

Employee Status Is Checked

The Audit Board has dealt with such problems as the status of Graham Memorial employees, according to a report of board action from November 1958 through February.

The Audit Board was set up on campus to supervise the Student Activities Fund office, which handles finances for various organizations.

Until the status of employees for student organizations is settled, the Audit Board has arranged for an insurance policy providing workmen's compensation insurance benefits in the event of injury. Under this arrangement the Audit Board would not be financially liable should any injury occur while an employee was at work.

Difficulties from late picture fines collected by the Yackety Yack has also brought action by the Audit Board. Effective not later than the beginning of the 1959-60 fiscal year, all organizations receiving any appropriation from student government will be required to deposit all revenue in the Student Activities Fund office.

This requirement will be made so that full and accurate accounting records may be available for inspection and observation at all times.

Other action taken by the Audit Board includes the completion of a written standard policy of administration for all employees of the Student Activities Fund office. The policy covers such items as hours of employment, overtime, classification, leave, grievance and merit rating.

To accommodate small accounts in the Activities Fund office, the Board has approved a plan providing one income account, one expense account, one statement, a record collection, financial advice and office service for $10 a year.

A long range project of the Audit Board is the codification and clarification of existing statutes, financial procedures and informal agreements.

Pianists Play In Hill Hall Tonight At 8

Pianists Kay Knight and Robert Steelman will play a program of piano works by Bach, Beethoven, Debussy and Copland in Hill Hall today at 8 p.m.

The concert is the first to be presented this semester by students in the UNC Music Department.

Miss Knight transferred here last September from Cornell University. She has studied piano with John Kirkpatrick at Cornell and with Walter Cook at the Kansas City Conservatory of Music.

At Cornell she appeared as piano soloist with the University Orchestra and was a member of the Notables, a group of singers who frequently toured the East Coast.

At UNC Miss Knight is a piano student from the class of William S. Newman. She is chairman of the YWCA Publications Board and serves on the fiction board of the Carolina Quarterly. A major in English literature, she expects to receive her A.B. degree in June 1960.

Steelman is a junior music major. Before entering the University, Steelman was accompanist for the Grainger High Singers and organist at St. Mark Methodist Church in Kingston.

A piano student of Wilton Mason, he has been accompanist for the University Chorus and has made appearances on the student recital series in Hill Hall.

He will open the program with Bach's "Partita No. 6 in E Minor" and after intermission will play Debussy's first book of "Images."

Miss Knight will perform "Fifteen Variations on a Theme from Eroica Symphony" by Beethoven and "Piano Sonata" by Aaron Copland.

SIGMA DELTA CHI — Dick Blueborn, on the national board of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, presents the UNC chapter charter to Charles Sloan, president of Sigma Delta Chi in ceremonies yesterday in the Di Senate. Blueborn was on campus yesterday for installation ceremonies. Photo by Henry S. Snow

Journalism Fraternity Is Presented Charter

By HENRY S. SNOW

Sigma Delta Chi yesterday entered the list of Carolina's professional fraternities.

The professional journalism fraternity was presented its charter last night at a dinner meeting at Howard Johnson's by Victor E. Blueborn, Sigma Delta Chi executive director.

The Charter was received by Charles Sloan, Chapter president. Sloan was also the president of the former UNC Men's Press Club which applied for the charter.

In a impressive initiation ceremony at Di Hall at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon 14 undergraduate students and six professional men were received into the national organization.

The students included Charles Sloan, Stanley Brennan, George Ford, John Hubbard, Roy Lucas, Parker Maddrey, Neil Murphy, Alan Resch, Paul Rule, Walter Schurlock, Donald Shaw, Jerry Shields, Thurman Worthington, and Charles Plinner.

The professional men initiated included school of Journalism faculty members, Walter Spearman, Stuart Schriest, and Joseph Morrison, and E. A. Resch, publisher of papers in Siler City, Pittsboro, Liberty, Sam Ragan, managing editor of the Raleigh Times and the News and Observer, and Tom Fesperman, managing editor of the Charlotte Observer.

