Presidential Run-Off Race Closes With Election Today

Carolina students will go to the polls today to decide the presidency of the student body between the two remaining candidates, Al Goldsmith and Don Furtado. Bob Carter, an independent candidate, was eliminated from the race in the regular spring elections held April 1.

Goldsmith, the University Party candidate, is a junior from Lincolnton and has been active in student affairs and student government during his three years here. He has been vice chairman of the University Party and a member of the student legislature for three years, during which he has been for one session each speaker pro tem and UP floor leader. Goldsmith was treasurer and member of the program committee of the Symposium. He has also been an orientation counselor, treasurer of the orientation committee, member of Phi Eta Sigma, member of Order of the Grail, and a member of various other groups and committees on campus.

Don Furtado, a junior from Garner, is the Student Party nominee. He has been at various times member of the student legislature, vice president of the student body, and a member of the Board of Directors of Graham Memorial. Furtado has also been president of the sophomore class and a member of the Consolidated University student legislature. He is a member of the Order of the Grail.

The polling places will be open today from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Everyone must show their identification card and have it stamped to be allowed to vote.

The following places are voting sites for the different districts:

Town Men's I, Carolina Inn; Town Men's II, Scuttlebutt; Town Men's III, including Glen Lennox, Graham Memorial; Town Men's IV, the office at Victory Village; Town Women, Gerrard Hall.

All dormitory women may vote in their dorms except those in Kenan. Kenan residents may vote in Melver. Residents of Connor may vote in Winston, and Emerson in Ruffin. Other men's dorms will have ballot boxes in them.

Ballot boxes will be placed in the nurses dorms, and all other people living in University owned buildings, such as Memorial Hall, will vote in Old East.

Phi Will Meet Half-Hour Late This Evening

The Phi will meet a half-hour later than usual—at 8:30 p. m.—tonight to debate a bill calling for the unification of the United States and Canada.

After the debate, which is expected to be limited to 30 minutes, the society will meet in executive session to discuss the recipient of the annual Phi-Di Award, and to plan for the Phi-Di Debate.

The annual formal debate between three members of each society will be held next week in Di Hall on a bill calling for American aid to the Cuban revolutionaries.

Tonight's bill declares that since the U. S. and Canada have a common boundary, a common English heritage and democratic forms of government, they should become one nation. The bill adds that economies of both countries function in the "dollar bloc", both have signed a mutual defense pact, and the USSR is a threat to both.

As a final argument the bill states that a union of the two can better defend itself against military action than the two can separately.

During the executive session the society will select members to receive the outstanding freshman and senior awards.

The Phi-Di Award, given annually to an alumnus of one of the societies in recognition of that individual's distinguished service to the state, the nation and its citizens. Last year Chancellor R. B. House received the award.

Foreign Study Grants Open For Summer

Summer trips abroad are now open through the Lisle Fellowships, it was announced yesterday, by Sirikka Talikka, campus representative.

Miss Talikka, a native of Finland, is currently on campus representing the Lisle Fellowship Foundation which each summer sponsors trips abroad in intercultural relations.

The program includes trips to countries in Europe and Asia. Students participating in these trips will live, in many cases, in the homes of natives of the country being visited. This will offer rich opportunities for intimate contacts with people of other nations at home, at work and in every phase of their everyday community life.

The Lisle program was founded in 1936 in New York State as a non-profit organization. Lisle is essentially a leadership training program. As a non-profit organization its tour expenses are kept to a minimum.

Generally, those participating in the Lisle program are in the age bracket from 18-35. Lisle requirements are a completed application and an orientation compatible with Lisle educational objectives.

In addition to tours in European and Asian countries, the Lisle program offers travel to United States units in California and Colorado.

Miss Talikka will be on campus until Thursday. Her office is located in the Y cabinet room with hours of 9-11 a. m., and 2:30-4:30 p. m. for interviews with all interested students.

Majority Of Coeds Oppose New Rules

59.5% of the coeds on this campus disapprove of the new freshman women's rules, according to a Daily Tar Heel poll taken yesterday.

84% of the coeds who answered the poll favored revision in at least one of the rules.

The poll was conducted among all the students in four University women's dormitories and four sorority houses. 447 questionnaires were issued and 250 were returned for a return of 56%.

