Bishop Paces Harriers To Victory Over Duke, Vols

Junior Wayne Bishop's sparkling 19:38.6 performance over a soggy Fetzler Field layout led Carolina's undefeated varsity cross-country contingent to a double win over Duke and Tennessee in a triangular meet held here yesterday. UNC compiled a team score of 22 points, followed by Duke with 53 and Tennessee with 60.

SCURLOCK SECOND
Dave Scurlock followed Bishop across the finish line with a 20:10 mark. Scurlock finished very strong, overtaking Stone of Tennessee in the final few hundred yards of the race to gain the runner-up slot. Stone's time was 20:12.

Coach Dale Ranson expressed pleasure with the team showing after the Tar Heel victory, but he noted that many of the group were still feeling the weakening after-effects of the flu. He added that several boys were still very much off their usual form and that continued workouts to iron out kinks and to get his performers back in top physical shape were on tap for every afternoon this week.

Vol Coach Says This Was Best Effort Yet

By RUSTY HAMMOND
In an interview yesterday, Head Coach Bowden Wyatt of the University of Tennessee seemed extremely jubilant about his team's decisive 35-0 victory over the Tar Heels. "Today was undoubtedly our best game of the season, and even though we had a lot of breaks, we played our best ball," Wyatt remarked. "I think our whole line, which had heretofore been our weak spot, played great today. Gordon and Bronson stood out in the backfield. Gordon running and Bronson blocking for him. We passed more today than we have been doing, and it showed we can go to the air as well as move on the ground. I think the turning point of the game was our first touchdown; it was a tremendous mental lift for the boys."

Great Builder
Wyatt, regarded by many as the best coach in the nation today, has a reputation for building good teams. He took over the head coaching position at Wyoming in 1947 and turned what had been a so-so team into a conference champion his second year. In 1953 he moved on to Arkansas, which had been the conference doormat for many a year.

Yesterday's victory established the Carolina squad as definite favorites to retain their ACC championship when the conference finals are held here later this month. In addition to the Blue Devils, who last week extended a powerful Maryland outfit before losing 33-39, the Tar Heels have defeated Clemson 25-32 and Virginia 21-37. The harriers are at home for a triangular meet with Wake Forest and South Carolina on Friday afternoon.

penalty and a desperation pass from Jack Cummings to Giles Gaca for a four-yard loss forced the Tar Heels to kick out.

carried eight times in that scoring series. The Tar Heels played their only encouraging ball in the fourth quarter. Cummings, a real passing wizard carried the Tar Heels from their own 20 to the Tennessee 46 with passes to Mac Hurlington and Daley Goff. But this surge also bogged down and the rampaging Vols once again took over and marched for paydirt on a 54-yard run by Carl Smith.

Frosh Lose In 3 Team C-C Meet

Myers Park of Charlotte, one of the top schoolboy cross country units in North Carolina, handed Carolina's freshman runners their second straight setback as they edged the UNC and Duke yearlings in a triangular meet held yesterday. The final team scores were 38-40-42, with the UNC group trailing the winners.

Scared of Backs
"From our scouting reports, we were scared to death of the running of Schuler, Decantis, and Coker. We knew the line would have to charge especially hard today to bottle up those fast backs. We also rushed Cummings hard on passes, which definitely showed up," he added. "A lot has been said about our size, but we are traditionally a small team and we like small, fast boys. We stress speed and fundamentals. Most of our first team is made up of seniors, and I play the first team most of the time because they are

Georgia Tech Pulls 13-0 Upset On Duke

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 2.—Striking by land and air, Georgia Tech slammed Duke from the underdogs ranks today with a 13-0 upset victory over the nation's seventh ranked football power.

On the first play from the 46, Smith broke off the left side of the Carolina line and exhibited beautiful broken field running as he was hit time and again but rolled forward. He finally shook loose at the Tar Heel 20 and a key block by Young took out Carolina's last defender, Emil DeCantis at the nine—and Smith went over standing up. Burklow made it 35-0 with 10:15 left in the game.

Norse of Duke produced the day's best individual effort with a 10:15 mark. Close behind were Myers Park's Gilmore and Powell, with times of 10:15.5 and 10:33, respectively. Carolina's top performer was Harry Miller, whose 10:39 effort was good for fourth place. Neal Chappell turned in a 10:52 mark to take the fifth slot.

