Who, What, Where, When, Why, How?

By ADELAIDE CROMARTIE

Scires of Tar Heels will penetrate Terrapin Land this weekend for the big game Saturday at College Park, Md.

Combos, cocktails and parties will entertain the TEP's after they board two chartered buses 6 a.m. Saturday morning for Maryland. Accompanying them will be their own private combo, the "Elmorettes." Brothers, pledges and their dates will party with the Maryland TEP's after the game at a cocktail party and dance. Several Alpha Gens are driving up with their sister, Ann Torrey, who hails from Washington. They'll attend the game and spend the weekend in Ann's home. The ZBT's will be guests of their Maryland brothers this weekend. Here comes Carolina, College Park, as groups from the KA, Chi Phi and Sigma Chi houses drive up for the game.

Fraternity men showed their stuff Thursday night as the ATO's wine and dine the Chi O's. It was a steak dinner and music by the "Hot Nuts" for the Kappa's as the KA's entertained in "real" style. The Pi Phi's dined and danced with their hosts, the Kappa Sig's. The Chi Psi Lodge was swinging last evening as the KD's joined the fraternity for a weiner roast and dancing. "The Flamigos" set the mood for a buffet dinner and combo party for the Sigma Nu's and their guests, the ADPI's.

More Greek letter propaganda appears as the glitter and gleam of fraternity pins begins to turn up on lovely pines. Sigma Chi Morrison Divine to Joy Wohlbrock, a Salem College student from Charlotte. Joan Provost of Chapel Hill to Phil Davis, Sigma Chi. ZBT Lee Weinstein to Miriam Lohell of Atlanta, Ga. Aileen Cher, a student at the University of Maryland, to Howard Goldman, ZBT.

Also Fick Arthur, Sigma Nu, to Beth Smith, UNC coed. Anita Freeze, UNC Coed, to KA Paul Fuller. Mary LeGrand Parks, UNC coed, to Bo Murray, KA. Pi Phi Sue Wood to Frank Skinner, a Wake Forest graduate. Kappa Sig Jim Sparger to Sally Short, UNC.

The Pi Phi's entertained new pledges at a Big and Little Sister banquet at the Ranch House Tuesday night. Becky Robinson was elected Pi Phi pledge president.

Chartered Car Leaves Tonight For Maryland

The chartered car on the regular train for the Maryland game will leave Raleigh at 10:05 p.m. tonight. Student Body President Charlie Gray reminded those making the trip by train that they are to provide their own transportation to Raleigh and from Washington to the game.

On the return trip departure time has been set at 2:10 p.m. Sunday, arriving in Raleigh shortly after 7 p.m. Gray also announced that students who have paid $13.03 instead of $12.28 may get a refund at the Student Government Office.

Although only 32 students are scheduled to make the train trip, over 1000 tickets have been sold.

All students going on the train trip are to meet Charlie Graham at the station in Raleigh by 9:30 p.m. Friday. He will have the train tickets.

INFIRMARY

In the Infirmary Thursday were the following:

LONG TEACHING CAREER REACHES PEAK AT UNC — Miss Cornelia Catlin Coulter, (right), Visiting Professor of Classics at the University of North Carolina, is shown with Paddison Professor of Classics Robert J. Getty as they go over her new class schedule. Miss Coulter, who has taught Greek and Latin for some 47 years, joined the University faculty this semester. The twosome might have been going over proceedings of the American Philological Society because both are keenly interested in the workings of the association. Miss Coulter served as president of the Society in 1948 and Professor Getty is the current president.

Visiting Classics Professor Makes Several Firsts At UNC

A veteran of 47 teaching has encountered several "firsts" in North Carolina.

A new teaching assignment at the University brings Miss Cornelia Catlin Coulter, visiting professor of classics, across the Mason-Dixon line for the first time to teach and into co-educational classes for the first time.

Miss Coulter speaks of these "firsts" with reservations, however, because she has visited in Virginia and she has seen crew-cut males across her desk before.

Nevertheless, when Miss Coulter met her first UNC class this semester, it was the first time across the Mason-Dixon line in an "official capacity," that is, teaching, and it was the first time she had seen so many boys in one class.

Miss Coulter expresses surprise that "UNC is not as exclusively Southern as I anticipated. The University must draw students and faculty from all parts of the country because the different accents I hear reveal varying backgrounds."

The size of the campus and the number of buildings was overwhelming at first, she continued, but I can find my way around. Like most newcomers to the University campus, Miss Coulter "took her bearings" at the Old Well, familiar landmark.

Commenting on the large number of students, Miss Coulter says she likes the "great throngs surging to and fro." But it is a courteous crowd she remarked.

