

Freshman Footballers Open Season At Maryland Today

Carson Says Tar Babies Ready For Tough Test

By RUSTY HAMMOND

The U.N.C. Freshman gridders kick-off their '58 season today against Maryland's Tar Babies at College Park, Maryland, with the action set to get underway at 2:00 (1:00 p.m. our time) p.m. in Byrd Stadium.

Although rain halted outdoor practice for several days, Coach Bud Carson expressed the opinion that "We are as ready as could be expected." The prospects of an excellent game are predominant, since both Maryland and Carolina should field one of its better teams.

Strongest point in favor of the Tar Babies will be tremendous depth at practically every position, with some positions as much as three or four deep. Another stand-out quality of the freshmen should be defense, since they have scrimmaged with the varsity on numerous occasions. In the offense department, Coach Carson stated that "although the offense is untried, it has great potential and we will be able to tell a lot more about it after the Maryland game."

The U.N.C. mentor is expecting a tough battle with Maryland. "Coach Whitey Doyell and his assistants have a very good group of boys to work with, and from all reports, they've done a superb job in developing a strong all-around game there," he stated.

The first game is always a big one to win from a morale standpoint and this game could very well be the making of the Tar Babies. Carson remarked that he expected the team to make some mistakes, but he hoped they could be held to a minimum.

Tremendous competition for starting berths has been prevalent since the first day of practice and him up. The right end slot is still undecided between Bob Campbell and Bob Hawkins.

The backfield is a little more settled, but a number of excellent subs make competition keen in this department also. Russ Hollers gets the nod at quarterback, the number two man is Dick Detanna. At left half it looks like Bill Welch, followed by Lenny Beck and Joe Olejnick. Sonny Folckomer and Conrad Sloop are both possibilities at right half with Roy Wall close behind. Frank Riggs will start at fullback with Jim Graham to back him up.

Braves Clip Yanks, 4-2

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves defeated the New York Yankees 4-2 in the second game of the World Series today before 63,202 spectators and squared the series at one victory each. A two run fourth inning broke a 2-2 tie and sent Yankee pitcher Bobby Shantz to cover.

Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette limited the Yanks, 3-1 winners of the first game, to seven hits, including a game-tying homer by Hank Bauer.

Bauer's wallop into the lower left field stands in the third inning made the score 2-2 after the Braves Johnny Logan had hits a homer in the first half of the inning.

The straight hits and a costly error by 20-year-old Tony Kubek at third base gave Milwaukee the deciding runs in the fourth and ended Shantz' hopes for a World Series victory.

The third game will be played in Milwaukee Saturday, starting at 2 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, after the teams take a day off for travel tomorrow.

DALEY GOFF... Scholarship and Football

Goff Is Tatum's All-American Boy

By JAKE WADE

When the Carolina Tar Heels entertain Navy's mighty Middies in Kenan Stadium Saturday afternoon, one of the key men in their attack will be a handsome 21-year-old halfback from Dunn, N.C.

He is Daley Goff, a senior in his class work with a light load the rest of the way but who has had another year to eligibility in the event he cares to use it.

Goff has been the team's busiest and most effective back in the two games the Tar Heels have played so far.

He has run 20 times, oftener than any of his mates (Jim Shuler is runner-up with 15 carries) and he has collected 82 net yards with not a single loss. He has averaged 4.1 yards per carry. Sophomore Don Coker, with 32 in eight carries and no losses, is next best.

What makes his performance more remarkable is that many of his running plays are options, for he is a fine passing halfback, and his running-pass plays have been a deadly Tar Heel weapon, in addition to being exciting in artistry. Goff, a Morehead Scholar and therefore not on a regular football grant-in-aid, has actually gotten off four passes, completing two of them for 37 yards. Thus, he is running second in passes (behind quarterbacks Dave Reed and Jack Cummings.)

He has been on the receiving end of one pass, good for 12 yards. He has punted three times for 30

Frosh Cage Star Larese May Not Play This Year

Carolina's varsity basketball team, the nation's best last season, has had the unpleasant arm of injury strike one of the teams most promising sophomores, forward York Larese.

Larese, who was a top scorer on last seasons freshman squad has had to have an operation on his left knee. A loose piece of cartilage in the knee caused the surgery.

Assistant basketball Coach Buck Freeman said yesterday that it is not known now when Larese will be able to get on the court this year. A knee injury heals slowly taking at least three months and sometimes more, usually depending on the individual.

President Evans Not Completely Happy

Student Body President Sonny Evans is not completely satisfied with things on the athletic front at Carolina — student committee representation in particular.

Little known to most students is that the Athletic Council met Wednesday night and one of the items on the agenda was the much-publicized McGuire contract. The Council's action is, and will not be known until the matter is acted upon by the Chancellor.

The meeting, however, was only formality since the committee meets the first Wednesday in each month. Evan's main concern stems from an incident which arose before the beginning of the current semester.

At that time a meeting of the "Coaches Committee" was held, apparently to discuss Coach McGuire's contract plus other items. Evans was of the opinion that he, as a member of the Athletic Council, was supposed to attend the meeting. He was informed before the meeting that this was the Coaches Committee and did not include student representation, only three faculty members, the closest living alumni and a chairman.

Don't Give Up On Those Tar Heels

A veil of silence has hung plaided over the Carolina football camp this week and many Carolina followers are wondering if Jim Tatum might not be brewing some potent concoction to shove down the throat of Navy when the two clubs clash here tomorrow.

Strong this concoction will have to be if the Tar Heels expect to shake the high-flying Sailors from Annapolis, one of the nation's most powerful and experienced ball clubs.

But one victory can penetrate deep into the souls of football players and fans, especially when their club hasn't been winning much, and last week's victory over the Clemson Tigers came at a very strategic moment—Consequently, there seems to be a distinct air of optimism around the Carolina camp this week.

Every odd in the books will favor the Middies over the Tar Heels tomorrow. You can probably get as much as four touchdowns in some quarters. But the fans around here, seemingly, are not giving up on their Tar Heels. The Clemson game has given them hope.

Tatum himself said earlier this week that, after the Clemson game, the boys seemed anxious to get out and work. One of his main concerns was the bad weather which was prevalent during the first of the week, but the elements cleared up and the Tar Heels have been out-of-doors since Tuesday.

All things considered, the Middies will be tough, but don't sell those Tar Heels short.

Pep Rally Facing Problem

Quick sports shots: We at Carolina are facing a meticulous situation as regards the scheduled pep rally tonight at 8:30. Nothing would be finer for the team than a tremendous turnout at the rally, but the fraternity rush situation creates a problem.

Although rush is over at nine o'clock, the fraternities will have to hold short meetings following the rushing hours—Thus it will be hard on the fraternities and the rushees to get to the rally. Here's hoping that some last minute arrangement can be made which will give every student a chance to show the ball club they're behind it.

The World Series is all even now after Lew Burdette stopped the New York Yanks yesterday. It should be a good battle from here out, but we're still looking for the Yanks to end it in less than seven games.

Tar Heel Problem

Navy quarterback, Tom Forrestal will pose a big problem for the Carolina Tar Heels tomorrow in Kenan Stadium. The husky senior has been a passing wizard in the Middies' first two games and has been tabbed All-American material in many quarters.
