The Daily Tar Heel SPORTS

Larry Cheek, Sports Editor

A Great Tournament For The Tar Heels

Last weekend's Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament was the biggest and best in history; especially if you happen to be a Carolina fan.

The unbeaten Tar Heels breezed through the quarterfinal round without working up a sweat, nearly got bumped off by Wake Forest in the semis, but mopped up the floor with South Carolina in the championship game.

It was a great tournament for the Tar Heels. They set the sports world agog with the blazing brand of basketball they displayed, and won many new found friends to their cause.

So many good things were said about the magnificent Tar Heels that it would be impossible to remember them all. Ever since last Friday morning, Coach Frank McGuire's dandies have monopolized the sports pages of all our state papers. And rightly so.

South Carolina mentor Frank Johnson called Carolina "the best team to ever come from this area." After the licking he absorbed in Saturday night's finals, this statement is not too surprising.

It was a tremendous team performance that carried the Tar Heels to 27 straight victories and their first ACC title in history. Lennie Rosenbluth was their hero, but his supporting cast of Joe Quigg, Pete Brennan, Tommy Kearns and Bob Cunningham deserved Oscars for the roles they played.

These five boys dominated the ACC All-Tournament team. Rosenbluth and Brennan were named to the first unit, while Kearns, Quigg and Cunningham all drew second string berths.

For Wake Forest, An NIT Berth

Frank McGuire told a group of Metropolitan writers in New York Monday afternoon that at least two teams should be allowed to represent the ACC in post season tournament competition.

The Tar Heel Coach pointed to Wake Forest as an example, saying that the Deacons should be permitted to play in the National Invitational Tournament as a reward for their fine season's record.

As the conference rule stands now, only the league champ as decided by the ACC tourney can compete in post season affairs. And then the champ must play in the NCAA tourney.

Wake Forest has a strong, experienced team that deserves a chance to go after the NIT crown. The Deacons had a very successful year, and if four losses to the number one Tar Heels had been wiped out, they would have a truly outstanding record.

Against outside competition such as Seton Hall, Temple and others, they were unbeatable. It was only against conference foes that they experienced difficulty.

We believe Wake Forest could have gone places in the NIT with its comparatively weak field. In fact we think they could have won the tournament. It would have been another argument in favor of the brand of basketball played in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Notes And Quotes On Sports

The Carolina-Yale game played last night in New York City will be shown on television tonight at 7:30 over station WRAL in Raleigh. WTVB and WRAL-TV are negotiating for live coverage of the UNC games in Philadelphia this weekend. (Since this column was written before last night's game, we hope they're still negotiating.)

The Tar Heel string of 27 regular season victories which they possessed going into the NCAA tourney was a new record. Kentucky and San Francisco held the old regular season mark at 25. If Carolina sweeps the national title, they will set a new one season record for consecutive victories at 32.

Grady Wallace after Saturday night's ACC title game: "That Rosenbluth is something, isn't he? He is really the greatest." Info reaching our ears tells us that Carolina will not win the conference sportsmanship award as voted by the players.

Yale will be almost impossible to beat in the NCAA swim championships to be held here later on this month. The powerful Elis swamped one of the nation's better teams, Harvard, 66-20 in a meet last week. Harvard's coach called Yale before the meet "the greatest team ever."

WAA Intramural Activity To Hit Peak In Weeks To Come

Intramural activities in the Women's Athletic Association reach a peak for this time of year within the next few weeks. Badminton, tennis, basketball, shuffleboard and table tennis activity is picking up, and champions in the various sports will be crowned soon.

In the tennis tournament, which began early last term, Betty Meley and Ann Gillett Burt meet in the semi-finals. Nancy Shufford will play the winner of that match in the finals.

The tennis club will resume meeting on Thursday, March 21. All those interested are invited to attend.

In the shuffleboard tournament, Bev Beckert will meet Sara Walters in a semi-final match to determine who will meet Eleanor German for the title.

The table tennis tournament has reached the quarter-finals. The deadline for this round is Friday afternoon.

The badminton tournament begins this afternoon. Sixty-four

Tar Heels Pull Away In 2nd Half

NEW YORK — (AP) — North Carolina's Tar Heels, down for nearly three quarters of the game, showed the stuff that made them the nation's No. 1 team this year by whipping Yale, 90-74 in a first round game of the NCAA tournament Tuesday night. It was the 28th consecutive victory for North Carolina, the only unbeaten major college team this season.

