

UNC, Maryland, Duke And State Are Favored In Tourney

Undeclared Tar Heels Rate Nod Over Tigers

By KEN ALYTA

RALEIGH — Based on results of their regular season meetings North Carolina, Maryland, Duke and North Carolina State should have the edge over their opponents here Thursday in the opening round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

Duke, the third place finisher with an 8-6 conference record, opens the tournament against South Carolina, a team it has already beaten twice, by scores of 104-76 and 94-81. In the latter game Grady Wallace, South Carolina's forward who leads the nation with a 31-point scoring average, hit for 43.

The second afternoon game Thursday sends Maryland, conference runner-up with a 9-5 record, against Virginia, already a three-time loser to the Terps. The first two meetings of the clubs were close affairs, Maryland winning its season opener 67-63 and following with a 43-39 victory over the Cavaliers in the All-American tourney at Owensboro, Ky. Their third meeting, an ACC affair a month ago was an 85-64 romp for Maryland.

North Carolina, No. 1 in the nation and unbeaten in 24 starts, holds two decisions over Clemson, its 7:30 opponent Thursday night. The Tar Heels tamed the Tigers 94-75 and 89-54.

North Carolina State and Wake Forest will be meeting for the fourth time when they tangle at 9 p.m. Thursday. State gained a fourth place conference tie with a 75-71 victory over Wake Forest Saturday night. The teams split a pair of December contests. State won at Wake Forest 73-63 and lost to the Deacons in the Dixie Classic semifinals here 73-66.

If North Carolina sails into the semifinals Friday night its opponent will be either Wake Forest or North Carolina State. The top-seeded Tar Heels have beaten Wake Forest three times, but each game has been a battle. Their first meeting was in the Dixie Classic finals, North Carolina winning 63-55. Two February contests went to North Carolina 72-69 and 69-64. North Carolina State was easier for the Tar Heels, bowing 83-57 and 86-57.

A fourth Maryland victory over Virginia would match the Terps with either Duke or South Carolina. Maryland won at home from each, but lost on the road. The Terps downed Duke 62-51 and lost to the Blue Devils 72-60 while beating South Carolina 66-59 and losing to the Gamecocks 68-60.

Rosie, Kearns Are Named To All-ACC Team

RALEIGH — Two players each from North Carolina and Wake Forest and one from South Carolina were named on the All-Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team chosen by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn.

The team is headed by North Carolina's Lennie Rosenbluth and South Carolina's Grady Wallace, who were unanimous first team choices.

Jackie Murdock and Jack Williams of Wake Forest and North Carolina's Tommy Kearns round out the team.

Murdock missed unanimous selection by three votes. Fifty-five press, radio, TV and college publicity men participated in the balloting. Votes were counted on the basis of five points for first team and three for second team choice.

Rosenbluth and Wallace collected the maximum of 275 points. Murdock received 269 and Kearns 222. Williams collected 166 to nose out Bob O'Brien of Maryland, who had 160.

The second team selections were: Bob O'Brien, Maryland; John Richter, N. C. State (152); Jim Newcome, Duke (142); Pete Brennan, North Carolina (123); Ernie Wiggins, Wake Forest (93).

IN WOOLLEN GYM:

Tenth Annual Co-Rec Sports Carnival To Begin Tonight

By TOMMY JOHNSON

The tenth annual Co-Rec Sports Carnival will get underway tonight at 6:45 in Woollen Gymnasium. The event, sponsored by the Intramural Department and the Women's Athletic Association, will be filmed by the University Physical Education Department to be shown to the Southern Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation meeting in Asheville, April 1-5.

Fourteen teams totaling some 500 students have entered the affair. The carnival is the largest single Co-Rec event of the entire year. Some 1500 persons were either participants or spectators last year. Spectators are welcomed to witness the carnival. Any couples may enter the carnival games to compete for the handsome trophies.

Bruno's combo, the popular players at the basketball games, will be on hand to furnish music for the group. There will be dancing while the point totals are added to determine the winners.

Dental School and Smith Dormitory were the winners last year.

Three of the girls' teams will be Duke University co-eds. It is expected that they will bring along some spectators. The WAA and Women's Physical Education Department from the neighboring school have also been invited to witness the affair.

The Intramural Department from East Carolina College has been invited to attend the carnival. They are attempting to sponsor a similar affair on their campus.

