

WEATHER

Mostly cloudy and little change in temperatures today. Sunday, rather cloudy and mild rain likely.

The Daily Tar Heel

SNARL

An election was avoided over an issue of which there was a lack of understanding. See page 2.

VOL. LXV NO. 111

Offices in Graham Memorial

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1958

Complete Wire Service

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

Carolina To Defend ACC Title Tonight After 64-58 Victory Over N. C. State

UNC Faces Terps For Championship

By BILL KING

REYNOLDS COLISEUM, Raleigh—The Carolina Tar Heels moved one step closer to defending their ACC cage title last night by handing tough N. C. State College a 64-58 defeat before a capacity crowd here. The victory pits the Tar Heels against Maryland for the championship at eight tonight.

Kearns and another from sophomore Ray Stanley. Both hit 13 points and both played great ball. Stanley started and played the entire game.

Pucillo Slowed

Kearns used the man to man to (See TAR HEELS, page 4)

Local Legislature Shocked By Evans

By PRINGLE PIPKIN

Student Body President Sonny Evans' veto of the Honor Council bill calling for a single council for both men and women came as a surprise move at the Student Legislature Thursday evening.

At the beginning of the meeting Evans rose to tell the body that he had killed this bill. He said he was for the jury system but did not feel that it could be instituted with the proposed single council.

"I cannot turn the campus into warring elements," he explained.

On behalf of the Student Government Attorney-General, Sonny Hallford, and George Ragsdale, Chairman of the Men's

ALLENE KEITH
Rush Manual Editor

Allene Keith To Edit Panhel Rush Manual

Allene Keith from Wilmington has been selected as editor of the 1958 Panhellenic rush manual, according to an announcement yesterday by Panhellenic Council.

Miss Keith was selected at a meeting of the executive committee of the council Thursday night from eight candidates. As editor of the rush manual, she will supervise publication of information about rushing dates, individual sororities and the routine of rushing.

A junior English education major, Miss Keith is a member of Chi Omega sorority. She is currently a member of the University Party and works with the YWCA Scout program. During her first two years of college she attended St. Mary's College.

Editor of the 1957 rush manual was Barbara Doar.

Greek Week Starts Monday

More than 400 pledges of 24 social fraternities here will be brought together in a general project, Greek Week, beginning Monday.

The significance of Greek Week is that as a substitute for the abolished "hell week," it unites fraternity pledges in an effort to better relations between community and fraternity through projects.

On Monday, the first day of Greek Week, the pledges will engage in a project of helping Chapel Hill Jaycees to clear an area for housing purposes.

On other days, the pledges will hold an intra-mural field day, carnival day and banquet.

A trophy will be awarded to the outstanding pledge class at the banquet. The bases for the award will be scholarship, field day activities, participation in work day and the carnival booth of the pledge class.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity won the trophy last year for the most outstanding pledge class.

Chairman of Greek Week is Ashe Exum of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Use Charity Line

The Tar Heels borrowed a little trick used so effectively by Duke this season—using the free throw line in the final minutes to put the icing on the cake. Carolina converted six free throws in the final 56 seconds and that was enough to win the series with State for the year, 3-1.

Frank McGuire called on his favorite, the man to man defense, to stop the rugged Wolfpack. McGuire went the distance with the man to man and this perhaps more than anything else brought Carolina the victory.

The Tar Heels were led once again by their great All-American Pete Brennan who tossed in 23 points, one more than he had against Clemson in the opener. Brennan got a king size assist from his able senior sidekick Tommy

THE BOX

CAROLINA	FG	FT	PF	TP
Brennan	6	11-15	4	23
Kearns	5	3-5	3	13
Cunningham	0	0-0	3	0
Stanley	5	3-6	4	13
Shaffer	2	1-1	1	5
Kepley	2	4-6	3	3
Salz	0	2-2	2	2
Totals	20	24-35	20	64

STATE	FG	FT	PF	TP
Richter	1	2-3	5	4
McGilvry	3	7-10	1	13
Englehard	4	4-5	12	12
Pucillo	6	5-5	2	17
Clark	0	2-3	4	2
Gallagher	2	2-2	3	6
Stepanovitch	1	2-3	5	4
Totals	17	24-31	25	58

CAROLINA	24	40-64
STATE	20	38-59

Tryouts For 'Antigone' To Be Held Wednesday

The Petites Dramatiques have announced their latest production, "Antigone," by Jean Anouilh. This offering will be directed by Peter O' Sullivan, a graduate student in English.

Tryouts will be held on Wednesday, March 12, from 3 to 5 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Police Charge Med Student For Exposure

A first-year medical student was arrested on charge of indecent exposure here yesterday after two Negro girls said he jumped nude from his car in Carrboro last weekend.

The girls, both of high school age, told officers the 22-year-old student also tried to force them into the vehicle from which he jumped about 11:15 p.m. last Friday.

