Senior Class Candidates Speak Out

SP Candidates

Student Party candidates for senior class officers outlined several plans for a class program in a statement released Saturday.

George Grayson, candidate for president and spokesman for the other officers, presented a five-fold program including the following ideas:

"1) a top-notch graduation speaker;

"2) a meaningful class gift;

"3) reduction of senior apathy toward campus life;

"4) inculcation of meaning into Senior Day, and

"5) more extensive senior planning in the preparation of senior functions."

In addition to Grayson, the other SP senior class officer candidates are: for vice president, Dave Evans; secretary, Martha Morgan; treasurer, John Crotty, and social chairman, Bunkie Jester.

Commenting on his candidacy, Grayson said, "I should very much appreciate the opportunity of lending my energy, past experience and speaking ability to this job. I have explored the position quite thoroughly and have on three occasions discussed its functions with the present class president."

UP Candidates

Several plans for the senior class of 1960 were presented by University Party candidates for senior class officers in a statement Saturday.

The UP candidates proposed (1) the continuation of the present scholarship award, (2) a class gift to the University which will be useful, (3) a class weekend with a "well planned" schedule of activities and (4) a class project to be part of the class weekend.

For the class project, the UP candidates have specifically in mind holding a benefit baseball game between two major league teams. The game would be held in the spring of 1960. Proceeds would be turned over to a reputable charity as selected by the senior class at large.

The University Party candidates for senior class offices are as follows: Wade Smith, presidential candidate; Dick Pattison, vice president; Cynthia Grant, secretary; Jim Crawford, treasurer, and Marion Hays, social chairman.

The candidates said, "We want to try our best to cooperate with our fellow seniors in making the coming year one that will be long remembered and treasured."

KAPPA SIGMA ELECTS

Colin Frazer Smith, a rising senior from Southern Pines, N. C., was chosen President of Alpha Mu Chapter of Kappa Sigma for the coming year in elections held recently. Assisting Smith next year will be Reginald Fulton Johnston of Concord, Mass., as Vice President, James William Thompson of Dunn, N. C., as Secretary, Michael Stewart Laram of Fayetteville, N. C., as Treasurer, William Carroll Jacobus Jr., Raleigh, N. C., as Grand Master of the Ritual, Robert Whitworth Cunningham of Wilson, N. C., as Pledge Trainer, and James Sparger of Mt. Airy, N. C., as Intramural Manager.

UNC Radio Will Carry Rally Excerpts

WUNC-FM Radio will broadcast highlights of the Friday night UP political rally Monday night at 11:30.

The broadcast can also be heard at 6:45 a.m. in Joyner, Alexander, Connor and Winston dormitories.

This special program will include speeches by Charlie Gray and Norman Smith, UP and SP candidates respectively for student body president. The speech by Davis Young, candidate for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel, will be included in the program.

"This is an experiment in collegiate broadcasting," said Jack Mayo, WUNC student manager. "We are interested in receiving comments from listeners to this special broadcast."

This is the first time WUNC has presented such a program to the students on the campus.

Varied Assemblage To Attend Model UN

Students from 15 colleges and universities will represent different nations in a Model United Nations Assembly here April 9, 10 and 11.

In addition to guest speakers, the Model Assembly will be concerned with the discussion of such issues as: the admission of Red China to the United Nations, disarmament and banning of nuclear weapons testing, the Kashmir situation, a world police force and permanent military force, and intervention in the Middle East.

Sponsoring the Model Assembly is the Collegiate Council for the United Nations. The local Y United Nations Education Committee will host to visiting students.

The colleges and the countries they will represent in the Model Assembly are as follows: Mary Baldwin College, Australia; Catawba College, France; St. Augustine's College, India; Pembroke College, Indonesia; Sacred Heart College, Iran.

Charlotte College, Japan; Warren Wilson College, Lebanon; North Carolina College, Liberia; Carver College, Pakistan; Appalachian State Teachers College, the Soviet Union; Wake Forest College, England.

Duke University, the United Arab Republic; Duke Woman's College, Yugoslavia; East Carolina College, Turkey; Davidson College, Greece; Sweetbriar College, Mexico, and UNC, Hungary, the United States and Nationalist China.

Gray Describes Type Of Student Government

A final statement Saturday from Charlie Gray, University Party candidate for president of the student body, described the type student government he would run if elected.

This type student government would mirror the students of all areas of the campus and of both political parties who have been supporting him when they go to the polls to vote Tuesday.

Retracing some phases of the current political campaign, Gray said, "During the campaign, both presidential candidates have mentioned returning student government back to the student."

