

Prayer Day Observances Here Tonight

A World Day of Prayer observance for students will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the University Baptist Church.

During the special service, prayers will be led by American and foreign students in their native languages.

The observance is being sponsored by the Campus Christian Council and will be presided over by Dennis Lotz.

A special meditation will be given by Dr. A. C. Howell, secretary of the faculty. Prayers will also be led by Mai Vu, a student here from Saigon, Viet Nam; Midori Sasaki from Hiroshima, Japan; Alan Costa from Brazil, and Erwin Fuller from Louisiana.

Throughout the world students will be holding similar observances of the World Day of Prayer today. The special observance was started shortly after the World's Student Christian Federation was founded in 1895.

The American section of the federation is sponsoring observances on hundreds of campuses throughout the country.

Pool Tournament Continues At G M

"The first round of a UNC pool tournament continues through Tuesday in the basement of Gram Memorial.

Winners of the first round will compete in the second round beginning Wednesday. The two winners will play a championship pool Tuesday, Feb. 24.

For Sorden, chairman of the Tournament Committee of GMAB, has said that the two finalists might be sent to the national tournament if their scores are good enough.

Dulles

of course, be in close touch with him constantly."

The medical bulletin said Dulles was in good spirits, with blood pressure at 125 over 70, pulse at 70, and temperature normal since the operation.

State Department press officer White said the radiation treatment would start this week. But he said he did not know how long it would last, or what amount of radiation would be used.

He said Dulles will be in the hospital for several weeks.

White said he could not answer such questions as Dulles' chances of recovering and whether tentatively scheduled allied talks will be called off.

"We have given you as full and complete a report as we can get at this time," he said.

At the State Department, officials pondered the effect of Dulles' illness on such matters as a tentatively scheduled meeting of Allied foreign ministers in mid-March and the 10th anniversary session of the Atlantic act (NATO) Ministerial Council April 2-4 in Washington.

Allied planning also had looked toward a possible conference with Russia this spring, perhaps before May 27, generally considered the Soviet deadline for turning over East Berlin to the Communist East German Regime.

Doctors Tell What's Wrong With Dulles

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles has a type of cancer which is highly malignant, doctors said yesterday, but one which can be controlled for several years.

In many such cases the patient can return to full or limited occupations.

Private physicians gave this appraisal in interpreting for a reporter the medical bulletin issued by the surgeons who operated on Dulles for hernia Friday. They reported yesterday he will undergo radiation therapy for cancer. President Eisenhower said Dulles will continue on leave while he is being treated.

The physicians said the medical bulletin indicates that the cancerous tissue found today represents a spread from the original colon cancer for which Dulles underwent an operation in 1956.

The present diagnosis in Dulles case is that he has an "adenocarcinoma."

This is a glandular cancer, adenocarcinoma being the Greek word meaning gland.

It most commonly arises in the glandular portion of the intestinal tract, which has millions of glandular cells. Their function is to secrete mucus and gastric juices.

An adenocarcinoma is different from other types of cancer such as "sarcoma," which is a cancer of connective tissue — such as bone tissue or brain tissue. It is also different from cancer of the blood such as leukemia.

The doctors said they interpreted the medical bulletin to mean the following:

That the small nodule or lump found on the part of the intestine involved in Dulles' hernia represented a spread from focus of his original colon cancer operated on in 1956.

The doctors said that at the time the colon cancer was removed in 1956, some small portions of it may still have remained, involving lymphatic glands neighboring on the original cancer site.

And ultimately, they said, the cells apparently spread to the new site.

The doctors said that while the outlook in cases of adenocarcinoma is ultimately grave, the further spread of the cancer can be kept under control for several years in many instances.

They said control involves such measures as X-ray and chemotherapy, (cq). This includes the use of certain drugs derived from nitrogen mustard, a war gas developed during World War I. One of the most effective of these nitrogen mustards is one called "thiotepa."
