The deadline for nominating petitions for any student wishing to run for an office in the April 7 elections must be turned into the Elections Board by Monday.

Hank Patterson, Elections Board Chairman, said that all nominations for an office must be in writing and presented to the board by 7 p.m. Monday in the student government office in Graham Memorial. The office will remain open until that time.

There will be a compulsory meeting of all candidates on the same day at 7:15 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the candidates with the general election law regulations.

Patterson said no candidate should spend any money until he has consulted the General Election Law.

Any student who is unable to vote at the proper polling place because of being in the infirmary, absent from Chapel Hill or any other reason approved by the Elections Board may obtain an absentee ballot.

A written request for an absentee ballot must be made to Patterson prior to 5 p.m. April 3, except when a student must leave campus on short notice.

The ballot must be returned in a signed sealed envelope to the Elections Board before the polls close April 7.

Jones Withdraws From Race For Editorship

For 1960 Student Government

Solons Get Budget Bill

A bill asking approval of the 1960 student government budget was presented to Student Legislature Thursday night by Charlie Gray (UP), student body treasurer.

Concerning his bill, Gray said Friday, "The Budget Committee has done an outstanding job in reviewing the request and merit of each organization and we feel that their requests have been dealt with in an appropriate manner."

The committee tried to grant each organization adequate appropriations at the same time leaving the Legislature an ample unappropriated balance, according to Gray.

He concluded, "I hope the budget will be accepted without much trouble."

The budget will be considered by the solons next week.

Also under new business, a resolution was introduced by Jim Crowder (SP) to declare student government policy in the area of enforcement of the drinking rule.

If sanctioned, the Legislature would go on record as recommending to the Drinking Rules Committee that (1) ungentlemanly conduct due to excessive drinking is a violation of the Campus Code, (2) the Orientation Committee be directed to thoroughly emphasize the above in presenting the Campus Code and Drinking Rule, (3) initial presentation of such be publicized through dorm meetings, Daily Tar Heel and chapter and pledge meetings and (4) continued emphasis be given the problem throughout the year.

Ann Harvey (UP) introduced a bill to change the method of selection of Honor Council jurors from interviewing to automatic placement by application.

During discussion Thursday night of the written report of the Ways and Means Committee concerning Dave Jones' (SP) resolution to have Lenoir Hall student workers paid in cash, efforts by Jones to have corrections made in the written report were overruled by Speaker Ralph Cummings.

Jones took the floor to insert in the record certain minor changes and to explain more fully what had taken place in the committee meeting the day before.

A motion to overrule the chair and give Jones the right to speak was voted down by the body.

Cast For 'Oh, Hellas!' Production Announced

Jane Newsom will star as Lysistrata in the May 1 and 2 Sound and Fury production of "Oh, Hellas!"

The names of other members of the 1959 Sound and Fury cast were announced Friday. It was also announced that students may still try out for vacancies on the chorus and the dance group. One member of the cast, Gen. Lardass Prominus, has not been filled.

Tryouts and practice will continue Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. for coeds and 9 to 11 p.m. for men.

Miss Newsom will be joined in the "Oh, Hellas!" production by these other members of the cast: Al Miller as Arthritus, Bill Monell as Demetrius, Nancy Aubrey as Callonika, Jane Durham as Myrrhina, Mickey Reid as Lampito, Wally Graham as Kinesias and Paul Burroughs as Philinus.

The Athenian women will include Jo Carpenter, Mary Margaret Brown and Missy Geizer.

Young Comments On Sports

Davis Young, candidate for editor of The Daily Tar Heel, Friday called for "more sweat and limelight" in the newspaper's sports reporting.

Young said the newspaper does a good job of covering the events themselves, "but the interviews with coaches and players, the intimate background glimpses are missing."

"Feature articles," said the candidates, "are the lifeblood of sports reporting. Fans want the 'inside dope' and we will do our best to give it to them."

Young also stated his views on "big-time athletics." He noted that it is almost as easy to criticize Coach Jim Tatum as it is to criticize the ROTC.

"Tatum by his own admission is 'a country boy.' And we have had entirely too many inept 'city slickers' criticizing Tatum in The Daily Tar Heel. The truth of the matter is that Tatum is a smart 'country boy.'"

