

WEATHER

Generally fair and cool Saturday and Sunday. High today, 48-57.

The Daily Tar Heel

INSURANCE

A nice kettle of fish may be coming to a boil over the rising costs of auto insurance. See page 2.

VOL. LXV NO. 118 Offices in Graham Memorial CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 1958 Complete Wire Service FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

Editor Doug Eisele Decides Not To Run

Editor Doug Eisele of The Daily Tar Heel announced Friday he would not seek re-election to the post which he won in a recall movement last November.

Interviews Slated For New Council

Candidates for election to the recently revamped Men's Honor Council will be interviewed next week by the Bi-Partisan Selections Board, according to an announcement released yesterday by George Ragsdale, chairman of the council.

Interviews will be held in the Men's Council Room of Graham Memorial on Monday and Tuesday from 3 to 4:30 p.m., Ragsdale said.

Three seats elected at large, are open on the council. Ragsdale said members of the council will no longer be distinguished according to classes (that is freshman, sophomore, junior and senior).

He pointed out that under the new system the five-man council will determine the punishment of those defendants found guilty of honor offenses by the newly created honor council jury.

Three persons from those selected by the Bi-Partisan Selection Board will be elected by the student body in this spring's elections.

elections April 1 for the job which he has held since December 2 of last year.

"Despite my love for and interest in the Tar Heel, there are personal reasons why I feel I should not again seek the office of editor," he said. He would not elaborate on those reasons.

Eisele, a sophomore from Statesville, said he entered the recall race last November "with hopes that a new editor could return to the Tar Heel the traditional respect and good reputation that it once held in the newspaper world of North Carolina."

"I feel that purpose — a debt which I owed to the student body which elected me—has been served in the past several months," Eisele said. "My obligations, therefore,

(See EDITOR, page 3)

DOUG EISELE Will Not Re-Run

Gans Lists Attributes Needed For Editorship

Editorial candidate Curtis Gans outlined experience and leadership as being a necessary prerequisite for the editorship of The Daily Tar Heel.

"The editor of The Daily Tar Heel is responsible for the entire paper, and thus he must have a familiarity with all phases of the newspaper operation," Gans said.

"I feel that I can truly say that I have had the experience to qualify for the office of editor."

"I have worked for over two years in the capacities of proof reader, night editor, reporter, and columnist. I have had a chance to take part in all phases of the newspaper operation with the exception of advertising, circulations, and sports.

"My professional experience in cludes work as news and feature writer for the Sylva Herald, and participation in the advertising department of the Asheville Citizen-Times.

"I have done high school sports correspondence work for Zander Hollander of The New York World-Telegram and Sun. These reports were sent to The New York Times

(See GANS, page 3)

Carter Enters President Race

Symposium Schedule

The following is a schedule of Symposium activities for Sunday and Monday. This schedule is being run for the benefit of those who will miss the Symposium Special which will be distributed as an insert in the regular edition of the Daily Tar Heel on Sunday.

MAIN MEETINGS

Sunday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall—Luther Hodges, Governor of North Carolina who will keynote the first session; Dr. Charles L. Dunham, director of Biology and Medicine for the Atomic Energy Commission and Senator Henry Jackson, Democrat from the state of Washington.

Monday at 10 a.m. in Carroll Hall—Senator John Sparkman of Alabama speaking on "America's Position in Today's Troubled World."

Monday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall—Julian Hartt, professor of philosophical theology at Yale Divinity School; Malcolm Cowley, writer and lecturer and Katharine McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College.

SEMINARS

Sunday, 6:30 p.m.—Westminster Fellowship Hut, Ben Segal speaking on "Individual Freedom." Segal is a leader in the AFL-CIO.

Monday, 12:30 p.m.—Lenoir Hall upstairs dining room, open luncheon for Richard Hocking of the philosophy department at Emory University.

1 p.m.—Alumni Building, Harry Golden speaking on "Southern Folkways." This meeting is for members of the Institute for Research in Social Science.

2:30 p.m.—108 Caldwell Hall, Richard Hocking of the philosophy department of Emory University.

4 p.m.—Carroll Hall—A panel on "The Education of Women" sponsored by Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael.

4 p.m.—105-106 Hanes Hall, a labor management seminar featuring Ben Segal and Thornton Brooks.

