McGovern, Morgan Stress Need For Educational Aid

That an education for all people in a democracy is a fundamental right inherent in that system was agreed upon by noted American Broadcasting Commentator Edward P. Morgan and former assistant to the Attorney General William McGovern in an informal discussion held last night in Morehead Planetarium. The discussion was the last event in the YWYMCA forum on the topic: "Human Rights: Their Challenge to America."

Morgan expressed doubt, however, that all students should be given an education all the way through College and said that some sort of willingness and intellectual criteria should be set up to ferret out those incapable of college work.

McGovern felt that such a system would create an intellectual oligarchy and felt that a college education should be guaranteed to all those wanting attain this goal.

Citing the case of British concern for civil rights, Morgan expressed the feeling that education of the British school might be fundamentally involved in the average Briton's concern for the rights of others. He thought that this might be one of the weaknesses in the American educational system.

McGovern stressed the need of paying teachers more money and trying to equalize their social status with other better paid members of the community. He cited West Hartford's efforts to better its educational system by bettering the teacher's wages so that they could be equal to the average wage level of the community.

The question of whether it takes a sputnik or something milder was brought up by Morgan, who pointed out the lethargy of Americans in taking the problems of education seriously. Earlier in the day both men attended several classes and McGovern spoke to a small seminar group on the relationship of the U. S. security system to civil rights. He said that the entire security system should be thrown out, and that the U. S. should have in its stead an efficient counter-espionage force.

POLGAR SAYS:

'One, Two, Three'—And Then Comes Sleep

"Look into my eyes . . . forget about everything . . . one, two, three, close your eyes . . . you are going into a deep sleep . . ."

Polgar said these words as he coaxed several Daily Tar Heel staff members into hypnosis yesterday in a special interview session.

Polgar, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, will appear at UNC next Tuesday in Memorial Hall. Tickets are on sale for $2, but students presenting ID cards may purchase tickets for $1. Proceeds from the show will go to the campus chest.

When asked where he learned hypnosis, Polgar replied, "You have to do your own research, there is no school." He stated that he took psychology courses which dealt with hypnosis, but that he developed his own technique in using hypnosis.

Polgar began hypnotizing people when he was 20 years old, but he has never been hypnotized. He said it does not take as long to hypnotize a subject as is common-

Response To Asian Flu Shots Falls Short Of Expected Mark

Student response to Asian flu shots available was less than expected Monday night when the vaccine was distributed, according to Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth, university physician.

Shots were given last night and will be available another night this week to be announced later by Dr. Hedgpeth.

The flu situation on campus Tuesday had not changed considerably from Monday's report on the cases, according to Dr. Hedgpeth.

Twenty new patients were admitted Tuesday, while 12 were released. The total number of students in the infirmary yesterday was 60.

Dr. Hedgpeth has urged the cooperation of students in taking advantage of the flu vaccine available.

He said that he called several fraternities and sororities Monday night to ask their members to come to the infirmary for flu shots Tuesday.

If the students do not cooperate with the infirmary in getting the flu vaccine, Dr. Hedgpeth said, the infirmary with cease giving out the shots.

Meanwhile, Student Body President Sonny Evans congratulated university officials for "an all-out effort which has caused the flu epidemic to subside."

"I congratulate the medical authorities on an efficient and outstanding job," he declared.

Evans particularly cited the efforts of Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth, university physician, Chancellor Aycock, Dean Weaver and Ray Jeffries. He added that competence of the hospital staff "can in no way be questioned."

"The university officials have no choice in this matter but to listen to informed medical opinion; and until such time as those who know best recommend that classes be postponed, it seems obvious that no action should be taken," he said.

Balloting Will Fill Key Posts

By ANN FRYE

UNC students will go to the polls November 12 in the year's first campus-wide election to fill top student government, class and judicial posts.

Elections Board Chairman Art Sobel, in disclosing the election today, said day-long balloting will determine freshman, sophomore and junior class officers, membership on the Men's and Women's Honor Council and Student Council Seats.

Candidates for the three councils, Sobel said, must file their petitions by October 29. They must be selected by the Bi-Partisan Selections Board.

Quiet Hours Proposal Set For Action By IDC

The IDC will meet tonight to act upon a proposal by Student Body President Sonny Evans that counselors be placed in the dormitories, and to announce appointments to the chairmanships of the IDC committees.

The meeting will be held in Phi Hall, fourth floor of New East, at 7 o'clock.

Evans' proposal calls for stricter enforcement of quiet hours in the dormitories and for the placement of counselors in the dormitories to aid dorm residents with their problems.

The proposal was tabled at last Wednesday night's meeting until copies of it could be made and placed in the hands of every IDC member. Tonight the proposal will be amended and deleted as the assembly sees fit, and acted upon by the body.

The committees to which IDC

President Tom Walters will announce Chairmen are: The Social Committee; Dormitory Improvement Committee; The Publicity Committee; Intra-murals Committee; Contest Committee; and the Vending Machine Committee.

A report will also be heard tonight from the IDC Traffic Committee. This is a special committee recently appointed at the request of Ralph Cummings, Chairman of the Traffic Advisory Committee.

IDC President Tom Walters has the following to say about tonight's actions on the recent proposal by Student Body President Evans.

"I feel that the IDC will pass this proposal in the event that a few amendments are brought about. I am thinking specifically of that section of the proposal which deals with the judicial powers of said council. This article needs reworking and it needs to be more specific in the statement of duty."

Parked Truck Causes Wreck

Collision with a parked truck resulted in injury to three UNC students Friday as they made their way to the UNC-Maryland game in College Park.

Injured, but not seriously, were: Bob Pace, Morrisville; Bill Agner, Salisbury; and Bill Morgan, Pittsboro.

Pace, the driver, said three other cars crashed into the truck—parked on the highway—shortly after his accident. None of these accidents, however, involved UNC students, he said.

Pace suffered a cut on the nose that required seven stitches; Agner's left wrist was fractured and he received abrasions of the forehead, and Morgan received a minor contusion of the forehead.

The 9 p. m. accident occurred near Fredericksburg, Va. Pace said, when he came unexpectedly upon the truck as it blocked the highway. No flares were marking the obstruction, he said.

The student's car was termed a "total loss."

Middle East Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly plunged into a bitter Middle East debate late today after Turkey sought to have the discussion postponed to permit mediation efforts by King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Syria and the Soviet Union vigorously opposed any postponement and Turkey declined to press for a vote on the question.

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar opened the debate by insisting that Turkish troop concentrations along the border were a threat to Syria's security.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles today outlined proposals for a Western scientific pool they reportedly favor in the missiles and satellites race with Russia.

They discussed this during a 70-minute White House meeting to lay the groundwork for Eisenhower's conference starting tomorrow with British Prime Minister Macmillan.
