

WEATHER

Considerable cloudiness with scattered showers spreading eastward across the state.

The Daily Tar Heel

CAMPUS CHEST

You need not contribute. See page 2.

VOLUME LXVII, NO. 106

Complete Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1959

Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

ROGER WILLIAMS
... musical engineer

Entertainment Series Brings Roger Williams

Roger Williams, young piano virtuoso, will appear in Memorial Hall Sunday at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of the UNC Student Entertainment Series.

Springing to nationwide fame in 1955 with his three million sales record of "Autumn Leaves," Williams has sold more albums than any other pianist or instrumentalist in the history of the popular recording field.

One of the busiest artists in show business today, Williams is making a six-week tour of the east and mid-west between recording and television commitments.

The program Sunday will include a sampling of all types of music with accent on the popular and standards. Although primarily a solo performance, the program will employ a pair of guitars and bass in some of the numbers.

Williams grew up in Des Moines, Iowa and studied a year under Philip Tronitz in Los Angeles before joining the Navy.

In the Navy it was discovered that he had a high mechanical aptitude, so following his discharge, Williams went to Idaho State College and received an engineering degree. Later he enrolled at Drake University in Des Moines for a master's degree in music.

Dean's List Named By Three Schools

Three University schools have released the names of students who made the dean's list for the fall semester. These schools are: Journalism, Business Administration and Pharmacy.

The following seven students made the dean's list in the School of Journalism, as announced by Dean Norval Neil Luxon: Joan Brock, Ann Frye, Gail Godwin, James E. Laughrun, Parker Maddrey, Paul Rule and Don Shaw.

Dean Maurice W. Lee of the School of Business Administration has reported the following on the dean's list:

Jerry Wofford Amos, David Stafford Ball, James Sherman Belk, James Matthew Berry Jr., Robert Franklin Blakely, Clyde Osborne

Contest To Name Weekend Announced

The Last Weekend, sponsored by the GMAB Dance Committee, will feature Dave Brubeck in a concert in Memorial Hall, Friday from 3-5 p.m.

A dance will be held in Woollen Gym Friday night. The Gladiolas and the Shadows will provide the music.

Couples attending the concert and dance may submit a name for the Last Weekend. The one who submits the best name will receive a prize.

INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday were:

Donna Brooks Irving, Sandra Marion Jones, James Herman Baker, Samuel Macon Carrington Jr., Jeff Ray White, William Franklin Clark, Jerry Jackson Phaup, George Wendelyn Vogel, Henry Elliott King, Phillip Allen Spruill, Timothy Columbus McCoy, William David Sharpe and Fred Althin.

Partial Opening Of Stacks Begins

The stacks of Wilson Library are now opened "partially" to all students. Sunday was the commencement of a six week trial period.

If this policy is to be successful the following rules must be observed:

- 1) Smoking in the stacks is absolutely forbidden.
- 2) Books are not, under any circumstance, to be returned to the shelves. Books removed from the shelves will be placed on a centrally located table on each level and reshelved by staff members.
- 3) Noise is to be kept to a minimum. All conversation should be carried on outside the stack area.
- 4) Vacant carrels may be used while looking at a book, but the carrels must be vacated when their possessors want to use them.

Maps of the level have been constructed by the Student Library

Committee and are located over the water fountains on each level.

The circulation desk will still be staffed and students may get a staff member to get a book for them instead of going into the stacks.

This policy was instituted to relieve some of the crowding around the circulation desk and to "enable the students to come into closer contact with, and thus more fully realize the available resources of the library."

French Govt. Scholarships Are Offered

The Department of Romance Languages is offering two scholarships of $150 each to French majors.

These two awards are made possible by the Cultural Services of the French Embassy in the United States which granted the sum of $300 to be awarded to outstanding students in French.

Application blanks may be obtained in 315 Murphey Hall. They should be returned no later than April 1.

The awards will be announced on May 1.

To qualify a student must be majoring in French and be in his or her junior or senior year.

Further information may be obtained from Dr. Jacques Hardre, chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

Pool Tournament Trophies Awarded

Trophies will be awarded this week to the two winners in the Graham Memorial sponsored pool tournament which ended Wednesday.

The first place award will go to D. J. Underwood, who scored 124 points in four blocks of 25 innings. George Kornegay won second place with 115 points in the same number of blocks and innings.

The scores of Underwood and Kornegay have been sent to the National Billiard Tournament.

$235,000

Morehead Awards 47 With Scholarships

Philanthropist John Motly Morehead Saturday awarded scholarships valued at $235,000 to 47 students to enter UNC next September. It was the largest number yet chosen by Morehead.

Since 1951 Morehead has given 228 scholarships, each valued at $5,000 or more for students to attend the University—representing over $1 million actually spent from an endowment of unannounced millions in the Morehead Foundation.