But the touchdowns were almost anticlimactic. What had the 40,000 spectators amazed was the way Tech rammed the ball down Duke's throat. Duke's defense against rushing was third best in the nation until Simerville, Benson, Stan Flowers, Floyd Faucette and other Techsters cut loose for 232 yards rushing.

Duke didn't get into Tech territory until midway of the third period when it moved to the 31 before Tech's line hurled back the threat and forced a punt. A fourth quarter rally carried to the Tech 16 but Joe Delany intercepted a Bob Brodhead pass and killed the drive.

LOVE IN THE LAUNDRY
Last month we got the following letter:
Dear Van Heusen, you rats: Thanks mucho for breaking up the hottest romance since Scarlet and Rhett. Me and Laundry Mark x428Fy might be honeymooning in Palm Beach today if it wasn't for your so-called smart ideas. Go shoot yourselves in your vicers. Respectfully yours, Dorothea Jones.
We tracked down the story behind it and found that Miss Jones worked a steam-iron at the Aeme Laundry in Eastpox, N. J. Last year, while ironing a shirt belonging to Laundry Mark x428Fy, she had noticed a small piece of paper protruding from the slot on the collar. Curious, she pulled it out and read: "Whoever you are, I love the way you press my shirts. I think I may love you too. Interested?" She blushed, but daringly wrote her answer—"Interested, sorta," and slipped it in the collar-slot. Ten days later came another shirt from x428Fy and, sure enough, another note: "If you can cook like you

THE PARTY WEEK END: ITS CAUSE AND CURE
With the season of party weekends almost upon us, my mail of late has been flooded with queries from young inmates of women's colleges wishing to know how one conducts one's self when one has invited a young gentleman for a weekend. This morning, for example, there were more than 30,000 letters, each containing a lock of hair. I gave the hair to a bombight maker and the lanolin to a dry sheep of my acquaintance, and I turned instantly to the question: How should a young lady deport herself when she has asked a young gentleman to be her guest at a party weekend?
Well, my dear girls, the first thing to remember is that your young gentleman is far from home and frightened. Put him at his ease. You might, for instance, surprise him by having his mother sitting in a rocker on the station platform when he gets off the train.
Next, what kind of corsage should you send your young gentleman? Well, my beloved maidens, orchids are always acceptable.
If you find, my esteemed fillies, that your local florist has run out of stock, do not be dismayed. Make a corsage out of paper. But pick good, stiff, durable paper—twenty dollar bills, for example.
Remember at all times, my fond wenchies, to show your young gentleman courtesy and consideration. Open doors for him, walk on the traffic side of the path, assist him to the punch bowl, zip his parka, light his Marlboros. (What, you ask, if he doesn't smoke Marlboros? Ridiculous, my precious nymphs! Of course, he smokes Marlboros! Don't you? Don't I? Doesn't everybody who knows a hawk from a handsaw?? What other cigarette gives you such a lot to like? Such filter? Such flavor? Such flip-top box? No other, my sweet minxes, no other. Marlboro stands alone, and any man worthy of you, my estimable damsels, is bound to be a Marlboro man.)
If you will follow the simple instructions stated above, my good lasses, you will find that you have turned your young gentleman into a fast and fervent admirer. There is nothing quite like a party weekend to promote romance.

Serafina sat anxiously by the mailbox...
I am in mind of a party weekend some years ago at Miss Pomfritt's Seminary for Genteel Chicks in West Linotype, Ohio. Serafina Sigafos, a sophomore at this institution, majoring in napkin folding, sent an invitation to a young man named Fafnir Valve, a junior at the Joyce Kilmer School of Forestry, majoring in sap and boles.
Anyhow, Serafina sent an invitation to Fafnir, and he came, and she showered him with kindness and cuff links, and then he went away, and Serafina sat anxiously by the mailbox, wondering whether she would ever hear from him again. Sure enough, two weeks later she got a letter: "Dear Serafina, Can you let me have fifty bucks? Yours, Fafnir."
Whimpering with ecstasy, she ran to the bank and withdrew the money and mailed it to him. From then on, she got the same request every week, and as a result, she became very well acquainted with Ralph T. Involute, teller of the West Linotype Bank and Trust Co., and their friendship ripened into love, and today they are happily married and live in Stamen, Oregon, where Ralph is in the extruded molasses game and Serafina is a hydrant.
Every weekend is a party weekend when you smoke Marlboros, whose makers bring you this column throughout the school year.