"He knows perfectly well that the rules have been changed since his great days at Maryland. He is following all the recruiting rules scrupulously and should be commended for it. If it is possible to have 'victory with honor,' and I believe it is possible, then the UNC athletic department is a model for the entire nation."

The editorial candidate also expressed his appreciation for the endorsement of the Bi-Partisan Selections Board.

Throws His Support To Shumate, O'Tuel

Dave Jones yesterday withdrew as a candidate for editor of The Daily Tar Heel and threw his complete support to the candidacy of Harold O'Tuel and Ron Shumate.

Jones explained that his failure to get the Bi-Partisan Selection Board endorsement was a factor, but that his other responsibilities as a student legislator and University Club President must be discharged as competently as possible.

Jones added, "Since there are now two qualified candidates in the race, I feel it senseless that I should give them competition rather than support."

"I'm sorry that the Bi-Partisan Board chose to do what it did, but I still believe that I have all the capabilities and energy necessary to be a good editor, and I hope that whoever gets to be editor will carry through with some of the ideas I presented so far in my campaign," Jones explained.

"I want to thank all those who have assisted me thus far in the campaign and all those who had decided to vote for me. I urge you to support Ron Shumate and Harold O'Tuel, and I offer them my complete support," Jones concluded.

"I was surprised to see Dave resign from the race," announced Ron Shumate, "but I would like to thank him for the support he is giving Harold and myself. It is only with this type of support both now and if and when we are elected that we can turn out a better Daily Tar Heel."

Harold O'Tuel, when reached for comment, said, "I was sorry to see that Dave didn't receive the endorsement of the Bi-Partisan Board. I have always felt him a qualified person and one that would be extremely hard to lick in the election. I want to thank him for his support, and I hope he will never have cause to regret his decision."

IDC Prexy Will Head Campaign

Harold O'Tuel and Ron Shumate, candidates for the co-editorship of the Daily Tar Heel, announced Rudy Edwards as their campaign manager. Edwards is president of the Inter-Dormitory Council and a Former Student Party Floor leader.

Assisting Edwards will be Dick Robinson, Attorney General of the student body Symposium Chairman and a Morehead scholar; Lucy Postgate, president of McIver Dormitory, a member of the Women's Residence Council, and a member of the University Party.

Edwards declared that the "entrance of O'Tuel and Shumate in the race for editor of the Daily Tar Heel gives the voters a chance to vote for mature leadership that had been previously lacking."

He further stated that O'Tuel and Shumate have shown their ability to "work under pressure and have refused to wilt in the face of adverse circumstances. Both are juniors and exemplify the deliberate, courageous and mature type of person that is needed for an editor of the Daily Tar Heel."

He said that O'Tuel and Shumate "are unquestionably the most qualified candidates" for editor of the Daily Tar Heel.

"The task of publishing a daily college newspaper has almost grown too big for one person to handle," Edwards asserted.

"When two people assume the office of Daily Tar Heel editor and divide the responsibilities between them, it allows for more efficient administrative, editorial and managerial policy to be enforced."

Edwards explained that in the case of co-editors it is imperative that a good understanding exist between the two editors, and that "this is true" in the case of O'Tuel and Shumate.

"They have already discussed at length and agreed as to how the duties of their offices are to be divided," Edwards said. "Harmony and a good working agreement between the two candidates for co-editors has already been established. Each understands fully what his job is; and each is capable of executing the responsibilities of his office."

Robinson asserted that few people on the University campus "have evinced a more sincere interest in effective and conscientious student government than Harold O'Tuel, and everyone has had adequate opportunity to read the excellent work of Ron Shumate, who is currently a valuable member of the Daily Tar Heel staff."

He further stated that the combination "of the talents of these two individuals will result in an editorship of the highest quality. Their objective and informed approach to important issues will serve the best interests of all areas of campus life."

Miss Harvey said that she feels that "having two people as editor of the Daily Tar Heel would prevent the ideas, views and character of any one person from being evident on all pages of the Daily Tar Heel."

Eisenhower, Macmillan Confer On Berlin Issue

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — President Eisenhower and Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met atop a woolly mountain summit yesterday to search for an allied strategy that would shield West Berlin from Russia's threats.