The activities of the fraternity be-
See FRATERNITY, Page 3

Friday Will Address Public Health Confab

The 14th annual Health Education Conference, sponsored by the UNC Departments of Public Health Education and North Carolina College, are being held here today through Tuesday.

DR. BROCK CHISHOLM

Registration will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. today. The first session begins Monday at 9 a.m. with a welcome address by UNC President William C. Friday.

The keynote address of the conference will be given at 9:30 a.m. Monday by Dr. Brock Chisholm, psychiatrist, author, president of the World Federation for Mental Health and former director-general of the World Health Organization of the United Nations.

Dr. Chisholm will speak on "The Urgent Need to Re-Shape Education." This will be followed with a panel discussion of the same subject.

The members of the panel will be Dr. Arnold Perry, dean of UNC School of Education; Dr. Warren Ashby, head of the Department of Philosophy, Women's College; Dr. Helen Edmonds, professor of history, N. C. College, Durham; Dr. E. G. McGavran, dean of the UNC School of Public Health and Dr. Joseph S. Hines, professor of sociology, N. C. College.

Dr. Lucy S. Morgan of the UNC School of Public Health will preside at the morning session. B. T. McMillon of N. C. College will preside at the afternoon session.

A round table discussion on "Reveille for Tomorrow in Health Education" will highlight the Monday afternoon session. A panel report on the discussion will be moderated by Miss Charlesanna Fox, president of the Southeastern Adult Education Association of Asheville.

Monday's program will end with a dinner at the Carolina Inn. The guest speaker will be Chancellor Emeritus Robert B. House.

Presidential Candidates Speak

IFC-IDC Committee Proposed By Gray

A committee of IFC and IDC members to improve fraternity-dormitory relations was proposed by University Party presidential candidate Charlie Gray in a statement released Saturday.

This proposed committee is one aspect of a program outlined by Gray to improve conditions for dormitory men on this campus.

Prefacing his suggested improvements for dorm men, Gray said his party, the UP, does not work against the interests of the dorm, as has been charged. He named the Student Party as having "succeeded in building up a psychological barrier between fraternity and non-fraternity men."

Speaking from his own experience, Gray said, "The first thing that any freshman hears when he comes to Carolina is that the University Party is not interested in the dormitory men."

This accusation, he said, is "purely political propaganda, used selfishly by a party to place its candidates in office."

Gray further charged, "The Student Party has used this device successfully in the past and, I dare say, will attempt to capitalize on it again this year."

"I hope the students will finally see the ridiculousness of this accusation and realize it is only promoting a split in relations between different residents on campus. I don't see how the students can vote for a party that deliberately splits the campus purely for political gains."

Gray said he would work to represent equally all phases of campus life.

To improve the relations between fraternities and dormitories, Gray's proposed committee of IDC and IFC members would sponsor such activities as the Grail Mural Jamboree.

With bettered relations established, Gray would then attempt to solve the "big weakness in dorms—the lack of social facilities."

In improving social facilities, Gray said he would begin by with expanding the activities of the IDC. "In my opinion the IDC is probably the outstanding organization under student government. In the past it has been hindered by lack of funds, but, if elected, I will see that the IDC has sufficient funds to promote an adequate social program for all dormitories."

Gray made several specific recommendations for improving social facilities. "As a temporary relief to the lack of facilities, I hope to be able to convert the basement of either Manly or Mangum into social rooms for dating couples," he said.

The rooms in these two dorms are being used for storage at the present time, but could be converted into social rooms, Gray commented.

Through a combined effort of the IDC, student government and the University administration, Gray said the problem of inadequate social facilities in dorms could be alleviated until a new student union is built.

Regarding a new student union, Gray pledged that he would work
See GRAY, page 3

Advisor, Opinions, Smith Topic

Norman B. Smith, Student Party candidate for student body president, announced Saturday the appointment of Charlie Huntington as his campaign adviser.

Smith said the campaign adviser would be "the number one position" on his campaign staff.

Huntington has previously served in Student Legislature and was chairman of the Honor Council Commission. He is president of Chi Psi fraternity and is a member of the Grail.

In his selection of Huntington as his campaign adviser, Smith said, "Charlie Huntington is a person in whom I have the fullest confidence. He has been selected, not to fill the traditional carbon copy campaign manager role, but was asked to take the position because he will be able to lend sound advice and well supported opinions to my campaign."