"I find doors opened, and during one of recent Hurricane Gracie's heavy showers which caught me unprepared, a kind gentleman wrapped me in his raincoat and whisked me into a building."

Miss Coulter, who is teaching an intermediate course in Greek, an elementary course in Latin and an advanced reading course in Livy, claims that although her classes are predominantly male in contrast to some 47 years of teaching females, she does not vary her approach.

"Boys do have a different outlook on the material," she noted. "They are more interested than women in the larger aspects of any given subject—the political, economical and historical developments.

"I like teaching in co-educational institutions where I find the classes especially responsive and stimulating," she added.

In addition to her teaching duties, Miss Coulter plans to participate in the "extras" on campus. "I want to attend productions of the Carolina Playmakers, concerts and lectures as well as take part in the community work and church activities," she said. And she has housekeeping to do too.

All this, and Miss Coulter says she "retired" several years ago.

She anticipates a book sometime, but she finds that time to spend on research and writing is scarce. The book will be an outgrowth of Miss Coulter's interest in Boccaccio's knowledge and use of the classics. Her published writings include numerous articles in professional journals.

Miss Coulter holds a A. B. degree from Washington University in St. Louis and the Ph. D. from Bryn Mawr. She has also studied at the University of Munich in Germany.

She is a member of several professional and honorary societies including Phi Beta Kappa, the Classical Assn. of the Middle West and South, the American Assn. of University Professors and the Archaeological Institute of America.

That's not all—she is also a member and former president of two other important organizations: the American Philological Assn. and the Classical Assn. of England.

Council Plans For '60 Caravan

Failure of the University administration to give a day off from classes discouraged many students from participating in the Caravan to the Maryland game.

This was decided by the Student Carolina Athletic Council at a recent meeting.

Swag Grimsley, council chairman, stated that the council will begin immediately an attempt to impress the administration that next year's Caravan should be a University holiday.

The South Carolina game was suggested as being a good choice, because it will be played in Columbia at and during the S. C. State Fair.

During the meeting, head cheerleader Charlie Graham revealed plans for a torch parade before the Duke game.

Graham also asked that the council support and publicize the Duke-Carolina freshman game. Proceeds from the contest will go to the Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Student Legislature Tables The General Elections Measure

By BILL WELLS

U.N. Week Set Here Oct. 18-24

United Nations Week will be observed in Chapel Hill Oct. 18-24.

Chapel Hill Mayor Oliver K. Cornwell has issued a proclamation urging the citizens of Chapel Hill to observe United Nations Week and United Nations Day, Oct. 24, by means of community programs.

This will better demonstrate faith in the United Nations and "contribute to a better understanding of its aims, problems and accomplishments," he said.

A series of short films including Danny Kay's "Assignment Children" will be shown Oct. 20, 8 p.m., at Lincoln High School. The films will be shown in Carroll Hall Oct. 22, 8 p.m.

A new film, "Power Among Men" will be shown in Carroll Hall Oct. 24 at 3 p.m., 8 p.m. and 10 p.m.

The public is invited to these showings, and there will be no admission charge.

Foreign students in the Chapel Hill area will be entertained Oct. 23 at a reception in Graham Memorial, 4 p.m. The same evening they will be guests for dinner in various homes in Chapel Hill.

There will be a picnic sponsored by the Chapel Hill Jaycees Oct. 24, 6 p.m., at the Presbyterian Fellowship Hall. Following the picnic there will be a program by the local United Nations Committee.

The second meeting of the Student Legislature saw the passing of a measure creating two business assemblies of this organization per calendar year. Such a bill, as introduced last week by Gordon Street, (UP) is expected to eliminate backlog legislation before Student Government.

Hank Patterson's (SP) proposal of a 60 dollar appropriation to the Daily Tar Heel to aid in the preparation of a special edition supporting the coming 34.4 million dollar bond issue was approved.

A bill providing for the establishment of a Jim Tatum Memorial Award was passed last night also under the direction of Street. Such an award would entail the purchase of a trophy and a plaque to be awarded to the University's outstanding athletes on a basis of character, leadership, scholarship and ability. The winner will be selected by a committee consisting of the President of the Student Body, an elected representative of the C.A.A., the Dean of Athletics, and the Dean of Student Affairs.

The Legislature approved the recommendation of Richard Overstreet (UP) that the Carolina Handbook be placed solely under the jurisdiction of Student Government.

A bill to amend the by-laws of the Publication Board was returned to the Ways and Means Committee for further study.

A measure to create an Inter-dormitory-Interfraternity Committee and a proposal to amend the bill establishing a Student Carolina Athletic Council were tabled due to the membership absences in the Ways and Means Committee.