This return was considerably better than some of the recent polls made by the Graham Memorial Activities Board's Polls Committee. 149 women expressed opposition to the new rules, while 61 others criticized or wanted to eliminate at least one of the rules.

Lights out rules, closed study were among those most criticized rules, and weekend permission rules by the women.

In all the dormitory and sorority districts but two, the rules were scored. In the two that favored the rules the poll showed that the count was 5-3 and 9-7 with exceptions in a majority of cases.

The poll also showed that the coeds actually favored the earlier closing hour regulations, and certain deprivation of privileges for freshman coeds who do not obtain a C average.

WRC Chairman Gives Opinion On New Rules

Lillian Shannonhouse, chairman of the Women's Residence Council, yesterday issued the following statement in regard to the expressed opposition to the new rules governing Freshmen women at Carolina:

"The Women's Residence Council is empowered by the Constitution of the Student Government of the University of North Carolina to draw up and enforce rules for all women students on this campus. This is a group elected by the dormitories and sororities to represent them in governing women's affairs.

"The current issue concerning Freshman rules is a matter of tremendous importance to the women on the campus, so much so that the Women's Residence Council and the Dean of Women's office has spent a semester discussing and formulating the rules. Approval has been received from Dean Brecht of the School of Pharmacy, Miss Beat of the Dental Hygiene Department of the General College, for School, Miss Dalrymple of the Nursing School and Dr. Johnson, the enforcement of closed study.

Yet after all these considerations, the freshmen rules have become a campus issue with the near exclusion of the current presidential campaign.

"In answer to Sonny Evans comment that 'rules should not be made unless there is a situation existing which realistically demands restriction,' I feel that it is always easier to work from the wisdom of hindsight; yet foreseeing a problem requires greater insight.

"Women's Residence Council trusts it has sufficient insight to anticipate problems that will arise and can forestall such problems through formulating a set of rules.

"However in the view of the recent opinions expressed, the Council plans to take these opinions into consideration, and re-evaluate our reason and decisions."

New Program To Begin At Planetarium

A new program titled "Things That Fall from the Sky" will begin at the Morehead Planetarium on the campus of the University of North Carolina here tonight at 8:30. It will run through May 12.

Explaining the nature of the demonstration, Manager A. F. Jenzano said comets, meteors and cosmic radiations create widespread interest and attention periodically. "To know in advance the contributing and inherent characteristics of these phenomena enables one to accept their frequent appearance with intelligent understanding and positive identification," Jenzano said.

The school version, which will be presented Wednesdays through Fridays at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. is recommended for children in grades 4 through 12.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included: Misses Thelma Baughan, Carolyn Teal, Nancy Davis, and Jane Sinclair and Michael Givens, John Cole Scott, Robert Kirk, Johnny Reece, David Thurman, Jerome Stokes, Stewart Larimer, Jerri Lasitter, William Lewis Douglas McCall, Claude Hardison, Charles Sheets, John Dalton and Herbert Bentley.

Background Of Rules Explained By WRC

By CHARLIE SLOAN

The Women's Residence Council yesterday endorsed a statement declaring that it is clearly empowered by the Student Constitution to pass dormitory and social rules and consider problems affecting women students.

According to Council Chairman Lillian Shannonhouse the WRC began an investigation of the status of rules for freshman women at Carolina last fall.

Two reasons were offered by the Council for the investigation. There will be approximately 50 freshman women living on the main campus next fall instead of the previous number of less than 15. The WRC felt that their needs, with respect to rules, should be studied.

The second reason stems from a request during the 1956-57 session of the Student Legislature calling for uniform rules for all freshman women enrolled at the University. According to the Council's statement this was the culmination of a "long felt" discrepancy between rules for freshman women on the main campus and those in the School of Nursing.

As a result of the investigation and the responsibility vested in the Council by the Student Government Constitution a set of rules have been drawn up which "the Council feels workable and necessary."

"In the formulation of the rules this group worked closely with the School of Nursing, the Office of the Dean of Women, and with rules of outstanding college and universities in this area in which freshman women are enrolled," the statement said.

The WRC granted that many schools place no stringent restrictions on the social or academic lives of their freshman women. However, it is the consensus of the WRC that a majority of outstanding women's colleges in the Southeast do place these restrictions on their freshmen women, and with notable success," the Council's release continued.

