

WEATHER

Cloudier and warm today with high of 85.

The Daily Tar Heel

FRANCE

A country is dying. See page 2.

VOL. LXV NO. 165

Offices in Graham Memorial

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1958

Complete Wire Service

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

WINNING RUN SCORES—Carson Oldham crosses home plate with the winning run in Carolina's 1-0 victory over Wake Forest yesterday. Looking on at right is Roger Honeycutt (No. 35) while pitcher Ben Tanch covers home and umpire Joe Mills observes the play. (Photo by Spoon)

Athletes As Well As Scientists Challenge America Says Official

American faces the problems of matching Russia not only on the scientific front but also in the health and physical well-being of her individual citizens, a Chicago athletic official told municipal recreation executives in Chapel Hill Wednesday.

Theodore P. Bank, president of The Athletic Institute, a non-profit organization promoting athletics, physical education and recreation, addressed a session of the 10th anniversary meeting of the N. C. Municipal Recreation Executives Conference.

"The Russians are devoting more time to recreational sports and physical education than are we Americans, who have neglected physical activities with our automobiles, automation and high standard of living."

"We must give our children a recreation program to develop total fitness—physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually," Bank added.

The recreation executives also heard a report on the N. C. Recreation Commission from its director, Ralph J. Andrews of Raleigh, and members of his staff.

William B. Stronach Jr., director of the High Point Parks and Recreation Department, introduced Bank and led discussion after his talk.

During Wednesday afternoon the conferees held separate sessions to discuss recreation problems in cities with population above and below 30,000. Two North Carolina recreation directors who served as leaders are Oka Hester of Greensboro and Wilbur L. Fay of Kinston.

Dr. Harold D. Meyer, director of UNC's recreation curriculum, discussed some current trends in recreation at a Wednesday night session.

The conference will continue through Thursday morning, when James S. Stevens Jr. of Raleigh will report on the N. C. Recreation Society, which he heads. Jack Amyette of the Society will preside at a business session following.

In his discussion of recreation as it relates to the executives, Bank emphasized the personnel recruitment problem which faces the recreation profession and many others today.

GMAB Group Heads Are Named By Carter

Twelve students received positions as committee chairmen of Graham Memorial Activities Board Thursday, GMAB President Bob Carter announced.

Those appointed and the committees they will head were:

Angus Duff, calendar; Louis May, current affairs; Guy Cowan, dance; Seamon Gottlieb, drama; Glenn Meginnis, films; Russel Link, music; Betty Zeh, office.

Dee Donroe, polls; Katherine Carter, receptions and decorations; Edna Faye Pugh, special events;

Wally Kuralt, student productions and Bob Borden, tournaments. The publicity chairman will be chosen at a later date. The chairmen will be responsible for determining the membership of their committee and will be responsible for the program under his area.

Those who applied for membership on a committee will be notified concerning their appointment or rejection.

Anyone who is interested in serving on one of the committees is urged to come by GM and fill out an application blank. Many people are still needed in order to complete the organization for the coming year.

"We have a fine group of students heading the committees and we are looking forward to a successful year. Anyone with any ideas concerning the program of GMAB please drop by and talk it over with me," president Bob Carter said.

Carolina Graduate Squelched In Jordan Ouster Attempt

New Library For Undergrads Will Be Opened During Summer

A new undergraduate library, designed to give UNC a collection of books equal to the total library of many colleges in this area, will be opened during the summer.

The new area will be on the first floor of Wilson Library in the space now occupied by the Business Administration and Economics library.

"It will prove much longer and more appropriate reading facilities for lower division students and will make immediately available a collection of books equal to the total library of many colleges of our area," say library officials.

The collections will include "the best and latest books" in all classes from philosophy and religion through the social sciences, literature, and history.

Sunday Party Rule Supported By Sororities

The Panhellenic Council passed a resolution supporting the Interfraternity Council move disapproving of Sunday parties, in action Wednesday.

In other business the Panel decided that four girls from each sorority will be in the receiving line at the Panel Tea which will start Rush next year.

It was decided that the next meeting of the organization will be Wednesday, September 17. The meeting will be held to plan Rush dates.

Library officials pointed out the present General College library will be merged with this collection. All its services will be transferred to the new space, they said.