Police said the student had not admitted the incident late Friday afternoon, although the girls identified him following an investigation by local authorities.

According to officers, the student denied having been in the Carrboro neighborhood last Friday. However, police said, he admitted he "had had some trouble" with a Negro girl in the neighborhood where he allegedly was seen.

He also said he "had a few words" with one of the girls, police reported.

The unidentified student was released on bond following his arrest Friday. The case was expected to be heard in Recorder's Court Tuesday.

Dr. Flowers Honored

The North Carolina Chapter of the American Cancer Society has presented Dr. Charles E. Flowers Jr. its certificate of merit in recognition of his noteworthy contributions to its education program in the state. Recently he received a national citation for his effort in the organization and management of the service program of the North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Flowers is associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the School of Medicine.

Sound & Fury Scripts May Be Checked Out

Scripts for the forthcoming Sound and Fury production, "No Squares Allowed," have been completed and may be checked out at the Graham Memorial Information Office.

Anyone interested in trying out for a part in the show may read over the script in advance.

Those desiring to work in the backstage or production areas are urged to contact Cecil Harisoe or Eleanor Brawley.

The show will be presented on the nights of May 2 and 3.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:

Misses Jean McCauley, Madge Gonzales, Elizabeth McKinnon, Martha Smith, and Lynn Pickard and Doc Smith, Marvin Bess, Fred Van Horn, Joe Adkins, Robert Noble, George Schroeder, William Norgan, Mick Fleisher, Eugene Whitehead, James Early and Richard Molten.

UNC STUDENT TEACHERS—Miss Sue Atchison and William R. Henshaw, seniors in the School of Education, have been chosen Miss and Mr. Representative Future Teacher at Carolina for 1957-58. They will attend the North Carolina Education Association's annual convention in Asheville, March 20-22, representing the Frank Porter Graham Chapter of the 5udent National Education Association and the Department of Future Teachers of the NCEA. Miss Atchison, Alpha Gam from Washington, D. C. is corresponding secretary for the state future teachers and program chairman of the local chapter, of which Henshaw is president. He is from Erwin.

news in brief

NAACP Slipping

GREENSBORO, March 7 (AP)—The Southeastern Regional secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said here today that the NAACP suffered membership losses in several Southern states last year.

While attributing the losses to investigations by legislative committees and anti-NAACP legislation, Mrs. Ruby Hurley of Atlanta said only North Carolina suffered no appreciable loss in membership. She said NAACP chapters in Greensboro and Charlotte almost tripled their memberships.

Baby On Way

MONTE CARLO, March 7 (AP)—Workmen are brushing up the castle—sure signs in Monaco that the second baby of Princess Grace and Prince Rainier may arrive at any time.

The palace says the birth is expected between March 10 and 15. The first born, Princess Caroline, arrived on Jan. 23 last year. The 20,000 inhabitants of the principality make no secret of the fact they want a boy. A young prince, under the Monacan line of succession, would eventually become ruler. The line passes to girls only when there are no boys.

Three Checks

DAMASCUS, SYRIA, March 7 (AP)—A former Syrian member of Parliament declared today King Saud of Saudi Arabia "personally handed me three checks" as an advance installment for a coup d'etat in Syria.

He said the checks totaled 1,900,000 pounds ($5,320,000) and that Lt. Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj, was to carry out the coup.

In an interview with the Arab East News Agency Aziz Abbad said King Saud told him the United States "approves the move," to prevent the formation of the United Arab Republic of Syria and Egypt.

Called Off

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., March 7 (AP)—The Navy called off an attempt to launch its Vanguard satellite test vehicle today but indicated it would try again as soon as possible—in daylight hours.

Adverse weather or renewed mechanical or electrical difficulties, if they prevented a new try tomorrow, would push the launching date for the Baltimore-built Martin Co. vehicle over into next week. But it is known that the men on the project will fire at the earliest possible time.

Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 7 (AP)—Current Western disarmament strategy is aimed primarily at getting Russia back into a new UNC Geologist Describes Quakes Recorded By Seismograph In N. C.

By PARKER MADDREY

Earth tremors felt in the Wilmington area Wednesday have been described as "an earthquake of mild intensity" by Dr. Gerald McCarthy, UNC geology professor and operator of the seismograph here.

Dr. McCarthy said the tremor recorded Feb. 14 "may possibly have been a small quake." However, the one recorded Wednesday was definitely a small quake "according to the textbook definition of an earthquake," he added.

He said the other tremors reported recently by residents in the Wilmington area were probably made by jet planes or other man-made causes. "Since the tremor Feb. 14, the people in that area have become extremely conscious of all noises and shakes," he added. He has received many inquiries from Wilmington residents in the last few days.

Exact Location

Exact location of Wednesday's mild quake cannot be determined without recordings from three seismograph stations. The UNC and the Columbia, S. C., stations as yet are the only ones reporting the quake.