It was pointed out that the members of the WRC are a representative group of transfer students from colleges such as these, and the members wish to give to the freshman women coming to this campus (See OTHER, Page 3)

The second half of the program will consist of secular compositions of the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The Trois chansons of Ravel written in 1915 is the composer's only choral work aside from some unpublished cantatas. The three songs to be heard are "Nicolette," "Trois beaux oiseaux du Paradis" and "Ronde."

The second number will feature the following soloists: Quillian White, soprano; Gene Strassler, tenor; Marilyn Zschau, contralto; and Harvey Miller, baritone.

Two Appalachian folk songs, "Over Yonder" and "When Young Men Go a-Courtin'," will be heard in arrangements by the Chorus director, Wilton Mason.

Concluding the concert will be three choruses from Moussorgsky's opera, Boris Godounov: "Coronation Scene," "In the Tower of Kazan" and "Death of Boris." David Small will be the bass soloist and Robert Steelman and Dana Dixon, piano accompanists.

Sputnik II Falls

The world's most famous dog has fallen from the skies, still locked in the steel casket where she died, a bizarre and bewildered first citizen of space.

Russia's Sputnik II became a flaming hearse as it twisted and burrowed through the upper reaches of the earth's atmosphere. Both the satellite and its passenger were cremated in the heat of friction.

Playmakers To Perform Student-Written Plays

Three new one-act plays by student authors will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers, Friday and Saturday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Playmakers Theatre. The presentation is a student project of the Department of Dramatic Art, with student direction, designing, and managing.

The plays include "Mossell and the Laurel Bush," by George Hill; "The Dangers of Great Literature," by Gabrielle Roepke and "The Freudian Years," by Kenneth Callendar.

Both Hill and Miss Roepke have been represented earlier this year with "Fairy Beauty" and "The White Butterfly." "The White Butterfly" was taken by the Department to the State Drama Festival in Raleigh, where it received the only superior rating of the evening.

The public is invited to attend these performances and to react to the scripts presented. Admission is free.

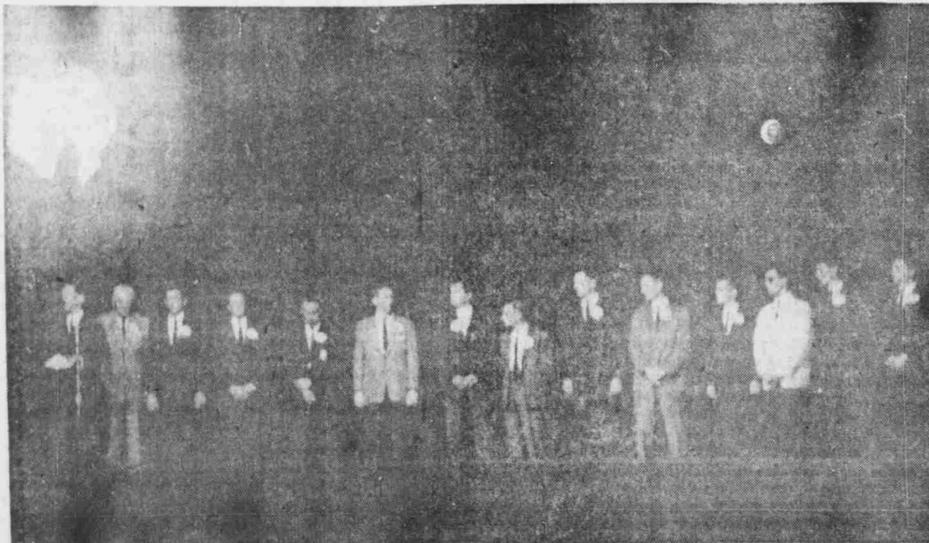

Cheerleader Tryouts Are Today At 4

Tryouts for cheerleaders will be today at 4 p. m. in Kenan Stadium. In the event of rain, tryouts will be held in the Tin Can.

Six girls and 3 boys will be selected to serve as cheerleaders next year.

A C average is required of all candidates. This group will meet every afternoon this week at four o'clock; practice will last about one and one half hours.

Carter Jones, head cheerleader, requests that girl candidates wear Bermuda shorts and tennis shoes. He added that he would like for last year's cheerleaders to come down and help out.
