Pharmacy Awards Presented Tonight

Student body and scholarship awards will be presented to pharmacy seniors and some undergraduates tonight by Dean E. A. Brecht of the School of Pharmacy.

Presentations will be made during the student branch of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association meeting at 8 o'clock in Howell Hall.

Among the awards to be presented will be the Pharmacy Faculty Award, which is given annually by the faculty of the School of Pharmacy and awarded to the student in the graduating class making the highest average during the four years of study.

The Buxton Williams Hunter Medal, a gold medal offered annually, will go to the graduate who excels in campus citizenship and scholarship. Also included in the list of awards will be the School of Pharmacy Student Body Award to a member of the graduating class for character, deportment, scholarship, participation in extracurricular activities and promise of future distinction in the profession.

Other awards to be presented are the Kappa Epsilon Award and the Merck Awards. The Kappa Epsilon is a national honorary pharmaceutical sorority award presented to the woman student in the School of Pharmacy who has demonstrated qualities of leadership, character, service and scholarship. The Merck Awards are given to two graduating students for achievement in pharmacy.

Joe Friedberg Trial Adjourned; Will Resume Again On Thursday

Director Of 'Playhouse 90' To Speak Here Thursday

John Frankenheimer, noted 29-year-old director of "Playhouse 90" who has contributed to that production's winning its 1959 Emmy Award, will speak here Thursday at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall.

Frankenheimer will speak on "Popular Misconceptions of Television."

Best Dramatic Series

Frankenheimer has directed many shows for "Playhouse 90", which won the Emmy for the best hour-longer dramatic series last Wednesday night. He staged television's biggest dramatic show, Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls," on March 12 and 19. The two-part, three-hour Hemingway presentation is one high point in the young director's career.

Other Plays

Other plays Frankenheimer has directed for "Playhouse 90" are: "The Comedian," "The Ninth Day," "The Last Tycoon," "The Fabulous Irishman," "A Sound of Different Drums," "A Town Has Turned to Dust," "Days of Wine and Roses" and "Old Man."

Frankenheimer's career included acting and directing in the stock company of the Highland Playhouse, Falmouth, Mass. He was in the cast of the American Theater Wing's Washington production of "The Moon is Blue." He later joined the CBS television network in 1953 as assistant director of "Person to Person," "You Are There" and "See It Now."

Christopher Award

After directing a "Mama" series, "You Are There" and "Danger," he became co-director for "Climax!" He won the Christopher Award for his direction of "Deal a Blow."

The Carolina Forum is sponsoring Frankenheimer. The Forum brings significant speakers from every field of endeavor to the campus in an effort to present new ideas to

GM Lawn Concert

The Graham Memorial House Committee will sponsor a lawn concert under the Davie Popular from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The concert will feature the music of the Ambers Combo.

Arrangements have been made for Jim Talley and the Shades to entertain at intermission.

Free refreshments will be served. There will be no admission charge.

the student and university community. Frankenheimer will be the first and only presentation of the Forum this semester.

After the director's speech in Hill Hall, a reception honoring him and his wife will be held in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial.

Asia Foundation Drive Gets Underway Soon

The International Relations Committee of the YM-YWCA, headed by co-chairmen Sipra Bose and Edwin Eaff, is sponsoring a "Books for Asian Students" drive. A project of the Asia Foundation, the Book Drive extends from May 13 to May 30.

According to Dr. William Wells of the UNC English Department, over a million books and journals have been sent to schools, colleges, libraries and individuals in Asian countries, including Afghanistan, Burma, Ceylon, India, Japan, Korea, Laos, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand and Viet Nam.

"Gifts of books help to improve Asian understanding of Western culture and to correct misinformation about the West," Dr. Wells said. "Books are tools for learning in all fields of study; and they give information to citizens of Asian countries in their occupations and civic work."

The history of the "Books for Asian Students" program, since its beginning over two years ago, demonstrates a facet of American public interest in Asian affairs as well as this country's desire to share its heritage and experience with other countries.

Ships Many Books

Through this project, the Asian Foundation has shipped more than 350,000 textbooks and journals to hundreds of Asian universities in the 15 countries which have requested such books. Most of the texts have been donated by American publishers and college student groups.

