news in brief

No Mail Today WASHINGTON, AP — The House Appropriations committee gave in yesterday to Postmaster General Summerfield's demands for more money...

All 38,000 U. S. Post Offices have been ordered closed to the public on Saturday and Sunday, and no mail is scheduled to be delivered over the weekend unless it bears a special delivery stamp.

Summerfield has asked for $1 million dollars to maintain a full postal service through June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Atomic Arms BONN, Germany, AP — Opposition to atomic armaments welled up in Germany, Britain and Japan yesterday.

Eighteen West German nuclear scientists, including four Nobel Prize winners, sounded an alarm against arming the federal republic's forces with atomic weapons.

U. S. Proposal LONDON, AP — The United States proposed yesterday that all production of fissionable materials after April 1, 1958, be confined to nonweapons purposes.

Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, suggested to the United Nations Disarmament Subcommittee technicians begin Sept. 1 to study how such an agreement could be enforced.

Valerian Zorin, Russia's representative on the five-nation subcommittee, said he would study Stassen's proposal and have more to say later.

Liberal Education Or Specialization?

By PETE IVEY

Educators here seem to be on a spree of self-criticism. Five things have happened here in the space of just a few weeks that reveal a bubbling trend toward self-examination in a riddle of the times...

1. Thirty-five of the nation's outstanding biologists were here last week, making up a list of recommendations which will change the content of courses in the "life sciences" — including botany, physiology, zoology.

2. Dean Maurice W. Lee of the School of Business Administration made a speech, saying men going into the modern business world ought to take more liberal arts studies. However, the "liberal arts" must be made more liberal than they are at the present time, said Dean Lee.

He disclosed a study now going on here whereby students going in to the school of Business Administration may be able to take three years of general college type studies before entrance to the School of Business Administration.

3. Journalism Dean N. N. Luxon, delivering the Spring Humanities Lecture, hammered strongly in favor of broader training in arts and sciences for newspapermen.

4. An Institute of Natural Sciences has been established to centralize and enhance the effectiveness of the science teachings in the University. One result has been an award of more than a quarter of a million dollars to the University by the National Science Foundation to undertake special teacher training programs...

5. Specialists are seeing the need to acquire broader and more liberal education. And the liberal arts faculties are trying to see to it that they do not also fall into the pit of specialization and fragmentation.

Hodges Speaks To Grail; Optimistic On Pay Hike For University Faculty

UP Sweeps In Election

By PRINGLE PIPKIN Voting along the party line, the University Party swept the election of Student Legislature officers Thursday night.

Jim Alford was acclaimed the chairman of the ways and means committee. Bob Carter (SP) opposed Ron Belk (UP) for chairman of the finance committee.

There was a question as to whether a member of the executive branch (Carter is student body treasurer) could legally be a chairman of a legislative committee.

The nomination was ruled in order. Belk defeated Carter, 23-18. Miss Julia Ann Crater (UP) was opposed in the election for chairman of the Rules Committee.

Harold O'Tuel (SP) and Jerry Cole (UP) were named representatives of the Student Legislature on the Publication Board. Vice-President Don Furtado (SP) announced he had formed an appointments committee to interview all candidates for student government.

Chancellor House also feted at Grail banquet. Gov. Luther Hodges expressed optimism last night concerning his recommendation for an 11 per cent hike in University faculty salaries.

Gov. Hodges, interviewed after delivering an address before the Order of the Grail's annual initiation banquet in the Carolina Inn, said he felt the hike "will go through."

"Generally speaking, it (the proposed hike) has been very received," Hodges said. "I am happy we were able to do more than originally suggested," the governor said.

Gov. Hodges originally recommended a straight-across-the-board nine per cent hike for state teachers. In an address before a joint session of the General Assembly Tuesday, Hodges recommended a 15 per cent hike in public school teachers' salaries and an 11 per cent hike for other state employees, including University faculty members.

In his address before the Grail, highest undergraduate honorary organization on campus, Gov. Hodges called the University a "unique institution" where "there is a feeling of freedom to grow as much as one is capable of growing."

Dance, Concert? Don't Tell Mother Nature

Mother Nature and Old Sol don't seem to realize that this is Germans weekend. They apparently have gotten together and decided to call a halt to the balmy spring weather evidenced in the Chapel Hill area over the past week.

Today's prediction calls for fair and chilly weather, with lowest expected temperatures in the 40's. Some luck is with German-goes though, in the form of Chapel Hill's traditional misty, moody climate's decision to hold off at least until Monday.

To cheer on those individuals who plan to recuperate from the activities of the day before out at Hogan's Sunday offers a rather promising prospect.

Another collection of display books may be taken from the case on request and used in the library a spokesman for the books sale said.

Among the books on sale in the Y are "Campus Gods on Trial" by Chad Walsh; "The Superstitions of the Irreligious" by George Hadley; and "Faith and Education" by George Buttrick.

"Christian Ethics" by Dr. Waldo Beach, the forums featured speaker, will be available in the library.

These questions have many replies. Educators are at work now digging out the answers.