The highly controversial general elections law, as presented by Dave Jones (SP) and Hank Patterson (UP) is the principal piece of legislation to be debated next week.

A bill to sanction Ohio State University's Last Lecture Series will also be discussed next week.

In addition to legislative business, the resignations of Pope Shuford, Al Walters, Ann Lucas, Robert Smith, Joe Oppenheimer and Robert Grubb were read an accepted, while David Parker and Donna Irving were sworn in.

The Legislature unanimously approved a report on the Student Athletic Council meeting, at which Student Body President Charlie Gray proposed a torch parade for the Dook game.

New Foursome On Campus Going Places

The Carolina Gentlemen, a new singing group on campus, is going places.

The foursome, organized at the freshman camp, is made up of Tony Salinger, guitar; Mike McCleister, piano; Bill Whittenton and Scott Makepeace, bongos and drums.

The group's repertoire ranges from Kingston Trio songs to sub-dued rock 'n roll.

They are booked for several appearances for various campus organizations. Recording is planned for sometime next year.

Founder's Day Banquet Held By Alpha Rho

Alpha Rho Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, music honorary, gave its 61st annual Founder's Day Banquet Saturday at the Colonial Inn in Hillsboro.

Donald B. Piott of Davidson was the guest speaker. He is the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Province Governor.

Entertainment was provided by Dan McConnell of Charlotte who lectured on "Music Induced by the Drinking of Various Forms of Fermented Grains."

The alumni and distinguished guests who attended the banquet included Dr. and Mrs. Gleen Hayden of the UNC Music Department and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Fred, director of the UNC Marching Tar Heels.

The chapter pledged the following men Oct. 14:

G. M. SLATE

Activities scheduled for the Graham Memorial today include the following:

Academic Affairs, 24 p.m., Woodhouse; Petite Dramatics, 7:30-11 p.m., Roland Parker III.

Delegation Gets Right State, Wrong Campus

A delegation of students from Florida State University bound for the Region Four Conference of the Association of College Unions arrived on campus late yesterday afternoon.

They knew the convention was in North Carolina and automatically assumed it had to be at Chapel Hill.

P.S. The convention is being held at N. C. State.

Old Beanbirds Initiate 14

The Order of the Old Beanbirds initiated 14 new members in their first pecking of the year this morning at 5.

Inducted into the order were Wayne "Woodpecker" Anderson, Nancy "Nighthowl" Aubrey, Diana "Heron" Harmon, Ralph "Rooster" Holthouser, Libby "Jaybird" Johnson, Whit "Goose" Moose, Mary "Mynahbird" Morgan, Tommy "Oricle" Overman, Davi "Parakeet" Parker, Molly "Starling" Short, Mark "Turkeybuzzard" Thelin, Kit "Turtledove" Tiedeman.

Honorary birds pecked were Charles "Catbird" Bernard and Miss

Isabelle "Is-a-bird" McLeod.

Membership in the order is based on several indelible, aesthetic qualities. In their daily tasks and activities, Beanbirds must have the ability: (1) to go out on a limb without falling off, (2) to perch, (3) to give a worthy demonstration of the Beanbird "shuffle", (3) to twitter-tweet, (4) to control their squawks in the air and on the ground, (5) to fly alone, even with a broken wing, (6) to use their claws to cling to the strong and sturdy limbs of wisdom, service, democracy, loyalty, humor, beauty, friendship and humility.

Beanbirds can be recognized by the large, blue-tipped diaper pins which they wear.

Old members of the order include Sally "Seagull" Beard, Sylvia "Sparrow" Bonner, Katherine "Chickadee" Carmichael, Joann "Cuckoo" Castle, Pappy "Platypus" Churchill, Gr. Sam "Grouse" Claytor, Murial "Mockingbird" Deng, Nancy "Flamingo" Faison, Emily "Hawk" Hill, Mrs. Frances "Fantail" Hogen, Ray "Raven" Jeffries, Sophie "Mockingbird" Martin, Douglas "Dobobird" Sessions, Jack "Crane" Spain, LuRuth "Lark" Sutton and Paul "Penguin" Wehr.

UNC GEOLOGY, DEPARTMENT HOST — A special Visiting Council composed of men interested in promoting activities within the University of North Carolina Department of Geology and Geography met recently on the campus. Pictured with University faculty members, the group included, left to right, D. G. Basile, UNC; J. J. Frankel, UNC; Dr. James B. Hillman of the Division of Professional Service, N. C. Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh; Arthur W. Clark, vice president of Home Security Life Insurance Company in Durham; Walter Wheeler, UNC; Arnold A. Schiffman, Greensboro geologist; Sam D. Broadhurst, assistant state geologist with Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh; John D. Eyre, UNC; and Virgil I. Mann, UNC.
