

Tar Heels End Clemson's Nine-Game Streak With 6-3 Win

Hammett Wins In Relief; First ACC Game For Heels

CLEMSON, S. C. — Carolina's Ben Hemmett relieved a wild Wayne Young with two out in the second inning and hung a 6-3 defeat on Clemson in an Atlantic Coast Conference baseball game Monday.

It was the first loss for the Tigers after nine straight victories. About 3,000 fans saw the game.

Hammett came on with two runs in and a runner on base. He retired the next seven men to face him. Young walked five men in the inning and two-thirds he worked, and gave up a home run to Zack Burnette.

The Tar Heels pushed over two unearned runs in the first on three Clemson errors. They added another in the second on a walk and 2 singles. A triple and a squeeze play gave the Tar Heels their fourth run in the fourth.

Clemson scored twice in the second on a walk and Burnette's inside the park clout. Ferguson Norton banged a triple in the eighth for the Tar Heels, his second, and was safe at home when relief pitcher Bailey Hendley dropped the ball on an attempted squeeze.

The Tar Heels' final run came in the ninth on a deep drive to center by Gerald Griffin.

Harold Stowe, who started for the Tigers and worked six and two-thirds innings, was charged with his first loss after three victories.

STARTER IN WIN — Wayne Young started Carolina's 6-3 win over Clemson yesterday, but Ben Hammett picked up the victory in relief. Hammett relieved Young in the second inning.

Netmen Whip SC By 8-1 Score

COLUMBIA, S. C.—For the third straight match the Carolina tennis team came out on top of its opponent by an 8-1 count. This time the victim was South Carolina.

The win gives the Tar Heel netters a 3-0 conference mark and an overall 4-3 record for the season.

Prior to yesterday's victory over the Gamecocks, Carolina had rolled over Maryland and Virginia, both by 8-1 counts, in ACC play.

Tar Heel captain Geoff Black snapped back from two successive losses to shut out Tom Adams 6-0, 6-0 in the number one singles match.

Carolina courtmen won all six of the singles matches as only one of the losers, Bob Dodson, could get as much as four games off his opponent. In this match Phil Causey whipped Dodson 6-2, 6-4.

The lone Carolina loss of the day came in the number three doubles; match where Chip Durham and Neil Dickman lost in three sets, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

The Summary

Singles — 1. Black (C) defeated Adams 6-0, 6-0. 2. Sylvia (C) defeated Gregory 6-2, 6-1. 3. Keys (C) defeated Burnett 6-1, 6-3. 4. Happer (C) defeated Smoak 6-1, 6-0. 5. Causey (C) defeated Dodson 6-2, 6-4. 6. Ricks (C) defeated Logan 6-3, 6-0.

Doubles — 1. Happer and Sylvia (C) defeated Adams and Dickman 6-1, 6-2. 2. Keys and Causey (C) defeated Gregory and Smoak

Erickson Discusses Moe Case

Outlines Steps For Reinstatement

Carolina athletic director C. P. Erickson Monday outlined the necessary steps that could lead to the reinstatement of basketball star Doug Moe, dismissed from school last week because of excessive class cuts.

Erickson said the dean of the general college and the readmissions board must decide whether Moe will be permitted to re-enter for the fall semester.

Erickson said that in some similar cases students have been re-admitted after making up work in summer school, though correspondence courses or other means. The general attitude of the student is an important factor in each case, said the athletic director.

Moe, a sturdy sophomore from Brooklyn, N. Y., said he had no immediate plans.

Carolina coach Frank McGuire, on a Morgantown, W. Va., trip, said he did not have the details of the case.

6-0, 6-1. 3. Logan and Dobson (SC) defeated Durham and Dickman 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Frosh Open With Presbyterian

Tar Heel baseball fans will get their first look at the 1959 freshman team this afternoon as the Carolina squad takes on Presbyterian Junior College at 3 o'clock at Emerson Stadium.

From preseason reports, the Tar Babies are a potent ball club, and should turn in a good account of themselves. Coach Pat Earey says that his team has so much class that his big problem is finding out which boys to play and where they play best.

Declining to name a certain boy for each position, Earey gave a few hints as to some of the boys who will see action. At first base, either Jerry Evans, Sam Newshaw, or Rick Moser will take charge. Paul Swing, Theodore Garrison, or Zollie Anderson will handle the second sack. At the hot corner, third base, Larry Neal, Roger Fiushee, or Robert Proctor will hold down the bag. At shortstop will be Leonard Dellolio, Harold Byrd, or George Knox.

Moving to the outfield, in left field Don Miller or Walter Spainhour will hold that position. James Helton, Robert Noblin, or Robert Sherrad will be roaming in center field. And in right Ed Farrior and E. C. Haithcock will be playing.

As for the catching, which Earey says needs working on, Eugene Wade, Richard Tarlow, and Jerry Kroe, along with several others may handle the receiving chores. The pitching is a wide-open affair with several of Earey's 12 good hurriers expected to toe the rubber.