The Asian Foundation is a non-profit, non-political organization founded by private American citizens and incorporated in the State of California. In accordance with its Articles of Incorporation, the foundation strives to "make private American support available to individuals and groups in Asia who are working for the attainment of peace, independence, personal liberty, and social progress."

Concert Reading Of 'Ruth' Will Be Featured At Hillel

A concert reading of "Ruth" will be featured at the regular Hillel Women's meeting at Hillel House Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

"Ruth" is an adaptation of the old Bible story written in dramatic verse by Marian Rosenzweig. It will be interpreted in voice and dance.

The dance interpretation will be given by Dorothy Berea Silver, a graduate of Randolph Macon Woman's College who later trained with and became a member of Martha Graham's dance company. She has danced with the American School of Ballet, Jose Limon, Sophia Maslow and Merce Cunningham.

Miss Silver has done choreography for two off-broadway shows. In the fall she played Laurie in the dream ballet sequence of the Carolina Playmakers' production of "Oklahoma."

The readers for "Ruth" are Rita Keeler and Marian Rosenzweig. Mrs. Keeler is a graduate of Radcliffe College who worked in drama in college and studied with the Neighborhood Playhouse of New York and the Feayn School of Drama and the MacArthur Summer Players of Vermont.

Marian Rosenzweig is known for her work with the Carolina Playmakers in several productions as well as her solo original dramatic presentations that she has given in many cities of the United States and Canada.

Sigma Delta Chi Names Journalism Officers

Chuck Flinner is the new president of Sigma Delta Chi professional journalism fraternity.

Flinner is the local chapter's second president. He replaces Charlie Sloan, chapter member.

Working with Flinner next year will be Ben Taylor, vice president; Jim Laughrum, secretary and Neil Murphy, treasurer.

Male Glee Club Gives 'Most Valuable' Award

By HOWARD WHEELER

The Men's Glee Club presented the "Most Valuable Member" award to R. V. Fulk, the club accompanist, at the club's annual service awards banquet Friday night at Watts Restaurant.

Dr. Joel J. Carter, Glee Club director, presented the award to Fulk "in appreciation for the enormous amount of work he has contributed in making this a very successful year."

Certificates of merit were also presented to approximately 25 members in recognition of faithful attendance, loyal service, cooperative attitude, and musical contributions during the 1958-59 school year. Fourteen members were also given service awards.

Don Gray, outgoing president of the club, was presented a gift by Dr. Carter in recognition of his "fine leadership devotion" to the club during the past year.

Dr. Carter himself was presented a "Bloofer" award by last year's winner, Mac Campbell. The "Bloofer" award is given to the member who committed the biggest goof of the year.

Nick Ellison, newly-elected president of the Glee Club, spoke of tentative plans for the coming year. "The club plans to perform at as many of the all-girl schools in this area as possible," Ellison said.

Several singing groups within the club performed for the banquet. These groups included "The Carolinians," a newly-formed quartet; "The Harmonies," a regular club quartet, and a trio called "The Preptones." After some persuasion, Dr. Carter sang "The Thing."

Honored guests at the banquet were Dean and Mrs. Fred Weaver, Mrs. Joel Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Klitz and Charlie Gray, student body president.

Reporters Admitted For The First Time

The Men's Honor Council trial of Joe Friedberg on charges of "aiding and abetting in the passing of bad checks" was adjourned last night until Thursday at which time officers from the Chapel Hill Police Department and other jurisdictions will be asked to testify as to their knowledge of the case.

Friedberg, a Senior from Great Neck, N. Y., repudiated a sworn statement given to the Chapel Hill Police Department and claimed that he pleaded guilty in civil court as the result of an arrangement with the Orange County solicitor. The defendant pleaded innocent before the Honor Council.

The Friedberg trial last night marked the first time that Daily Tar Heel reporters have been admitted to an Honor Council proceeding. Although Student Body President Charlie Gray has yet to sign the "public trial" bill passed by the Legislature last week, the decision was made by Gray and Honor Council Chairman Hugh Patterson to open the Friedberg trial because of the wide publicity already given the case in the local press and because no student accuser was involved.

