

Red Says Syria Still Threatened By Turkish Troop Concentration

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said today Syria is still in danger from Turkish troop concentrations on her border.

He also declared, in a statement issued by his U.N. delegation, that "Syria would not be alone in her struggle if she were attacked."

The statement broke the silence Gromyko had kept since Soviet Communist Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev Tuesday night went to a Moscow Turkish Embassy party as a gesture toward peace" and said, "there will be no war."

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar told a news conference yesterday Khrushchev's remark did not put his mind at ease. He said Turkish troops on Syria's border still endangered her.

Bitar spoke a few hours after the U.N. General Assembly laid aside Syria's complaint that Turkish forces were massed on the frontier for imminent attack.

Gromyko, echoing Bitar's thoughts, said, "the danger which Syria faces has not yet been removed. The Turkish troops concentrated near the border are not withdrawn... he United Nations should be on the alert."

He said the Soviet Union had stood up resolutely in the defense of Syria and support of her complaint. He claimed the assembly debate had exposed U. S. instigation of Turkish "aggressive acts against Syria," discredited the "Dulles-Eisenhower Doctrine" and rallied the Arab countries behind Syria.

Both the United States and Turkey have denied having any plan to attack Syria. Turkey has accepted an offer of mediation from King Saud of Saudi Arabia, while Syria has held back.

Another Soviet delegate said Gromyko, who has been heading the Soviet delegation to the assembly, probably would leave tomorrow for Moscow.

The central committee of the Soviet Communist Party, of which Gromyko is a member, announced there today that it had ousted former Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov from its own membership and that of its presidium.

In a public statement, Cuban delegate Emilio Nunez-Portuondo said of the Syrian-Turkish case, "The so-called conflict was tailored at the Kremlin by Mr. Khrushchev in order to degrade Marshall Zhukov."

"Once the purpose of degrading Zhukov was achieved," he concluded, "it was not necessary to continue pressing the accusations against Turkey—a charge that, anyway, was not taken seriously by anyone at the United Nations."

Gromyko submitted a letter to the U.N. backing up the Syrian complaint a few hours after the latter was filed Oct. 16. He said Turkey with U. S. advice was planning to attack Syria right after the Turkish Parliamentary election.

The election was held Sunday and no attack followed. Syria Wednesday introduced a resolution to have the assembly send an investigating commission to the Syrian-Turkish border. Seven other countries, supported by the United States, introduced another expressing confidence that U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld would work to ease tension.

Neither resolution was sure of the necessary two-thirds vote. So, in a compromise, both sides agreed yesterday not to push their proposals to a decision.

QUEENS HONORED BY LAMBDA CHI ALPHA—Five "Queens" of Lambda Chi Alpha at UNC were honored here Friday night at the annual fraternity dinner addressed by J. Spencer Love, Greensboro industrialist and Chancellor William B. Aycock. The girls are (L-R) Carrie Malvina Baker of Wilson, escorted by Richard Love of Greensboro; Elizabeth French Grayson of Dallas, Texas, escorted by Curtis W. Fields Jr. of Montclair, N. Y., escorted by John G. Ulmer Jr. of Hemingway, S. C.; Diana Ruth Johnson of Asheboro, escorted by Louis Blenkner of Billings, Montana; and Anne Elizabeth Macfie of Winnsboro, S. C., escorted by Frank E. Beaver of Statesville.

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge commented that Khrushchev himself in effect had admitted that the whole case was "an artificial concoction and war scare dreamed up by the Soviet Union." Others said Khrushchev had "pulled the rug out from under" Syria.

Gromyko's statement said the assembly "gave a resolute answer to those who wanted to prepare and unleash aggression against Syria." He held Turkey and the United States "categorically object" to sending an investigating commission because "investigations could expose their actions."

He also said the debate showed the Arab countries' "resoluteness to defend their independence" and "the real nature of the Dulles-Eisenhower doctrine... alien to the national interests of the Arab peoples and... peace."

He said the Soviet Union's warnings it would help Syria if she were attacked were well known and need not be repeated. He concluded that Russia was doing its best to turn the Middle East "from a region of dangerous complications and conflicts to a region of lasting peace."