Yale's red-headed Johnny Lee rivalled North Carolina's all-American Lennie Rosenbluth as the outstanding player to appear in Tuesday night's three games at Madison Square Garden. It was Lee's sharp shooting that was the big factor in keeping Yale in front through most of the first half and getting the Elis back in contention after North Carolina had begun to move in the second half.

Syracuse rallied to beat Conn. 82-76, and then Canisius outplayed lethargic West Virginia, the Southern Conference champion, 64-56.

Rosenbluth had the edge over Lee in their duel although he was benched for awhile after committing his fourth personal foul. The tall Tar Heel scored 11 field goals and seven fouls for 29 points. In addition he did a superb rebounding job under both boards. Lee made 25 points before fouling out in the last minute.

North Carolina's "subway Southerners," whose entire starting lineup hails from the New York area, never lost their poise when they were threatened by an upset. They had to work hard to tie the score at 40-40 just at the end of the first half.

After Carolina did go ahead at the start of the second half, the scrappy Elis rallied to regain the lead three times. Bob Cunningham finally sent Carolina ahead for keeps in the ninth minute of the second half. Yale's aggressive defense proved costly in the long run as four of the five starters fouled out in the closing minutes.

A three-point play by Lee half-way through the final half marked Yale's final threat. Carolina, bearing down harder, spurted into a 10 point lead, then increased its margin further after Rosenbluth returned to the game.

North Carolina now plays Canisius in the Eastern regional tournament at Philadelphia Friday, while Syracuse meets Lafayette, which drew a first round bye.

McGuire Made Coach Of Year In Conference

RALEIGH — Frank McGuire, coach of the University of North Carolina basketball team, is the unanimous choice of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn. as Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year.

He received all 47 votes cast by association members covering the ACC tournament finals here last Saturday night.

The Tar Heels swept 27 games to gain recognition as the nation's No. 1 college team and a place in the NCAA Eastern regional tournament against Yale at New York tonight.

McGuire, a 42-year-old native of New York, is completing his fifth season at North Carolina.

He also was named coach of the Year by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Assn., in New York yesterday.

place was the best his boys could do. Barnes commented: "We did not look smart at all in our bout strategy; we did the right thing at the wrong time."

Perrin Henderson, 137 lb. division, was the star wrestler for the Tar Heels. Henderson placed second in the tournament. He lost a close decision to the "most outstanding wrestler" of the tournament, Rodney Norris of Maryland.

One of the highlights of the tournament was the defeat of Maryland's heavyweight champion, Mike Sandusky. The champion was defeated by Virginia's Al Jordan.

The Terps of Maryland again showed their strength as they placed first in the event and had seven individual champions. Virginia came next and put two wrestlers on the champion's platform, while Duke had one champ in the 191 pound division.

The individual Tar Heel wrestlers placed in the tournament as follows: 115 lb. Dave Wall placed 3rd, 130 lb. Capt. Bob Wagner—3rd, 137 lb. Perrin Henderson—2nd, 147 lb. Charlie Boyette—4th, 157 lb. Bill McGehee—4th, 167 lb. Dave Atkinson—3rd, 177 lb. Rob Boyette—4th, 191 lb. Larry Hayes—4th and heavyweight Stan Leftwich—3rd.

The NCAA Wrestling Tournament will be held in Pittsburgh, Pa. on March 29-30.

Coach Barnes will take six men to this national tournament.

Mihaly Igloi Answers Blast By Milwaukee News Man

Mihaly Igloi, coach of Hungarian Olympic distance runner Laszlo Tabori, said here Monday that he permitted Tabori to attend the Milwaukee Journal Games Saturday as requested despite a leg injury, Tabori could easily have been in the position of being unable to finish out the indoor season.

Igloi's remarks came in answer to a blast by Milwaukee writer-tracker promoter Oliver Kuechle that Tabori was a "pampered child" and "had better change some of his ways of thinking."

While explaining his refusal to let Tabori run or attend the Milwaukee games, Igloi also released the text of a telegram which he and Ranson sent to Kuechle last Thursday informing the Milwaukee Sports Editor of Tabori's injury and the need to stay in Chapel Hill for treatment.

"What Kuechle is overlooking is the fact that Tabori is undergoing daily treatment here that should heal the injury in time for him to run at Chicago and Cleveland meets the next two weekends," Igloi commented.

"Had we interrupted the treatment for the three-day trip just to watch the meet and take a bow, it would have made it almost impossible to run in any more meets this season," the coach stated.