Gray explained that he had not meant that statement to imply backward motion of student government by the present administration. "I have highest regard for the present administration, especially since I have been a part of it."

"I mean by my statement that I hope to bring the average Carolina student much closer to the actual operations of student government. I believe this is a necessity for a representative student government which I hope to be able to give the campus."

Talking about deferred rush, Gray mentioned he was pleased the Faculty Council decided to wait another year before making any decision on the issue.

"If I am elected, this will give student government the chance to help the IFC in improving the present rush system and academic phases of fraternities. If this can be done, I am confident fraternities will be allowed to continue with early rush," he said.

Gray also stated that the UP executive candidates have attempted to conduct a clean campaign and "have succeeded in doing so. We have had much mud that

Bob Bingham Coordinates Youth Week

Several Carolina students will be in charge of the annual Youth Activities Week at the University Methodist Church for students in the seventh through the twelfth grades.

The days for the program will be April 19-24.

Bob Bingham, who is coordinating plans for Youth Activities Week, said the program is held to provide religious inspiration for junior high and high school students.

The program will begin Sunday night, April 19, with a movie. The schedule for the other days of Youth Activities Week will include recreation, supper with a speaker, discussion groups and a worship service.

Speeches during the week will be given by Dr. Bernard Boyd and Marvin Berry of the UNC Department of Religion.

Leading discussion groups will be Chuck Gerke for the seventh grade, Danny Lotz, eighth and ninth grades; Webb McCracken, tenth grade; Diana Johnson, eleventh grade, and Wade Smith, twelfth grade.

Harvey Salz and Pete Range will be in charge of recreation. The worship service will be conducted by Peggy Brown, Betsy Fitch and Kermi Sigmon. Monty Milner will also assist in carrying out Youth Activities Week.

Advising the UNC students who are in charge of the program are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Graham, heads of the youth departments at the University Methodist Church.

Chi Omegas Honor N. C. Woman Jurist

Judge Susie Marshall Sharp of Reidsville and UNC coed Joann Darlene Wallace of Durham were honored Friday night with awards presented by the local Chi Omega sorority.

The awards were given during their annual Eleusinian Banquet at the Carolina Inn.

Judge Sharp, "scholar, lawyer, judge, administrator," is the recipient of the North Carolina Distinguished Service Award for Women in 1959.

The Sociology Award, given annually to the best women student in that field, was presented to Miss Wallace, a senior.

Chancellor Emeritus Robert B. House presented the award certificate to Judge Sharp, a UNC law graduate who is the only woman to hold a special Superior Court judge's post in North Carolina.

The citation stated: "Because her unique accomplishments represent a high level of achievement for womanhood, Susie Marshall Sharp has been selected unanimously as the recipient in 1959."

Signed by chapter president Decia Jeanette Elder of Siler City and by Chancellor William B. Aycock, the citation mentioned high points of Judge Sharp's career: her admission to the bar in 1928 and practice with her father's firm from 1929 to 1949; her service under three governors as Special Superior Court Judge.

It also noted that she is the only

Huntington, Carter Endorse Norman Smith

Norman B. Smith, Student Party candidate for president of the student body, drew endorsement statements Saturday from Charlie Huntington and Bob Carter.

Huntington, who has been acting as campaign adviser to Smith, commented that the president of the student body, "the most responsible position on campus," is charged with two major responsibilities.

These responsibilities, he said, were:

"1. On every question, he must necessarily and infallibly consider what is best for the University at large. To do this, he must think objectively on every matter confronting him. Objective thinking is undoubtedly the most challenging part of his job.

"2. He must then formulate and initiate the action necessary to accomplish the best possible results in light of his decision. To bring about these results, he must do his utmost, as well as lead his associates to do likewise in their respective roles."

Huntington said he was "con-

Candidates Reminded Of Expenses

With election day drawing near Hank Patterson, chairman of the Elections Board, reminded candidates of their expense account and the student body of ballot counting and of graduate voting.

He stated that an itemized description of any campaign expenses and expenditures must be turned in to the Elections Board by each candidate on or before 6 p.m. Monday at the student government office in Graham Memorial.

"Failure to submit an account of expenditures by Monday at 6 p.m. shall cause a fine of $5 to be levied against the delinquent candidate," he said.

And failure to pay the fine within 24 hours of its occurrence shall result in disqualification. Expense account forms may be obtained in the student government office or from the party chairman.

Patterson also reported that the ballots will be counted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the second floor of Graham Memorial. He urged all students to come to Graham Memorial and help count votes.

