Father-Son Grants Go To Spearman

A UNC journalism professor and his son have received awards for extraordinary study next year, it was announced Monday.

Walter S. Spearman and his son Robert, 14, are the recipients of the distinguished fellowship and scholarship awards. Professor Spearman will study at Harvard University, Robert at Groton School, 35 miles north of Boston.

FUND
The Fund for Adult Education announced Spearman as one of the recipients of nationwide grants to 53 educators, newspapermen, radio and television broadcasters and others concerned with liberal education for adults.

The fund is an independent organization established by the Ford Foundation.

Spearman will receive a fellowship for a nine-month study at Harvard in American and Southern History, American political thought, history of modern science, human relations and social relations.

CONTRIBUTING

Professor Spearman, a member of the journalism faculty at Chapel Hill since 1935, also is a contributing editorial writer for the Greensboro Daily News and the Smithfield Herald and is author of a book review column, "The Literary Lantern" which appears in a number of North Carolina newspapers.

It was announced two weeks ago that Mr. Spearman's son has won a scholarship covering the major portion of his expenses at Groton School in Massachusetts and will enter the third form (ninth grade) there next fall. The scholarship is renewable annually.

The rest of the Spearman family, including Mary Lindsay Spearman, 11, and Mrs. Spearman, the former Mary Elizabeth Dale of Nashville, Tenn., will live in Cambridge for the school year beginning next September.

VETERAN

Professor Spearman, a Phi Beta Kappa president and graduate of the University of North Carolina in 1929, is a veteran newspaperman and journalism educator. His newspaper experience also includes editorial work with The New Orleans Item and The Charlotte News.

An adviser to student publications and to other student organizations, Prof. Spearman was honored in the 1954 student annual as one of six faculty members "who were teachers in the true sense of the word, whose influence was formative, not merely informative, who gave friendship, understanding and ideas as well as facts."

Professor Spearman expects to pursue studies which will enhance effectiveness in teaching journalism, especially editorial writing, and in writing editorials for various papers.

COMMENT

The father-and-son awards, coming so soon upon each other, have excited comment in this University where the Spearman family take a leading part in community affairs.

Bob Spearman is president of the student council at Chapel Hill elementary school, is a Life Scout, and is active in school athletics. He won the scholarship in competitive examinations based on scholarship, character and financial need.

Suez Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold said today Egypt has agreed to prevent infiltration from the Gaza Strip into Israel and has accepted the help of the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) to seal the demarcation line.

Israel Ambassador Abba Eban, after meeting almost two hours with Hammarskjold, said the secretary general had asked Egypt whether it still considered itself in a state of war with Israel.

"A reply to that question is awaited," Eban told reporters.

Dorm Residents Urged To Vote For Officers

In conjunction with today's general campus elections, IDC President Sonny Hallford has urged dormitory residents to vote for their officers and announced alterations in the proposed slate.

Hallford pointed out in his statement that "this is an important occasion in dormitory government. I hope that the residents of the dormitories will recognize the importance of this election. The success of a dormitory's activity program rests largely with the individuals whom they elect to be their representatives."