BOB CARTER Presidential Hopeful

Independent Candidate Makes 3-Way Contest

By LEO MULVANEY

Bob Carter, junior from Selma, announced yesterday that he will run as an independent candidate in the spring elections for the office of president of the student body.

Carter, present treasurer of the student body, said, "This was the most difficult decision I have ever had to make. It was only after consulting many people, getting much advice and then evaluating the entire situation that I finally decided to run."

In reference to the presidential office, Carter said, "Experience, knowledge, interest, service and leadership are the main criteria for the office and I feel that the nominees for the job should be judged fairly on this basis."

Lists Reasons

When asked about the necessity for an independent candidate, Carter listed these reasons:

1. The need for the students to vote on a candidate, his qualifications and his platform and not just for his political party.

2. Many people are unwilling to support either candidate now running and desire a third candidate.

3. A third candidate would bring student government closer to the students because he will really have to know the issues at stake and the personalities involved in order to vote wisely.

4. An independent can be a president of the whole campus and the whole student body and not just a president of some area or special interest.

Different Position

5. A position on many matters different from those of the other two candidates and a feeling that the campus should vote for a president after considering these various stands.

Among the issues that Carter will base his platform on are: honor system, student union, fra-

(See CARTER, page 3)

Sloan Would Institute Dormitory Reporters

Charlie Sloan, candidate for Editor of The Daily Tar Heel, has voiced several suggestions for an improved newspaper, including a stringer system consisting of a part-time reporter in each dormitory.

The Arlington, Va., junior, in a statement to The Daily Tar Heel, said:

"A college newspaper should cover the campus it serves. Getting news from all corners of the campus isn't always so easy, and no paper can hope to unearth everything that happens every day. "The editor can come close to seeing that all the news is included in the paper by using several methods. One of these is a dormitory stringer system. The system I would like to see put in effect is almost identical to one I suggested last year.

"In every dormitory one student can be made a member of the news staff, with the sole responsibility of seeing that anything happening in

(See SLOAN, page 3)

'Exciting Event' Says Symposium Executive

"This year's Carolina Symposium on Public Affairs should be one of the most exciting events in the college experience of this generation of students," according to William M. Geer, faculty adviser of the Symposium.

"The impact of so many distinguished speakers, with their variety of interests and differing opinions, all speaking of the general theme of Survival, should be intellectually invigorating to the entire University community," Geer said.

In a statement yesterday, Geer praised the work of student and faculty committees for bringing together such a "brilliant array of talent." He singled out Sonny Hallford, chairman of the Symposium for special commendation.

"Sonny Hallford has done a splendid job of organization and direction of a complex and difficult task. He and the student group have done more work on this than the Campus will ever be able to imagine," Geer commented.

He also singled out for special praise Mary Jane Fisher, secretary, and Al Goldsmith, treasurer of the organization.

"The interest of the students of this University in public issues is clearly shown by the work which they have done and the money which they have voluntarily contributed to the Symposium," Geer continued. "We have topped our goal of $5,000 by donations from student groups. In my opinion, this is generous and praiseworthy. As a result, we are going to have a splendid Symposium."

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary include:

- Misses Edith Beverly Heaton, Ann Morgan, Metcalf, Elizabeth Howell, Elizabeth Sojourner, Francis Winston, Charlotte Pope and Robert Knott, Donald Snyder, Henry Howell, William Tadros, Leon Adams, John Reeves, Theodore Boden, Barian Davidian, William Hendrick, Ralph Carmode, John Muller, Harold Culbreth, James Burroughs, Michael Widoff, Paul Fuller, Richard Molten, Edmond Lively, Philip Keeney, Henry Hamby, Thomas Fisher, Robert Walker, Seamon Gottlieb, Richard Weiner, Lawrence Williams and Woodson Fearing.

Census Favors Sophomore Parking

By WYNDHAM HEWITT

Sophomores should be allowed to park anywhere on campus, according to results of a recent poll conducted by the GMAB polls committee. In the survey 75.4 per cent of the undergraduates participating in the poll were against restricting sophomores to park in the new Bell Tower parking lot. There were 25.4 per cent for this and 1.4 per cent undecided.

Only undergraduates were polled on eight questions concerning the orientation system, library circulation, Chapel Hill merchant prices, content of the second page of The Daily Tar Heel, college education support, sophomore parking problems profits of the campus book store and the Carolina Honor System.

