Your GMAB Music Comm. Is At Work

By HENRY MAYER

The old adage about music soothing the savage beast may or may not apply to the Carolina cultural community; however, there is certainly no dearth of musical entertainment on campus.

A great deal of credit for this soundance goes to the GMAB Music and Concert Series Committee, under the chairmanship of R. V. Fulk.

The Music Committee is in charge of planning the Petite Musicales, usually performed Sunday evenings in Graham Memorial's Men's Lounge. Approximately 12 to 15 concerts have been scheduled for the year featuring Ethel Casey soprano; Francis Hopper, harpsichordist; Ruth Geiger, pianist; Marilyn Zselav, mezzo soprano; Alexander Fiorillo, pianist; and Gene Strassler, tenor.

Other plans include the production of a chamber opera and increased emphasis on student com-

Bob Elliott Scores Twice To Lead Tar Heels To Win

By ELLIOTT COOPER

South Carolina rushed to a quick 6-0 lead in the opening minutes of yesterday's game at Kenan Stadium but after that brief moment of glory the Gamecocks faltered and North Carolina surged back to control the rest of the contest and ring up a 19-6 victory.

The 29,000 who saw the game sat under cloudy skies and occasionally had to raise their umbrellas as the rain came down in spurts throughout the battle.

Once it got going, the Tar Heel offense was virtually unstoppable as it punctured the wanted South Carolina defense for 135 yards rushing and 191 more by passing. It was a sad day for the Gamecocks who went into the fray as the top defensive club in the conference.

Records Set

On the way to victory North Carolina set two all-time club records for passing. The Heels attempted 35 passes breaking the old mark of 29 set back in 1952 against Notre Dame and their 15 completions snapped the old record of 14 which had been achieved in three games.

The victory evens up North Carolina's season record at 2-2 and puts the winners on the comeback trail after their two opening losses to Clemson and Notre Dame. For the eleventh ranked Gamecocks, the loss was their first of the year as opposed to three wins.

Tar Heels Rule

After South Carolina's scoring drive which opened the ballgame the Tar Heels took command and ruled the roost for the remainder of the contest. On the way to their touchdown the Gamecocks racked up three first downs; from then until the end of the half, however, they could only manage to pick up one more against the stout North Carolina defense.

The Gamecocks went the entire third period without a first down before finally getting their offense working in the last quarter. Over this span the losers launched several drives and once got as far as the NC 4.

South Carolina was plagued by fumbles during the entire contest and the Tar Heels gobbled up five of these to stop several major drives.

One of the bright lights of the win was the Tar Heels ability to run the ball over the much heralded SC defense. Both Don Klochak and Skip Clement who ran from halfback positions looked completely at home there despite the fact that they had just moved into the gap created by the injury to Wade Smith.

Gamecocks Score

South Carolina wasted little time in rolling up the first tally of the game as it took the opening kickoff and marched 61 yards in 10 plays to score. Sticking to the turf all the way the Gamecocks ground it out behind the running of Steve Kopian, Ken Norton, and Phil Lavoie. The big play of the drive was a 22 yard run by Norton which carried down to the Tar Heel 1. Quarterback Steve Satterfield sneaked the rest of the way and SC led 6-0. Lavoie attempted to

Invitations Given

Invitations are being extended to classroom teachers, music teachers, and music supervisors in 16 eastern North Carolina towns to attend a workshop sponsored by the North Carolina Symphony Society in Carrboro, Oct. 21. Chapter leaders from Little Symphony towns will also be welcome at the workshop.

Mrs. Fred B. McCall of Chapel Hill, director of the Children's Division of the Symphony Society, will conduct the workshop which is designed to help teachers and supervisors in preparing school children for North Carolina Symphony concerts. The Carrboro workshop will be for communities in the eastern part of the state which still sponsor Little Symphony concerts in 1960.

Students in the infirmary Saturday were the following:

Elizabeth Auslander, William D. Minstead, Alfred M. Smith, Clifford LaBarge, David Norsworthy, Sidney R. Sowers, Peter Wahl, Colin Myers, Richard Keana, Robert S. Nixon and Henry S. Manning.

