Stevenson Blames Ike Indecision For Crisis

By DOUGLAS EISELE

Adlai Stevenson yesterday indirectly blamed President Eisenhower for the Little Rock crisis and said a Governor's conference as set next week could have avoided the fiasco.

He told a press conference here that "it is time to sew up our wounds" and withdraw federal troops from the Arkansas Capitol "so that this will never happen again."

"If his (Eisenhower's) position had been made clear we wouldn't have suffered this national misfortune which has been so exemplified by our enemies," Stevenson said.

Stevenson recalled that "two years ago" he urged such meetings as the Southern Governor's conference set next week with Eisenhower, and said it could have been instrumental in avoiding crises like Little Rock.

"I have been deeply grieved by the extent to which this (Little Rock) has been exploited abroad," Stevenson declared.

"This (foreign exploitation) has been one of the sorrier aspects of this sorry affair," he added.

Earlier, Stevenson had read a mimeographed statement of his views on Little Rock crisis and integration because he "anticipated you were going to ask me about" them.

Further in the conference he told reporters that there is a "possibility" of a third party in the south, but added, "I would personally deplore that action."

He said there always is the possibility that a southerner could get the nomination for a top (namely vice presidential) post and spoke out against sectional leadership on the national level.

A representative of a local radio station asked Stevenson to express his views on the recent trip of U.S. college students into Red China.

"If we call America believe in our system as (devoutly) as I do, we have nothing to be afraid of," Stevenson commented.

He said the U.S. should want its "top" college students to go abroad, "to Russia, to any place they want to." And, he added, we should welcome foreign students for tours through the U.S.

Stevenson said he foresees "anti-labor legislation" growing out of current Congressional probes, but said he "can't tell you what."

The former Illinois Governor noted an expansion of the Democratic Party in the far west and said that "the south will return to the path of its fathers in due course."

Tar Heels Tame Tigers For 26-0 Victory; Superb Offense, Defense Pace UNC's Win

Clemson's Pass Attack Thwarted

By BILL KING

The Carolina Tar Heels toned the roar of the Clemson Tigers to a mere burp yesterday by whitewashing the Tigers, 26-0, under dark, chilly skies in Kenan Stadium.

A Dad's Day crowd of about 16,000 watched the Tar Heels put on a beautiful demonstration of offensive and defensive precision as Jim Tatum's charges officially won their first game since 1955.

It was not the same Carolina team which dropped a 7-0 decision to N. C. State in Kenan a week ago. It was obvious from the opening kickoff that the Tar Heels were there to win and they never let up their vicious attack. It was a harmonogeneous and concerted effort on the part of the entire ball club which brought Carolina this badly needed moral booster.

Clemson could never get started against a three-deep defense that stayed one step ahead of the Tigers all afternoon. The highly regarded passing game of the Tigers was thwarted time and again as the Tar Heel line charged right through the Clemson front wall unmercifully.

Carolina's first touchdown of the season came with only one minute and ten seconds gone in the second quarter. It was the fine running of halfback Daley Goff which carried the Tar Heels to the Clemson one yard line and set the stage for quarterback Dave Reed to crash over just after the start of the second period.

The ball exchanged hands twice before the Tar Heels netted their first six points. Clemson could get nowhere in its two tries but the Tar Heels got down to the Tiger 24 on their first attempt.

The Carolina TD drive started when Goff made a fair catch at the Carolina 33. Mainly through the efforts of Goff, the Carolina "second unit" carried the ball deep into enemy territory. Ed Lipsky, Emil DeCantis and Curt Hathaway all had a hand in the drive before the "first unit" came in.

The first quarter ended with the Tar Heels in the Clemson 6. Goff then went off tackle to the 3, then went left again to the 1 before Reed sliced across. Phil Blazer kicked the extra point and the Tar Heels led, 7-0.

The Tar Heels wasted little time in showing their superiority. Blazer kicked off and George Usry got the ball on the one and raced back to the 28. There, he was rucked up and the ball slipped.

Senator Urges Investigation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(AP)—Sen. Olin Johnston, D-SC has urged that Southern states raise several million dollars to investigate what he termed a drive by Communists and fellow travelers to force integration, discredit the South and set up a dictatorship.

In a letter to Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference, Johnston said such subversive elements support the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) "both physically and financially."

"The South needs to show in solid evidence that organizations causing such situations as have occurred at Little Rock, and which will be caused to occur in other places, are subversive in nature and have Communist backing," Johnston told Collins.

"The South needs such a program to counteract the propaganda of the NAACP and other elements and organizations which are constantly resmiring the people of the South."

Johnston said that deeper than the goal of complete integration, subversives seek "to completely destroy the power of state governments and to establish a dictatorship."

He said that the NAACP operates in a surreptitious manner in Southern states with the encouragement of the Justice Department. He reiterated that it is supported by subversive elements.

