Interviews To Begin Wed. For Morehead Scholarships

Sixty-four young men—42 of them seniors in North Carolina high schools and 22 in top preparatory schools—are here this week to be interviewed for Morehead Scholarships.

Interviewing by the Central Scholarship Committee, composed mainly of UNC faculty and officials, will begin Wednesday morning and continue through Friday, according to Foundation Executive Secretary Roy Armstrong.

Final selections will be made by the five-man board of trustees of the Morehead Foundation and will be announced Saturday.

John Motley Morehead, chairman of the trustees and donor of the scholarships, will present the winners at 7:30 p.m. over WUNC-TV, Channel 4, the University's education station. The program will be shown again Sunday at 12:30 p.m. when it will be carried by a number of commercial TV stations in the state.

Each student who qualifies for a scholarship will receive $1,250 yearly, or a total of $5,000 during his academic career at UNC.

Screening of applicants was held throughout the state during late January with seven district committees selecting six nominees each to come to Chapel Hill. The prep school students were nominated by their headmasters.

The Central Committee interviewed 12 junior college nominees Saturday, Feb. 21, and any students approved by this group will go before the Morehead Foundation trustees on Saturday, Feb. 28. Colleges represented were Mars Hill, Lees-McRae, Campbell, Charlotte, Wingate, Presbyterian Junior and Chowan.

Thirty scholarships were awarded last spring to high school seniors, making a total of 179 recipients since the program was begun in 1951. The Foundation's scholarship fund is valued at approximately $3,000,000.

Six more private preparatory schools in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Georgia and Washington, D. C. were added to the "eligibility list" this year. Previously participating were two private schools in Tennessee, three in Virginia and North Carolina's Asheville School for Boys and Christ School at Arden.

Dr. C. P. Spruill, professor of economics, is chairman of the Central Committee, which includes these Chapel Hillians: Robert A. Fetzer, resident secretary of the Morehead Foundation; Prof. S. S. Jones, Craig professor of political science; Fred Weaver, dean of student affairs; Claude E. Teague, business manager, emeritus, of UNC; William D. Carmichael Jr., vice president and finance officer of the Consolidated University.

William Harris Nelson of Spray, secretary-treasurer of the Morehead Cotton Mills Company, is on the committee. An eighth member, Kenan Prof. William S. Wells of the UNC English Department, is not participating this year.

Serving with Chairman Morehead on the trustees board are John L. Morehead of Charlotte his cousin, who is president of Leaksville Woolen Mills; Hugh G. Chatham of Elkin, president of Chatham Manufacturing Co.; Norman A. Cocke of Charlotte, president of Duke Power Co.; and Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem, director of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co.

The 1959 nominees from N. C. high schools are John G. Webb II, Oxford; John W. Daniel Jr., Raleigh; Jimmy G. Adams, Henderson; T. Edward Jones Jr., Four Oaks; J. Reed Nelson, Rocky Mount; Donald B. Craven, Roxboro;

Philip C. Deaton, Burlington; John A. Sherrill, High Point; Frederick

Satellite Model Of Vanguard II In Planetarium

America's new satellite, Vanguard II, may be viewed in a modified model form at the Morehead Planetarium where an animated Martin Vanguard Rocket exhibit is being shown.

Planetarium Manager Anthony Jenzanso reminded the public that the exhibit will be shown through March 2 in the south scientific exhibit room. The 27-foot exhibit, which has a 12-foot, three-dimensional model of the Vanguard I, shows the manner in which the satellite is launched in orbit and how it circles the earth. The project is illustrated further by a number of color transparencies.

Exhibit hours are weekends from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7:30 to 10 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sundays, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Senior Coed To Be Named, Honored Sun.

Some senior coed will be honored as the outstanding dormitory girl in special ceremonies Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Morehead Building.

Mrs. William B. Aycock will present an award to the coed who has been selected by a committee of the Carolina Women's Council on the basis of diligent, faithful and loyal service to her dorm. Other qualifications for the award winner are as follows: outstanding character, personality, leadership and scholarship.

The Sunday afternoon ceremonies will be opened by Mary Ellen Bell, Carolina Women's Council member in charge of the award. Fred Weaver, dean of student affairs, will speak on the place of the dormitory in campus life.

A receiving line in the Morehead Building will be composed of the coed receiving the award, her parents, Mrs. Aycock and Sue Ballantine, president of the council.

Moscow Guides Needed For American Exhibit

The United States National Student Association will nominate guides for the American National Exhibition to be held in Moscow for six weeks this summer.

Applicants for positions as guides may be at a graduate or undergraduate level and must have a fluent knowledge of the Russian language. It is important, also, that prospective guides be aware of current international affairs and that they be able to discuss American social, political and economic issues.

Qualified and interested students have been asked to contact Don Furtado, president of the Student Body, before the deadline, March 20, for further information.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Bill Gibbs discusses procedure for a cutover to direct distance dialing with one of his men.

He's getting the advancement he looked for . . . and right in his own home state

William C. Gibbs graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1956 with a B.S. degree in business administration. He joined The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia because, "I was familiar with the company and confident that it offered the best possibilities for advancement. And I wanted to stay in my home state."

Today, after two and one-half years with the telephone company, Bill supervises eight men. His group is responsible for maintaining outside telephone facilities ranging from telephone poles and wires to mountaintop microwave relay towers. These facilities are spread over some 2500 square miles.

"I'm really getting basic supervisory experience on this job," Bill says. "My assignments during training and my earlier jobs gave me a solid feel of telephone company operations. But I find the greatest challenge and satisfaction come from working through others."

Some of the interesting training assignments Bill refers to involved arranging for TV and mobile radio pick-up for the presidential inauguration, the Armed Forces day show at Quantico and other events of national interest.

"So far I've gotten just what I was looking for in a telephone career," Bill says. "The training and experience I've received have been tops. And with the company constantly growing to meet service demands, it looks to me like there will be plenty of opportunity to keep moving ahead in the business."

Bill Gibbs found the opportunity he was looking for with a Bell Telephone Company . . . in the state of his choice. You may, too. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus and read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.