Dr. McCarthy explained that the quake was computed about a 175 mile radius from the UNC seismograph and the Columbia station registered about 180 miles radius.

The location is determined where the radius lines intersect. With only two stations reporting, this leaves a wide area in which the quake could have occurred.

If a third station, say Bristol, Tenn., reports the distance from

Latin Students Arrive

Some 1,200 young Latin students from throughout North Carolina will be on the campus today for the seventh annual Junior Classical League Convention.

Dr. B. L. Ullman, chairman of the Classical Dept., will welcome the visitors and Robert Sonkowsky, a graduate student, will discuss study in Europe.

JONATHAN DANIELS
News & Observer Editor

it, then the location can be pinpointed.

The UNC seismograph is located in the basement of New East. It is placed in a block of cement in the earth, but separated from the floor to prevent recording of building vibrations.

It records on photo paper for a 24 hour period. Each morning the paper is developed and the graph is read. The graph contains a line for each hour of the day and each line is broken in minute intervals to determine the time.

Distance and intensity of a tremor is determined by the size and shape of the line recorded. Far away quakes are shown on a line with extended waves. Nearby tremors are shown by a line containing zig zags close together, Dr. McCarthy said.

Grad Student Featured In Musicales Series

Thomas N. Rice, graduate student in the Music Department, will be featured in a program of his compositions of the Petites Musicales series, sponsored by Graham Memorial Activities Board.

The program is scheduled for Sunday, March 16 at eight p.m., in the auditorium of Hill Hall.

The recital is free to the public. Rice has many compositions to his credit, two of which were performed on a recital of original compositions by students of the Music Department last spring. They were a sonatina for piccolo and string bass and a suite for violoncello and piano.

One of his more recent compositions was the music for the Playmakers' production, in their studio workshop series, of Bertholt Brecht's "The Exception and the Rule." The music, which was scored for the amazing combination of two Jew's harps and percussion, was instrumental in lending excitement to the very fine production directed by Kai Jurgensen, professor of dramatic art.

Sunday evening's program will consist of a suite for piano which will be played by the composer; two elegies for violoncello and piano, performed by Etrim Fruchtman and Rice and a prelude on a theme by Edward Grieg, for duopiano, performed by Margaret Russell and Michael Cordovana, faculty members of Stratford College, Danville, Va.

Donna Patton Kelly, soprano of Chapel Hill, accompanied by Mr. Cordovana, will present the Psalm Cycle, Psalmic Lamentations, as the final piece on the program.

The tour was a special project of the Arnold Air Society for the benefit of their sponsors.

day, March 16 at eight p.m., in the auditorium of Hill Hall.

Rice has many compositions to his credit, two of which were performed on a recital of original compositions by students of the Music Department last spring. They were a sonatina for piccolo and string bass and a suite for violoncello and piano.

One of his more recent compositions was the music for the Playmakers' production, in their studio workshop series, of Bertholt Brecht's "The Exception and the Rule." The music, which was scored for the amazing combination of two Jew's harps and percussion, was instrumental in lending excitement to the very fine production directed by Kai Jurgensen, professor of dramatic art.

Sunday evening's program will consist of a suite for piano which will be played by the composer; two elegies for violoncello and piano, performed by Etrim Fruchtman and Rice and a prelude on a theme by Edward Grieg, for duopiano, performed by Margaret Russell and Michael Cordovana, faculty members of Stratford College, Danville, Va.

Donna Patton Kelly, soprano of Chapel Hill, accompanied by Mr. Cordovana, will present the Psalm Cycle, Psalmic Lamentations, as the final piece on the program.

Jonathan Daniels & Harry Ashmore

Controversial Editors In Symposium

By DAVIS YOUNG

Jonathan Daniels

Jonathan Daniels, one of America's foremost journalists and authors and presently the editor of the Raleigh News and Observer is scheduled to appear on Tuesday, March 18, to participate in the activities of Symposium Week.

Daniels has demonstrated great skill in a variety of journalistic tasks, having been employed by many papers and magazines during his years in the newspaper world. He is also prominent as an editor of numerous outstanding books, mostly about the South.

He attended public schools here in North Carolina and in Washington, D. C., before entering the University of North Carolina. While here at Carolina, Daniels edited The Daily Tar Heel, was active in the

(See ASHMORE, page 3)

Harry Ashmore

Harry Ashmore, executive editor of the "Arkansas Gazette," will be another of the outstanding presentations of the Carolina Symposium to be held from the 16th to the 21st of this month.

Born in 1916 at Greenville, S. C., he was educated in the local public school system and received a B.S. degree from Clemson College in 1937.

Ashmore has had a tremendously successful career in the newspaper field in the 21 years since his graduation from Clemson. He has worked for many of the leading daily papers in the area of the two Carolinas and in Arkansas, with time taken off in between for government and political work.

(See DANIELS, page 3)

HARRY ASHMORE
Arkansas Gazette Editor