Television Quiz Show Rigging Called Fraudulent, Not Illegal By FCC Chief

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Fooling the public with rigged television quiz shows is a fraudulent and deceptive practice but not an illegal one, the Federal Communications Commission told Congress today.

"Neither the Prosecuting Attorney in New York nor I have been able to pinpoint any violation of the law," FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer said.

"We can't determine who has been harmed. The home owner certainly didn't pay his way into the show."

Doerfer said the FCC cannot censor programs, interfere with freedom of speech "in the field of dramatic expression" or dig up the manpower to monitor all programs.

It would be a different matter, he said, if networks or stations were doing the faking instead of producers of individual shows.

Doerfer made it clear he thought fixed quiz shows were thoroughly reprehensible. But, he added, "Sometimes we have to endure some evil for the over-all public good. We can't have everything perfect."

Doerfer testified before the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee that is investigating TV quiz show operations. Several witnesses have testified since Tuesday that contestants were given answers in advance. Further testimony will be heard Monday.

Asked why the Commission didn't come to Congress for more authority if it feels it lacks power to act, Doerfer replied: "I would never recommend to Congress that it adopt a law that would suppress something by unconstitutional means." He added:

"I think for the Commission to intimate to the American people that it can deal with a subject that is beyond its power is just as much deceit as what has been going on."

Doerfer said he would be grateful if anyone could come up with a suggested regulation that could cope with the quiz show problem without infringing on the Constitution.

Doerfer said holders of broadcasting licenses would be in serious trouble if they participated in or condoned deceitful practices. He added there has been no evidence that the licenses themselves—the networks and stations—had been involved in the rigging.

The networks killed several of the shows when reports of rigging first became public.

Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), a Subcommittee member, told newsmen after today's hearing that he thought Doerfer's attitude was shocking. Moss characterized Doerfer's position as "a reluctance to regulate where regulation is required." Moss did not spell out the basis on which he thought the regulating should be done.

There still was no word on whether Charles Van Doren would accept an invitation to testify or if he would be subpoenaed to testify. Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) told newsmen today "personally, I think he would come."

Van Doren, who became a national figure while winning $129,000 on the defunct "Twenty-One" quiz show, consistently has denied any knowledge of the show's being fixed.

The National Broadcasting Co. suspended him this week pending final determination of the House inquiry. He has a $50,000 a year contract with the network as a commentator.

Other "Twenty-One" contestants have testified that the show was fixed. But they did not accuse Van Doren of taking part in the fakery.

The hearing originally was scheduled to end Friday, but was extended through Monday. Testimony is to be heard Monday from members of the Federal Trade Commission.

Possibility Of Two Summit Conferences Is Now Seen

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Within the next two months, not one but two Summit Conferences may be held in an effort to discover some way of negotiating East-West agreements to end the Cold War and make a start on disarmament.

Diplomatic officials now consider a distinct possibility a gathering of chief Western leaders, perhaps in Washington, in advance of a meeting in the Allies and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. This East-West session will almost certainly be held at Geneva.

President Eisenhower, who discussed his next move yesterday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, is understood to favor opening the meeting with Khrushchev before mid-December. Of 10 days or two weeks duration, if progress justified such length, it would bring together Eisenhower, Khrushchev, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and President Charles DeGaulle of France.

Macmillan's reelection Thursday, ending a period of uncertainty over Britain's political future, cleared the way for a speedup of Summit Conference negotiations among the Allies.

One of the things they have to decide is exactly what they want to get out of the new phase of East-West relations which seems to be opening up. Some are calling it a new era of high level personal diplomacy. Whatever it is, Khrushchev seems to know exactly what he wants while Western goals are far less definite.

Therefore, some highly placed diplomatic authorities say privately it would be a good idea for Western leaders to get together and decide what they want and how to go about getting it at the Geneva Summit Meeting.

Such a strategy session might be held by Eisenhower, DeGaulle and Macmillan if time permits. Or they could send their foreign ministers into a huddle.
