N. C. Symphony Orchestra Plays Brahms' In Memorial Hall Tonight

Two concerts will be played in Memorial Auditorium on the University campus today by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Benjamin Swalin, director of the Orchestra.

At 2 p.m. the elementary school children of Chapel Hill will assemble for their annual concert, which will include numbers by Schubert, Rimsky-Korsakov, and others. Some of the children will accompany the Orchestra in playing Schubert's Sanctus, which all of them will sing. Jimmy Carter, 15-year-old violinist from Salisbury, will appear as soloist in the Violin Concerto 23 in G major.

At 8:30 in the evening the concert program for adults and any children who wish to come will open with the Handel Overture to the Royal Fireworks, in observance of the bicentennial of George Frederic Handel (1685-1759). A principal feature of the program will be the Paganini-Wilhelmj Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in D major, in which Miss Elaine Skorodin will be presented as soloist. Dr. Jan Schinhan's "Festivity for Orchestra," the 1959 Benjamin Award composition, will be played, preceding the Rimsky-Korsakov "Overture to 'The Russian Easter.'" The Symphony No. III, Opus 90, which is not often heard, is an interesting program number. This is the 14th successive state-wide tour of the Orchestra, in which more than 100 concerts are given each season.

ELAINE SKORODIN

Miss Elaine Skorodin, talented young violinist from Chicago, will also appear in Memorial Auditorium. Since the age of 10, when she first appeared as soloist in a Young People's concert of the Chicago Symphony, Miss Skorodin has made many important orchestral appearances, and has recently played with outstanding success at Town Hall, New York, Orchestra Hall, Chicago, and in Washington, D. C.

Methodist's Meet

Six hundred youths, adult counselors and pastors, representing more than 85 churches in five counties, are expected here Sunday for the Durham District Methodist Youth Fellowship Rally at the University Methodist Church.

Rev. Charles S. Hubbard will speak the first day on "In Word and In Deed," the over-all rally theme.

Jim Long, UNC student and former N. C. Conference MYF president, will discuss "Personal Christian Living" for the high school students.

Panhellenic Council Forms New Committee

At the regular meeting April 22 of the Panhellenic Council, plans were made to form a committee composed of Dean Katherine Carmichael and Panhel representatives.

The committee would discuss special sorority problems on campus such as transfer members and membership problems.

Monday night, April 27, 7:30-9:30 p.m., there will be a fashion show in the State College Student Union for college and high school girls. Four UNC coeds will attend to answer questions concerning campus and sorority life at Carolina.

Next year, the seven sororities will pay board for a German exchange coed on the Goettgen Scholarship.

GMAB Lauds Carter As Devoted President

By EDWARD NEAL RINER
Bob Carter, GMAB president 1958-59, was honored Thursday night for being the student who has "done more than any one else to promote student activities."

Carter was presented an engraved desk pen set for his "unselfish devotion to student activities" by Graham Memorial Activities Board during their annual installation banquet at the Carolina Inn Ballroom.

Angus Duff, GMAB president 1958-60, made the presentation. He also said that Carter has always worked for Carolina Students.

"I am deeply humble," Carter said on acceptance, and then he thanked everyone for their aid during the year.

Earlier in the evening, Carter welcomed special guests, the board of directors, and old and new officers and committee chairmen. He said that with this selection of students things "were looking better for student union programming."

He named Howard Henry, director of Graham Memorial, as a big asset to the student union. Under the direction of Henry and the students he said Graham Memorial had started "snowballing for better organization and programming."

Gerald Erdahl, director of the N. C. State College Union, was the guest speaker. Erdahl emphasized the role of the student union and the university in preparing a person for citizenship.

He called the union a "lab in citizenship" because of its cultural, social and recreational programming.

Angus Duff, concluding the program, expressed his hope for a successful year with the purpose to make the potential GMAB the real GMAB.