Perhaps the educators don't have to make a last-ditch choice between the liberal arts and the sciences. Maybe more people will go onto the sciences if they have their scientific studies garnished and leavened with liberal arts.

Perhaps the liberal arts can be made more meaningful by basic revelations which come daily into all men's lives from the laboratories of electronics, atomic energy, biology, medicine, and economics.

It may be that both the humanities and the sciences can be strengthened by mixing each with the other.

Chancellor House Also Fetted At Grail Banquet

GOV. LUTHER HODGES spoke at Grail banquet.

Evans To Start Interviewing For Positions

Student body President Sonny Evans will begin interviewing Monday in his office for students interested in being appointed to government offices.

President Evans said he plans to be in his office on the second floor of Graham Memorial from 2-5 p.m. each day before spring vacation.

He said the interviews would continue for an indefinite period of time after the holidays which start Wednesday and end Monday, April 23.

In order to apply, Evans said, students must get an application blank at either the student government office or the information office, both in Graham Memorial.

"The amount of work that has to be done is enormous, and we will all need as much help as possible if student government is to be successful.

"Once again we will fill all appointments by the merit system, considering all individuals as I believe they should be considered — on the basis of ability, interest, and desire to serve," commented President Evans.

The appointments to be filled are: Attorney General, 2 positions on the Consolidated University Student Council, 15 positions on the Elections Board, 2 positions on the Campus Chest, 5 positions on National Student Assn. Committee, 7 positions of the Library Committee.

College Bootleager

OXFORD, Miss., (AP) — One member of what officers called a student bootlegging ring at the University of Mississippi was permanently expelled today and four others were suspended for varying periods.

The action by the Student Judiciary Council followed a raid on a dormitory late yesterday in which liquor was seized, and guilty pleas to liquor charges by four of the youths in justice of peace court today.

Holy Week

John Clayton will speak Monday at the YM-YWCA sponsored Holy Week Service to be held in the small chapel of the Methodist Church from 5-8:40 p.m.

Clayton received his Masters degree here in Dramatic Arts and is now serving as an assistant professor of Radio, TV and Motion Pictures. He will speak on the significance of Holy Week. Everyone interested has been invited to attend the service.

Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., AP — The U. N. reported yesterday its mission headed by Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler cleared the Suez Canal of sunken obstacles for less than 11 million dollars. It said the full cost was covered by loans in hand from 10 countries.

A U. N. spokesman meanwhile declared, in comment on a syndicated (Joseph Alsop) report to the contrary, that "no concession was made by the U. N. to the government of Egypt" in a recent understanding on deployment of the U. N. Emergency Force (UNEF).

ZOOLOGIST LECTURE

A University of Pennsylvania zoologist will deliver a lecture here Monday under the auspices of the North Carolina chapter, the Society of Sigma Xi.

The lecture by Dr. William H. Telfer will be given at 8 p.m. in Wilson Hall. His subject will be "Contributions of Metamorphosing Insects to the Physiology of Proteins."

SENIOR WEEK REDUCED TO ONE DAY

The annual Senior Day celebration for graduating seniors will be held this year on Wednesday, May 1. Publicity Chairman Lou Rosenstock has announced.

In a statement concerning the traditional day set aside each year for the recreation and final participation in group activities for the graduating class, Rosenstock said yesterday:

"This year, Senior Week has been reduced to one day because it is felt that previous Senior Weeks have not been as successful as they should have been.

"The change has been made in order to concentrate the interests of the more than 600 seniors."

A free late show for seniors will be presented at the Carolina Theater at 11 p.m. Tuesday, Rosenstock said.

Rosenstock went on to point out that a brief organizational meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday morning in Memorial Hall. Since seniors are to be excused from all classes that day, he urged that everyone attend the meeting.

Honor Council Reports Student Suspension

One suspension from the University has been reported by the Men's Honor Council in a statement of its recent activities.

The case involved a student who had been seen by a fellow student copying a paper during a quiz, had been asked to report himself and failed to do so, and had been subsequently reported to Honor Council by the instructor of the course.

Following the trial in which the student was found guilty of a violation of the Honor Code, action was taken by the Council in the form of a suspension.

Due to extenuating family conditions, however, the student was granted leniency and was allowed to return to the University the following semester. Normal suspension entails the suspension of the person involved from the University for one full semester.

The Honor Council report, released by Gary Cooper, Council Clerk, also included the following statement:

"Two important points are to be drawn from the above case. The first point is that it is strongly urged that students, once they are aware of the fact that violation of the Honor Code has occurred not hesitate to take proper action.

Oppenheimer Says Deadline Is Tuesday

Jerry Oppenheimer, chairman of the Campus Orientation Committee, has reminded students the deadline for turning in applications for the position of Orientation Counselor is Tuesday.

Application forms may be secured from Graham Memorial, the YMCA Library, Lenoir Hall, and the Monogram Club, and should be returned either to the "Y" or Graham Memorial, he said.

There will be a meeting of all applicants and a test given on the material in the 1956 Counselor's Manual on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in 106 Carroll Hall. The manuals may be borrowed from the YMCA Library, or Graham Memorial. Oppenheimer said.