Disc Jockey Returns Home After Sea Trip

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., Nov. 2.—Melvin West, 23-year-old disc jockey who fell 165 miles short of his goal of sailing 380 miles from here to Bermuda in an open outboard motorboat, came home today to a reception by the homefolks.

He told a reporter that he considered the trip in his 15-foot, 30-horsepower boat a failure because he didn't do what he set out to do, although he struggled against the Atlantic Ocean for 11 days.

But the homefolks told him that it wasn't a failure. Mayor Pat Dill, in a short speech, thanked him for the publicity he had brought this town on the North Carolina coast, and said his friends here were proud of him.

Attendance at the reception and parade was held down by a flu outbreak. West's father, Barry West, who manages a fishing pier here, estimated the crowd at 300.

West was picked up by a Coast Guard cutter and brought to Bermuda. His boat, which he dubbed the S. S. Impossible, is being shipped to New York aboard the Oleander of the Isbrandtson Lines. He plans to drive to New York towing a trailer and pick up the boat Tuesday morning at a Brooklyn pier, and bring it back.

CHEMSTRAND SCHOLAR AT UNC—The Chemstrand Corporation of Decatur, Ala., has established a new scholarship in chemistry at UNC. First recipient of the $500 grant is Stanley Morris Williamson of Charlotte, above, a senior chemistry major. Selection, based on high academic record, was made by the faculty of the UNC Chemistry Department and the Scholarship Committee.

College Cadet Program To Be Explained Here

The Navy Recruiting and Officer Procurement Headquarters in Raleigh has announced that a team of Naval officers will be at UNC tomorrow and Tuesday.

University officials have made arrangements for the team to be located in the YMCA Building during their visit. The team will consist of representatives for the various Navy Officer Programs including Aviation Officer Candidate, School, Wave, and Nurse programs for college seniors.

A representative from the Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va., will present information concerning the Naval Aviation Cadet program for 2 year college men.

Accompanying the team is "Miss Cougar," a transonic Navy jet fighter plane which will be on display in the Morehead Planetary um parking lot until 5 p.m. on Nov. 7. The only difference between this jet and its operational counterpart is the fact that in "Miss Cougar," the turbo-jet engine can be viewed through a portion cut away from the tail assembly. The engine can be operated at slow speeds so that all of the inner-component parts may be observed under actual operating conditions.

The aircraft, weighing 19,000 pounds, is normally catapulted from an aircraft carrier and has 7,250 horsepower at sea level. It is capable of nearly 700 miles per hour in a straight and level flight and over 935 miles per hour in a dive. Designed exclusively for carrier operation, it has folding wings and a wing span of 34 feet 6 inches and an overall length of 40 feet. This is the same type of aircraft that Naval Aviation Cadets and Aviation Officer Candidates are currently flying at the "Annapolis of the Air" at Pensacola, Fla.

A ramp built around the aircraft will enable everyone to get a close view. Navy personnel will be on hand to explain some of the intricacies of the aircraft and to answer questions regarding the Navy's $90,000 Pilot Training Program.

Sticklers!

WHAT'S AN ARIZONA INDIAN WHO FORGOT HIS LUCKIES? (SEE PARAGRAPH AT RIGHT)

NO SORRIER WARRIOR exists than the one without Luckies. What's he missing? A smoke that's as light as they come! End to end, a Lucky is made of superbly light tobacco—golden rich, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco that's toasted to taste even better. That's a lot to miss out on—no wonder our chief has grief! Up North, you'd call him a Blue Sioux; back East, a Bleak Creek. But out in the land of the pueblo, he's just a mighty Mopey Hopi. (Smoke signal to you: Light up a Lucky. You'll agree a light smoke's the right smoke for you!)

STUDENTS! MAKE $25

Do you like to shirk work? Here's some easy money—start Stickling! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we print—and for hundreds more that never get used. Sticklers are simple riddles with two-word rhyming answers. Both words must have the same number of syllables. (Don't do drawings.) Send your Sticklers with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mount Vernon, N. Y.