The scholarships this year go to 24 graduating seniors in North Carolina public high schools, to 20 preparatory school seniors and three graduates of North Carolina junior colleges.

Each scholarship is worth $1,250 a year, or $5,000 for four years—covering all college expenses, plus spending money.

Morehead is a retired industrialist of Rye, N. Y., a native Tar Heel and alumnus of UNC. Each year he seeks "tall timber" scholars to enroll in his alma mater. Talent, rather than need, is the prime selection criteria.

He has increased the number of scholarship awards each year of the past three years—30 scholars in 1956, 35 in 1958, 47 in 1959.

The plan is to build up the program so that eventually 100 scholars will be chosen each year, or 400 in the University at a time. Morehead's idea is based on the Rhodes Scholarship principle, applied to the undergraduate level in the University.

Among the prep schools represented in the program this year were six private schools not heretofore included. These are Groton, Phillips Academy, Deerfield and Phillips Exeter in New England and St. Albans Schools, Washington, D. C., and Westminster School, Atlanta, Ga.

Other private schools included are Woodberry Forest, Christ School, Baylor, McCallie, Episcopal High and Virginia Episcopal.

Junior Colleges included are Mars Hill and Charlotte Junior College.

The names of the scholars, their schools and home towns follow:

Edwin Warner Bass, Episcopal High, Nashville, Tenn.; Frederick Knowles Dashiell Jr., Episcopal High, Alexandria, Va.; Jimmy Gordon Adams, Henderson High, Henderson; Hugh Inman Allen, Westminster, Atlanta, Ga.;

Frederick Randolph Anderson Jr., Rutherfordton-Spindale, Rutherfordton; Daniel McMullen Armstrong III, McCallie, Rogersville, Tenn.;

Military Forces Are Ready Congress Told By McElroy

Five Positions Open Mobilization Question Raised In Congress

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — U. S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the house space committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen, "We are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the United States and other allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R-Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," the defense secretary replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

During the weekend, officials spoke informally of a number of measures, including efforts for an early agreement to base 1,500-mile range missiles in Italy and a decision to send faster jet interceptors to some overseas bases.

McElroy's remarks on this country's readiness to cope with the Berlin threat came while he and the space committee members were talking over American policy on striking the first blow in a war.

The Pentagon Chief said "our policy is that we will not attack first." But whether that policy "will always be true is something else," he added.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, the house Democratic leader, said he regarded the America-own-strike-first policy as "a rather untenable one in case of great emergency." McElroy conceded it makes the military problem more difficult "because we are not aggressive."

Meanwhile, Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said there is good reason to doubt Russia "intends a shooting war over Berlin." Instead, he said in a Senate speech, the Berlin crisis probably will ebb "and a few months from now our concentration will have been shifted to a newly contrived crisis, possibly in Finland or Iran."

Church contended that while the Berlin crisis is magnified, the tendency is to overlook longer range problems. In this connection, Church spoke of the so far fruitless talks in Geneva on banning (See MILITARY Page 3)

Five Positions Open

There is one vacancy on the board. Four new members will be appointed to the Elections Board, which is in charge of the coming spring elections April 7.

Interviews with prospective members of both committees will be held Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the student government office.

Mobilization Question Raised In Congress

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen, "We are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the United States and other allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R-Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," the defense secretary replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

During the weekend, officials spoke informally of a number of measures, including efforts for an early agreement to base 1,500-mile range missiles in Italy and a decision to send faster jet interceptors to some overseas bases.

McElroy's remarks on this country's readiness to cope with the Berlin threat came while he and the space committee members were talking over American policy on striking the first blow in a war.

The Pentagon Chief said "our policy is that we will not attack first." But whether that policy "will always be true is something else," he added.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, the house Democratic leader, said he regarded the America-own-strike-first policy as "a rather untenable one in case of great emergency." McElroy conceded it makes the military problem more difficult "because we are not aggressive."

Meanwhile, Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said there is good reason to doubt Russia "intends a shooting war over Berlin." Instead, he said in a Senate speech, the Berlin crisis probably will ebb "and a few months from now our concentration will have been shifted to a newly contrived crisis, possibly in Finland or Iran."

Church contended that while the Berlin crisis is magnified, the tendency is to overlook longer range problems. In this connection, Church spoke of the so far fruitless talks in Geneva on banning (See MILITARY Page 3)

Five Positions Open

There is one vacancy on the board. Four new members will be appointed to the Elections Board, which is in charge of the coming spring elections April 7.

Interviews with prospective members of both committees will be held Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the student government office.

