Playmakers' First Show Tonight

Lavergne Issues A New Call; Help Needed For Activities

By NICK ELLISON

Tonight at 7 o'clock, Kissing outdoor pool will be the scene of the first free dance sponsored by the Summer School Activities Council. For those interested in swimming the pool will be open from seven until nine. Music and free refreshments will be provided. Dancing will be on the terrace next to the pool from nine until twelve. Girls are required to wear skirts at the dance. All students are urged to come to swim and dance with or without dates.

The Summer School Activities Council has also planned a picnic, July 3, at 5 o'clock, in the woods behind McIver dormitory. A dixieland band is planned for entertainment, and box lunches of chicken, potato chips, potato salad, pickle chips and free soft drinks will be served. Dress for the girls will be Bermudas. Tickets for the picnic will be sold for 50 cents at Y-court, Graham Memorial Information Center or by members of the Activity Council.

The annual Watermelon Festival will be held Wednesday, July 9. All dormitories, fraternities and sororities have been asked to sponsor a girl for Watermelon Queen, deadline for entries is June 30, Tuesday afternoon, July 8, a tea will be held for the three judges, selected from the faculty, and the contestants. The Watermelon Queen will be judged on personality and poise. The four entries so far are Jill O'Donnel, Doreen Greenfield, Nancy Woodall and Gail Minnich. Further details will be given to the contestants when all the names are received.

Nelson Lavergne, chairman of the Activities Council urges all students interested in working with the Activities Council to attend their next meeting Tuesday, July 1, at 8 o'clock, in Roland Parker Lounge no. 1, Graham Memorial.

Enrollment Up

UNC NEWS BUREAU
Of the 3,420 students enrolled in the first session of summer school at the University of North Carolina, 2,830 are North Carolinians. The next largest number of students comes from Virginia which sent 92 persons to UNC.

Other states with students totaling in the two-digit column include South Carolina with 72; Florida, 55; Georgia, 52; Pennsylvania, 36; New York, 32; New Jersey, 30; Maryland and Tennessee, each with 22; Kentucky and West Virginia, each with 17; Alabama, 16; Connecticut, 14; Washington and Texas, both with 10.

The largest number of students, 942, are enrolled in the graduate school. Next on the list is the General College with 936 students. A total of 662 persons are taking work in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The School of Business Administration reports that there are 284 students taking business courses. A total of 313 persons are enrolled this summer in the School of Education. There are 16 prospective newspaper workers studying this session in the School of Journalism.

Bob Cox Of Chapel Hill Is The New Jaycee President

A local resident, Bob Cox, last week won the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a member by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce, when he was elected national president on the 15th ballot in a tense election held in Los Angeles.

Cox, a native of Memphis, Tenn., is an adopted Chapel Hillian and the owner of the Town and Campus Clothing Store here in town. He is a past national vice president of the Jaycees and served a term as state president.

He listed as his aims, "a nationwide drive to build up the youth of the nation." The program would include a youth competition, a fitness week and health programs.

He left almost immediately after his election for the National Convention of the Canadian Jaycees.

During his term of office, Cox will leave Chapel Hill and locate himself and his family in Tulsa, Okla., traditional home of Jaycee presidents. After his administration is concluded, he will return to Chapel Hill.

Present at the convention with him, were his wife and mother. He succeeds an Indiana man, Chuck Shearer, as president.

His election capped a year long campaign starting last fall when it was announced that the North Carolina Jaycees would support him for the position.

Sonny Kinsey And His Group Fight Meters

By DAVIS B. YOUNG

As the week drew to a close, it was not known if the University of North Carolina would soon be looking at parking meters in front of Big Fraternity Court and the area of the ATO and Chi Omega Houses.

Efforts to head off such a measure were being led by Student Body President Curtis Gans, Sonny Kinsey, chairman of the Emergency Traffic Committee and Gordon Street of the ATO Fraternity.

AT PRESS TIME . . . it was not known what the final outcome was. There was reportedly a meeting of the Town Board of Aldermen on Thursday night, too late for this week's issue of The Summer School Weekly.

The first inclination that the local lawmakers were preparing to initiate such a measure came late in the spring. At that time most students were against such a measure. There is little indication that the prevailing attitude has changed.

Kinsey, in a prepared statement commented: "I hope that the Board of Aldermen will see fit to favorably receive the petition we are presenting them in connection with the proposed parking meter ordinance."