Carnival games, relays and team sports will make up the program. Trophies will be awarded to the individual winners, and plaques to the team winners. Members may enter one individual event and also participate in the carnival games. All members may participate in the relays which are last on the agenda.

The most popular activities of the entire night will be the carnival games. Some of the games are: candle blowing, jacks, top spinning, marbles, nail driving, rocket dart, target board table shuffleboard, bounceball, baseball throw, and basketball crib shooting.

Balloon bursting and tennis ball relay lead the list of relays to climax the evening.

Badminton, table tennis, shuffleboard, box hockey, archery, shish, tether ball, and volleyball are the sports activities on the agenda.

Supervisor Fred Young gave these words of instruction to the participants: All teams are due on the main floor, behind the standards bearing their names, at 6:45. All events will start at 7:00 except the relays which will be held at the end of the program. Participants not present when their names are called, will be scratched. Young urged all teams to have their members present on time.

The Tar Heel cindermen, second to Maryland in the ACC Indoor Games, will face a schedule of 6 dual meets plus two relay meets and the ACC outdoor championships this spring.

Each of the other 7 Atlantic Coast Conference schools, with the exception of Clemson, will be met during the year. The season officially gets started on March 30 when a hand picked squad of 15 men travels to Gainesville, Fla., for the Florida Relays. Some of the team members will also compete in the Penn Relays, April 26 and 27.

NCAA Playoff Picture Beginning To Clear Up

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The post-season basketball situation was clarified considerably yesterday when Pittsburgh was selected as an "at large" entry in the NCAA major college championships.

Pitt, seldom regarded as a national power in college basketball, will oppose the Ohio Valley Conference entry, Morehead Ky. State, in a first round game at Columbus, Ohio, March 12. Notre Dame, also an at large team, will play Miami, Ohio of the Mid-American Conference in the other half of a first round double-header.

Pitt was the 16th team selected for the 23-entry tournament, but only one of the remaining seven spots is seriously in doubt. Defending NCAA champion San Francisco, Kansas and St. Louis can't get worse than ties for their conference championships while North Carolina and West Virginia are odds-on favorites to win their conference tournaments.

As soon as some of these titles are decided, a couple of runners-up likely will receive bids to the National Invitation Tournament. Most likely candidates are Bradley, which still has a chance to tie St. Louis in the Missouri Valley, and Utah, second to Brigham Young in the Skyline Conference. Nine of the 12 teams for the NIT have been chosen and the committee has begun a discussion of seedings.

In addition to the double-header at Columbus, these first round pairings have been made: March 11 at Pocatello, Idaho—Idaho State, Rocky Mountain vs. Texas, Western Border, March 12 at Oklahoma City—Oklahoma City U. at large vs. Loyola, New Orleans at large, March 12 at New York—Syracuse at large vs. Connecticut, Yankee, Canisius at large vs. Southern Conference; Ivy League vs. Atlantic Coast Conference.

It will be Yale or Dartmouth as the Ivy League entry with Yale favored. The Ivy champion no longer qualifies automatically, but an at large spot is being reserved since both contenders are willing to enter the tourney. The same teams are listed as NIT possibilities.

N.C. State Trips UNC Grapplers

Carolina's once mighty wrestling team closed out their regular season on a sour note in Raleigh yesterday as they dropped a narrow 18-17 decision to the N. C. State Wolfpack. The frosh grapplers also lost, 23-10. The loss was UNC's fifth of the season, and ran their overall record to 4 wins, 1 tie and 5 losses. The Tar Heels finished fourth in the conference standings behind Maryland, Duke and Virginia.

Only three Tar Heels emerged victorious yesterday, and one of those won by forfeit. The Boyette brothers, Charlie and Bob, each pinned their opponents, while heavyweight Larry Hayes took his match by forfeit.

Newcombe Complains Of Sore Elbow In Practice

VERO BEACH, Fla. — Don Newcombe quit the mound after a 10-minute batting practice stint yesterday, complaining of a sore right elbow.

"I hurt it throwing to second base practicing pickoff plays before the batting practice," said the big Brooklyn right-hander.

Newcombe first complained of the sore elbow while with the Dodgers in Japan and said at that time it hurt him during the World Series. However, he first had elbow trouble way back in 1949.
