

Shabby Conduct In Polite Setting

Girls, it's up to you.

This summer session could go down in the annals of history as one of the worst in regard to conduct measures without your cooperation.

When you first became a Carolina coed you were introduced to our campus code and put on your honor to conduct yourself as a lady at all times.

You were also told that violation of this code was an honor council offense, just as lying, cheating and stealing.

Yet, with only two weeks of classes passed, long-time observers are shaking their heads in disgust at the conduct of some of our coeds.

Our Carolina gentlemen have been instructed along the same lines, but for the system to really be effective, feminine effort is necessary. Someone once said a coed is a lady when she can make the young man with her act like a gentleman.

Only by this dual cooperation can we hold up the name of Carolina. Some coeds may have the tendency to feel that since they are here just for the summer that they can do as they please, but whether a coed is from St. Mary's, W.C., Meredith or G.C., what she does here will follow her back to school next fall and be placed on her permanent record.

We can either enjoy this period or go to extremes in our conduct and wipe out the fun for future Carolina students.

It's up to you, coeds.

SUMMER SPOTLIGHT

Friendship Counts Most With This Carolina Coed

By BILL CHESHIRE

Do your professors growl at you when you meet them on the campus? Do fellow students glower at you as you slink through the Y Court? Andrea Stalvey not only does not suffer from these unnerving delusions, but if you do, she can probably tell you why.

Andrea, a psychology major, says that Carolina is the friendliest place she has ever seen. "Not only are the students friendly to each other, but the professors I pass never fail to smile."

However, friendship is not the only feature of the UNC environment that attracted Andrea here from her native state of South Carolina. When asked to name some of the reasons why she chose to pursue her higher education at UNC, Andrea smiled good-naturedly and replied, "husband hunting." (At least she's honest.)

In all fairness, though, it should be added that hunting for a husband has not monopolized her extra curricula activities. This summer Andrea is acting secretary-treasurer of the Student Government, a member of the Summer Honor Council and a member of the Summer School Activities Council. She is chairman of the Planned Programs Committee of the last-named organization.

She is likewise a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and represents that group on the Pan Hellenic Council of which she is treasurer. In the sorority itself, she has been co-chairman of names and pledge treasurer.

A member of the Student Party, Andrea apparently has the greatest respect and admiration for Carolina's Student Government. "The system of student leadership here is excellent," she said. "It not only enables us to manage our own student affairs, but prepares us for the future."

To judge by the extent of her activities in the field of student activities, Andrea should be more than adequately prepared.

Socially Speaking

By MARY ALYS VOORHEES

HOT WEATHER seems to have taken up residence here in Chapel Hill, and of course with no Saturday classes this past weekend, that means trips to the beach, home or visiting friends.

The Zete House was vacated shortly after classes Friday with the brothers headed toward Morehead City and Atlantic Beach where a house party was underway. Among the coeds going down for the beach weekend were Tri Delts Patsy Beams, Ruth Gibbs and Eleanor Williamson, and Helen Mason, who is down here from WC for the summer session.

Betas Wesley Trotter and Allen Fry were also spotted down at the coastal resort.

Our basketball players Joe Quigg and Pete Brennan evidently have "taking a liking" to Myrtle Beach. After an enjoyable time a couple weeks back, the fellows took along Bobby Cunningham for another vacation this past weekend.

WEDDINGS took another group away from the Hill this past weekend. Down in Rocky Mount for the marriage of coed Betty Ivey and Pika Skip Knox on Saturday were bridesmaids Tri Delt Martha Williford, and Pi Phi Nancy Llewellyn and Pikas Howard Williams, Harry Braxton, Cliff Hamrick, Louis Hornthal and Dent Lackey, who served as ushers.

A few hundred miles farther away—in Miami, Fla., to be exact—were Chi Phis Larry Ford and Foy Shaw, who were down to usher at the wedding of Chi Phi Charlie Fitzgerald.
