Says George Ragsdale

'System Is In Good Shape'

"The System (Honor) is in better shape right now than it has been in a long time," George Ragsdale, chairman of the Honor Council, told a meeting of orientation counselors Tuesday night.

"In view of that fact we even decided not to have the traditional Honor System Emphasis Week this spring," he said.

"He explained that the newspaper articles and informal speeches 'have made it impossible to have this week. The Honor System has been so positively presented that we thought it injudicious to run it into the ground.'"

In his twenty minute speech he emphasized the positive attitude that he wanted the orientation counselors take in presenting the Honor System to the new students.

"You are working with men who can as easily be led wrongly as they can be led rightly," he said. He stated that some counselors had formerly "defamed the Honor System."

"More students have turned over their names in this year than last year, and more students have turned themselves in this year than last year," he told the group.

He said that the system was strong, but that it was up to the orientation counselors to teach the freshmen the fundamentals "so that they would become stronger men."

Ragsdale placed special emphasis on "those violations which have previously been wrongly called 'fringe violations.'"

He asked the counselors not to use the term 'fringe' as it connoted the offenses were not as serious

The speaker explained they were less frequent, but "They are not less serious."

These violations he named as falsifying the class rolls, signing a false name to a library card, plagiarism, and illegal laboratory collaboration.

Suggesting that the counselors tell the new students to take alternate seats for exams, Ragsdale also warned the counselors to tell their students who might study together not to sit near each other during a test.

"A student should never be misled into thinking that he is helping another student by not reporting him," he stated.

He said that the counselors must build up the idea of trust in the minds of the new men and give them the "opportunity to be honorable."

"Beliefs which have lasted ages now rest with you. The regeneration of these time tested beliefs is a solemn duty which belongs to you. We must not let this great tradition of Honor pass from the University scene," he said in reaching his conclusion.

The orientation counselors were given schedules which were then explained by Jerry Oppenheimer, chairman of the orientation committee.

Carolina Gets 16 Hits; Maryland Scores In 9th

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Duke backed into the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball championship yesterday as North Carolina missed a chance to tie the Blue Devils by losing to Maryland, 8-7.

North Carolina, going into today's game with a 9-1 league record against Duke's 10-1, is now 9-5 for the year. The North Carolina loss removed the possibility of a playoff and Duke will go to the NCAA eliminations.

The ball game was tied by North Carolina and won by Maryland in the ninth.

news in brief

Mollet Tries To Resign

Paris, (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet said last night he felt France had been deserted by the United States and Britain on the Suez issue. He attempted to resign after 16 months in office, a post war record in France.

Perstuded by President Rene Coty to stay in office, the premier and the cabinet then decided in a stormy session to ask the U. N. Security Council as soon as possible to order Egypt to observe the six principles it approved last October for safeguarding free passage to all nations through the Suez Canal.

Mollet indicated he felt he should resign because his leadership had isolated France on a vital issue.

In a statement to newsmen, the premier indicated he felt most keenly the decision by Britain—France's partner in the ill-starred Suez invasion last fall—to bow to Egyptian President Nasser's terms for operation of the canal.

The British government has authorized British-flag ships to use the canal again, paying tolls in sterling to Egypt and without protest.

Joe Shook led off for the Tar Heels with a walk off Stan Bobb, the first given up by a Maryland pitcher in the game. Roger Honeycutt sacrificed Shook to second and Don Hill singled to center scoring Shook from second for a 7-7 score.

Maryland's daring Howie Dare, who holds the ACC record for stolen bases, upped the record to 31 in the ninth. Dare stole second after getting a walk to open the inning, then stole third after Dick Reitz struck out.

Jack Johnson's drive over the head of rightfielder Don Hill let Dare walk home with ease for the winning run. Johnson, who could have gone all the way, got credit for a single.

North Carolina ended the season 14-10 against all opponents. Maryland is 11-12 over-all and 6-8 in the conference. Today's victory was the fifth straight for the Tarps.

Maryland got to starter Don Saine in the first frame for five runs and added singletons in the second, fourth and ninth. The Tar Heels had taken a three-run lead in the top of the first only to have to scramble back in the fourth for another trio of markers to tie the contest.

Of the 16 hits, only one was for extra-bases and it was a triple by Ivalee Hill.

'Open Parks To Everyone' Baptist Union Tells State

Reaction to the recent Umstead Park incident whereby a University student was ousted from the park grounds because of racial considerations was voiced yesterday by the Baptist Student Union here in a letter to the State Legislature in Raleigh.

Stated in the letter was a resolution calling for the North Carolina State Legislature to act to open all state park facilities to all citizens of the state.