Plans include a division of the room into smaller reading areas. This "reduce the noises of traffic as well as improve the attractiveness of the area," officials said.

They said the possibility of air conditioning is being investigated.

"The two levels of shelving immediately adjacent and opening into the roof will be used as open shelves and, in time, it is hoped that shelving can be built around the walls to extend the book capacity and attractiveness of the room," they said.

Miss Mary Lou Lucy, chief of the Circulation Dept., will be in charge of the room, to be staffed by professionals and student assistants.

Thirty-One Initiated Into Phi Beta Kappa

Phi Beta Kappa at Carolina held its spring initiation this week with induction of 31 students, and an address by Kenan Prof. Urban T. Holmes Jr.

Harvey Peek and Leonidas J. Betts Jr. were chosen as president and vice president respectively. These offices are based upon academic standing in the group.

The initiates, who were honored at a banquet in Lenoir Hall, were as follows: Neil C. Bender, Pollockville; Leonidas J. Betts, Jr., Fuquay Springs; Robert J. Cowan, Greensboro; Miss Adelia S. Crouch, Newton; Miss Judith Dockery, Rutherfordton.

Miss Anne Louise Drake, Beckley, W. Va.; Miss Catherine D. Frost, Florence, Ala.; Albert L. Goldsmith, Jr., Lincolnton; Herman A. Godwin, Jr., Dunn; Lawrence D. Hayes, Kernersville; Ray M. Hayworth, Asheboro; James M. Highsmith, Robersonville; Shelley

Against a chorus of "No's", state Democratic Convention Chairman Floyd Crouse adjourned the state convention yesterday, with a Wake County delegate, Robert Pace from Morrisville, still trying to get the floor to introduce a resolution.

After all resolutions from the resolutions and platform committee had been brought up and passed, Pace stood up to get the floor to present a resolution to have the convention select the Senatorial successor to the late Sen. Kerr Scott.

The resolution would have had the executive committee directed by the convention as a whole to endorse the candidate that the convention selected.

The resolution was spurred by the appointment of Everett Jordan to fill the Scott vacancy, Gov. Hodges made this appointment recently.

After the official business had been completed Crouse asked for a motion to adjourn and refused to recognize Delegate Pace. Instead the chairman recognized John Kerr, Jr. of Warren County, who moved adjournment.

Several "ayes" were heard on the adjournment motion, however, a large group of "no's" were also heard. Throughout the voting Pace continued to attempt to get the floor.

Earlier, the resolutions and platform committee tabled the Pace resolution after some discussion.

According to Pace, the committee at first refused to hear the resolutions, and only after Pace had demanded his rights as a delegate, did the chairman of the committee allow the resolution to be heard.

According to Pace, the chairman only agreed to do this after saying, would let even a Communist speak."

Pace in commenting on the Khrushchev could have maintained firmer control of another type party meeting, than did the Hodges, Jordan, Larkins triumvirate at today's Democratic Convention."

Robert Pace As "Joe Smith"

A self-styled "Joe Smith", reminiscent of the 1956 Republican Convention, was refused the floor at the State Democratic Convention today.

Robert Pace from Morrisville, a Wake County delegate who wanted to present a resolution which would have allowed the Convention to pick the successor to the late Sen. Kerr Scott was not heard although he cried in vain to get the floor to present his motion.

Instead the Convention adjourned without his being allowed to speak.

Pace is currently a resident of Chapel Hill, and is a graduate of the University.

He was the youngest justice of the peace in North Carolina when Scott appointed him to a Wake County post. He was subsequently reelected.

Pace also ran for the state house of representatives while a student at Carolina, and although he put forward only his $7.50 filing fee, received 2,000 votes.

Town Athletic Group Fetes Student Athletes

Carolina and Chapel Hill high school athletes will be honored to-night at 6:30 p.m. by the Chapel Hill Athletic Club at its annual spring awards chicken barbecue in Emerson Stadium.

Vic Higgins, club president, has sent out invitations to club members and their guests on outlined a breezy program for the occasion.

Entertainment will include everything from ventriloquism to rock roll. Among the entertainers will be Nick Kearns and his combo, actor-comedian Ken Callender, ventriloquist Oliver Bloomer, and singers Kak Anthony, Hoke Simpson and Soda.