Robinson Announces Resignation; Ed Levy To Head 1960 Symposium

IT'S A SCREAM—That's Nancy Aubrey screaming in the Sound and Fury production of "Oh Hellas" to be presented Friday and Saturday nights, May 1-2, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. Holding Nancy up and playing in the student written and produced musical-comedy are (left to right) Mary Margaret Brown, Joan Brooks, Ann Rountree, and Sandy Regine. The price is fifty cents, and tickets are on sale at Graham Memorial and at the Y.

Ed Levy is the new chairman for the 1960 Carolina Symposium. He replaces Dick Robinson, who announced his resignation Thursday.

Robinson's resignation was accepted by the General Symposium Committee at a meeting Thursday afternoon. Levy was unanimously elected chairman at the same meeting.

Robinson told the committee he was resigning for academic reasons. He said he realized the demands of the position when he accepted the chairmanship earlier this year.

"After working with the Symposium during the last two months, however, I realize that my interest in doing a creditable job in preparing for my career has limited my effectiveness as Symposium chairman and that I must choose between these two major fields of interest," he said.

"This decision," Robinson said, "has been extremely difficult."

He expressed his willingness to assist in the work of the Symposium even though he could not continue to serve as chairman.

Levy said he was sorry Robinson had to resign. Robinson said he believed Levy would do an "excellent job in carrying out the program, which, to a great extent, is the product of his time and effort."

Levy, who has served as vice chairman in charge of the Program Committee, was optimistic over plans for the 1960 Symposium, which will feature prominent persons in various fields speaking on aspects of the overall theme, "The Image of Man: The Individual in an Accelerated Culture."

"What we've planned thus far for the Symposium has tremendous potential for capturing the interests of the campus because the program is of sufficient depth and scope to be both provocative and challenging," Levy said.

He further commented that the "potential can be realized only if a great number of dedicated people are willing to put forth the necessary effort. My hope is that the Symposium will realize its full potential."

Since the work of the Program Committee has almost been completed, Levy said he might not appoint another person to fill his former position as vice chairman in charge of the committee. The committee, he said, has no function after choosing the program and selecting speakers.

"Oh Hellas" Ticket Sale Begins Today At G. M. & Y

Tickets are now on sale in Graham Memorial and the Y for "Oh Hellas," Sound and Fury's 1959 production to be held in Memorial Hall Friday and Saturday, May 1-2 at 8 p.m.

The musical-comedy, written by Carl Bridges and Lew Hardy and based on the Aristophanes' comedy "Lysistrata," stars Jane Newsom and Al Miller in the leading roles of Lysistrata and Lycón.

Miss Newsom, currently one of the contestants for Miss Chapel Hill and a member of the Yack Beauty Court, is a junior voice major from San Juan, Puerto Rico. A newcomer to the acting world, Miller hails from New Rochelle, N. Y., is a freshman and a member of the Orientation Committee.

Providing the backbone of the comedy are Susie Cordon, Nancy Aubrey, Bill Monell and Frank Beaver in the roles of Lampito, Calonika, Demetrius and Prominus, respectively.

Also in leading roles are Jane Durham as Myrrhina, Sandy Regenie as Arthritis, Paul Burroughs as the messenger, and Robert Williams as the Spartan.

Coming in triplets are three Athenian women and three Athenian men played by Ann Rountree, Mary Margaret Brown, Jane Brooks, Curtis Russell, Joseph Holbrook and Roy Weaver, respectively.

The play is directed by Joel Fleishman, law student and graduate student in Dramatic Art and is produced by Al Salley, an Air Force veteran who is currently majoring in business as a preparation for law school.

Chuck Cushman is the play's stage manager. Business manager for Sound and Fury is Jack Mitchell.

Tickets for the play are 50¢ per person.

Dieticians Meet, Feast

By WILLIAM TUNSTALL
Have you ever wondered what dieticians eat when they meet?

According to Miss Frances Floore, catering dietician at the Carolina Inn, dieticians are no different from you and me.

When the executive board of the N. C. Dietetic Association meet, on April 30th at the Carolina Inn this will be their menu for the evening dinner:

Tomato soup with whip cream and chives.
Danish Lobster with melted butter.