Assisted by four advisers each, they began a sweeping review of the outlook for Berlin, the German nation and international disarmament—problems they hope to discuss with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at a possible summit conference this summer.

Eisenhower and Macmillan flew in a helicopter to the President's secluded mountain lodge at Camp David to begin their extraordinary four-day conference. The 35-minute flight was made in bright, spring-like weather.

Eisenhower chose the rustic site to give the two Western leaders maximum privacy as they sought to reconcile somewhat conflicting views on what concessions should be offered the Soviets in a new round of East-West talks.

Some 100 rifle-carrying Marines guarded the 134-acre camp where the two men met, 25 miles from the Press Headquarters set up at Gettysburg.

Eisenhower and Macmillan sat down to outline their personal views after having a 57-minute talk with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles about the Berlin crisis.

The meeting with Dulles took place in Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, where Dulles has been under treatment for cancer. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who accompanied Macmillan to Camp David, took part in this session.

The ailing Dulles, garbed in a maroon dressing robe, was understood to have stressed the need to avoid any proposals which would bolster the Allied foothold in Berlin to the cost of freezing the present East-West division of Germany.

The State Department in reporting on the talk said nothing about the views Dulles expressed. A statement put forward some of the ideas he has developed about the German problem since he was hospitalized last month.

"The 57-minute visit provided a welcome opportunity for four good friends to meet and talk informally," the statement said.

Petite Musicale Here To Star Brother Trio

The Pasquier Trio of Paris will present a concert on the Petite Musicale series here Tuesday.

The three brothers—Jean, violinist; Pierre, violist; and Etienne, cellist—will perform at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall. (The concert was originally scheduled for Gerrard Hall.)

The musicians are able to make the trip to the United States only every two or three years because of their heavy schedule in Europe.

The family trio began their musical education at the School of Music at Tours and later continued their studies at the Conservatory in Paris from which they were graduated with honors.

The Pasquier Trio made its debuts at the Salle des Agriculteurs in Paris in 1927. International recognition followed and they were established with an unequalled reputation as a string trio.

Russell Link, chairman of Petite Musicale, noted, "The success of the Pasquier Trio is not surprising since it is composed of three brothers who have united their work and art since youth. They form a unique ensemble on the world scene . . . for more than 30 years the composition of this group has been unchanged, a record neither equalled nor surpassed."

He said the public is invited to attend the concert free of admission charge.

The program will include works by Beethoven, Schonberg and Dolenyoni.

The repertoire of the Pasquier Trio ranges from the classics to contemporary compositions. Many of the works were especially written for the group by such modern masters as Hindemith, Villa-Lobos, Milhaud, Martinu and Rouseel.

Solicitations To Begin

The senior class Alumni Committee will conduct its solicitations of all spring practice teachers Monday through Wednesday.

This year the Alumni Association plans a special rate for seniors who join the association this spring. A fee of $1 gains membership and each member is entitled to 20 issues of the Alumni Review, including 10 football supplements.

The Alumni Review contains news about the alumni and monthly reports on the UNC scene.

In addition to the Alumni Review, the association dispatches letters and notices of meetings and class reunions. The special $1 rate is a saving of $4.

Members of the senior Alumni Committee are Lucy Forsyth, Susan Saunders, Hamp Leffler, Bill King and Jack Secrest.

Yack Editor Interviews To Continue

The Bi-Partisan Selections Board will meet Monday afternoon to interview candidates for the Yackety Yack editorship.

The board is holding this session because it decided not to endorse either of the two candidates who were interviewed Friday afternoon.

Appearing before the board Friday were Mike Smith and Jerry Adams.

The board deliberated two hours before deciding not to give its endorsement to either person.

Any other student interest in running for the editorship has been asked to contact Harold O'Tuel or John Minter as soon as possible.

What Orientation Counselors Do

It certainly was nice of Mr. Prillaman to give us free meals during the entire week of orientation.

"Well, now that everyone is here at last, we will have our short quiz on the Honor System. Then I will discuss UNC's unique system of student government until time to go to the Tin Can for the activities session. The activities session will give all of you an opportunity to learn something about the various extra-curricular activities on campus such as the Di and the Phi. There will be games to play and prizes for the winners."