Recalling the effects the incident had not only on the individual and group involved, but the citizens of this state and country, the letter stated that:

"In view of the large proportion of overseas students in the group, we feel that this incident has been exceptionally detrimental to America's position as a working example of democracy in the eyes of the world.

"We further feel that this student's being denied entrance to the park was in effect an abridgement of his status as a student at the University as well as a violation of his rights as a person."

A letter enclosed with the resolution was addressed to The Daily Tar Heel Tuesday indicating that at its last meeting the Executive Council of the Baptist Student Union voted to send its appraisal to appropriate committees of the State Legislature.

Surrounding the removal of University Student Leroy Frasier from the park several weeks ago while he was the guest of the Cosmopolitan Club, the story and incident received notice in several state and local newspapers.

A resolution requiring censure action was introduced to the Student Legislature here by Rep. Tom Long shortly following disclosure of the incident.

Two weeks ago, the original resolution met a quiet death when it was decided to retain it in committee until next year. The Legislature recapitulated, however, in an amending resolution "expressing deep regret to the individual and group involved."

Y Needs Grad Counselors!

Applications for interviews for graduate orientation counselors are now available in Miss Eleanor Riggs' office in the Y building. These applications will be available through May 18.

The Graduate Club, sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA, recently announced that it has taken over this project of orienting graduate students.

This is the first time that the Graduate Club has handled this project. It has been carried out before by Sam Magill's office and by the Campus Orientation Committee.

According to Miss Eleanor Riggs, graduate counselor for the Y, Jerry Oppenheimer, Chairman of the Campus Orientation Committee, considers the new plan a good one because the graduates will know the needs of the other graduates and should be able to plan a more fitting program for them than undergraduates could.

The following are heading up the orientation program: Bill Deaton, president of the Graduate Club; Bob Renick, chairman of orientation; and Tom Donnelly, chairman of the counselor selection committee.

The orientation will start on September 16, just two days before school starts. Plans for orientation are already in progress. A dance is planned for September 16 for all new and old graduate students. A picnic, tours of the campus, and departmental meetings are also planned.

NROTC On TV

Carolina's Naval ROTC unit will be saluted on ABC's television program "Navy Hour" this Saturday.

Each week the program selects one of the 53 universities participating in the NROTC program to feature on their show. The program will be televised over station WTIC in Durham from 1:05-1:30 p.m.

English Flunks Must Take Lab

Students who failed the English Proficiency Test given recently will be required to attend a remedial English laboratory until such time as they can make a passing grade on the proficiency test, according to an announcement released by the General College office.

This remedial course, known as the composition conditioning laboratory, is offered through the Extension Division and requires an additional tuition fee.

Registration for the CC lab is handled through the Extension Division in Abernethy Hall. The charge for the course is $10.00. Students who enroll for the class will meet the first class meeting after registering.

The lab meets in 201 Bingham. Monday—7:30 to 9:30 p.m.—Tuesday—4:00 to 6:00 p.m.; Wednesday—7:30 to 9:30 p.m.; Friday—4:00 to 6:00 p.m.

Students who failed the proficiency test will be required to attend two meetings of the laboratory each week until the composition condition has been removed.

Work must be successfully completed before the affected students may graduate. The General College has urged all students who must attend the lab to begin attendance in the immediate future.

Dr. Andrews To Retire After 20 Year Career

Dr. J. C. Andrews of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine will retire on July after a 20-year teaching career here.

He is professor of biochemistry and nutrition. While most of his work has been with medical students, Dr. Andrews has taught hundreds of students at the University who were studying in other fields of science.

Came Here In 1937

He joined the staff of UNC in 1937, coming here from the University of Pennsylvania. He received his B.S. degree from the State University of Iowa and a Ph.D. degree from Columbia University.

He also is an honorary professor of the University of Guatemala. Dr. Andrews was sent there to teach by the U. S. State Department in 1944. He returned there by a request of the Central American school to teach again in 1948. He modestly attributes his popularity at the University of Guatemala to his ability to "deliver lectures in very poor Spanish, instead of following the American custom of lecturing in English." He is a member of the Guatemala Academy of Science.

Dr. Andrews is a native of Indiana and taught at the University of Pennsylvania for 15 years before coming to UNC.

Depression

He recalls that when he came to UNC in the depression year of 1937 the School of Medicine was a two-year school located in Caldwell Hall. Dr. Andrews estimates that since he has been at UNC he has taught 1,400 medical students, not including dental students and students in other courses of basic science.

Two years ago Dr. Andrews was sent to Formosa as a consultant in biochemistry there for the two medical schools of that country.
