Over the long Christmas holiday period, while most of the students were at home or visiting relatives, Carolina's Tar Heels have been on the march. Before the holiday period, the Heels sported an unbeaten 3-0 slate, but that against mediocre competition. Now, in January, the streaking McGuiremen have spurred near the top of the polls by knocking off some of the very best in the country.

The Tar Heels entered the top-flight Blue Grass Invitational Tourney in Louisville against Notre Dame, a team that had crushed them in Chicago the preceding year. It was a dogfight, but Carolina poured it on in the second half to overcome the Irish by four, 81-77.

The next night Carolina met Northwestern, class of the Big Ten and ranked sixth nationally at that time. The Wildcats fell 78-64, as McGuire's boys won it going away. Following the victorious Kentucky trip, Carolina rocketed to 3rd in the AP Poll.

The Dixie Classic began right after Christmas, with Cincinnati, ranked number 1, the odds-on favorite to carry off the trophy. But the top rated Bearcats bit the dust twice, much to the disgust of coach George Smith.

FIRST LOSS

Carolina rolled over Yale in easy fashion, but dropped its first verdict of the season to an inspired Michigan State five in the semis. The Tar Heels made too many mistakes, nearly falling apart toward the finish as the Spartans pulled out of distance.

There were questions being asked about the young Tar Heels, and the supreme test was to come the next night against Cincinnati's revenge-minded Bearcats. The game was evenly fought until the first half, with the Heels owning a four-point spread. In the second half it was the same story, basket for basket right down to the wire.

Then Cincinnati hit a hot streak and pulled to a six point lead with three minutes left. An audible groan went up from the stands as even the most ardent Tar Heel supporters were inclined to believe the cause was a lost one. But on Shaffer's magnificent follow shot and free throw, the Heels ran the score to 90-86 with less than a minute to go. Robertson hit a field goal, but Carolina sat on it, and the next time Cincy got the ball only 1 second showed on the clock.

They did not win the championship, or even finish second. They did finish a very strong third, at the same time serving notice that everybody on the schedule had better look out.

IRISH FALL AGAIN

Last Saturday they met Notre Dame for the second time in two weeks. The plot and the end result were the same, but the chapters in between told how much the Tar Heels had improved. They were methodical and unerring in blasting Notre Dame 69-54. All-American Tom Hawkins had but 5 points to his credit.

The latest AP Poll, released yesterday, has Kentucky 1st, State 2nd, and Carolina 3rd. State would undoubtedly be first and Carolina 2nd except for the fact that Rupp's Wildcats are still, by some miracle, undefeated.

It is praise enough for any team to realize that of the top ten, Carolina has met or will meet four squads. They have beaten two (Northwestern and Cincinnati) and lost to one (Michigan State).

Although the Big Four teams faltered briefly during the Dixie Classic, when the votes were all in and the action was over, the state teams had swept through the finals, nailing down 1st, 3rd, 5th, and 7th places. The highly regarded out-of-staters were indeed a disillusioned group as they trod the path of defeat back to from whence they had come.

Notre Dame coach Johnny Jordan called Carolina "the best team we've seen all season." The Irish have met both Northwestern and Michigan State. The Tar Heel squad, which contains only one senior, has jelled into a compact, deadly unit capable of striking down the most mighty on a given night.

While the Tar Heels were bowling over the opposition in Louisville, brother institution N. C. State was making things hot in the north and midwest. The Pack smashed LaSalle and Kansas, but lost its only verdict to Kansas State by 2 points.

The outcome of the holiday games, which has put State and Carolina 2-3 in the nation, serves to build up early the upcoming battle a week from Wednesday when the two teams square off in Raleigh for the first time this season. It should be a corker.

Rampaging State Still Faces Long Probation

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State's basketball team, beaten only once and ranked high among the nation's leaders, is playing under the shadow of an NCAA probation.

Regardless of how successful the Wolfpack season is the team will not get a shot at the national title this season or next.

State drew a four-year NCAA probation in a basketball recruiting violation case over two years ago. The NCAA banned all State athletes from competing in NCAA championship meets and cooperating events, such as football bowl games.

The suspension runs until Nov. 13, 1960. It already has cost State and Orange Bowl football berth. The

McKenzie Dropped

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Jay McKenzie, top-scoring guard from Richwood, W.Va., has been dropped from the University of Virginia varsity basketball squad.

"As far as I'm concerned," coach Billy McCann said Monday, "He's all through."

McCann said as the team was going to the dressing room during the half of the Vanderbilt game, McKenzie told McCann that if he was going to be taken from the game every time he made a mistake, he didn't want to play. At that point, McCann said, McKenzie was told he was through for the season.

A 19-year-old, six foot sophomore, McKenzie scored 153 points through the Vanderbilt game to pace the Cavaliers. Their next game is Tuesday night at North Carolina State.

Heels 3rd, State 2nd In AP Poll

By JOE REICHLER

Unbeaten Kentucky, for the third straight week, held the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press major college basketball ratings Monday as the rest of the top 10 took a thorough scrambling.

The rampaging Wildcats added three more victims to their list last week to run their unblemished streak to 11. As a result, they drew more first place votes than ever before, 81, and boasted their biggest point lead of the season, 1,245 to 1,115 for North Carolina State, which jumped from fifth place into the runner-up spot.

The Wolfpack, who knocked off previously unbeaten Cincinnati and Michigan State in capturing the Dixie Classic last week, drew 30 first place votes on the strength of their 9-1 record.

Cincinnati 6-2, which also lost to North Carolina in the Dixie competition, dropped from second to seventh place with the Tar Heels 8-1 moving up a notch from fourth to third. North Carolina had four first place votes and 1,043 points.

Kansas State's Wildcats 9-1, the Big Eight tournament champion, slipped a notch to fourth with 772 points and two first place nominations.

Only 17 points separated the fifth and seventh place teams with Michigan State 7-1 landing spot No. 5, and Auburn 8-0 climbing from ninth to sixth. The Spartans rebounded from their N. C. State defeat with a Big Ten triumph over Indiana.

Behind seventh place Cincinnati came Northwestern. The once-beaten Wildcats barely squeezed by thrice-beaten Iowa Saturday after trouncing Notre Dame three days before. Northwestern had 512 points to 546 for Cincinnati.

Bradley, one of the three unbeaten teams in the top 10, advanced from 10th to ninth after walloping Drake Saturday for its eighth straight victory.

St. John's, climbing steadily following its surprise triumph in Madison Square Garden's Holiday Festival, forced its way into the top 10, replacing Mississippi State, which dropped from eighth to 12th after losing to Auburn.