Election results will be posted in the main lounge in Graham Memorial.

Graduate students are eligible to vote in this election, the chairman said. "Usually grad students are not aware that they may vote in campus elections," he continued. Polls will remain open until 7 p.m. for grad students.

A man who will think objectively is what the University needs, Huntington believes. "The University is changing at a tremendous pace. Student government must keep abreast of this progress to remain and maintain the role which it has played in the past."

"He has worked tirelessly for the students of the University this year. A person of his work is past year clearly indicates that Norman is a man of accomplishment.

Norman Smith embodied the characteristics mentioned. "Norman is fully aware of what the job will entail and I know he is well qualified for the position.

"He has worked tirelessly for the students of the University this year. A person of his work is past year clearly indicates that Norman is a man of accomplishment.

John Brooks, SP chairman, said Saturday the party's Advisory Board made the endorsement Thursday because "we feel it to be our responsibility to endorse the most qualified candidate in the field for the editorship."

Brooks further commented that the Board made the endorsement in anticipation of possible write-in candidates at the last minute. "Of the possible field that could develop, we heartily give our support to Davis Young," he said.

A man who will think objectively is what the University needs, Huntington believes. "The University is changing at a tremendous pace. Student government must keep abreast of this progress to remain and maintain the role which it has played in the past."

The person who will do the better job, Carter said, is Smith. "His interest and experience in research into student needs and his work with the administration, Board of Trustees and State Legislature qualify him for the task ahead in the student union field, as well as in other areas of student government."

Professors Ashby and Guthrie were honored at a dinner following the initiation ceremonies, held at the Alpha Tau chapter house.

Faculty members are chosen by vote of the chapter's student members and receive all privileges of full membership.

Ceremonies were conducted by Ed Adkins of Wilson, master of ritual for the local chapter.

Alpha Kappa Psi, the first professional fraternity in business administration, was founded at New York University in 1904. UNC's chapter was chartered in 1925. Laurence Wilson of Mt. Olive is chapter president.

Professor Guthrie is chairman of the UNC Department of Economics and a member of the UNC faculty since 1946. He is noted for his work as a labor relations mediator. For nine years he taught economics and sociology at Randolph Macon Woman's College, and during World War II he worked for government agencies in labor and wage stabilization.

Professor Ashby, on the faculty here since 1947, has done studies on tax revenues on the national economy. Before coming to Chapel Hill he worked for the Minnesota Resources Commission and for Navy and Air Force research agencies, and taught at the Universities of Texas and Wisconsin.

Miss Custis also told the Elections Board she had submitted a petition of her candidacy. Patterson said her petition could not be located.

He said Miss Custis' name has been stamped on the ballots under the name of the other candidate for WAA president, Catherine Bolton.

JUDGE SUSIE SHARP

woman member of the committee for the proposed revision of the North Carolina Constitution, and commended Judge Sharp, "who by her sincerity and personal integrity in her chosen field has promoted the cause of justice."

Henry Snow Announces As Tar Heel Write-In

Henry Snow has announced his candidacy in a write-in campaign for the editorship of The Daily Tar Heel.

Snow is a pseudonym for seventeen journalism and other interested students. The students are running for the post as a corporate body under that name. The name was chosen as a single simple name which can be written on the ballot easily and for its legendary significance among journalism students.

The Elections Board, in a meeting Friday, rendered an opinion that this candidate would, in all probability, be ineligible. The Elections Board was pondering yesterday whether they could count Henry Snow ballots.

Hank Patterson, chairman of the Elections Board, said that any decision of the Elections Board could be appealed to the Student Council. At this meeting, Charlie Sloan announced Snow's candidacy.

The students who have assumed the pseudonym of Henry Snow include Thurman W. Worthington Jr., Roy L. Lucas, Stan Bremner, James R. Vance, T. Parker Maddrey, Neil F. Murphy, J. Stanford Fisher, Charles E. Flinner, Alan D. Resch, John W. Hubbard, George Hord, and Charles Sloan.

The students under the name Snow are seeking to produce a college newspaper which is completely independent of any party affiliations, according to campaign manager Charles Flinner. Flinner said "Snow is capable of putting out an independent and responsible newspaper."

Graduate students are eligible to vote in this election, the chairman said. "Usually grad students are not aware that they may vote in campus elections," he continued.

Patterson also reported that the ballots will be counted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the second floor of Graham Memorial. He urged all students to come to Graham Memorial and help count votes.

Election results will be posted in the main lounge in Graham Memorial.