G. C. Pridden will be master of ceremonies at the outdoor shindig. Catering will be in the hands of Ted Danziger, Jake Connors and Jack Lipman.

Thirty-four North Carolina seniors in all sports except football and basketball will be presented the celebrated CHAC plaques. Football and basketball players were honored at previous parties with the club and the UNC Athletic Association as hosts.

Twenty-one Chapel Hill high school football, baseball and basketball seniors will be presented sterling silver footballs.

At a business meeting, the club will elect officers for next year.

The Carolina seniors receiving awards will be:

Cross-country: James Pickle Hunter, John William Reeves. Soccer: William James Blair, Pieter Low Hegaboom, Theodore Roosevelt Smith, Theodore Youhanna, Leif Erickson.

Wrestling: John Springer Gray, Kenneth Alvin Hoke, David Lee Wall.

Swimming: Telfair Mahaffy, Archibald Kelly Maness, Jr., Edmund L. Meekins, Walter T. Rose, Jr., William Cawthon Roth, William Grant Zickgraf.

Daily Tar Heel Top Reporters Receive Prizes

Five Daily Tar Heel staff members won five dollars cash awards Thursday in recognition of their outstanding work for the paper during May. Four others won honorable mention.

In the feature category, a cash award went to Pringle Pipkin, Reidsville, for his five-part series "Fight for Faculty." Davis Young, Princeton, N. J., received honorable mention for a series which dealt with sewer conditions in Chapel Hill.

For news, Davis Young won a cash award for "sheer quantity of lead stories" published during the month.

Anthony Wolff, New York City, won a cash award for his work as columnist with Whit Whitfield, Durham, receiving honorable mention.

For best sports work Rusty Hammond, Randleman, won a cash award.

The cash award for most consistent worker went to Stan Black, Charlotte. Honorable mention in this category was given to Fletcher Gray, Show Hill. Bill Kincaid, Lenoir, co-news editor, was given special honorable mention.

Curtis Gans, editor of The Daily Tar Heel, presented the awards at a staff meeting.

Only non-paid staff members are eligible for the cash awards.

Wrestling: John Springer Gray, Kenneth Alvin Hoke, David Lee Wall.

Swimming: Telfair Mahaffy, Archibald Kelly Maness, Jr., Edmund L. Meekins, Walter T. Rose, Jr., William Cawthon Roth, William Grant Zickgraf.

Baseball: Charles B. Aycock III, Donald Carson Oldham, Roger B. Honeycutt, Alton Britt Pons.

Tennis: Stephen Bank, Robert Walters Bortner, Lloyd Malcolm Clark.

Edit Writers' Meet Features Dixie Debate

Newspaper editorial writers from North Carolina and surrounding states will convene at Chapel Hill today for the ninth annual N. C. Conference of Editorial Writers.

Featured attraction of the two-day meet will be a debate on the topic "Dixie's Destiny." James Kilpatrick, editor of the Richmond News-Leader, and Harry Golden, editor of the Carolina Israelite, Charlotte, will discuss the subject at Carroll Hall small auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

CRITIQUES Saturday, Ken Byerly of the UNC School of Journalism faculty will conduct an editorial page, critique for non-daily newspapers in Carrol Hall small auditorium at 9:30 a.m.

A similar critique for dailies will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. at the same place by Robert H. Mason of The Virginian-Pilot, Norfolk, Portsmouth and South Norfolk, Va.

Gen. Capus M. Waynick, commander of the North Carolina National Guard, will speak at a luncheon meeting Saturday at 12:30 in Carolina Inn on the topic "Proposed Changes in the North Carolina Constitution."

Following his address Hugh Haynie, cartoonist for the Greensboro Daily News will speak.

Murray Kempton, columnist for the New York Post, will speak at a dinner meeting Saturday at the Ranch House at 7 p.m.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the Infirmary yesterday included:

Misses Patricia Anderson, Patricia Gegory, Hilda Holt, Jacquelin Turner and Betty Winslow and Ronald Britt, Joel Caldwell, Wallace Graham, Robert Kerr, George Langford, Charles Maddrey, Amos Moore and Stanley Wright.

