Trespassing Charges Net Professor Fine, Court Costs

By JIM JONES
Chapel Hill News Leader
A 37-year-old University professor was fined a total of $100 and costs on two charges of trespassing early Wednesday morning. Earlier charges of peeping secretly were amended on the motion of the state.

Chapel Hill Recorder's Court Judge W. E. Stewart fined Peter H. Nash $100 on the charges he allegedly trespassed at the Hillsboro St. apartments on the night of Sept. 19 and Nov. 23.

The trial, which began at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, continued until shortly after 1 a.m., and court attaches said it marked the longest court session in recent memory here.

Nash, an associate professor in the Department of City and Regional Planning, pleaded nolo contendere to the Sept. 9 charge of trespassing and guilty to the Oct. 23 charge as amended.

Eric P. Elliott, a senior religion student at the University and a resident of the apartments, testified that he saw a man whom he identified as Nash about 11:30 p.m. Sept. 19 near the door of an apartment occupied by Mrs. Lois Sauter. He claimed he saw the defendant again about 10:30 p.m. Oct. 30 "looking into two bedrooms."

Mrs. Lavert Hooper, another resident of the apartment, claimed she saw Nash on the night of Oct. 23. Her husband said he saw the defendant the night of Sept. 19.

Nash testified that he was not near the apartments on the night of Sept. 19 and instead attended a faculty showing at the Ackland Art Museum. He admitted being at the apartment during daytime hours Sept. 28, the day after losing his dog, looking for the animal. He said the apartment area was suggested as a place to look for his dog by a neighbor, Ralph Ashworth.

He also admitted going to the apartments to search for the dog at 10:30 p.m. on Oct. 9, at about 11:11 p.m. on Oct. 23, and on Oct. 30 at about 9:45 p.m.

He said his sole purpose in going to the spot was to look for the dog and said he had also searched other places, including the University campus, Durham and Chapel Hill newspapers were introduced to show that he advertised

New York Still Aim Of 'Y' Group

"Never give up."
That's the cry from the Y: After cancelling one trip to New York City due to transportation difficulties, they are now scheduling a trip for the weekend of the semester break—Thursday through Saturday.

The cost for the big city fling is estimated at $30. All interested persons should sign up no later than Jan. 15 at the Y. More information about the trip will be announced later.

However, some of the present plans are to visit the United Nations, the main purpose of the trip, and visit delegations in their embassies or rooms in the UN. Last year the group heard a speech on the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and visited the Russian embassy. Plans are also on the agenda as well as dinners with such well known persons as Frank Porter Graham. Meetings will be held later to give more details of the trip.

There may be another New York trip in the spring. That one or the upcoming trip may be made with State College.

Activities for Graham Memorial today include:

Record Concert, 7:30 p.m. Main Lounge; Student Council, 7:30-10:30 p.m., Grall Room; Women's Honor Council, 6:45-11 p.m., Woodhouse Conference Room and Council Room, and School of Public Health square dance, 8-12 a.m., Cobb dormitory basement.

for the lost dog after it disappeared Sept. 27.

Nash was arrested Oct. 31 by Chapel Hill police after a license number, supplied by Mrs. Hooper who said she got it from a car parked at the apartments was identified as belonging to the defendant.

Capt. Coy Durham of the police said he questioned the defendant Oct. 31 and was told early in the conversation that Nash had not been near the apartments. He later admitted that he was here Oct. 30, Durham testified.

Asked about the conversation later, Nash told the court he hesi-tated to tell of his appearance at the apartments because he was "afraid of the police." He said his fear could be traced to adolescent experiences in Germany.

Nash said he never went by the apartments "specifically, but was always just driving by" when he stopped.

"I've never done anything that could be construed as dishonest or immoral," he said.

Victor Bryant, Sr., of Durham and Emery Denny, Jr., Chapel Hill, were attorneys for the defense. Solicitor John Tapley was assisted by Attorney James Farrow of Chapel Hill, as private prosecutor.

Playmakers To Present Experimental Production

The Carolina Playmakers will present an experimental production, "An Evening of Mine," in the Playmakers Theatre Thursday and Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Russell Graves, visiting professor of dramatic art, is directing the production, which will include several sketches in pantomimic action.

"Mime," says Graves, "is possibly the oldest of the performing arts. It has manifested itself in primitive ritual, worship, the silent film and stage performance. Most recently it has experienced a renaissance throughout the world due to the devotion of those remarkable Frenchmen, Marcel Marceau, Etienne Decroux, and Jean-Louis Barrault."

The experimental production grows out of an informal class in pantomime, which Professor Graves is conducting.

The cast includes Margaret Starnes, Bob Merritt, George Manasse, James Tyndall, Bobbi Hicks, Darwin Solomon, Barbara Dixon, William Dixon, J. W. Hannah, Harold Smith, Carl Hinrichs, Craven Mackie and Chenaull Spence.

Admission to the production is free.