DRIVE—The 1959 Campus Chest drive is officially underway. Throughout this week, Carolina students are being asked to make contributions for the World University Service, the Goettingen Exchange Scholarship Program and the Orange County Mentally Retarded Children's Class. The "backbone" of efforts to raise the $3,000 Campus Chest goal is a group of solicitors (pictured above) who are conducting a door-to-door campaign in the dormitories. The Campus Chest Board, headed by Doug Kellam, has UNC students working on each floor of the dorms to try for as near 100 per cent student donations as possible. Several students will canvass Glen Lennox and Victory Village this afternoon for contributions. In addition, around 80 other solicitors are making the rounds this week to get contributions from faculty members. (Photo by Bill Brinkhous)

SP Votes Not To Endorse DTH Editorship Candidates

The Student Party voted last night not to endorse any editorial candidate for the Spring elections. The motion introduced by former SP floorleader Rudy Edwards was carried 29-12. The motion can be reconsidered.

Editor of The Daily Tar Heel Curtis Gans asked that both of the present editorial candidates and any others that might wish to run be heard by the party after the bipartisan selection board had a chance to assess their editorial qualifications.

SP Chairman John Brooks put the editorial candidates' speeches on the Student Party agenda for March 23, when the only other order of business will be consideration of the SP platform. Gans stated his intention of reconsidering the motion not to endorse at that meeting.

In other business the SP nominated Harold O'Tuel by acclamation for the six months legislature seat in Dorm Men's III.

Also nominated by acclamation for Legislature were Ed Cox and Bill Lamm for the two 1 year seats in Dorm Men's IV.

In Dorm Women's II, Betty Jean Baxter is a candidate for the 1 year seat.

The advisory board will nominate candidates for a 1 year seat in Dorm Men's V and two 1 year seats in Town Women's II.

The endorsement of Yack editor will be taken up at the next SP meeting. Jerry Adams and Mike Smith offered themselves as candidates for this post. Their endorsement was postponed in order that the candidates may decide whether they wish to run singly or as co-editors.

Mobilization Question Raised In Congress

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen, "We are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the United States and other allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R-Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," the defense secretary replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

During the weekend, officials spoke informally of a number of measures, including efforts for an early agreement to base 1,500-mile range missiles in Italy and a decision to send faster jet interceptors to some overseas bases.

McElroy's remarks on this country's readiness to cope with the Berlin threat came while he and the space committee members were talking over American policy on striking the first blow in a war.

The Pentagon Chief said "our policy is that we will not attack first." But whether that policy "will always be true is something else," he added.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, the house Democratic leader, said he regarded the America-own-strike-first policy as "a rather untenable one in case of great emergency." McElroy conceded it makes the military problem more difficult "because we are not aggressive."

Meanwhile, Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said there is good reason to doubt Russia "intends a shooting war over Berlin." Instead, he said in a Senate speech, the Berlin crisis probably will ebb "and a few months from now our concentration will have been shifted to a newly contrived crisis, possibly in Finland or Iran."

Church contended that while the Berlin crisis is magnified, the tendency is to overlook longer range problems. In this connection, Church spoke of the so far fruitless talks in Geneva on banning (See MILITARY Page 3)

'Humanity,' Dramatique Theme Thurs.

By THOMAS INMAN

Do you like poetry? Would you rather read or listen?

No matter.

Sally Pullen, new chairman of Petite Dramatique of GMAB, has chosen two poetry enthusiasts to put together an evening of readings for UNC students.

Russell Link and Jack Jackson are the directors. They will meet with students Thursday at 8 p.m. in Gerard Hall, according to Miss Pullen, to decide on poems and readers.

"Carnival of Humanity" will be the theme.

Formal presentation of "Carnival of Humanity" is set for March 20 at the same time and place.

This is the first program the new drama chairman has instigated since replacing Graham Adams three weeks ago as head of this phase of Graham Memorial activities.

A drama production is still in the talking stage, Miss Pullen says "Getting started in mid-semester is a handicap. And I'm just learning," she said.

Before coming to UNC, she was house manager for the Woman's College Theatre and a member of the Masqueraders drama group. She played Laura in "The Glass Menagerie" and Cherie in "Bus Stop." She also appeared in a production of "Oklahoma."

G. M. SLATE

Activities scheduled for today in Graham Memorial are as follows:

- Debate, 4:50 p.m., Grail Room; WRC, 7-9 p.m., Grail Room; Campus Chest Town Drive, 1:30-2:30 p.m., Roland Parker I; U. P., 7-9 p.m., Roland Parker I; U. P., 7-9 p.m., Roland Parker II; 1:30-2:30 p.m., Roland Parker II; Campus Chest, 5-6 p.m., Roland Parker II; Traffic Board, 7:30-10 p.m., Woodhouse Conference Room; S. P. Advisory Board, 1:45-3 p.m., Woodhouse Conference Room; Special Events, 4:30-5:45 p.m., Woodhouse Conference Room; Publications Board, 7:30-9 p.m., A. P. O. Room.