Lawyers."

Saturday morning Albert Coates, Director of the Institute of Government, will give a history of the Institute, and the conference will take a guided tour of Institute buildings.

Dr. Robert E. Lee, former Dean of the Wake Forest Law School will speak at a luncheon in Lenoir Hall. The conference will then have a clinic and workshop in the afternoon climaxed with the election of new officers.

This is the second conference to be held at UNC. Conferences are usually held at the home school of the vice-president (presiding officer of the circuit).

Folk Song Singer Is Slated Here

A program of traditional English ballads, Shakespeare, Gilbert and Sullivan, and American ballads and folk songs will be presented when Earle Spicer appears in Les Petites Musicales Sunday.

Sponsored by GMAB, the program will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial at 8 p.m.

The New York baritone and ballad singer began his musical career at an early age. As a boy he sang in church choirs, and at college found time to study voice, piano, organ, as well as sing in the glee club, college quartet, and play the bass viol in the orchestra. Later he studied in London and New York.

Included on the Petite Musicales program will be "The Golden Vanity," "Lord Randal," "O Willow, Willow," "The Nightmare Song," "The Lane County Bachelor," and "John Henry." Spicer presents a Shakespeare "quiz" and parodies on Gilbert and Sullivan as highlights of his program.

The performance is open to the public, with no admission charge.

Mangum Leads In IDC Campus Dorm Contest

Mangum Dormitory is leading with 115 points in the UNC Dorm Contest, announced Benny Thomas, Chairman of the IDC Social Committee.

Stacy has 100, Grimes 90, and Cobb is tied with Ruffin, both having 80 points. Everett is fifth with 75 points.

"There is enough time left so that any dorm can make it hard for these top five to maintain their positions," said Thomas. The winner will get a trophy.

Tour Cancels Show Here

"Foolin' Ourselves" a touring production starring Gene Nelson scheduled to appear here March 8-9 has canceled the engagement. It was announced this week.

The Carolina Playmakers, who were to sponsor the local performances, have been notified that the show has discontinued all tour engagements.

The show was a Paul Gregory touring production, according to Marcelline Krafchick of the Playmakers publicity staff.

Solons Set Up Group To Study Lenoir Hall

By NEIL BASS

The student Legislature established a committee to investigate Lenoir Hall working conditions and wages in a lively two-hour session last night.

The three measures which appeared for consideration were hashed and re-hashed by lawmakers who spoke their minds without hesitation.

Legislature Speaker Sonny Evans said of the meeting: "Tonight the student Legislature grew up."

The measure passed which aroused a continuous stream of orators to the rostrum for 45 minutes was a resolution urging that curfew hours for freshmen and sophomore nurses be consistent with curfew hours for other University coeds.

Nursing School regulations now stipulate that freshmen and sophomores must report in at 11:30 on Sunday night and are allowed one o'clock privileges on either Saturday or Sunday night. Other freshmen and sophomore coeds have 12 o'clock privileges on Sunday night, and one o'clock privileges on both Friday and Saturday nights.

Chief argument came from Miss Julia Ann Crater, University Party. Miss Crater argued that freshmen straight from high school did not know how to "budget their time" adequately to have such privileges. Miss Jennie Meador, Student Party, spoke for the resolution urging that such students were "mature enough" to handle themselves.

University Party Floorleader Benny Thomas introduced and sponsored the resolution.

The other measure passed on the docket called for appropriation of $10 to the Legislature Rules Committee to defray printing expenses.

Discussion on the Lenoir Hall investigation bill, given serious consideration, resulted in bedlam when Introducer Whit Whitfield (SP) read the Cafeteria's Operating Procedures stating the employees were not to "share" their $1.90 worth of food per day. Legislators also guffawed at a provision stating what a "privilege" it was to be allowed work in a cafeteria "completely dedicated" to the student body's service.

"The theme for the 1957 Handbook will be 'Columns' since it typifies Carolina more than any other feature on campus," she said.

"In contrast with last year's edition, the '57 publication will be of an informal, instructional nature," she said. "We expect to include more information concerning activities, with special emphasis on travel schedules, cost estimates, etc."

The Women's Handbook is a 40 page booklet designed to (1) inform coeds of dormitory rules and regulations; (2) introduce newcomers to ravenous faculty and administrative members; (3) inform them of what can be found in Chapel Hill, and (4) list the many activities available to coeds at the University.

Assisting Miss Lawrence with next year's Handbook will be: Miss Nancy Milan, Art editor; Truman Moore, photographer; Mae Chapin Neil and Isabelle McCloud, advisors.

The Handbook will go to press in early April.

Laradel Lawrence Elected Editor Of 1957 UNC Woman's Handbook

Miss Laradel Lawrence, a junior from Bradford, Pa., is the newly appointed editor of next year's Women's Handbook.

Miss Lawrence was selected to the Handbook editorship by the Women's Resident Council because of her considerable editing experience. She has expressed definite ideas and plans for next year's publication.

Original Plans Call For Expansion Of Dormitories

The Spencer Hall wing will include an expansion of dining hall and lounge and 75 additional rooms. It will be added to the rear of the present structure.

Site for the men's dormitories was selected by the Buildings and Grounds Committee. It was approved by the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees at a Sept. 1955 meeting.

The Building Committee which approved the site was composed of Trustees Reid Maynard, Burlington; C. Knox Massey, Durham; Wade Barber, Pittsboro; S. J. Blythe and Carl Venters, Jacksonville.

THIRD MAN OUT
Original plans call for facilities adequate to house a number of student equal to the present number of third men in the University's two-man dormitory rooms.