Smith further commented that his campaign and the type administration he would run are based on using advice from others.

"There will always be room for good thinking, and minds will never be kept closed to the views of any sincere person," he said. "From the opinions offered by every interested group, every individual, conclusions will be formulated to the best of my ability with the primary objective being the selection of policies which will be the most beneficial to the largest number of students."

People, Places, Things-- An Interview With Frost

By MARY ALICE ROWLETTE

Robert Frost leaned forward in his chair. He had a generous supply of hair that looked like the "angel hair" some people put on Christmas trees.

His face was made almost fierce looking by the steel gray eye brows that were so bushy as to make his eyes seem almost too small.

Those penetrating eyes were a slightly deeper blue than the sky that could be seen from the window through which he turned his gaze occasionally.

His hands which trembled slightly, as the hands of old men are apt to do, were lined with blue veins.

He sat and talked about people and places and things.

He talked about his new book, "The Great Misgiving," which will be published soon. Its chief poem will be "Kitty Hawk," a North Carolina poem, he said. He visited Kitty Hawk in 1893 and thought it a wonderful place.

Then he talked about science. "I'm all for it," he said. "Some people would like to stop science, but you can't resist the modern world."

He compared these people with the people of the South who would like to bring back the "Old South." "These people would like a back-to-Jefferson world," he said. "This would be beautiful — but the Germans would have run all over it."

Then he commented on the fact that 50,000 Americans die of speeding in automobiles. "It shows they aren't afraid," he said. "I don't think they are really in such a hurry to get some place, they just like speed."

He talked about drinking. "Some people drink because they are trying to get away from themselves—and other do it just because they like to raise hell."

Naturally, the conversation turned to art and artists. "The function of an artist is to beautify or, maybe, to uglify life," he said that poetry belongs to everything, science, war — everything and "I'm always embarrassed by poetic language, my poems sound the way I talk."

And then he left. And spring has come to Chapel Hill.

Fifty-Fifth Fleece Tapping To Precede Valkyrie Sing

THE LINE UP — Student Party candidates for the 'Big Four' offices on campus — President of the Student Body, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer — line up for the photographer. They are, l. to r., Ann Lucas, candidate for secretary; Jim Crownover, vice-presidential candidate; Erwin Fuller, candidate for treasurer; and Norman B. Smith; candidate for the presidency of the student body. Photo by Peter Ness

10 UNC Students Win Woodrow Wilson Grants

Coveted Woodrow Wilson scholarships have been awarded to 10 UNC students and two others in the Consolidated University.

Climaxing an intensive nationwide hunt for future college teachers, the Woodrow Wilson National Foundation today released the names of 1,200 American and Canadian recipients of the scholarships.

UNC students receiving scholarships are: Maudine Baker, Wilson R. Cooper Jr., Albert Leonard Deal III, Paul D. Herring, Jacob D. Kimel Jr., Lawrence L. Lohr Jr., Thomas P. Matthews, Stephen M. Simpson, Harold E. Stessel and Betty P. Wise.

The other scholarship winners from the Consolidated University are Greta C. Henriksen and Jacqueline Long.

The UNC Wilson fellows have selected the following courses of study and universities for the academic year 1959-60: Miss Baker, history at the University of Washington; Cooper, mathematics at the University of Washington; Deal, mathematics at UNC; Herring, English at the University of Chicago;

Kimel, physics at the University of Wisconsin; Lohr, chemistry at Harvard; Matthews, art history at Harvard; Simpson, classics at Yale; Stessel, English at the University of Chicago, and Miss Wise, chemistry at Northwestern University.

Miss Henriksen will study political science at the University of Illinois and Miss Long will study history at Radcliffe.

Aimed directly at the heart of education's most urgent problem—the critical shortage of qualified teachers — the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship program recruits and supports promising scholars for their first year of graduate study. The project is backed by a $25 million grant from the Ford Foundation.

This year's Wilson Fellows were chosen from 7,000 candidates, all nominated and rigorously screened by committees of faculty members. These 7,000 candidates came from over 700 undergraduate colleges.

