Try Hiding A Pin From Polgar; Undoubtedly, He'll Uncover It

If you think you're good at hiding things, you should go see Dr. Franz Polgar, who will present his two-hour "Fun With the Mind" show at Memorial Hall on Oct. 29 for the benefit of the Campus Chest.

For years he has defied anyone to hide any object so that he can't find it.

Noted commentator Lowell Thomas once bet $100 the genial wizard of the mind couldn't find a pin he would hide. Polgar located the pin under Thomas's collar in about 30 seconds.

Hard-boiled skeptics on the staff of Look Magazine thought they'd make a monkey of the mental marvel when they hid a silver money clip in the Empire State Building and then told Polgar to go find it.

Exactly 15 minutes later, Polgar had located the money-clip in a drawer within a safe in the lock-smith's office in the subbasement of the world's largest building!

So confident is Polgar of his unerring ability to locate hidden objects that frequently, as part of his program, he challenges the audience to hide his check for the night's show. If he fails to find it, the show is on him.

He has never failed, despite the fact that many audiences have resorted to diabolically contrived hiding places. In Hollywood they hid the check under the upper plate of a man's denture!

In Texas the check was rolled up and shoved into an empty chamber of the police chief's .38 revolver; a Detroit audience tucked the check under the hat of an elderly lady sitting in the center of the theatre.

Polgar has had to find his evening's pay in brassieres, hearing aid, under toupees, in the heel of a lady's shoe, sealed in a tennis ball, and in the plaster cast on a girl's fractured ankle.

The $64 question, of course, is: How does he do it?

The answer, in a word, is "Telepathy," or as Polgar prefers to call it, "thought-transference." He claims no magic powers, nor does he resort to any of the faker's mumbo-jumbo.

Polgar does admit, however, to the possession of highly-developed extra-sensory perception. In less technical language, this might be described as a sixth sense.

The procedure used by Polgar to locate hidden objects in simple in appearance, although baffling in the results achieved. He requires only the assistance of the person who knows the whereabouts of the concealed object. This person is instructed to give Polgar mental directions — without uttering a sound!

The system is sure-fire — for Polgar.

In addition to his telepathic stunts, Polgar's program will also feature uncanny memory stunts, a truly remarkable and hilarious demonstration of split-second hypnosis and other mystifying phenomena of the mind that prompted the Saturday Evening Post to report, "Audiences gasp at this mental wizard!"

Tickets for the show are available at Memorial Hall, the cashier's counter in the Y and at the information desk in Graham Memorial.

Town residents may purchase tickets at Danziger's or at Pace's in Glen Lennox. Tickets are on sale for $2, but students presenting an ID card may buy them for $1.

Soviet Russia Accuses U.S. During UN Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP)—The Soviet Union called on the U. N. today to halt a surprise attack on Syria allegedly planned by the United States and Turkey. Russia offered to join other U. N. members in supplying military forces to meet such an attack.

The Russians charged that United States is urging Turkey to launch an attack with "lightning speed," in order to confront the U. N. with a situation whereby the world organization "may have no time to take steps to prevent aggression."

The Soviet accusation came on the heels of these swift developments in the U. N. on the explosive middle east situation:

1. Syria informed U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold that an attack by Turkey was imminent. Syria requested the 82-nation General Assembly be called into session immediately to appoint a U. N. commission to investigate the situation on the tense Turkish-Syrian frontier.

2. The United States quickly endorsed the move to have the Assembly consider the situation in the Middle East. "A prompt investigation of the developments should help to ease tensions as well as to clarify who it is that threatens peace in the area," a spokesman for the U. S. delegation at the U. N. said.

It was apparent that the Soviet Union and Syria were making associated moves in the United Nations.

The Soviet accusations against the United States were contained in a 1,200-word letter from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to Sir Leslie Munro, president of the Assembly. Copies of the letter were distributed several hours after the Syrian request for assembly action was released.

"There is reliable information that the Turkish General Staff, together with American advisers, has elaborated detailed plans for an attack by Turkey on Syria, their intention being to carry it out im-

Classes Will Not Be Canceled Chancellor Aycock Announces

Campus Epidemic Said To Be Mild

By BILL CHESHIRE

As teams of physicians made their rounds of dormitory and fraternity house patients yesterday, University Chancellor Aycock announced that classes will continue. He said his decision in this matter was made on advice given him by University Physician E. G. Hedgepeth and "those advising him."

Meanwhile, Student Affairs office released results of a survey conducted Tuesday night. This indicated that between 700 and 750 UNC students were holed up in their dormitory or fraternity house rooms recuperating from "acute respiratory infections," and infirmary officials reported they were seeing approximately 300 students each day.

Those actually hospitalized numbered about 65.

Legislature To Start At 7:30

By EDITH MacKINNON

Two bills, a resolution and a report are on schedule for tonight's session of Student Legislature.

Student solons will convene in Phi Hall, fourth floor, New East, at 7:30 p. m.

Introduced in last week's session and referred to the Ways and Means Committee was a bill to establish a committee to study policies surrounding the office of editor of student newspapers in other colleges.