Summer Work At Camps Open For Application

Anyone desiring work as camp counselor next summer, has been urged to contact the Placement Service in 204 Gardner immediately.

Requests for camp counselors are already being received by the Service.

One camp director has already scheduled his visit for the first week after Christmas vacation. He represents Camp Echo Hill in New Jersey, which has had UNC students on its staff for over five years.

Two Openings Available On GMAB

Two chairmen of Graham Memorial Activities Board committees have resigned, according to a report yesterday from Bob Carter, president of GMAB.

Louis May resigned his post as chairman of the Current Affairs Committee because of a heavy schedule. The other resignation came from Graham Adams, former head of the Drama Committee. He resigned because he will not be in school next semester.

Carter said any student interested in applying for the chairmanship of either committee should fill out an application blank in the GM Information Office.

Plans already made by these committees will not be affected by the change in chairmen, Carter said.

Phi Defeats Bill Favoring Reunification

A plan for the reunification of Germany was defeated by the Philanthropic Literary Society in its meeting Tuesday night.

The bill proposed the reunification of East and West Germany under a peace treaty between the occupying powers similar to the one agreed to for Austria in 1955. The main feature of the 1955 treaty was the guaranteed neutrality of Austria.

Rep. Bob Morley argued that a united Germany would fill the power vacuum in Central Europe and at the same time provide a buffer state between Russia and the West. He said that a united Germany would please the Russians in that it would be neutral, rather than half heavily armed by the West and half by the Russians themselves. Reunification could hardly be unpopular among the German people themselves, after twelve years of division and occupation, he said.

Speaking for the bill, Rep. Bill Jackson said that he felt that reunification of Germany on a neutral basis would not affect their friendship with the West, as there exist strong anti-communist feelings in West Germany.

He added that Russia would stand to lose face, since she would naturally disapprove of reunification with free elections.

Rep. Johnson attacked the idea of German neutrality. The Germans have been the strongest supporters of NATO in Europe, and their withdrawal would noticeably weaken the alliance. He felt that the Russians stand to gain more than the West by the reunification of East and West Germany. Rep. Johnson also brought out possible French objections to a strong, reunited Germany.

The bill was defeated by the margin of one vote. Rep. Bill Jackson was declared Speaker of the Even-

Tar Heels Beat South Carolina By 70-57 Count

COLUMBIA, S.C.—Carolina's oncoming Tar Heels made it three in a row here last night by racking up South Carolina 70-57. The Tar Heels led most of the game and were never in serious trouble after they led at 16-0 midway through the first half.

Carolina's "Magic 5" (Shaffer, Moe, Kepley, Larese, and Salz) did most of the damage. Even South Carolina's hot-shot guard Cookie Pericola was not enough to make even a close game of it.

From here Carolina disembarks for Louisville, Ky., where they meet Notre Dame in the first round of the Blue Grass tournament.

Carolina hit only 40 per cent of its shots from the floor, but controlled the ball most of the game on the rebounding of Dick Kepley.

Four Tar Heels hit the double digits, with Larese (17) and Moe (15) leading the way. Harvey Salz and Kepley had 12 apiece.

Carolina led by nine at the half at 34-25. Just at the beginning of the second half the Heels poured in five straight buckets without a miss. Their longest lead of the night came with 6 minutes to go when South Carolina was fouling desperately; at that point the Tar Heels led by 17 at 63-46.

Cookie Pericola led the Gamecock attack with 21 points, most of them scored from the outside as he was unable to drive against the Carolina defense.

Dick Kepley and Bob Frantz were given the heave-ho by the refs in the second half for mixing it a little over a loose ball.

Rhodes Group Selects Furtado As Finalist

Don Furtado is one of two North Carolina candidates for a coveted Rhodes scholarship.

The other candidate from this state is Landon Rowland, a student at Dartmouth College.

From a field of 12 North Carolina college and university men (four of whom were from UNC), Furtado and Rowland were announced as candidates to the regional finals by a Rhodes Scholarship Committee at Guilford College yesterday.

Furtado and Rowland will compete with 10 other candidates from five states for the four Rhodes scholarships from this region. The regional competition will be held in Atlanta, Ga., this weekend.

Other UNC students competing for state representation to the regional finals were: Al Goldsmith, Curt Gans and Don Gray.

Furtado, student body president here, is a senior English major from Garner. Among the various honors Furtado has received include membership in the Grail and Old Well. His fraternity is Phi Gamma Delta.

Last year Furtado served as vice president of the student body and before that was a member of Student Legislature.

Administration Requests Removal Of Loyalty Oaths

CHRISTMAS—Christmas is coming and to help usher in the spirit of the season on campus, (and to help kill time until the longed for vacation) the YMCA is conducting its annual Carol Sing tonight in Y Court. Shown practicing are, from left to right, Betty K. Johnson, Bill Sugg and Dr. Joel Carter.