"The Board must decide whether or not the small material gain derived from meters placed in these fringe areas is going to balance the increased resentment of the students toward the town, when they return next fall only to find meters installed in their absence."

"Every student should come forward and voice his opinion on this crucial issue."

The petition drawn up by Kinsey and his associates presented to the Board of Aldermen a list of reasons for not installing meters near fraternity and sorority houses.

Sound And Fury

Sound and Fury, the annual student musical comedy, yesterday issued a call for students interested in working on the production.

Wally Kuralt, the director of next year's show, has asked that all interested students contact him at St. Anthony Hall after 7 p.m.

Sound and Fury is an original musical comedy, written, produced, directed and staged by students. Experience, Kuralt stressed, is not a prerequisite for working on the show.

Kuralt said that there are positions open in all phases of production singing, acting, dancing, working backstage, designing sets, lighting, and writing script, music, and lyrics.

(Clue. The chauffeur's daughter marries the wealthy playboy.)

Lucy Ann Dunlap, starring as Sabrina Fairchild gives an amusing and convincing portrayal in the Carolina Playmaker's first summer production, "Sabrina Fair."

The play, written by Samuel Taylor, is a light comedy about a Long Island Cinderella who ends up in a social whirl with one of the state's richest young bachelors.

Tonight the play opens at the Forest Theater on W. Cameron Avenue, and continues through tomorrow night, June 28. General admission is $1.00 and curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

The play is directed by Professor Kai Jurgenson, well known campus theatrical personality, who directed and appeared with many Playmaker productions in the past. Jurgenson has been with the Department of Dramatic Arts at Chapel Hill since 1941, and has also directed the outdoor pageant drama "Horn in the West." He received a Fulbright Fellowship in April and will teach in Denmark this fall.

Fred Sitton, at present teaching at UNC, and a former drama teacher at Central High School in Charlotte has designed the sets. Sitton teaches a course in technical directing for the Playmaker's this summer.

The cast for "Sabrina Fair" includes a group from widely varying backgrounds of experience. Playing the role of Linus Larrabee Jr. is Sam Baker, Linus Larrabee Sr. is Frank Clyman, a retired Army colonel, who appeared as the bishop in the Playmaker production of "The Lark."

Maude, the third member of the Larrabee family is played by Edith Larson, a school teacher from Orlando, Florida. Lucy Ann Dunlap, receiving star billing as the play's leading lady, Sabrina Fairchild, is now working on her Masters' Dramatic Arts in Chapel Hill.

The Playmakers have announced that the play will be given on the first fair night, if it rains. Also, the Forest Theater does not rent pillows so you are advised to bring your own.

July 4-7, Michael Harrington, sponsored by the YMCA will appear on this campus to deliver a series of talks and to meet and chat with students. Harrington appeared here in March under the auspices of the Carolina Symposium and is a member of the Fund for the Republic.

June 30-July 2, Piano Clinic at Hill Hall.

July 1, Sally Pierson, piano recital.

July 2, Widtor Labunski, piano recital at 1:30 p.m.

Tonight and tomorrow night, Sabrina Fair presented by the Carolina Playmakers at 8:30 in the Forest Theater.

Planetarium show, End of the World continues this week.

Each Tuesday and Thursday the Summer School Chorus rehearses at 4:30 p.m. in Hill Hall.

Front Page Editorial

(It is indeed unfortunate that the front page of this paper must be partially filled with an editorial. However, under the circumstances which have arisen, it is the opinion of the editor, that it is necessary.)

The Summer School Activities Council, under the Chairmanship of Nelson Lavergne, to date has not been able to secure the services of even one student to aid it in its vital program of providing entertainment for academicians spending the summer in Chapel Hill.

A fairly large portion of the blame for this wretched state of affairs must come to rest on the shoulders of Lavergne. He has obviously not done all within his power to recruit help for his committee.

However, the largest chunk of the current situation may be directly attributed to you — THE STUDENT BODY. Lavergne has had notices appear in this paper and has put posters around campus advertising the time of his meetings. Still, no response.

At the present trend, you will be deprived of all of the activities being planned for the summer. The choice is yours. Lavergne is not a human dynamo and can't handle all planning angles by himself.

The present attitude of students is indicative of the growing apathy on this campus. It stinks.

If you don't want any activities this summer, at least have the common courtesy to come to Lavergne's next meeting and say so. That way he won't have to waste his entire summer in performing an important service for students, who don't give any indication that they care.