"Five-thirty - Man has this day gone by and it is already time for the picnic on Emerson Field. I hope all of you will be among the first in line so you won't have to wait so long. Then tonight we have the free flicks. This day surely has been crowded with big events, but it is not any different from any of the other days of Orientation Week."

"Remember Chancellor Aycock's welcoming address and then the big dance with the girls from WC on Saturday evening? Then we really had a field day - and those open houses at the women's dorms? - WOW! I have enjoyed and gained so much from this week that I wouldn't dare miss the chance to be a counselor again next year."

"The only things I had to do last spring to become a counselor were to study the counselor's manual for a quiz on campus life, and to be interviewed by the Orientation Committee. Then we had three counselor's training sessions and David Parker, Orientation chairman, instructed us on some of the many things we might encounter during Orientation Week."

He explained that in the "past couple of weeks" a greater number of students have been checking books out of the Undergraduate Library with some other person's name or a false name.

Taylor stated that this was an honor council offense and urged all students to use their own names in checking out books.

Class Presidents Urge Budget Request Support

Presidents of the freshmen, sophomore and junior classes issued a statement Friday concerning the University's budget requests for the next biennium.

Speaking for their respective classes, Jey Deifell, freshman; Davis Young, sophomore; and Wade Smith, junior, urged students to take an active interest in the budget fight now going on in Raleigh.

"We feel that unless restorations are made in the 'A' and 'B' budgets, this University cannot continue to hold its position as one of the ranking institutions of higher learning in the South," they said.

The presidents stated that they are urging students of their classes to write to the legislators from their home districts.

They gave the following three point plan to aid the University officials: "to win this crucial point: 1. concerted personal interest from students, 2. effective lobbying, and 3. loyal support of student government."

"We hope that students in our classes will back us on this point and make contact with their lawmakers in Raleigh. Only through constant pressure can our financial goals be achieved," the presidents reported.

They also pledged their support to President William C. Friday and Chancellor William B. Aycock. "We are ready to do all within our power to aid them."

Any student needing information on the budget may contact either Deifell, Young or Smith.

Forged Book Checkouts Raise Library Problem

"There has been a rash of students checking books out of the Library in some one else's name," Larry Taylor, chairman of the Library Committee, said recently.

He explained that in the "past couple of weeks" a greater number of students have been checking books out of the Undergraduate Library with some other person's name or a false name.

Taylor stated that this was an honor council offense and urged all students to use their own names in checking out books.

Orientation Counselors Wanted

Students interested in becoming foreign student orientation counselors are asked to contact Marcy Klingel Foreign Student Orientation chairman, or the campus orientation office in Graham Memorial.

Plans are now underway for an extensive foreign student orientation program next fall under the auspices of the general Orientation Committee.

The main objectives of the foreign student program will be to give the incoming foreign students informal contacts with American and foreign students already at UNC and to aid them in their first few days in Chapel Hill.

There will be two phases of the program. The formal phase will consist of meetings and social affairs and the informal phase will include personal contact through correspondence between the arriving student and his designated counselor. Also the counselor will meet the foreign student upon his arrival in Chapel Hill.

The committee hopes to have one counselor for each incoming foreign student.

How They Meet Carolina

By JOHN FRYE

(Editor's note: Through April 2, men are being asked to apply for orientation counselors in the fall. The following article has been written by a member of the Orientation Committee describing what some of the work by counselors will include.)

"It is 10:15, time to go for the library tour. Where is that Smith character? He should have met us this morning at 10 o'clock by the Old Well. By the way, have all of you studied your pamphlets on the Honor System? You know your quiz on it will be given this afternoon."

"Now before lunch we will take a short tour of the campus. Here is the new addition to Phillips Hall, the math and physics building which will house the new three of the oldest buildings: electronic computer. Here are Old East, Old West, and Gerrard Hall. It's noon now so we had better go to Lenoir Hall for lunch with all of the other counselors and then to the dining hall for lunch. We will have our picnic on Emerson Field. I hope all of you will be among the first in line so you won't have to wait so long. Then tonight we have the free flicks. This day surely has been crowded with big events, but it is not any different from any of the other days of Orientation Week."