Meager 300 At Rally; Players Leave Scene

By DAVIS YOUNG

A disappointing 300 of Carolina's more than 7,000 students turned out for Friday night's pre-UNC-Clemson game pep rally at Woolen Gym.

The lack of students caused Jim Tatum, Carolina coach, to take his boys from the scene of the rally to a movie.

The rally was initiated on the field adjacent to the gym by the ignition of a bonfire. At the time only 150 students were present causing Head Cheerleader Frank Black to march on the dormitories with his followers in quest of more people.

Marching up Raleigh Street and through the Upper Quad, the group picked up an additional 150 students. The termination of the marching was the steps of South Building.

It must be said of those that did take the time to attend tonight's event, that their spirit was tremendous. The voices of the faithful could be heard ringing across the campus to the tune of "All the Way Bib Blue, All the Way."

Cheerleader Black had this to say at the conclusion of the rally: "I am surprised and disappointed at the apparent lack of spirit and attitude of the students exhibited tonight."

"I certainly hope the spirit of the team for the game will be the opposite of that shown for this rally. It is an honor to have a coach of Jim Tatum's caliber. I am deeply disappointed that he saw fit to remove his boys to a movie.

"I appreciate the spirit of those who did come and I hope that future rallies will be more successful. Let's rectify last night's action with plenty of noise and enthusiasm from the stands today."

HOBBS TO SPEAK

Marcus Hobbs, dean of the Duke University Graduate School, will be the featured speaker at the first Faculty Club luncheon held by University of North Carolina faculty and administrative staff. The meeting will be Tuesday, Oct. 1, in the Carolina Inn Ball Room at 1 p.m.

Luncheons with specially planned programs and guest speakers will be held each alternate Tuesday beginning Oct. 1. At the first meeting new faculty members will be introduced.

Baptist Series Starts Tonight

A discussion centering around the topic "Portrait of a Christian Student" will begin a fall series of programs on Campus Christian Life at the Baptist Student Union supper forum tonight at 6 o'clock.

Miss Miriam Hollis, associate secretary of the North Carolina State BSU, will act as guest discussion leader for the program.

Miss Hollis is a graduate of Mississippi College and attended Southern Seminary in Louisville, Ky. Prior to her present position she served as BSU director at Woman's College in Greensboro for three years.

Future programs in the series will include a discussion on "Can I Change My Mind?" on Oct. 6, by Dr. Maxine Garner. Dr. Garner is professor of religion at Meredith College in Raleigh.

UNC Director of Student Affairs Sam Magill will speak on "Conscience and Compromise" Oct. 13.

Following Magill's talk will be a program on "Gods of the Campus." On Oct. 20, Rev. Harold Cole, secretary of the state BSU in Raleigh, will be the visiting speaker.

Tatum's Supper Better After Saturday's Win

By DAVE WIBLE

The big brown "S" burned in the grass of Kenan last week by mischievous State College fans "seemed to gradually fade away yesterday afternoon as the Tar Heels pounded their way out of "always the bridesmaid" predicament they have been faced with for the last three contests.

Several of the Tar Heels said after the game that had they played as well against State as they did yesterday the outcome would have been very different. Co-captain Buddy Payne, speaking of the overall change between the Tar Heels yesterday and those of a week ago, said, "We just decided to play football. Last week we made too many mistakes we could not override. This week we didn't make as many, and when one was made we took it in stride."

Happy Jim Tatum's first remark to the press was, "Well, boys, I'm a lot happier to see you this week and you know, my supper is going to taste a lot better tonight."

"What was the difference in this and the State game?" was the first question. "Thirty degrees temperature," was the quick reply. "Today," he continued the squad played the type of ball they are capable of playing. It was a team victory. I hate to single anyone out since they all did so well."

Tatum did feel that the defense did a very fine job. He went as far as to say that it was the best defensive game any of his Carolina teams have ever played.

Later on he did single out Dave Reed for his calling of the game. "This was the first game Reed has played with out any unusual situations in the background, and he did do a fine job," Tatum commented, meaning the leg injury that hampered the quarterback last season. Ed Lipsky, Fred Swearingen, Mack Turlington, and Al Goldstine were all given laurels by their coach for their tremendous efforts.

No one was called the "star" of the afternoon. It was a team victory and Tatum wanted it recorded that way.

news in brief

May Close School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —(AP)— Gov. Orval Faubus has said he might try to close Central High School, rather than continue its integrated classes at federal bayonet point.

"It would be a very pleasant development," he declared. Faubus said enactment of new laws at a special session of the state legislature would be a necessary prelude to any such drastic step. Earlier, he had revealed he was considering calling such a session although he hasn't done so.

Teamsters Can Vote

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An appeals court has cleared the way for the hotly controversial Teamsters union election but warned that convention delegates must be seated in accordance with the union constitution.

The United States circuit court of appeals for the District of Columbia stayed a temporary injunction granted by Federal Judge F. Dick-