The committee which sent out 250 questionnaires, based its report on 143 answers returned. The results were not as good as they expected, but were good enough to give a valid report of general student opinion, according to Jan Cobbs, chairman of the polls committee. She said the committee hopes to have a more successful poll next fall.

Anyone having questions pertinent to the campus has been asked to submit them to Benny Thomas, Jan Cobbs or any member of the Polls Committee.

Honor Council

Two questions were asked concerning the Honor Council: "Do you believe in the Honor System? Do you uphold its principles?"

The answers to both questions were yes, 10.6 per cent no and 2 per cent undecided. These percentages are slightly misleading because several students answered no to the first question and yes to the second, Miss Cobb said.

At the present time all profits of the campus book store go to a scholarship fund. Results of the poll showed approval of this policy and disapproval of lowering the price of books which would eliminate the scholarship profits. The approval vote was 57 per cent yes, 38.7 per cent against and 4.3 per cent undecided. The elimination of profits vote was 53.5 per cent yes 44.5 against and 2 per cent undecided.

Students participating in the poll indicated that the prices charged by the Chapel Hill merchants are unfair. A total of 83.1 per cent said prices to high 14.8 per cent said prices are fair and 2.1 per cent are undecided.

Editorial Page

The second page of The Daily Tar Heel met with the general approval of the students. 63.4 per cent liked it, 35.9 per cent disliked it, and 0.7 per cent were undecided.

The system for requesting books at the circulation desk of the library was considered adequate, according to the poll. The vote for the need of a new system was 73.2 per cent against, 25.4 per cent for and 1.4 per cent undecided.

The large number of UNC students pay for none of their education themselves. It was found that 40.1 per cent pay for none of their education, 19.7 per cent pay for all of their education, 14.1 per cent pay for over 50 per cent and 26.8 per cent pay for less than 50 per cent.

The orientation system for incoming students does meet the needs of the according to freshman, results of the poll which showed a vote of 77.5 per cent yes, 17.6 per cent no and 4.9 per cent undecided.

Phi Delta Theta Wins For Best Pledge Class At Banquet

BEST PLEDGE CLASS—Shown above is Pledge President Bill Stem (left), of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity receiving the trophy for the best all around pledge class of 1957 from Ashe Exum, chairman of the Greek Week Committee. All of the pledge classes met at a banquet held by the IFC in Lenoir Hall. (Norm Kantor Photo)

Phi Delta Theta fraternity was awarded the Stanley Sturm trophy for the outstanding pledge class at a banquet Thursday night in Lenoir Hall. This banquet climaxed three days of Greek Week activities, participated in by more than 400 fraternity pledges.

Other trophies were awarded to winners of different events in the Greek Week program. The Field Day trophy was awarded to the Alpha Tau Omega pledge class, which took first place in all Field Day events Tuesday afternoon.

The Phi Deltas won the trophy for Carnival Day, held on Wednesday. The Phi Deltas also won the trophy for top scholarship.

The other Greek Week event was Work Day, held Monday, when pledges helped clean and clear in various locations in the Chapel Hill community.

Dr. James Godfrey, dean of the faculty, was guest speaker at the banquet Thursday.

The trophies at the banquet were presented by Ashe Exum, Sigma Nu who served as chairman of Greek Week. Tucker Yates, newly elected president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, presided at the banquet. Yates introduced members of the Faculty Committee on Fraternities and Sororities and new officers of the IFC.

Local Student Wives Plan To Eat Program

Members of the UNC Student Wives Club will eat their program Tuesday night, according to Jo Anne Young, president of the group.

The program for this meeting will feature Mrs. Thell Jernigan, owner of Thell's Bakery, who will give the girls a demonstration of professional cake decorating techniques. At the conclusion of Mrs. Jernigan's demonstration, she is dogging the cakes for the refreshment of the group.

The Wives Club also announced the election of a new slate of officers: JoAnne Young, President; Lorraine Hollowell, Vice President; Shirley Taylor, Secretary; Clara Richardson Treasurer and Mary Grover, Program Chairman.

The Club meets on the first and third Tuesday of every month at the Victory Village Nursery. Meetings begin at 8 p. m.

DR. GODFREY SPEAKS—Dean of Faculty James Godfrey spoke to the pledge classes of twenty-four fraternities Thursday night at the annual IFC banquet. He told them of the responsibilities placed on their shoulders as not only fraternity men but Carolina gentlemen. (Norm Kantor Photo)