'Y's Annual Carol Sing Gets Y Court In Seasonal Mood

By BEN TAYLOR
Y Court will echo with the strains of familiar Christmas carols tonight when the annual Carol Sing is held from 9 to 9:30.

Action will center around the tall cedar now standing in the center of the Y Court. Dr. Joel Carter of the Music Dept. will be on hand to direct the Men's Glee Club in one special number, "The Christmas Song," and also, the expected hundreds of students in most of the familiar carols.

Y Court will be stationary—that is, everything will take place in Y-Court—as opposed to past years when large numbers of students scattered throughout the campus caroling.

As an added attraction, Sugg said hot chocolate and donuts will be served to any and all to make the occasion more attractive and more comfortable.

"And if the weatherman goofs and we get another coating of white flakes, we'll probably extend the menu to include snow cream," Sugg said.

Information Offices Yields Many Services For Area

By LEFTY ROWLETTE

"When will classes resume after the holidays?"

"Has anyone turned in my sunglasses?"

"I'd like to check out a chess set, please."

"Could I reserve the Rendezvous Room for next Friday?"

"Wonder if you could mimeograph some letters for our club?"

"Could I have some change for the cigarette machine, please?"

These requests and hundreds more are asked by students, faculty and even townspeople at the Graham Memorial Information Office every day. They are handled as more or less routine by Mrs. Douglas Fambrough, office manager, and her five student staff members, Larry Anderson, Paul Belanga, Joe Creekmore, Larry Graham and Brooks Wicker.

Although supplying information about nearly everything from students' addresses to the weather consumes a large part of the staff's time, they also perform many other services.

They reserve rooms in GM for parties and meetings; take requests for music to be played in the lounge and check out material for games such as chess, checkers and cards.

They run a lost and found service where, according to one staff member, anything from "sunglasses to almost anything" can be found.

They take orders for mimeograph and embossograph work to be done for campus organizations.

Organizations with offices in GM look to the Information Office as a post office and staff members sometimes feel like human clocks after answering "What time is it?" several times a day. (They point out that there is a clock on the wall, but people still ask the question.)

Because of its numerous services many people (especially the staff) feel that the name of the office should be changed from Information to Nearly Anything.

Frosh Girls Get Minor Rule Changes

The Woman's Residence Council enacted a series of minor changes in freshman coed rules at a meeting Tuesday night.

Laurie Gard, president of the WRC, pointed out that the changes were made after a discussion with freshman coeds in Spencer Dormitory.

The activities fund, to which all coeds pay $1, has been put under WWRC so that excess money can be used to establish basic reference libraries in the women's dorm.

According to freshman rules, coeds will be given four weekends of not more than eight overnights in the future during the first semester. The second semester will give the girls unlimited weekends.

During the first semester the freshmen coeds may not stay in fraternity houses after 8 p.m. No change has been established in closing hours.

The WRC considered only freshman rules Tuesday night.

Proposal To Be Noted By Trustees

RALEIGH, — — University of North Carolina officials have decided to eliminate from job application form a question related to Communist Party membership.

Approval of the Consolidated University's board of trustees will be necessary to delete the question which has required job applicants at UNC since 1949 to state whether they have ever had any connections with communism.

Consolidated University President William C. Friday, in reply to questions, said Wednesday that discontinuance of the question on communism as part of the personnel form had been recommended by University Chancellor William B. Aycock.

"Acting under the authority granted the administration by the board of trustees in 1949," Friday said, "I shall report to the executive committee at its next meeting my approval of Chancellor Aycock's recommendation."

Discovery of an avowed communist on the University faculty in the late forties led to demands some trustees that faculty members be required to take a "loyalty oath."

However, the Trustees voted unanimously on May 24, 1949, to leave the University's Communist problem in the hands of administrative officials. William D. Carmichael Jr., acting president of the Consolidated University at the time, and chancellors of the University at Chapel Hill, State College and Waman's College urged such a course.

A loyalty oath was never required. University officials at Chapel Hill put this question in their job application forms:

"Are you now, or have you been at any time in the past, a member of, or in anywise affiliated with either the Communist Party or with any organization or association controlled, to your knowledge, by Communists? If so, please explain fully."

This is the question which would be dropped from the job application form.

Fire Damage At $40,000

The damage to contents in the University Storeroom fire Dec. 5 was estimated yesterday at about $40,000, according to Webb Evans, director of the UNC Office of Purchase and Stores.

The estimate was made jointly by UNC Office of Purchase and Stores and by the UNC Accounting Department.

J. S. Bennett, director of operations said yesterday that the Office of the N. C. State Insurance Commissioner, Raleigh, had not yet given an appraisal of the damage to the Storeroom building.

"The building roof has been damaged and cannot be replaced," Bennett explained. "The question is: Are the walls safe enough to remain?"

"We hope to get another building off the campus to replace the whole present building. This is right in the center of the campus, an area which should look beautiful. The storeroom is much used and will always have a factory-like appearance."

INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday were:
