Meet Duke Here At 3 O'Clock

By JIM PURKS

With only a day's rest following a rough tie game with Virginia in Charlottesville, the Carolina soccer team will face arch-rival Duke here today at 3 p.m. on Fetzer Field.

It will be the sixth game for the hard-luck Tar Heels, who have a 2-2-1 record for the season. The Duke game marks the third straight conference game for the Carolina squad, which lost to Maryland, 4-2, last week and tied Virginia this Wednesday, 4-4.

Out For Revenge

Carolina will be out for revenge today as it was humbled last year in Durham, 3-0, by the Blue Devils. Coach Marvin Allen's talented squad will be without the services of two key first stringers in today's game. Goalie Jim Rattay was lost to the team for the remainder of the season in the Virginia game when he was struck under the left eye by a player's knee and suffered a fractured cheekbone.

Reserve goalie Nick Zlotnicki, who did a creditable job of guarding the Carolina goal against the Cavaliers during the second half, will be in the goal again for the Tar Heels. Another key defenseman, right fullback Dave Corkey, won't be in the Carolina lineup due to a recurrence of a stomach ailment which has plagued him all season. On the forward line, a man to watch will be fleet-footed Mike Thompson, now being called "twinkle toes" because of his phenomenal scoring pace for the Tar Heels at the center forward position.

Thompson Top Scorer

In the five games played so far this year, Thompson has scored 8 of Carolina's total of 14 goals. His biggest day was in the Tar Heels' loss to Lynchburg College when he scored all three goals.

Ted Smith and Tom Rand will work with Thompson at the inside positions. Rick Grausman will be at left wing with Coleman Barks at the right wing slot.

Today's game will mark the last home game for three of Coach Allen's veterans. Defensemen Ted Youhana and Bill Blair will play their last game at Fetzer Field, while left inside Ted Smith will also be playing his last home game.

Cagers Open Season Dec. 7

By BILL KING

The basketball season is fast coming upon us.

On December 7, the nation's number one basketball team will make its first appearance in Woollen Gym (probably to the tune of "Sweet Georgia Brown") as it begins defense of its national championship against Clemson.

Yes, pretty soon football 1957 will be only a memory and Carolina students and fans will begin a familiar trek to Woollen Gym and other nearby cities to watch Carolina's tall and talented cagers attempt to continue to ride a winning skein that now reads 32 in a row.

The Tar Heels have had their noses to the grindstone since October 21 as they prepare for another tough slate in 1957-58—this time bearing the label "the best in the land." This is, frankly, an unenviable label because it means that everybody will be shooting to knock the props from under the high-riding Tar Heels.

Outstanding Returnees

But the 1956-57 "Coach of the Year" Frank McGuire has another talented assemblage similar to and consisting largely of members of that great squad which captured all honors last season.

Gone, of course, is the big gun, Carolina's great All-American, Lennie Rosenbluth. But returning is a steller group of Sophomores and the crux of the team which, along with Rosenbluth, went through the best teams in the country to cop the National Collegiate Athletic Association title last year.

Lost for the season also is big Joe Quigg, the center who dropped in two free throws against Kansas last March to give the Tar Heels the NCAA title; and here lies the Tar Heel's biggest problem.

Quigg, injured in an intra-squad scrimmage last week, will be a tough man to replace. It has thrown the matter of a starting lineup, previously considered relatively easy, into a tizzy.

Commenting on the loss of Quigg yesterday, McGuire had this to say:

Lineup Changes

"Losing Joe is a tremendous blow to us. His absence will probably leave us with an indefinite lineup until around the first of January. We'll have to do a lot of experimenting to find a man to take his place and the only way we can do it is to give the boys some game experience. A boy can look great in practice, but he can't be actually tested until he plays."

Otherwise, according to McGuire, things are going along fine for the Tar Heels. "The boys are hustling and really looking fine," he commented. "Everybody really wants to play."

At present, McGuire has fourteen men on the practice floor, although only twelve of them will be able to dress for games.

The Tar Heels practice every afternoon from four until six and occasionally McGuire will call an extra session at night. The Tar Heel coach stressed the fact that these practice sessions are open to the public. "The only time we will have a closed session," he said, "is when he have some special defense or play pattern which we want to work on for an upcoming opponent."

Varsity Cage Scrimmage Set For 5 Today

The Carolina basketball team will hold another intra-squad scrimmage this evening at five o'clock. All students are invited to attend.

IDC Penalizes Students For Dorm Actions

Two students were tried at the official meeting of the Interdormitory Council Court for violating rules governing university residence halls. Patrick Leonard, clerk, reported that one student was found guilty of attaching a pencil sharpener to his desk with screws, which constituted damage of university property. The court reprimanded him and fined him $2.50.

Athletic Head At N.C. State Is Charged

RALEIGH, Nov. 14 — Roy B. Clogston, director of athletics at North Carolina State College, was charged with assault on a minor today as the result of an incident that allegedly occurred at Reynolds Coliseum last night. Police Lt. O. C. Jordan said the warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Elizabeth McGhee of Raleigh and charged Clogston with an assault on her son Jimmy, 14. Mrs. McGhee told police that her son sat down to watch the Harlem Globetrotters after selling peanuts and drinks at the Coliseum and that Clogston asked the boy to move. According to the police report, Mrs. McGhee said that as Jimmy was walking away, Clogston took him by the neck and escorted him to an entrance. There, she said, Clogston gave the boy a kick and told him never to return to the Coliseum. Jordan said the warrant was served on Clogston today and that he was cited to appear in domestic relations court for trial of the charge. Clogston was out of the city and was not available for comment.

QUIGG THIRD IN SCORING

Carolina basketball star Joe Quigg, who sustained a leg injury in an intra-squad scrimmage which all incapacitate him for the season, was third in scoring last year. Quigg scored 319 points in 21 games for a 10.3 average per game. The 6'9" center threw in the tying and winning free throws to defeat Kansas for the National title last year.

Undeclared Team

Carolina's only undeclared team of the fall is Dale Ranson's cross country runners. Tar Heel runners have won two dual and two triangular meets.

No Gain For Fullmer In Fight Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 — Gene Fullmer has everything to lose and little to gain in tomorrow night's middleweight match with Neal Rivers, a rough customer from Las Vegas.

The 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden will be the third start for Fullmer since he was knocked out by Sugar Ray Robinson in Chicago, May 1. Robinson's left hook ended Fullmer's short reign as Middleweight champ. He had beaten Robinson in 15 rounds Jan. 2 for the title.

Although Marv Jensen, Fullmer's manager, is flashing a copy of a letter from Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, to prove Fullmer has been promised the next title shot, he still is waiting.

Carmen Basilio, who in turn dethroned Robinson Sept. 23, hasn't made a move, pending a decision by Robinson on their agreement for a rematch.