ME VOTE FOR THREE AND ONE

To The Students of The University of North Carolina:

In the past several weeks, many articles have appeared in the Daily Tar Heel concerning deferred rush. Almost all of these articles have consisted primarily of one person's opinions and prejudices. There has, however, been one notable exception: the discussion of deferred rush presented in two articles by the Interfraternity Council.

This discussion contained not personal opinions or prejudices, but the collected views of the overwhelming majority of fraternity men who are very much opposed to deferred rush. In a recent vote conducted in each fraternity and reported back to the I. F. C., only one out of the twenty-four social fraternities had a majority of members in favor of deferred rush, and over 90% of all fraternity men were opposed to deferred rush.

The article by the I. F. C. has presented the views of this majority clearly, concisely, and logically, without resort to emotionalism or distortion. Anyone who believes that fraternities have a valuable position in a university should be convinced by the article that deferred rush is not the best solution for the problems, academic and otherwise, which allegedly arise because of early rush.

It is only the people who, as one outstanding exponent of deferred rush and opponent of fraternities has said, believe that "personally I don't see any value in fraternities, but because a lot of people seem to like them, I won't try to abolish them but will work only for the possible" i.e. deferred rush; and that "I can see how they may be some use for some people"; and that "in an ideal university, there would be no place for fraternities"; I repeat, it is only people who, like this boy, see no more value in fraternities than this who would not be convinced that there are better solutions to the existing problems than deferred rush.

This candidate for the presidency of the student body, Norman B. Smith, has later, in his political statements for the public, modified his stand on fraternities somewhat. This "courageous critic" and "responsible reformer" reminds me of the abolitionists before the Civil War who, having predicted its inevitability, worked diligently through concentrated agitation to insure its outbreak. Smith, likewise, has predicted the inevitability of deferred rush and has exerted all his personal influence to insure its becoming a reality.

I do not think fraternities are perfect. Fraternities, as do all institutions, have their peculiar defects and problems. I do, however, believe that fraternities are and can be made into even more of a positive good for students with a definite place on the University's campus. Deferred rush might salvage some of the problems alleged to arise from early rush; however, it would create new problems which would definitely weaken fraternities and the fraternity system here at the University.

The best solution for the current problems, therefore, is not deferred rush, which weakens fraternities; but on the contrary, the best solution is for the fraternities collectively through the I. F. C. and individually to take measures to correct the existing faults and at the same time to strengthen the fraternities and the I. F. C. in order that they can more effectively deal with the problem.

A strong fraternity system with a strong Interfraternity Council can and should be a positive good influence for the freshmen, the fraternities, and the University. There should be no need to "protect" freshmen from fraternity influence during their first semester; on the contrary, freshmen should definitely profit from the opportunity to enter a fraternity early in their first semester and receive the benefits of fraternity life. By full cooperation from fraternities, student government, and the administration, the fraternity system should be strengthened and made into a permanent, ever improving, good influence on freshmen, fraternity men, and the University.

Fencers Defeat Citadel 10-8

The Tar Heel fencers journeyed to Charleston over the weekend to hand the Citadel fencers a 10-8 defeat in overall bout score. The two teams fenced a dual meet Saturday afternoon at The Citadel in foil and sabre only since the Citadel has no team in epee.

UNC's fencers were decisive in defeating the foilsman of Citadel with a 6-3 victory in that weapon while the sabre team was edged 5-4 by Citadel's sabreurs.

In the foil each of the Carolina men won two of their three bouts with the three losses being accounted for by the number one Citadel man, Stewart Jacobs, who won all three of his bouts at Carolina's expense. He was pushed to a 5-4 decision over Luchs, Carolina's No. 1 foilsman, but found easier going defeating Ellis (no. 2) by a 5-3 score and Simpson (no. 3) 5-1. Ellis of Carolina in his other bouts polished off Wolfe and Croft by the same score of 5-1. Simpson defeated the same two men by an even greater margin of 5-0 against each of them.

In the sabre bouts the Carolina team was without the services of their first three regulars—Collins, Mirman and Aldridge. The four out of nine that they did win were at the expense of Leach (who lost two) and one each from White and Gall of Citadel. Matthews of UNC fencing in the number one slot was unable to break into the win column but did push both Gall and Leach to 5-4 bouts and was defeated very decisively by the number one Citadel sabreman, White, 5-1. Williams of Carolina also lost to White (5-2) but defeated his Citadel counterpart, Gall, by 5-3 and handily beat the number 3 man, Leach, 5-1. Luchs of Carolina, who doubled in sabre as Carolina's no. 3 man, did what his two teammates could not do and defeated the no. 1 sabreman of Citadel, White, by a 5-4 score. He defeated their no. 3 man, Leach, by a 5-2 score, losing only to Gall, the number 2 man in and to that pushed him to a 5-4 bout. The next team meet for UNC will be a three-way meet at Ballinore on April 18th with Johns Hopkins and Haverford College in all weapons.