Friedberg himself had requested Daily Tar Heel coverage of his trial. The defendant said: "I feel that the greatest protection I can get, a protection to which I am entitled, would be the spotlight of a free press. As a previous defendant in an Honor Council proceeding, I know how important it is to take these trials out from behind closed doors into the light of day."

Chief evidence presented against Friedberg last night was a sworn statement from an associate, John Anthony Fox, now a private in the U. S. Marine Corps. Fox implicated Friedberg in the passing of approximately $200 worth of bad checks.

Friedberg told the Honor Council: "Fox and I have conflicting stories, and being as how you don't know anything about Fox I think you oughta check this guy." Friedberg produced two witnesses in an effort to impeach Fox's sworn statement given to the Chapel Hill police.

In addition to Fox and Friedberg, one other UNC student was involved in the charges which were disposed of recently in Orange County court. All three participants received 18-months suspended sentences.

In an effort to bypass the welter of conflicting charges, one Honor Council member asked Friedberg if he was familiar with that section of the Honor Code requiring a student to inform campus authorities of Honor Code violations. Friedberg admitted his familiarity with that section of the Code. He also admitted his knowledge that Fox was passing bad checks, but denied that he knew, at that time, that the other UNC student was also passing bad checks. Friedberg stated: "Fox is a Marine. I would have had to turn him into the police, and I wouldn't turn anybody into the police."

Character witnesses for Friedberg testified that he was "a good guy." One witness said that the defendant loaned him five dollars for a Saturday night date when he (the defendant) only had seven dollars. Another witness stated: "Joe will give you the shirt off his back. His loans are keeping a couple of guys in school right now."

Friedberg's lawyers offered a definition of the "aiding and abetting" phrase from a standard law book. The crux of the legal definition was that "there must be participation."

Chairman Patterson, while accepting the definition, and agreeing that the Honor Council would be bound by standard legal definitions, also pointed out that an Honor Council court was not the same as a criminal court, and therefore could not be bound by all the procedural rules of a regular court.

One of Friedberg's lawyers commented at the end of last night's trial: "I have heard no testimony that the defendant passed a worthless check or 'aided and abetted' anyone else to pass a worthless check. The charges should be dropped."

Chairman Patterson said that the Honor Council jury was capable of dropping the charges if they felt it was in order to do so.

Professional Council Has New Constitution

The expansion of the Professional Interfraternity Council under a new constitution is now under the direction and supervision of Erwin Fuller, chairman, and other officers.

The officers of the PIFC were selected last week at the final council meeting of the year.

Fuller, who has served as chairman of the council since March, is also chairman of the Student Council, chairman of the UNC Consolidated University Student Council Delegation and chancellor of Delta Sigma Pi.

Fuller is also a member of the Order of the Grail, Order of the Old Well and Phi Eta Sigma.

The other officers are Whit Moore, vice chairman; Al Meade, secretary, and Charles Bennett, treasurer. Moore is president of the Pharmacy School student body and president of Kappa Psi. Meade is vice president of Alpha Kappa Psi, and Bennett is a member of Phi Delta Chi.

The PIFC is the established legislative and judicial body governing the activities of business fraternities, Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi, and pharmaceutical fraternities, Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Chi. Each of these fraternities is represented on the council by its president and one other member.

The major activity of the PIFC this past year has been the drafting and adoption of a written constitution to establish the council's powers, duties and procedures. The constitution was ratified by the four professional fraternities and approved by Student Legislature.

The council has also given consideration to possible means of increasing the participation of the various professional fraternities in such campus programs and activities as student government, homecoming displays, Valkyrie Sing, Grail-Mural Jamboree and intramural competition.

PEABODY ADDITION RISING AT UNC — Better facilities for educating teachers are under construction here and expected to be in use by June 1960. A $660,000 addition to Peabody Hall will relieve crowded conditions in the School of Education, provide facilities for special education, and offer better arrangements for educators' conferences.

Built in an L-shape around the present Peabody structure, the addition will harmonize in style with the Carolina Inn which is situated across Columbia St. The main entrance will face Cameron Avenue, and the exterior will be of colonial brick with limestone trim.