Tillman Wins Glee Club Cup For 'Most Valuable Member'

By BEN TAYLOR The Men's Glee Club rounded out what Director Dr. Joel Carter termed "one of the most successful years we've ever had" Saturday night with a banquet.

The Glee Club's most valued award, a loving cup for the most valuable member 1957-58, went to graduating senior Hunter Tillman of Roxboro. During his four years in the Glee Club, Tillman was accompanist in his sophomore and junior years, served as student conductor this year and directed the club's production of "Mikado" with Hollins College in April.

Commenting on the club's work for the year, Dr. Carter said, "This has been one of the best Men's Glee Clubs I've ever had. They racked up between 40 and 50 public appearances during the year and did a fine job on each one."

"Probably the most notable achievement was the high morale attained and sustained throughout the year and the constant realization on the part of the men that they were representing the University wherever they sang."

Twenty-six members received certificates and two trophies were presented at the choral group's annual banquet. A personal gift, a drinking mug emblazoned with slogans, was also presented to outgoing president Charles Shoe by Dr. Carter in recognition of his work in the Glee Club over the past three years. Shoe will become the club's first "administrative assistant" in the fall, according to Dr. Carter.

Following a steak dinner, the members and their dates heard Dr. Carter announce that 46 of the club's songsters had received credits for the year. Glee Club certificates, awarded for "meritorious service, interest, vocal talent, and good attendance," went to 26 members.

Nine members "who have completed at least four semesters in the organization and having a consistent record of faithful Glee Club participation" became eligible to buy Glee Club Keys. They were:

Malcolm Campbell, John W. Dalton, Jr., J. Warren Elledge, Darrell B. Kawkins, Kenneth L. James, James W. Kinney, R. Graham Mat-

Tillman Wins Glee Club Cup For 'Most Valuable Member'

thews, Edwin G. Sapp, and James P. Tyndall.

The Glee Club's newest award, the "Bloopster Award," went to rising junior Malcolm D. Campbell, from Needham, Mass. The award, a tin funnel, was presented by Publicity Manager Ben Taylor.

Dr. Carter took the occasion to release the club's plans for the forthcoming year in stating that the usual two annual tours will be undertaken. The fall tour is tentatively scheduled to take the club to Hollins, Va. for a presentation of Gilbert-Sullivan's "Mikado" and down to Knoxville, Tenn. for the football caravan. The spring tour is scheduled to include eastern North Carolina and South Carolina.

The Glee Club's newest award, the "Bloopster Award," went to rising junior Malcolm D. Campbell, from Needham, Mass. The award, a tin funnel, was presented by Publicity Manager Ben Taylor.

Dr. Carter took the occasion to release the club's plans for the forthcoming year in stating that the usual two annual tours will be undertaken. The fall tour is tentatively scheduled to take the club to Hollins, Va. for a presentation of Gilbert-Sullivan's "Mikado" and down to Knoxville, Tenn. for the football caravan. The spring tour is scheduled to include eastern North Carolina and South Carolina.

Summer School Weekly Edit Staff Announced

Editor Davis Young of The Summer School Weekly has announced his appointments for staff positions on that paper for the first session of summer school.

They include John W. Young, managing editor; Barry Winston, associate editor; Ken Young, city editor; John Riley, news editor; John Minter, business manager; Hobart Steele, asst. business manager.

Seamon Gottlieb, arts editor; Westbrook Fowler, feature editor; Mike Simpson, circulation manager; and Jim Harper, sports editor.

In announcing these appointments Young said, "I am very pleased to have these people working with me this summer. They represent some of the finest talent in journalism that can be found on the campus of this University."

He went on to say, "I would like to make special mention of John W. Young. He is currently an Associate Editor of the Duke Chronicle and his wide experience gives me confidence that he will produce an eye catching layout of the pages."

The first issue of the paper will hit the newsstands on the morning of June 5. It will be a six page issue designed for the new students entering the University for the first time. However, it will also contain much valuable information for veterans of Chapel Hill.

The paper will appear on Thursday during the summer instead of Friday as in past years. Young, in commenting on plans for the summer stated: "I hope to have at least three six page issues. "We are hoping to have two of these supplements be about special features of off campus news which affects not only us, but people everywhere."

