They are waist deep in strength in almost every event, and only Carolina and Duke pose much of a threat.

Run-Down Of Events Following is a brief run-down or each event with pre-gun favorites: 50 yard dash-with Dave Sime in med school and Maryland's fabulous sophomore, Butch Spiegel, out with a bad leg. Terp Don Whittaker looks like man to beat. Virginia will be hit very hard by 100 yd. run-No really solid favorite here. Tar Heel John Sylvesliving up to their potential too late ter, Terp John Lowndes, or Clemson's John Dunkelberg all could 880 yd. run-Duke's Tom Bazemore is fine half miler, has tremendous indoor time of 1:15.7, but once be two centers, big Herb Busch and again faces dismal task of playing relief ace Bob Mortell. Sub guard second fiddle to UNC great Dave Scurlock who will almost surely beat him again.

Two mile run-Bishop owns fine 9:11.9 this year, is big favorite despite mile possibility. Good duel between he and Latham is possible if both are fresh.

Hurdles-fabulous horde of Terp hurdlers led by Jim Starboard and Pill Johnson, good as they are, will probably take back seat to Gamecock's flexible Don Goodroe, Carolina's Lyndon DeBorde, third last year, should place in highs, Shot put-Beefy Dave Coates of SC won last year with 54' 2" heave, should repeat. UNC's Don Kemper is good bet for second.

High jump-Maryland's towering Tom Tait, built like a crane, is back again and another gold medal is awaiting him unless someone, say Carolina's Wally Graham, can pull a shocker.

4 Heels In Broad Jump Broad jump-UNC quartet of Ray Stanley, Ward Sims, Ed Brawley, and Bob Eubanks could whip up a surprise for Maryland's Elliott Thompson who won last year with a leap of 22' 21/2". Pole vault-A Maryland sophomore from Denmark named Bjorn Andersen has reached 14 feet, must be ranked favorite. Others from Maryland and Virginia plus Tar Heel