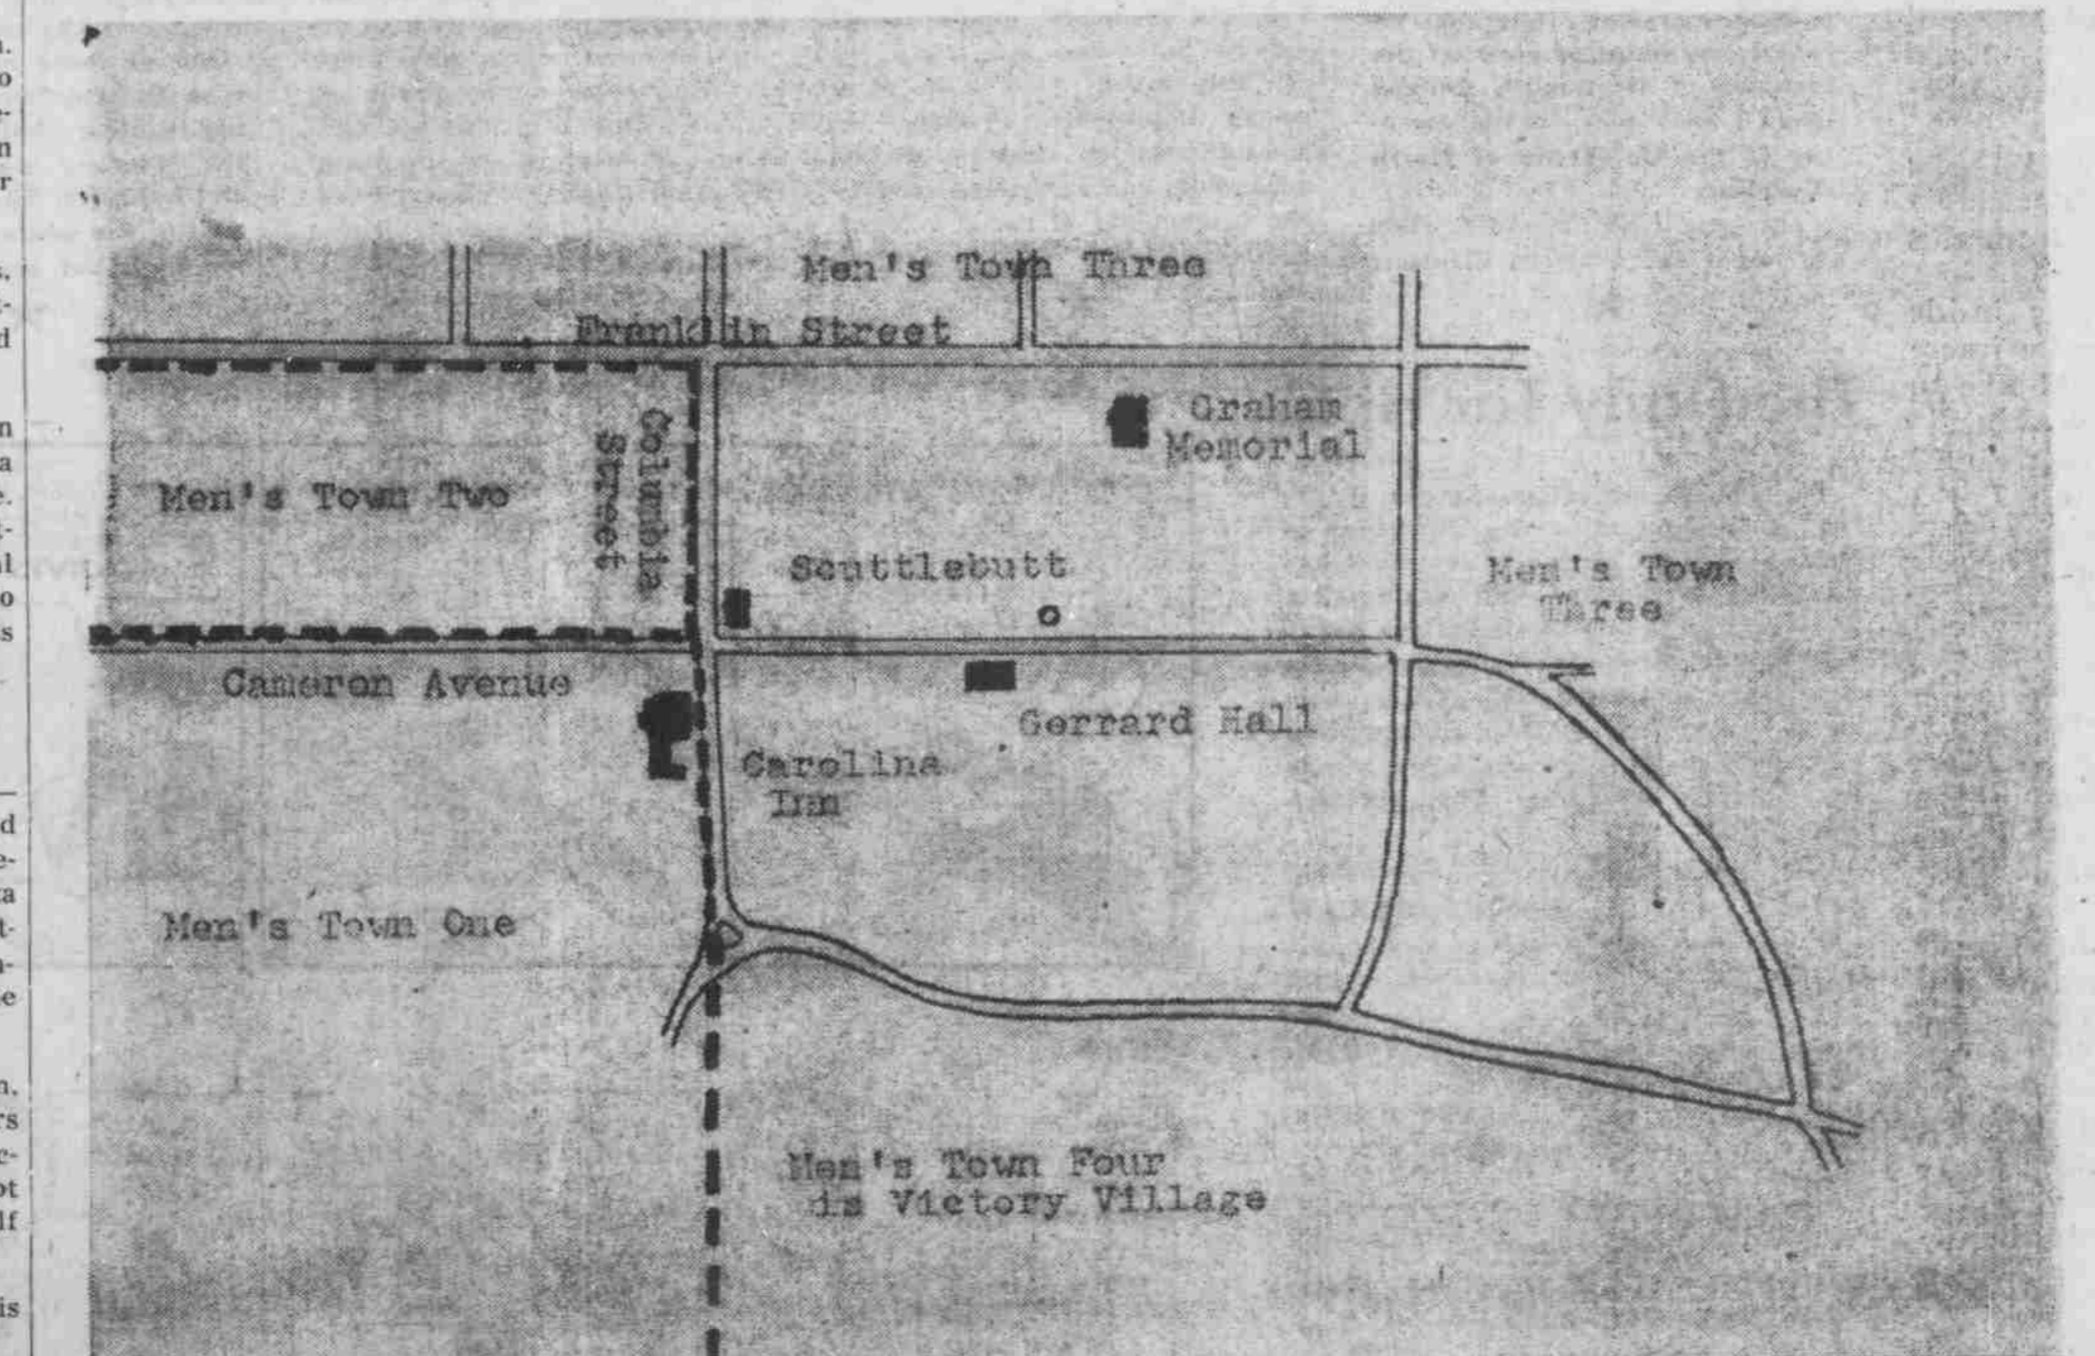

"I would like to urge all dormitory residents to turn out in mass today and vote for their choice in their respective dorms."

Hallford stated that the slate for dormitory officers had been altered due to the fact that some candidates had been disqualified because they did not hold a "C" average.

The modified slate is as follows: Cobb — President — Bill McGee and Jerry Shaver; Vice-President — Ray Stanly, Bill Sermons, Erwin Fuller, and Avery Thomas.

Winston — President — Frank Berry; Vice-President — Billy Burke, and Tom Gable.