Stuffed baked potatoes.
Broccoli with almond.
Citrus and avocado salad with clear French dressing.
Pecan and butterhorn rolls.
Beverage (Iced tea or coffee).
Baked Alaska with strawberries.

The occasion is the annual spring meeting of the North Carolina Dietetic Association, which will be meeting in Chapel Hill at the Carolina Inn, Thursday and Friday, April 30 and May 1.

Awards For Excellence To Be Presented Friday

Awards for excellence in undergraduate teaching will be presented to UNC faculty members Friday at 4 p.m. in Carroll Hall during the semi-annual meeting of the general faculty.

The winners of the Lola Spencer and Simpson Bob Turner Memorial Awards for teaching will be announced by Dr. Williams Wells, chairman of the faculty.

In addition to the awards, memorials for the late Profs. W. E. Rosenstengel and E. T. Brown will be read at the meeting.

A report on the present state of UNC budget requests will be made by Dr. James L. Godfrey, dean of the faculty. Other reports will be given by Prof. Sterling A. Stouder on the current building program and by Dr. John Carr on the new 1105 Univac Computer to be installed in the Phillips Hall addition.

All teaching personnel in the University have been urged to attend this meeting.

Delta Sigma Pi Elects Bolick

Ted Bolick, rising senior from Hudson, was re-elected headmaster of Alpha Lambda chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at the business meeting Wednesday night. Bolick has served as headmaster since January.

Sam Hummel, senior warden at present, was also re-elected to serve in that capacity for the coming year.

Other new officers are Bill Floyd, junior warden; Ed Cox, scribe; James Berry, treasurer; John Boles, historian; and Erwin Fuller, chancellor. Bolick was also named by the chapter membership as its official delegate to the 22nd Grand Chapter Congress of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi. The congress will be held Aug. 30 through Sept. 1 in Oxford, Ohio.

Carmichael To Speak May 3rd

Consolidated University Vice President William D. Carmichael will be the featured speaker during UNC Parents Day on May 3. A band concert is also being planned.

Letters will be sent to all parents of all freshmen in the University, inviting them to attend. Alpha Phi Omega's Parents Day Chairman Larry Haver has indicated that "funds were insufficient to send letters to each student's parents as we had hoped."

Hayer, speaking for the fraternity, has urged each student to extend his parents a special invitation to come to Chapel Hill May 30.

Last year about 1000 parents took the opportunity to visit the campus according to past APO president Harold Johnson.

This year the IDC will hold an open house in Parker Dormitory, serving refreshments to the visitors all afternoon. All other dorms and fraternities will be open to visiting parents during the afternoon hours.

The Naval ROTC unit is planning an exhibit of arms and equipment on the floor of the Naval Armory. The Air Force unit is planning a reception for the parents of its members.

Exhibits will be displayed in most of the University's departments and the usual ones at Ackland Art Center, the Morehead Building and the Library will be open.

Sunday evening the Sound and Fury production will be staged. Also the Planetarium will feature "Color in the Sky." The various organizations of college students at the Chapel Hill churches will also have suppers and programs appropriate to the occasion.

The event is being planned by Alpha Phi Omega, Carolina's only service fraternity. APO brothers will man information booths and officiate at the band concert and speech of Vice President Carmichael.

Spring Frolic Swings Tonight

IDC's Spring Frolic starts swinging tonight.

Providing the stars are shining tonight the dance will be in the Smith Dormitory parking lot with music furnished by the Globes Combo 7:30-10:15 p.m.

In case of rain the frolic will be in the Tin Can.

The lawn party will be 10:30 p.m. through midnight at McCorkle Place.

Jimmy Capps will broadcast WPTF's "Our Best to You" at this time from the Davie Poplar. Also on the program will be Jim Talley with the Shades.

The IDC said that the dress for the evening would be casual.

Refreshments will be served by the Carolina Women's Council and the House Committee of Graham Memorial. Jackie Arnette and Dave Mincey are in charge of the free food.