Tillman Wins Glee Club Cup For 'Most Valuable Member'

By BEN TAYLOR The Men's Glee Club rounded out what Director Dr. Joel Carter termed "one of the most successful years we've ever had" Saturday night with a banquet.

The Glee Club's most valued award, a loving cup for the most valuable member 1957-58, went to graduating senior Hunter Tillman of Roxboro. During his four years in the Glee Club, Tillman was accompanist in his sophomore and junior years, served as student conductor this year and directed the club's production of "Mikado" with Hollins College in April.

Commenting on the club's work for the year, Dr. Carter said, "This has been one of the best Men's Glee Clubs I've ever had. They racked up between 40 and 50 public appearances during the year and did a fine job on each one."

"Probably the most notable achievement was the high morale attained and sustained throughout the year and the constant realization on the part of the men that they were representing the University wherever they sang."

Twenty-six members received certificates and two trophies were presented at the choral group's annual banquet. A personal gift, a drinking mug emblazoned with slogans, was also presented to outgoing president Charles Shoe by Dr. Carter in recognition of his work in the Glee Club over the past three years. Shoe will become the club's first "administrative assistant" in the fall, according to Dr. Carter.

Following a steak dinner, the members and their dates heard Dr. Carter announce that 46 of the club's songsters had received credits for the year. Glee Club certificates, awarded for "meritorious service, interest, vocal talent, and good attendance," went to 26 members.

Nine members "who have completed at least four semesters in the organization and having a consistent record of faithful Glee Club participation" became eligible to buy Glee Club Keys. They were:

Malcolm Campbell, John W. Dalton, Jr., J. Warren Elledge, Darrell B. Kawkins, Kenneth L. James, James W. Kinney, R. Graham Mat-

Tillman Wins Glee Club Cup For 'Most Valuable Member'

thews, Edwin G. Sapp, and James P. Tyndall.

The Glee Club's newest award, the "Bloopster Award," went to rising junior Malcolm D. Campbell, from Needham, Mass. The award, a tin funnel, was presented by Publicity Manager Ben Taylor.

Dr. Carter took the occasion to release the club's plans for the forthcoming year in stating that the usual two annual tours will be undertaken. The fall tour is tentatively scheduled to take the club to Hollins, Va. for a presentation of Gilbert-Sullivan's "Mikado" and down to Knoxville, Tenn. for the football caravan. The spring tour is scheduled to include eastern North Carolina and South Carolina.

The Glee Club's newest award, the "Bloopster Award," went to rising junior Malcolm D. Campbell, from Needham, Mass. The award, a tin funnel, was presented by Publicity Manager Ben Taylor.

Dr. Carter took the occasion to release the club's plans for the forthcoming year in stating that the usual two annual tours will be undertaken. The fall tour is tentatively scheduled to take the club to Hollins, Va. for a presentation of Gilbert-Sullivan's "Mikado" and down to Knoxville, Tenn. for the football caravan. The spring tour is scheduled to include eastern North Carolina and South Carolina.

Tillman Wins Glee Club Cup For 'Most Valuable Member'

Editor Davis Young of The Summer School Weekly has announced his appointments for staff positions on that paper for the first session of summer school.

They include John W. Young, managing editor; Barry Winston, associate editor; Ken Young, city editor; John Riley, news editor; John Minter, business manager; Hobart Steele, asst. business manager.

Seamon Gottlieb, arts editor; Westbrook Fowler, feature editor; Mike Simpson, circulation manager; and Jim Harper, sports editor.

In announcing these appointments Young said, "I am very pleased to have these people working with me this summer. They represent some of the finest talent in journalism that can be found on the campus of this University."

He went on to say, "I would like to make special mention of John W. Young. He is currently an Associate Editor of the Duke Chronicle and his wide experience gives me confidence that he will produce an eye catching layout of the pages."

The first issue of the paper will hit the newsstands on the morning of June 5. It will be a six page issue designed for the new students entering the University for the first time. However, it will also contain much valuable information for veterans of Chapel Hill.

The paper will appear on Thursday during the summer instead of Friday as in past years. Young, in commenting on plans for the summer stated: "I hope to have at least three six page issues. "We are hoping to have two of these supplements be about special features of off campus news which affects not only us, but people everywhere."