Under consideration by the Finance Committee is a bill to appropriate funds to the Carolina Symposium. The bill is scheduled for action tonight.

A resolution requesting the campus stores committee to examine the reasons for the high prices charged students by the UNC Book Exchange is to come under discussion.

Reporting on committee work in connection with the revising of legislature by-laws will be Rudy Edwards, Al Goldsmith and Tom Long.

Speaker Don Furtado has urged all freshmen and new students to be on hand for tonight's meeting.

Caravan Tabs Still Available

A limited number of tickets for transportation only with the Caravan to College Park, Mr. this weekend are on sale at Graham Memorial Information Office, it was announced yesterday by Dave Jones, vice-president of the University Club.

The price is $10.50 round-trip.

Jones stated that due to a lack of response, there will be no bus returning Saturday. Any students holding tickets for Saturday may contact Graham Memorial, he said.

Buses will leave for College Park at 3 p. m. Friday from Morehead Planetarium.

Yack Pictures

Sophomores and nursing students who have not yet had their Yack pictures made have been granted an extension through Friday at 7:30 p. m. by Editor Gene Whitehead.

Junior, graduate students and first, second and third year med students are also having their pictures made today and Friday in the basement of Graham Memorial.

ASIAN FLU VICTIM?—Bedded down amid vari us and sundry "cure-alls," Ken Friedman of Asbury Park, N. J. recuperates from his battle with the multitudinous microbes. Currently the infirmary, dorms and Greek houses are filled with students in the like situation. (Norm Kantor Photo)

New Dorm Advisor Plan Presented By Evans To IDC

By DAVIS YOUNG

A plan for completely reorganizing the dormitory advisory system as it now stands was outlined at last night's Interdormitory Council meeting by Student Body President, Sonny Evans.

Evans' proposal was drawn up through the cooperation of the student government Executive Committee and the I.D.C. Executive Committee. It stated in effect:

news in brief

U. S. Might Attack
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles warned today the United States might attack Russian territory in retaliation for any Soviet aggression against Turkey.

He said at a news conference, however, it was unlikely any such war would break out in the Middle East.

"Certainly if there is an attack on Turkey by the Soviet Union," he said, "it would not mean a purely defensive operation by the United States with the Soviet Union a privileged sanctuary from which to attack Turkey."

College Would Comply

RADEIGH, Oct. 16 (AP)—North Carolina State College would comply with a suggestion from Clemson College that State not send Negro members of its athletic teams for contests at the South Carolina College, Dr. Carey H. Bostian, State College chancellor indicated today.

But how State would comply with the suggestion has not been decided, Dr. Bostian said, and likely will not be decided "until we know we have a problem."

State, which now has a handful of Negro students among its nearly 5,000 students, presently has no Negroes on its varsity teams, but it may have one next spring when the tennis team is selected.

Long Life For Sputnik

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Some U. S. scientists figured today there is a lot of life yet remaining in the Russian satellite and the rocket shell accompanying it around the earth.

fect: Dormitory advisors shall be paid at the rate of $1,000 dollars a year; these advisors will spend 15-20 hours a week in their rooms.

It went on to say: Men selected for this job will go through a rigid screening test; they will have to power to ask a resident to leave a dorm; and they will take a lighter academic load.

Evans in showing the need for this new program cited many instances of poor dorm counseling as it exists, laxity in the enforcement of quiet hours and a general disunity among dorm residents.

He stated: "There is no tradition of studying in the dormitories here on campus and the facilities in the library at the present time are not sufficient to handle the rush."

"Dormitories should be competing among themselves. A spirit of strong individual dorm unity should exist. A dorm is not a hotel, but rather a home away from home. It should therefore be treated with more respect than is now shown."

Honor Council Reviews Rule

The Women's Honor Council would like to bring to the attention of all students that a witness to a violation of the Honor rules, who fails to report such Code, Campus Code, or social violations is considered as guilty as the violator.

Students who have any questions concerning the procedure or rules under the Honor Code are urged to contact an honor council member.

Nude Fraternity Man

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 16 (AP)—University of Nebraska authorities confirmed today it was not a bag of laundry found hanging from the doorknob of a sorority house here last week.

The laundry bag contained a nude fraternity member, apparently deposited at the sorority doorstep by fraternity brothers.

The University authorities said the case has been turned over to possible disciplinary action against the pranksters.

home. It should therefore be treated with more respect than is now shown.

"Through the proposal that I have brought before you tonight I see a new concept in dormitory life. A boy would be able to bring his problems to a competent advisor, who would be responsible to the University to be in his room a certain number of hours."

"He would be assured of individual attention which is not being exhibited now. Through the presence of this advisor the group as a whole would benefit, for I can see improved study conditions resulting from the authority invested in him."

Present at the meeting with Evans was Sonny Hallford, attorney general of the student body. He told the DTH following last night's meeting: "In this new proposal I hope to see the evolution of a sense of unity, pride and self-respect among dorm students. It's merits are easily seen and I urge general support of this bill."