In this year's group of winners, there are 875 men and 325 women. Of these, 38 per cent are planning to take courses in the humanities; 34 per cent in social sciences and 28 per cent in the natural sciences and mathematics.

G. M. SLATE

Sunday's activities in Graham Memorial include:

Petite Musicale, 4 p.m., Main Lounge; Cosmopolitan Club, 4-6 p.m., Rendezvous Room.

Monday's activities in Graham Memorial include:

Symposium, 4 p.m., Grail Room; Dance Committee, 7:15-8:15, Grail; Grail, 9 p.m., Grail; Student Party, 7-9 p.m., Roland Parker 1 and 11; Audit Board, 2-4, Woodhouse Conference Room; German Club, 7-9 p.m., Woodhouse; Bridge, 7-9 p.m., Rendezvous Room; Kappa Kappa Gamma, 7-9, Alumni.

Argonauts Stalk Isles For Members

Shortly after the doors are locked at 7 o'clock Monday night, two hooded giants will stalk the isles of Memorial Hall in search of new Argonauts for the Order for the Golden Fleece.

The 55th annual tapping ceremony of the University's highest honorary order for men will precede the Valkyrie Sing, which is sponsored annually by the highest honorary order for women.

The Order of the Golden Fleece was founded in 1903 under the leadership of Professors Eben Alexander, Horace Williams and Edward Kidder Graham. Only one other honorary, Skull and Bones at Yale, is older than the Golden Fleece.

Monday night's ceremony will include the reading of the legend of the Golden Fleece and the annual oration of Jason. The identity of Jason and other officers of the order will be revealed Monday night also.

There are 18 student Argonauts in the University now, and there are 50 Argonauts on the faculty or in other official University positions.

The tapping ceremony is expected to last for one hour. After the tapping, the order will hold a closed banquet meeting at Carolina Inn in honor of new initiates.

Lenoir Chambers, editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, will speak at the banquet. He was tapped into the order in 1913. Last year's speaker was Supreme Court Justice Clifton L. Moore, who was tapped in 1922.

Student Argonauts today include Kenneth Lawing Penegar, Edwin Osborne Ayseue Jr., Raymond Mason Taylor, Joel Lawrence Fleishman, William Ray Long, Perry Burt Veazey, Eddie Covington Bass, George Robinson Ragdale, John Aitken Sneden Jr., Paul Gene Strassler, Edward Ulysses Hallford Jr., Joseph Francis Quigg, Clifton Hunter Tillman, Wayne Staton Bishop, Harvey Peck, John Charles Brooks, John Clarke Whitaker Jr. and Herman Allen Godwin Jr.

The complete roster of Golden Fleece membership constitutes an honor roll not alone of good citizenship on the campus in students years but also high accomplishment in later life as well.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges was tapped as a member of the Fleece as a student in the class of 1919. The late William B. Umstead likewise was selected as a student member of the order.

Chief Justice J. Wallace Winborne of the N. C. Supreme Court was a student member, class of 1906. Two other members of the Supreme Court likewise were members. Associate Justice William H. Bobbitt and Clifton L. Moore, North Carolina Superior Court Judges Francis O. Clarkson, Walter E. Crissman, Hamilton Hobgood, and W. Reid Thompson were student members.

The three men who have served as presidents of the Consolidated University of North Carolina were tapped as Fleece members in their student years, Dr. Frank P. Graham, Gordon Gray and William Friday. Chancellor Emeritus Robert B. House was tapped as a member in the class of 1916.

Other persons prominent in university positions who were members of the Golden Fleece as students at Chapel Hill include Dean Jefferson B. Fordham of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, Dr. O. W. Hyman, vice president and head of the University of Tennessee Medical School; Dr. T. P. Nash, dean of the University of Tennessee's School of Biological Sciences at Memphis;

C. E. Teague and John C. Lockhart, formerly business officers of UNC and Woman's College at Greensboro, respectively; Dean Alexander Heard of the UNC Graduate School; UNC Dean of Student Affairs Fred H. Weaver, and numerous members of the faculty and administrative staff at the University.

Among University trustees currently serving are:
See FLEECE, page 3